'The Mentalist' Says So Long

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

It was September 2008 when psychic Patrick Jane (Simon Baker), an independent consultant for the CBI (California Bureau of Investigation), was first introduced to television audiences. Only, he wasn't a psychic. Jane, an adept con man, has extraordinary powers of observation and through the years he's helped solve many cases on "The Mentalist," airing Sundays at 8:30 p.m. on CBS. But his reasons for working with the CBI through the years were more personal. He was on the hunt for the serial killer, Red John, who had killed his wife and daughter.

Flash-forward a 142 episodes or so and six seasons, and Jane is in a different place. Red John is gone, and Jane is working for the FBI. He has a romantic relationship with Special Agent Teresa Lisbon (Robin Tunney), the one woman who has been able to keep Jane under control all these years. They work out of Austin, Texas, with fellow former CBI pal Kimball Cho (Tim Kang) and Jason Wylie (Joe Adler). No-nonsense agent Dennis Abbott (Rockmond Dunbar) oversees the team.

But this is the final chapter for Jane and his friends, as the seventh season of 13 episodes wraps up the story. "I think everyone has mixed feelings," says executive producer Tom Szentgyorgyi, who is the showrunner while creator Bruno Heller focuses on "Gotham." "On the one hand, it's been such a good time working on 'The Mentalist.' It's hard to imagine not coming to work with these people anymore. At the same time, knowing that this is the final season has allowed us to plan for it. We're ending the series the way we want to, and that's deeply satisfying. It's the right time. Jane has killed Red John and declared his love for Lisbon: it's time for him to move on."

That declaration of love was a long time coming. While they've been friends for years, their relationship has grown organically. "It was a matter of bringing into the open what was already in place," Szentgyorgyi says. "There had always been a strong sense of sublimated attraction between Lisbon and Jane, starting in the pilot. It was only strengthened by Robin Tunney and Simon Baker's real and enduring friendship - both Robin and Simon are happily married to other people, I hasten to add. The issue wasn't how to construct a romance but how to talk about it once their feelings were out and what problems they would face when they tried to be a couple. We (the writing staff, Simon and Robin) spent a fair amount of time discussing those things during the planning for season seven."

The show may be ending, but the writers also wanted to keep things fresh. Enter Michelle Vega (Josie Loren). "We wanted to introduce a character who knew nothing about Jane, who would have to figure out who Jane was and how to work with him," Szentgyorgyi explains. "It seemed ideal to make that character someone who was temperamentally Jane's opposite: naïve, earnest, law-abiding, instinctively by the book. Hence, Michelle Vega. There's certainly a lot going on with her. Her story takes a turn I don't think many people will see coming."

While they are focused on creating a strong final season,

Szentgyorgyi is nostalgic about some of his favorite episodes from the past. "Strawberries and Cream: Part 2," written by Bruno Heller, directed by Chris Long, which was the season three finale and one of the strongest hours we produced," he says. "The final conversation between Patrick Jane and the man he thought was Red John, brilliantly acted by Simon and Bradley Whitford, is chilling and riveting. 'Blinking Red Light,' season four, written by Ken Woodruff, directed by Simon Baker. Jane brings down a serial killer (a brilliantly low-key David Paymer) by getting him to insult Red John on TV. A great Hitchcockian piece of direction by Simon. 'Violets,' season six, written by Jordan Harper, directed by J. Miller Tobin. The FBI team works together to con a crew of art thieves: a cool caper and the episode that showed us how Patrick Jane could function in the FBI. The introduction of Marcus Pike, soon to be Lisbon's fiancé, played by the Red Viper himself, Pedro Pascal.

"There are also two of my own I'm fond of," continues Szentgyorgyi. "'The Red Mile,' season three, directed by Darnell Martin. Jane teams up with his nemesis, Coroner Steiner, to solve the murder of a man who believed he had been abducted by aliens. Then Steiner, who's terminally ill, asks Jane to help him die. A wonderful, quietly touching performance by George Wyner as Coroner Steiner elevates this one for me. 'Orange Blossom Ice Cream,' season seven, directed by - who else - Chris Long. All I can say is that it features the return of Erika Flynn, played by Morena Baccarin, who's as charming and dangerous as ever."

Special Agent Teresa Lisbon (Robin Tunney) is the one person who can keep "The Mentalist" under control, Sundays at 8:30 p.m. on CBS.

As sad as they are that this is the end, the cast and crew want to leave the fans with a great ending. "It's the good kind of pressure: the pressure to do the job right," says Szentgyorgyi.

THIS WEEK'S BEST BETS

FRIDAY

A Home for the Holidays

CBS, 8 p.m.

Katharine McPhee performs on the 16th annual entertainment special celebrating uplifting stories of adoption. The hour-long broadcast features uplifting stories of families who have adopted from foster care, enhanced with musical performances by popular artists who also include Jennifer Hudson, Train, Ashley Monroe, Dan & Shay, Rixton and Earth, Wind & Fire. Presented in association with the Children's Action Network and the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption, the program reveals that there are currently more than 400,000 children in foster care across the nation, each of whom are waiting for a family to love.

SATURDAY

The Sound of Music Live!

NBC, 7 p.m.

Grammy winning singer

Carrie Underwood stars as the iconic role of Maria von Trapp in the network's production of the classic musical. A ratings success originally broadcast on Dec. 3, 2013, the three hour telecast of the Rodgers & Hammerstein musical classic also features TV and stage star Stephen Moyer ("True Blood") as well as Tony Award winners Audra McDonald, Christian Borle and Laura Benanti.

SUNDAY

North Woods Law

Animal Planet, 8 p.m.

"Animal Planet Best Fest 2014" includes a special holiday episode in which the game wardens of Maine gear up to spread holiday season's greetings and good will, with

Warden Pete Herring visiting the Barbara Bush Child Cancer Center in Portland, Oregon,

with some furry friends from the K9 team.

Elsewhere, Warden Alan Curtis donates game meat to a local soup kitchen, while Sergeants Scott Thrasher and Chris Simmons invite all their wardens and families to celebrate the conclusion of deer season with an annual Christmas-tree cutting and potluck supper at the Thrashers' home.

MONDAY

Major Crimes

TNT, 8 p.m.

Santa finds himself on the naughty list after robbing a bank, but a Santa flash mob complicates his apprehension and the Major Crimes unit scrambles to figure out how things went so wrong so fast. Meanwhile, Sharon's (Mary McDonnell) kids (guest stars Zarah Mahler and Ryan Kennedy) come to town for the holidays, and Buzz (Phillip P. Keene) starts his training as a back-up police officer.

TUESDAY

Ground Floor

TBS, 9 p.m.

It sounds OK at first for Jenny (Briga Heelan) to let Brody (Skylar Astin) crash at her place when he gives up his apartment, all in an effort to downsize after getting the sticker shock of his first paycheck, but when "crashing" starts to feel a lot like living together, Jenny begins to freak out. Normally Brody would turn to Mansfield (John C. McGinley) for advice, but his boss has made it clear that this time he is on his own. Harvard (Rory Scovel) and Derrick (James Earl) bet they know how to stretch their modest ground floor pay further than Brody.

Jim Carrey

WEDNESDAY

The Christmas Eve Mass from St. Peter's Basilica in Rome

NBC, 10:35 p.m.

Christians from around the world are drawn to Vatican City for the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ, with Pope Francis leading the Midnight Mass at the Roman Catholic Church's most magnificent and sacred edifice. The solemn service is the source of the very name of the holiday, as Christmas was derived from the Old English "Cristesmasse" ("Christ's Mass"), a term first recorded in the year 1038. The world's most famous papal mass, it precedes the pontiff's Christmas Day delivery of the traditional "Urbi et Orbi" address to the people of Rome from the central loggia of St. Peter's.

THURSDAY

Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas

ABC, 7:30 p.m.

The 2000 film adaptation of the Christmas special follows the holiday-hating recluse Grinch (Jim Carrey) in his mean-spirited mission to spoil the noisily happy yuletide festivities in Whoville, but little Cindy Lou Who (Taylor Momsen, "Gossip Girl") and her neighbors won't give up their Christmas spirit that easily. Based on the beloved children's book by Dr. Seuss, the fantasy comedy was directed by Ron Howard and co-stars Christine Baranski, Bill Irwin, Molly Shannon, Mindy Sterling and Jeffrey Tambor. Preceding the movie at 8 p.m. on the network is the classic 1966 animated version of "Dr. Seuss' How the Grinch Stole Christmas," narrated and voiced by horror icon Boris Karloff.

Kittens, Bears and Law Officers – Oh My!

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

If you're turned on the television lately, you've probably been inundated with reruns. It's a great time of year to catch up on shows you might have missed this past fall, but it's nice that one network has a different philosophy about the holidays. Animal Planet has all new programming airing this week. When tuning into the network, viewers will find new episodes of everything from "Too Cute!" (Wednesday, 6 p.m.) to "Call of the Wildman" (Thursday, 8 p.m.).

"We have a great opportunity to connect with viewers who are home for the holidays," says Andy Weissberg, VP, programming and scheduling, Animal Planet. "A few years ago, we wanted to brand our typical year-end marathons of our best programming to alert the audience to something special. The idea arose to message these marathons as holiday 'gifts' for our audience – branding the stunt as 'Best Fest.' After we saw some success, we decided to commission new original programming specifically for the holidays. And working with our internal partners, we expanded this year's Best Fest to the week of Christmas through New Year's.

"We specifically ask producers for holiday-themed episodes as part of larger series orders in advance," the executive continues. "We are lucky to have so many successful series that dovetail nicely with the holidays, such as 'Treehouse Masters' and 'My Cat from Hell.' But we also challenged some producers to be very creative, and do holiday-themed episodes for series like 'North Woods Law' and 'Monsters Inside Me' – where the festive connection might not seem so obvious. In fact, last year's 'Monsters Inside Me' holiday special was one of our highest-rated episodes of the season. Think stories of getting parasites from some bad fruitcake." (No fruitcake this year. Check.)

This week's Best Fest features an episode of "North Woods Law" airing at 8 p.m. on Sunday. Usually, the guys are hunting errant bears or working sting operations. But this week the game wardens of Maine are gearing up to spread some holiday cheer and goodwill at the Barbara Bush Child Cancer Center in Portland, Oregon. Warden Pete Herring takes some his furry friends from the K-9 crew to put some smiles on little kids' faces.

In a time when a great deal of the most popular cable programming is dark and gritty, the gang at Animal Planet strives for something different. Most of the shows, sans parasites, are suitable for family viewing.

"We've seen a lot of success and it's very important to our brand to encourage co-viewing," says Weissberg. "So, even though some programming may skew more male or female, it doesn't necessarily alienate a gender. We've heard from our viewers that they often enjoy watching our programming together. I regularly watch 'Treehouse Masters' and 'My Cat from Hell' with my kids. Some of our most popular shows – 'River Monsters,' 'Tanked' and 'Ice Cold' – have dual appeal. And in this day and age, when watching content is becoming an increasingly personalized experience, Animal Planet is an inclusive and engaging alternative."

When you're frustrated putting those toys together on Christmas Eve, you might want to tune into "Too Cute!" at 6 p.m. on Wednesday. The episode features baby goats and kittens climbing Christmas trees. It's hard not to smile watching a kitten climb a tree, and the spectacle might go a long way in easing your frustrations during the holiday season.

And on Friday when you tune into "Treehouse Masters" at 8 p.m., you're going to want your own treetop candy kitchen. I don't even know how to make candy and I want one. Pete Nelson and his crew are in Northern California to make a tree house for the Splinter family, who like to make candy to celebrate the holidays. Because they own a vineyard, the team creates a full-scale, stainless steel candy kitchen with a wine bar inside a 500-foot treehouse with barrel ceilings, loft bedroom and even a shower. (Dear Santa, I would like a giant tree house.)

And for some more good cheer on Friday at 10 p.m., the Daniels Woodland crew from Game Warden Pete Herring is determined to bring some cheer to children on the holiday episode of "North Woods Law," airing Sunday at 8 p.m. on Animal Planet.

"Redwood Kings" says thank you to a group of heroes at Blue Butterfly Village. They create a fantasy playground, which is part of a housing project for veteran women and their children. (Make sure you have a box of tissues handy for this episode.)

The network is always looking ahead, and they have some big new shows planned. "During our Best Fest, we'll also sneak peek some of our 2015 shows, so the audience will be able to get excited about what's to come in the New Year," Weissberg says. "We have more in the build space about over-the-top pools and boats. Some shows in the hottest state in the country – Alaska – about combat fishing and a hardy few who exist in the most extreme conditions on the planet. And, finally, we have some uniquely big swings in the competition and drama spaces. There's a lot to look forward to and be thankful for at Animal Planet."

TRIVIA CHAIN

TV's Holiday Favorites

1. This 1843 novel by Charles Dickens has been adapted into a great many TV and film features, while its premise of a miser visited by three spirits has been borrowed by countless TV dramas and comedies.
2. This perennial holiday favorite from 1946 finds a family man attended by an angel as he questions the worth of his very existence in the face of financial ruin.
3. In this 1947 classic, a Macy's department store Santa is put on trial for mental competency when he insists that he actually is the jolly old elf Kris Kringle.
4. This 1964 Rankin/Bass stop-motion animation special about a certain Christmas luminary was based on a hit song of the same name

5. Also having a memorable title song, Rankin/Bass studio's first cel animation Christmas special told of this traditional winter character and has aired on TV every year since 1969.

6. Another TV holiday tradition is this beloved 1965 edition of the animation franchise, in which a puny Christmas tree is brought to glory by the whole gang.

7. This 1989 holiday comedy film features the franchise family using way too many Christmas lights when the in-laws (and Cousin Eddie) come for a visit.

Jimmy Kimmel

The birthrate in the United States is at an all-time low. Whereas our death rate is still holding strong at 100 percent. The trailer for the new "Terminator" movie came out today.

Arnold Schwarzenegger, as you may know, is back. Said he'd be back, and he is. A man of his word. In this one he goes back in time to stop Phil Collins from launching a solo career.

Conan O'Brien

This is official today. China has surpassed the U.S. and now has the No. 1 economy in the world. After hearing this, China's children asked, "So, now can we take a lunch break?"

People in North Korea who have the same name as Kim Jong Un are being ordered to change their name. Now everyone has the choice of either Khloe or Kourtney Jong Un. That's your choice.

Craig Ferguson

There was a press conference in England announcing the new James Bond movie. It's going to be called "Spectre." They unveiled Bond's new car. It's not even out yet. They have not even made it and Jay Leno has two!
