'Blacklist' Amps Up Tension

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

When "The Blacklist" returns, it will be after the "Super Bowl XLIX" on Sunday at 9:15 p.m. on NBC. It's prime real estate for a series promotion-wise, and the network hopes it will give new viewers a chance to sample the show. But NBC has a dual purpose for airing their most popular drama after the big game. They want to make sure fans know it is moving from Monday nights to 8 p.m. on Thursday.

"I think the Super Bowl itself was the pressure cooker," says executive producer Jon Bokenkamp. "There's always pressure to get new viewers and write a compelling episode that draws in those new viewers who haven't seen the show before. We had a lot of amazing guest stars, and the scope of the episode was so wide. There was a lot of collaboration involved and it was definitely an all-hands-on-deck type of episode. With that episode done, I think we set up some big questions for the rest of the season and gave ourselves an opportunity to have some great blacklisters in the back half.

"Our season cliffhanger promised big revelations in the Liz (Megan Boone) and Red (James Spader) relationship, and I think the Super Bowl episode, along with the subsequent episode, really deliver on that promise. That revelation will reboot the second half of the season."

If there is a theme for the second half of the season, the producers say it is the characters dealing with their inner demons. "For example, Ressler (Diego Klattenhoff) with his drug addiction," says executive producer John Eisendrath, "Liz trying to define her own moral code. Cooper (Harry Lennix) trying to hide his illness, etc. These will all become pivotal plot points in the second half and redefine these characters that we think we know."

At the center of the show is the multifaceted Red. Every time a question is answered about him, more arise. "James is not only great as Red, but he also brings a lot to the writing of the show," says Eisendrath. "He has a really strong sense of who Red is and gives wonderful suggestions regarding what Red would and would not do in any given scenario. We also have a predominantly younger cast, and I think James has stepped into a mentor-type role on set and not only delivers on his own performance but elevates everyone else's performance."

Complex characters are the norm on the show. One of the more interesting ones is Tom (Ryan Eggold). He comes in and out of Liz's life, and at the end of the mid-season cliffhanger viewers discovered he had ties to Red. "Fans have a lot of questions as to who Tom was before he met Liz," Bokenkamp says, "what his relationship with Red is, and the fundamental question of does he love Elizabeth Keen. And those are the story points we are going to focus on in the second half of the season."

That's good, because fans want more of Tom and Liz. "We do explore that relationship," Eggold adds. "I would love to tell you more about what's coming, but they would assassinate me. I don't know everything. It's been like that from the beginning. When I first auditioned, they gave me sides with the audition material. I hadn't read the whole script. All I had was a couple of pages. It was a sweet kitchen scene. I thought, 'Maybe not that exciting, but I've done it before.' I did the scene, and then John and Jon had me read something that was so opposite to that sweet scene. I went out and came back in and read that scene. And they told me then that there was a good chance he was going to go somewhere else, but I had no idea.

"For an actor, you want someone who isn't what he seems. Everyone, including me, wants to know, does he love her? As an actor, when you're playing something like that when you aren't sure, you just play what is on the page. It depends on the scene. If you were manipulating someone into believing you loved them, you would play that. And if you really loved them, you would play that. What's fun about Tom is finding those moments where we can pull the veneer back a little bit, or playing two conflicting things at the same time."

Ryan Eggold returns later in the season to give more insight to Tom on "The Blacklist," airing Sunday at 9:15 p.m. after "Super Bowl XLIX" and then moving to Thursdays at 8 p.m. on NBC.

No one was more surprised than Eggold that his character had a relationship with Red. "There are times when I have an inkling of something coming up – that was not one of them," Eggold says. "I read the script and I was like, 'What?' I had no idea. Red has been trying to kill him this whole time. I'm like everyone else in wanting to discover what that means. How did that happen? I do know we'll get to see more of what makes Tom the way he is, but that's about it."

You can HEAR the competition saying "UNCLE" again.

TRIVIA CHAIN

Musical Films with Tragic Plot

- Both jailed for murder, a nightclub headliner and a housewife wanting to be a star become rivals for the fame awarded by a fickle, scandal-loving public.
- After serving 19 years in prison for stealing a loaf of bread, an ex-convict breaks his parole to start life anew, but he is hounded by an obsessed police chief.
- A young poet composing lyrics for a cabaret show falls in love with its terminally ill actress, whose feminine charms are traded for funding by a rich investor.
- A fiendish serial killer who murders his own clients enlists an accomplice to sell the cadavers as food to their neighbors.

5. A young woman abandons her calling as a nun for the love of a rich widower, and then must take desperate flight from the Nazis with him and his many children.

6. A young boy with severe sensory impairments, induced through the witnessing of his father's murder, grows up to become the leader of an ill-fated cult.

7. A poor factory worker who is going blind saves every penny she earns for an operation to save her son from the same hereditary fate.

Laugh Along w/ LateNight

David Letterman

Welcome to the "Late Show" - 21 years in the making. It's like that movie "Boyhood" without all the positive reviews.

This morning, the Academy Award nominations were announced. Meryl Streep once again was nominated. I thought she did a tremendous job as the Olympic wrestler.

Jimmy Fallon

Senator Rand Paul reflected on Mitt Romney's potential 2016 campaign and said, "It's sort of what Einstein said, that the definition of insanity is to do the same thing over and over again and expect a different result." When someone told him Einstein didn't actually say that, he said, "In the words of Gandhi, 'My bad.'"

Jimmy Kimmel

Nominees for the Academy Awards were announced this morning. They say this is the whitest Oscars since 1998, which explains why the ceremony this year will be broadcast from inside an Abercrombie & Fitch store.

Conan O'Brien

The film "Selma" was snubbed and some people are saying it's because of the film's historical inaccuracy. However, that theory was dismissed by the actress who played Coretta Scott King - Tara Reid.

Moments in Time

On Feb. 2, 1847, the first woman of a group of pioneers commonly known as the Donner Party dies during the group's journey through a snowbound Sierra Nevada mountain pass. The disastrous trip west ended up killing 42 people and turned many of the survivors into cannibals.

On Feb. 6, 1891, members of the Dalton Gang stage an unsuccessful train robbery in California -- an inauspicious beginning to their careers as serious criminals. Bob, Emmett and Grat Dalton were only three of the 10 Dalton sons. The majority of the Dalton boys became law-abiding citizens, and one served as a deputy U.S. marshal.

On Feb. 5, 1918, the steamship Tuscania, transporting over 2,000 American soldiers bound for Europe, is torpedoed and sinks off the coast of Ireland by the German submarine U-77.

On Feb. 4, 1938, Walt Disney releases "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," his first full-length animated feature production. Naysayers, including his wife, warned him that audiences wouldn't sit through a cartoon fantasy about dwarfs, but the film quickly grossed $8 million, a staggering sum during the Great Depression.

On Feb. 3, 1953, French oceanographer Jacques-Yves Cousteau publishes "The Silent World." Three years later, the film version was released to world acclaim. The film, which revealed the hidden universe of tropical fish, whales and walruses, won Best Documentary at the Academy Awards.

On Feb. 7, 1984, while in orbit 170 miles above Earth, Navy Capt. Bruce McCandless becomes the first human being to fly untethered in space when he exits the U.S. space shuttle Challenger and maneuvers freely. McCandless orbited Earth in tangent with the shuttle at speeds greater than 17,500 mph.
