TV STAR 'Penny Dreadful' Returns with New Torments

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

One of last year's most exciting new series, the chilling horror series "Penny Dreadful" returns with new evil for its clever collection of characters to face when season two premieres, Sunday at 9 p.m. on Showtime. Named for the notoriously cheap and sensational serial fiction of Britain in the 19th century, the drama enlists figures from classical literature of the period, including the title character of Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Gray," Dr. Victor Frankenstein and his patchwork creation from Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley's "Frankenstein," and Abraham Van Helsing and Mina Harker from Bram Stoker's "Dracula."

In the first season of "Penny Dreadful," the callous explorer Sir Malcolm Murray (Timothy Dalton) and the psychically empowered Vanessa Ives (Eva Green) enlisted American sharpshooter Ethan Chandler (Josh Hartnett) in their mission against a nest of nasty vampires, an ordeal from which each emerged with cracks in their hardened exteriors. But while Vanessa has grown closer to Ethan, it seems the great suffering she endured in season one was only the beginning. Now she is being targeted by the seductive spiritualist Evelyn Poole (Helen McCrory) - aka Madame Kali - who assaults Vanessa with a barrage of disturbing occult images, as her powerful daughter, Hecate (Sarah Greene), stands ready to take the attack in more fiendish directions.

"I was planning this season 10 years ago and thinking about these characters," explains creator John Logan (the screenwriter of "Skyfall" and James Bond's next outing, "Spectre"), "and I became fascinated with a particular part of Vanessa Ives' past where she learned to read the tarot, because it's not something that a girl, even one as unique as Vanessa, knows how to do. And that led me into the world of the occult and the supernatural. And this season we embrace witchcraft. So, I created the character Evelyn Poole, and she becomes the antagonist for not only Vanessa but all the characters. Last season we set the players on the board, and now we get to play with them in interesting ways. Characters meet who have never met, hidden things are revealed, mostly because of the pressure that's on them. Evelyn Poole becomes an actual antagonist who can speak. Last season we had the vampires, brooding and silent creatures, and now we have a proper villain, and we enjoy her immensely.

"One of the great pleasures of doing a second season is I was able to turn to Jonathan McKinstry, our art director, and say, 'Evelyn Poole's going to have a mansion, and it's a witch's lair, but no one goes inside it unless they know what she is or they're quickly going to discover it. The propriety of Victorian architecture doesn't apply, so go mad.' Walking around that stage is very disorienting because it's intentionally built to be a bending, confusing, frightening place, and if you're on the second floor of the two story set, you can get lost, so hopefully the audience will feel a little bit of that disquiet that we understand so well."

Another storyline of "Penny Dreadful" this season is that of Frankenstein being pressured by his monster (Rory Kinnear) to bring his intended bride, Brona Croft (Billie Piper), back to life. This simple and relatable desire for companionship lends pathos to The Creature, whose terrifying image is, after all, largely objective while reflecting the alienation of the period.

"It's about being divorced from yourself and trying to figure out where you belong in a society," Logan notes. "And England in 1891 was on the cusp of new era. Everything from electrical lighting to everything Dr. Frankenstein explores to vivisection to the religion being established. The agrarian economy was an industrial economy and a whole workforce was out of work. People were disquieted. They were alienated. They didn't know what the future was going to bring, and those great writers - the H.G. Wells, the Bram Stokers - were able to take that and transform it into literal representations of that anxiety and also that hope, because I think, to me, what I always come back to for 'Penny Dreadful,' surprisingly, given the inherent darkness of the show, is that these people are aspiring. They live in dark rooms, but they are trying to find the light in some desperate way."

"Well, it's the idea, isn't it." McCrory adds, "that Shelley talks about in 'Frankenstein,' that the monster is not what he creates but actually what mankind makes the creature

After laying his daughter to rest, Sir Malcolm (Timothy Dalton) has a new horror to contend with on season two of "Penny Dreadful," premiering Sunday at 9 p.m. on Showtime.

to be when they reject him for being ugly. And it is society that brutalizes, which is one interpretation of what makes a monster is everybody around that person. And in this, I think what's interesting is that in John's writing, I think that's almost true of all your monsters, that they all have a vulnerability and a need to be accepted by those around [them]."

By revisiting these classic horror characters in more sympathetic terms than their usual feature film depictions, "Penny Dreadful" weaves deeper hues into their shared tapestry, while allowing viewers to experience more than mere fright and suspense. And there remains a wealth of possibilities for future storylines, should the drama continue.

THIS WEEK'S BEST BETS

FRIDAY Taken

FOX, 7 p.m.

As he explains succinctly vet effectively on the phone, former CIA agent Bryan Mills (Liam Neeson) possesses a particular set of skills that will make him a nightmare for the human traffickers who abducted his daughter (Maggie Grace). The hit 2008 action thriller spawned two sequels and made Neeson the reigning king of ominous one-liners, which in turn may inspire rambling speakers to choose their weighted words more carefully. Directed by Pierre Morel ("From Paris with Love"), "Taken" co-stars Famke Janssen, Leland Orser, Xander Berkeley, Katie Cassidy, Jon Gries, Holly Valance and David Warshofsky.

SATURDAY Shrek the Third

ABC, 7 p.m.

With her ogre husband away on a quest, Fiona (voiced by Cameron Diaz) must rally her fellow storybook princesses to fend off a coup d'état by the jilted Prince Charming (Rupert Everett). Meanwhile, the illness of King Harold (John Cleese) has placed Shrek (Mike Myers) as the heir-apparent to the rule of

Far, Far Away - a responsibility he does not want, so he leaves with Donkey (Eddie Murphy) and Puss in Boots (Antonio Banderas) to seek out the kingdom's legitimate successor, rebellious young college student Artie (Justin Timberlake). The family-friendly animated adventure features voice performances by Julie Andrews, Eric Idle, Larry King, John Krasinski, Ian McShane, Regis Philbin, Amy Poehler, Seth Rogen, Maya Rudolph and Amy Sedaris.

SUNDAY

American Odyssey NBC, 9:01 p.m.

Col. Stephen Glen (Treat Williams) orders Sgt. Odelle Ballard (Anna Friel) to go to a secret CIA safe house, but she quickly realizes that he may not be trustworthy. Elsewhere, Peter Decker (Peter Facinelli) finds out that Soci> etal Mining has been investigating Joe Abrams (Darren Fiona Goldstein), while Harrison (Jake Robinson) and Bob (Nate Mooney) try to reach out to Randall's last source.

MONDAY Shutter Island SYFY, 7 p.m.

When a U.S. Marshal (Leonard DiCaprio) investigates a missing patient at a secluded hospital for the criminally insane, he begins to have disturbing visions and the sense that the staff is hiding something. Based on the novel by the same name by Dennis Lehane and directed by Martin Scorsese (who reportedly are negotiating with HBO to turn the movie into a series), the 2010 psychological thriller also stars Patricia Clarkson, Jackie Earle Haley, Ben Kingsley, Emily Mortimer, Mark Ruffalo, Max Von Sydow and Michelle Williams.

TUESDAY

New Girl FOX, 8 p.m.

TV STAR

Jess (Zoey Deschanel) and Nick (Jake Johnson) reminisce about their "sex mug" and wonder if they still have feelings for each other on the season finale. Meanwhile, as Coach (Damon Wayans Jr.) prepares to move out of the loft, Schmidt (Max Greenfield) also decides to get rid of his non-essentials and in the process discovers what is truly important to him.

WEDNESDAY Swab Stories

VH1, 8 p.m. The new reality series seeks to answer a person's most basic question - Who am I? - through the specialized work of Jared Rosenthal in his "Who's Your Daddy?" DNA testing truck. Known as the "Swabinator," Jared and his assistant Ana Lopez collect their clients' specimens and provide an analysis of their genealogical lineage, while possibly unlocking deeply held family secrets. When clients in the New York area climb aboard, they are often seeking answers to long-buried questions that can put an end to their troubling mysteries. With astonishing stories ranging from "I think I was kidnapped at birth" to "I think the man I'm dating might be my brother," there are no limits to the questions people want answered by DNA testing - even in the middle of city traffic.

THURSDAY

First Blood AMC, 7 p.m.

Actor and screenwriter Sylvester Stallone brings to life his popular character of troubled Vietnam War veteran John Rambo, as he runs afoul of an abusive small-town sheriff (Brian Dennehy) in the 1982 psychological thriller. When Rambo does what he was trained to do - fight to survive with guerilla tactics - he becomes a wanted fugitive for whom inexperienced deputies are but a regrettable nuisance. Franchise co-star Richard Crenna also originates his role here, as Rambo's former commanding officer whom the Army sends to "rescue" the police.

Mom's Guilt Rules Comedy

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

In case you've forgotten, Mother's Day is Sunday, May 10. Consider that a public service announcement. Moms come in all shapes, sizes and colors, but they usually just want the best for their kids. Beverly Goldberg (Wendi McLendon-Covey) may love her kids a little too much on "The Goldbergs," airing Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on ABC, but she only wants them to succeed.

That desire can come with a great deal of guilt. The show is set in the 1980s, and Bev is not afraid to smother her children - Adam (Sean Giambrone), Barry (Troy Gentile) and Erica (Hayley Orrantia) - with love. Her husband, Murray (Jeff Garlin), has a slightly more relaxed idea of parenting. Her father, Pops (George Segal), is always around for advice.

While she doesn't have children, McLendon-Covey says she has no trouble getting into the role. "By the time I put on the big hair and the clothing, it's like putting on my armor," says McLendon-Covey. "I put on my helmet hair, my shoulder pads and my talons. I'm ready to do battle with anyone who is going to come at my children."

The guilt Bev uses to sometimes manipulate her family is something McLendon-Covey has learned firsthand. "My mom used guilt as an effective tool," McLendon-Covey says. "I think a lot of moms do. I grew up with a lot of manipulative moms around me. For some reason, that came very naturally for me. Now, if I had actual kids myself, I guess we'd see how I would be with them. I just understand how to do it. It doesn't really matter how many parenting books or blogs you read, or how many Dr. Phil's you listen to, when you're in the moment you do what you can. You act on instinct and apologize later. That's all Beverly does. She reacts and then apologizes.

"In one of my favorite episodes, my character is really going through it with her youngest son (Adam)," continues McLendon-Covey. "He's her last hope. Once he stops wanting snuggies, it's over until she has grandchildren. She's clinging tightly to Adam. He has a little girlfriend, and Beverly knows she needs to let go. She understands he should have this little relationship, but it is killing her. It means he needs her less and less. The episode where she crashes his first dance and sees him with a girl, and she can barely keep from sobbing, is one of my favorites. She's breaking them up, and then bringing them back together. It's fun to play for me because she's vicious and then remorseful."

Some of Bev may be rubbing off a little on McLendon-Covey's real-life attitude toward her castmates. "I'm protective of the kids on the set," she says. "And vet, I hold back. I don't think I'm weird with them in real life. When I know they have a big day doing stunts or physical things or even being out in the sun too long, I worry. I'm thinking, 'I hope someone puts sunscreen on them. I know Sean had a test today, did he have enough time to take it and do his best?' He goes to school on set. It's not my business to worry about these things, but I do." The other adults keep things fun on set for everyone. "I love George Segal," says McLendon-Covey. "I can't believe he plays my father. He's such a pro. He comes from the theater and has worked with everyone in the world. He's had such a long and varied career. The fact that I'm on set acting with him, and we're being funny together, is such a dream come true. He's so funny between takes. I can hardly stand it. He's so funny I forget my lines when it's time to go. Then he gets irritated because he's a professional. I miss him when he's not there.

"When Jeff and I work together, we're like the two bad kids in the class, but we have a great time," McLendon-Covey continues. "The great/weird thing about Jeff is he has a running commentary going on all the time. He can't keep from doing a constant stand-up routine. But the minute it comes out of his mouth, he forgets he said it. Later, if I say, 'Remember when you said such and such?' He'll say, 'When did I say that?' It's so crazy."

Actresses can sometimes covet the clothing they wear on television shows and movies, Beverly Goldberg (Wendi McLendon-Covey) loves her children a little too much on "The Goldbergs,' airing Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. on ABC.

The Anniston Star

but that isn't the case here. "There is no danger of me accidentally walking off with something," McLendon-Covey laughs. "It's all very specific to the time and the character but it can stay where it is. I was never into Bedazzling like Bev. I did have some fun with puffy paints when I was cheerleader. It all ends up going in the trash at some point, but it sure is fun when you're doing it.

"I will say that in the '80s I was a big New Wave music lover. I still listen to that music. I think Duran Duran stands up. They're still on tour, so there's that. I love the music and the feeling of the '80s. We just thought it wasn't going to get any better than that. Technology, we thought this is it. Call waiting was the most advanced it was ever going to get. Cordless phones that were as big as a brick, and CD players as big as a refrigerator, we just thought it had all arrived. Cleary we were wrong. It's fun for me to play an '80s mom when I was an '80s teen. I have a lot more sympathy for my mom now."

TRIVIA CHAIN

Politics in Entertainment

1. Running for seven seasons, this acclaimed NBC drama is set in the White House offices of the president and his senior staff.

2. Also set primarily in the White House, this HBO comedy seemingly needs a title change in light of last season's resignation of the president.

3. On this current CBS drama, the president takes a back seat to a member of his cabinet, a former CIA analyst.

4. A working former CIA analyst is followed on this NBC espionage thriller, as she assembles and presents the President's Daily Briefing on vital security issues.

5. On this ABC political thriller, a former White House Communications Director (and presidential mistress) launches her own crisis management firm.

6. This Starz drama moves to the office of the mayor of Chicago, who has secretly been diagnosed with a form of dementia.

7. And on this ABC sitcom, the lead actor playing the deputy mayor of New York departed after four seasons due to his battle with Parkinson's disease.

Jimmy Kimmel

For the next hour, would you say you are relying on me to host the show? So, in a way you are depending on me? I can claim you as dependents. It makes for a big tax refund for me.

The IRS specifically selected April 15 as Tax Day. They knew it was going to likely be a beautiful spring day and they wanted to ruin it for us.

Conan O'Brien

A Wisconsin woman recently got a high school diploma at the age of 103 and says she is now considering going to college. Friends are recommending a two-year college.

David Letterman

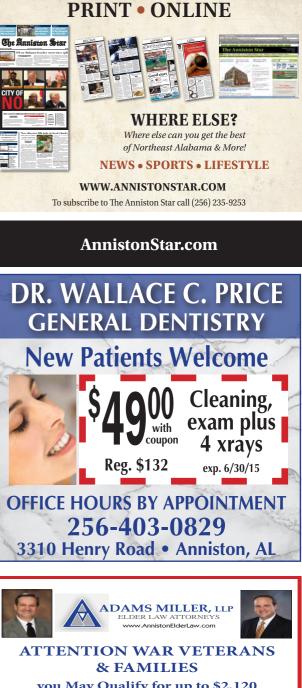

Supermodel Giselle Bundchen is retiring from modeling. You know why? Because she says her body told her to stop. I think that's pretty insightful. I'm retiring because EVERYBODY told me to stop.

Hillary Clinton is campaigning in lowa, virtually going door to door to every home in lowa. Jehovah's Witnesses finally got fed up and said, "Get lost. Get out of here!"

SOAP OPERA REVIEW

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Pam discouraged Charlie from doing any further investigations into Maya's past out of fear that they would both lose their jobs. Bill instructed Wyatt and Liam to continue their mission to oust Rick from Forrester Creations. In a battle to prove their worth to the company, Rick and Ridge went head-to-head over their latest designs. Later, Ridge pleaded with Eric to boot Rick from the CEO position. Rick chose a custom-made engagement ring for Maya. Brooke tried to convince her son not to jump into another marriage so quickly. Maya promised Nicole that she would tell Rick that she was once a man as soon as they got engaged. Brooke tried to talk Ridge out of resigning from the family business. Rick planned a romantic trip to Big Bear with Maya. Nicole and Carter disagreed over whether Maya should disclose her secret to Rick. Wait to See: Brooke is greatly concerned about one of her children. Carter proves his loyalty. Rick defends Maya against her biggest critic.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

Kristen came face-to-face with someone else from her past. Theresa walked straight into a trap. Adrienne and Kate finally had it out. Chad kissed Abigail. Brady and Melanie attempted to escape from the dungeon. Abigail was unsettled by Chad's confession. Clyde sternly warned Will not to write the article about him. Theresa was finally reunited with her baby. In San Francisco, Paul got another surprise visitor. Aiden and Hope clashed over Clyde. In Italy, the Salemites found themselves in a sticky situation with the police. Nicole and Daniel had another blowup over secrets. Serena unknowingly made a big mistake. Rafe offered Eve some friendly advice. Wait to See: Daniel tries to work things out with Nicole. Serena pushes Eric to move to Hawaii. Kate pressures Will about the article.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Havden asked Ric for more money. Sam offered Jake and Hayden tickets to the Nurses' Ball. Lulu arranged some living accommodations for Valerie. Ned and Dante stayed by Olivia's bedside during her scare. Sam overheard a private conversation. Havden threatened Nikolas. Jake and Elizabeth shared a close moment. Later, Ric told Elizabeth that he had something special planned for her at the Nurses' Ball this year. Sam told Patrick about the news she overheard. Brad was blown away by an unexpected visitor. Two proposals were made at the Nurses' Ball. Sparks flew between Anna and Duke. Nathan arrived with a surprise date. Jake's true identity was discovered. Ric shared a secret with Molly. Wait to See: Spencer makes a play for Emma. Hayden blackmails Nikolas. Olivia goes into labor.

Billy Flynn stars as "Chad" on "Days of Our Lives."

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Lily and Cane made dinner plans. Jill commented on how hard Cane had been working for Lauren. Avery came to Sharon's house looking for Dylan. Michael arrived and tried to diffuse the situation between Sharon and Avery. Cane comforted Lauren after her public spat with Michael. Kyle planned a romantic evening for Summer, but she told him she didn't like the man he had become. Sharon accused Avery of wanting to be with Joe instead of Dylan. Sage noticed Chelsea's sudden interest in Gabriel. Dylan told Nick to back off after he blamed Sharon for their children's problems. Ashley and Victoria butted heads over business matters. Wait to See: Jack fights for his life. Mariah tries to convince Nick of Sharon's innocence. Joe pulls out all the stops with Avery.
