Newspapers.com

Globe-Gazette (Mason City, Iowa, United States of America) · 22 Aug 1964, Sat · Page 14

Downloaded on Sep 21, 2018

REMOVING VICTIMS — All of the survivors of the crash had been removed from the wreckage when this picture was taken. The hunt at this time, directed by highway patrolmen and deputy sheriffs, was for bodies entombed under the debris. This and a number of other pictures won a citation for Globe-Gazette photographer Elwin Musser from the Associated Press. The Globe news staff also was cited for its coverage of the crash.

12 died in plane crash 10 years ago

By LARRY FULLER

It was 5:05 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 23, 1954.

Outside, the weather was deceptively deceptive. A summer storm wandered through the Fresh Iowa ground.

In that instant—just 10 years ago Saturday—the scene was set here, Schwenkberg and 18 others for an incident indelible in the very dead and seven more with Mason City's memory.

Overhead, at Municipal Airport, twenty passed an Ozark Airlines flight 153 of Ozark Airways, looking at the severe storm and sitting in Mason City for a time.

Meanwhile, Betty Ann Tuttle had just finished sending 101 hot to Schwenkberg, Denver, who had passed, with his seafood.

Suddenly the DC-3 plummeted earthward on the Howard Mac-Donald farm, in Pleasant Valley Township. Fr miles north of Davenport.

The airliner struck and exploded not far recovers and crashed on the wing tip of a wooden shed there.

The other, William A. Wike, Minneapolis, a former Mason City man, died a short time later at a Davenport Hospital.

As the ambulances came, u the sirens, recovery was slow. The news spread over charity, a week before, to Iowa by word of mouth and Miss Tuttle, instantly, became telephone to the women.

The morning after the crash, the news spread over the country. Mason City was in a new renewed with blankets, and the ambulances by answered questions about the return after taking the living crash.

The first few persons from in the hospitals. Upwood trees and flattened available nearby testified to the Suddenly the DC-3 plummeted earthward on the Howard MacDonald farm, in Pleasant Valley Township. Fr miles north of Davenport.

The airliner struck and exploded not far recovers and crashed on the wing tip of a wooden shed there.

The other, William A. Wike, Minneapolis, a former Mason City man, died a short time later at a Davenport Hospital.

As the ambulances came, u the sirens, recovery was slow. The news spread over charity, a week before, to Iowa by word of mouth and Miss Tuttle, instantly, became telephone to the women.

The morning after the crash, the news spread over the country. Mason City was in a new renewed with blankets, and the ambulances by answered questions about the return after taking the living crash.

The first few persons from in the hospitals. Upwood trees and flattened available nearby testified to the

Council

Charles City budget is approved

Legal notice

a BIG STORY
Earmarked for you

Now it's on to Atlantic City with the rallying Democrats.

Who'll be the President's running mate? What verbal rockets will his party fire at the GOP from the Boardwalk?

A special Political Representative will be sending sidelights from the Convention to the Globe-Gazette.

Again, more than 150 Associated Press reporters and photographers will be covering a big story for you. They're the No. 1 political news staff in America.

The excitement starts ahead of the convention's opening, August 24.

Read all about it in

GLOBE-GAZETTE

a member of The Associated Press

Clipped By:

ashkmiller
Fri, Sep 21, 2018

Copyright © 2018 Newspapers.com. All Rights Reserved.

POWERED BY Newspapers.com