Clever Sleuth Pleasingly Offensive

Dan Rice FYI Television, Inc.

Three-time Emmy nominee Rainn Wilson ("The Office") makes his return to network television as the brilliant Everett Backstrom, a hardboiled detective whose shell is cracking from the strain of an unhealthy lifestyle and cynical outlook, on the offbeat FOX crime procedural "Backstrom," premiering Thursday at 8 p.m. Based on the Swedish book series by Leif G.W. Persson, the dramedy series was developed for American television by "Bones" executive producer Hart Hanson.

Like Wilson's popular character of power-hungry Dunder Mifflin salesman Dwight Schrute, an intense, martial arts-loving and Draconian-minded sycophant; and his role as the overly judgmental costumed vigilante in the feature film "Super," Backstrom exhibits a certain repugnance toward lesser specimens of humanity, yet here he pairs his loathing with self-destructive behavior that hints at his childhood abuse.

"Ldov't went to get all

"I don't want to get all psychological about it," Wilson prefaces his description, "but he's addicted to pretty much everything on the Earth. He's an alcoholic, drug addict, food addict, sex addict – you name it – and he partakes. That partially comes from family upbringing, but mostly it's just his own genetic makeup. His life is falling apart, and it's just not working for him."

After his offensive behavior got him exiled to the traffic division for five years, Backstrom has returned from his disgrace to head up the new Special Crimes Unit (SCU) of the Portland, Oregon, police department, a position in which he is assigned the city's most sensitive and serious cases. Assisting him in these duties are a team of fellow officers distinguished by their own skills and eccentricities.

"Well," Wilson reveals,
"you've got Dennis Haysbert playing Almond, who starts to factor in throughout the course of the season much stronger as a character. He's also a preacher, so he sees the best in everyone and believes in a higher spiritual redemption, and Backstrom doesn't.
And then there's Niedermayer, played by Kristoffer

Polaha. He's an expert in forensics but everyone in the forensics department hates him. And you've got Paquet, played by Beatrice Rosen, who's a brilliant kind of information technology person, and she's a civilian who's been hired by the department. And then you've got Moto, played by Page Kennedy, who used to be a MMA fighter and is the muscle of the operation." The cast also includes Genevieve Angelson as Detective Nicole Gravely, an ex-vice squad officer who is the heart and soul of the SCU.

As Backstrom's doctor (guest star Rizwan Manji) nags at him to make smarter choices for his health (even prescribing that he make at least one new friend), the detective routinely reveals his keen acumen for solving crimes – the latter marking a departure from the source novels.

"In the Swedish books he kind of accidentally solves crimes, almost due to his own boorishness," Wilson explains, "and obviously you can't have a TV show where someone accidentally solves a crime each week. [On our show] he's brilliant at solving crimes. Because he's so closely connected to the dark side of humanity, and he sees the worst in people, he's able to kind of intuit what's going on in the minds of criminals. He has these kind of like dark instincts where he literally sees the world through a different lens."

While Wilson had been reluctant to sign on to another TV series after nine seasons of "The Office," he says he just couldn't resist the multifaceted character. "There are so many colors and textures to this guy," Wilson elaborates. "He's despicable and funny, and charming and wounded, and acerbic and big-hearted parts like this just don't come around very often.

"I love how unfiltered he is. He says exactly what he thinks - and he says what a lot of us think but in this PC world we're not able to say. And he's an equal opportunity hater. You know, you could say he's racist but he hates white people just as much as he hates any other race. And Dwight had that, too. Dwight would sometimes just say things, you know. He would say, 'You're PMSing pretty bad, Pam,' you know, just kind of the stuff that would come out of his mouth. So, there's a similarity there."

Genevieve Angelson plays Detective Nicole Gravely on the offbeat FOX crime procedural "Backstrom," premiering Thursday at 8 p.m.

Despite Backstrom's extreme viewpoints, insulting manner and reckless lifestyle, Wilson believes the character will be highly relatable with most viewers. "I think every culture in the world has hard-drinking, prickly, misanthropic people around who are brilliant at their jobs," he posits. "Probably from Swahili to Urdu, you can find that kind of character."

The actor acknowledges Backstrom's kinship with such classic film-noir detectives of the past as Philip Marlowe, but he insists his characterization has more contemporary roots. "Hart and I spoke about how his dialogue is very hardboiled – almost Sam Spade. Of course, I grew up watching all those films and love them, but I didn't base the character on any of those. To me, it's like if Columbo was an ahole."

The comedy of "Backstrom" is even more incidental than that of "The Office," but Wilson insists that doesn't make it any easier. "You know, any kind of humor is hard," he says, "whether it's as broad as 'Dumb and Dumber,' or whether it's as subtle as 'Veep' on HBO, which is one of my favorite shows. Anytime you try to make someone laugh, it's super hard. I think the good thing about 'Backstrom' is it's a believable world in which crimes are being solved and the stakes are very high, first and foremost, and then you get laughs because of the quirkiness and the realness of the characters.

"It's a tricky balance in a dramedy between keeping it real and gritty and at the same time allowing us a certain measure of lightness to get some laughs. You know, like the show 'The Missing' – there's not a laugh to be had, and granted it's about child abduction and sex slavery, but that's super gritty. But that's not what we're going for either."

TRIVIA CHAIN

In Memoriam

1. Among the stars we lost in 2014 was this veteran comedienne who became an outspoken judge of redcarpet fashion alongside her daughter.

This manic stream-ofconsciousness comic and gifted actor first landed on television as a quirky visitor from the planet Ork.

3. This handsome leading man had TV hits as a prudent riverboat gambler and an ex-con turned private eye.

Once the wisecracking receptionist on "The Bob Newhart Show," this actress later became known

Edna Krabappel on "The Simpsons."

5. The most popular child actor during the Golden Age of Hollywood, she went on to serve as the U.S. Ambassador to Ghana and later to Czechoslovakia.

6. Another veteran child star, this diminutive and often-married actor was often paired onscreen with Judy Garland.

7. This glamorous beauty became Hollywood royalty at 19 when her film debut cast her as the leading lady of future husband Humphrey Bogart.

David Letterman

You probably heard about the big prisoner swap with Cuba. A man who has been incarcerated in Havana for five years is back home in the United States. And we sent them some prisoners. The deal still has to be approved by President Obama and Happy birthday to Pope Francis. He was born 78 years ago in Argentina. He's not really named Pope Francis. That's just his stage name. His real name is, of course, Carlos Danger.

They had a big birthday party for the pope at the Vatican City Olive

Jimmy Fallon

Graceland is going to auction off Elvis Presley's first-ever recordings from 1953 - or, as people now coming to America from Cuba put it, "Whoa! What's that hot new sound?"

President Obama recently said that his day is all about politics, so in the mornings he likes to watch ESPN. So, if you get the feeling he's repeating himself every half hour, that's where

Conan O'Brien

Russia has named Vladimir Putin its man of the year for the 15th year in a row. Putin got 143 million votes and the guy he was up against got killed in a mysterious boating accident. The boat was in a warehouse.

Moments in Time

On Jan. 23, 1775, London merchants petition Parliament for relief from the financial hardship put upon them by the curtailment of trade with the North American colonies. Most critical to the merchants' concerns were the 2 million pounds sterling in outstanding debts owed to them.

On Jan. 19, 1915, during World War I, Britain suffers its first casualties from an air attack when two German zeppelins drop bombs on Great Yarmouth and King's Lynn on the eastern coast of England.

On Jan. 20, 1937, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is inaugurated for the second time as president. The Constitution had originally set March 4 as the presidential inauguration date to allow the winner time to travel to the nation's capital.

On Jan. 25, 1949, the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences holds its first annual awards ceremony in Los Angeles. The now-famous award statuette "Emmy" was a feminized version of "immy," the shorthand term for the image orthicon tube that was used in TV cameras until the 1960s.

On Jan. 24, 1956, Look magazine publishes the confessions of J.W. Milam and Roy Bryant, two white men from Mississippi who were acquitted in the 1955 kidnapping and murder of black teenager Emmett Till. In August 1955, on a visit to relatives, the 14-year-old Till had allegedly whistled at a white woman who ran a store.

On Jan. 21, 1977, President Jimmy Carter grants an unconditional pardon to hundreds of thousands of men who evaded the draft during the Vietnam War. Some 100,000 young Americans went abroad, with 90 percent going to Canada. The Canadian government had instructed border guards not to ask too many questions.
