Derek Ernst celebrated his first career victory on the PGA Tour when he defeated David Lynn in a playoff at last year's "Wells Fargo Championship," and CBS will have final-round coverage of this year's tournament, Sunday at 2 p.m.

Jack is Back on FOX

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

Even before "24" went off the air, there was talk about the series being made into a feature film. Well, the film is still on the table, but the series returns with "24: Live Another Day," premiering Monday at 7 p.m. on FOX. Kiefer Sutherland is back as Jack Bauer, who is in London for this round of nonstop action.

The 12-episode series begins with Jack in exile. CIA head Steve Navarro (Benjamin Bratt, "Law & Order") and agent Kate Morgan (Yvonne Strahovski, "Dexter") are tracking Jack. They are ruthless in their pursuit of him, who is now considered a dangerous fugitive. Chloe O'Brian (Mary Lynn Rajskub, "Firewall") and her hacker buddy Adrian Cross (Michael Wincott, "The Crow") are also at odds with Jack.

"I think one of the nice dynamics, there's a great impetus for all of us to create something new with the show and we've done that with a lot of new characters, certainly within the context of the storylines and the political issues that Jack Bauer and all of the other characters are dealing with," Sutherland says. "That's all very fresh. And Chloe and Jack have had a relationship certainly over the entire span of the show and they have been allies. At the very beginning of this show. they're actually pitted against each other by virtue of a set of circumstances. So, that is a dynamic that Mary Lynn and I get to play, that's very exciting. It's also something that's going to evolve over the course of the show. Anytime an actor gets to play something as complex as a past loyalty that is potentially going to be betrayed - that's a lot of meat. So, it's a great opportunity for us, and so a lot of the dynamics of the characters that are coming back have been shifted by virtue of the circumstances with which we start the show."

"Not to give too much way," adds executive producer Manny Coto, "if you remember at the end of season eight, Jack was basically left a fugitive on the run. And we pick up four years later. Jack is still a fugitive. He has disappeared, and he has been hunted and he is still hunted when the show begins. And what will come into play is a character played by Yvonne Strahovski, who is a CIA agent who has been on the hunt for Jack Bauer. And the show will open with that dynamic, a CIA agent hunting Jack, who - in their minds, Jack is not quite Osama bin Laden, but he's a fugitive of high order, someone to be captured. And when Jack reenters the story on his own terms, we will learn that he has a mission. Whether it's a good mission or dark mission or he's fighting on the side of good, we don't know. But this CIA agent is determined to catch him.

"And as the story progresses, as she comes closer and closer to him, Chloe will enter the picture and we will learn that she has also been damaged over these four years and is not the same person whom we saw. She does not work for CTU. She has turned against the government and, for want of a better term, is almost a more radical, a Snowden type character. And Jack and Chloe will be forced into some kind of circumstance to stop - for what Jack is after, which is a secret. But that dynamic will launch the series into what will become a large tableau set in London for some pretty crazy events."

President James Heller (William Devane, "The Dark Knight Rises") is calling the shots. His Chief of Staff, Mark Boudreau (Tate Donovan, "Damages"), is married to Jack's former flame Audrey (Kim Raver, "Revolution").

Stepping back into a role he played for so long was surprisingly scary for Sutherland. "I used to get terrified in between each season, and Jon Cassar was the lead director always for the first two episodes, and he had a beautiful way of reminding me that I was kind of doing it right, because, in the middle of the season, it's a reactionary thing," Sutherland says. "You're in that character. If you go away to do something else, the fear of starting up again - Am I being too hard with it? Am I being too soft? - all of those things come into play. You know, I'm very nervous. Without patting ourselves on the back too hard, I feel we made eight very strong years. We worked very hard at them, and there was always something in every year that all of us wished had been better, but I was very proud of those eight years. And so to open that up again and make 12 episodes and not make them the best 12 episodes that we've ever made is frightening. I won't lie to you. I'm very nervous, and I think the audience that we've had that has stayed with us over the years has been so spectacular and supportive and loyal, and to not give them the best that we've got to offer would be very disappointing. And until we start shooting, everything is kind of intangible, and it's in the air. So, I'm about as anxious and wound up as I've been in a long time. I'm nervous, yeah."

Audrey (Kim Raver) is caught in the middle of a tough situation on "24: Live Another Day," premiering Monday at 7 p.m. on FOX.

TRIVIA CHAIN

Classic TV's Biggest Goofballs

 This still-syndicated sitcom was named after the goofy character in question, who was the first mate on a private cruise that should have lasted only three hours.

2. Before that actor was forever known for that role, he played on "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis" this work-phobic beatnik, one who typically entered a conversation about something awful with his catchphrase, "You rang?"

3. Likewise, the latter of this pair of goofball buddies would say "Hello" upon barging in on the sitcom's titular gal pals as they mentioned something dreadful.

4. Barging in was the only way this "hipster doofus" would enter the apartment of his neighbor, a real-life New York

comic for whom the hit sitcom comic for whom the hit sitcom was named.

5. Although completely earnest in his law-enforcement duties, this small-town Southern deputy was such a goof the sheriff would only let him carry one bullet – if any.

6. This resident of that same small town in North Carolina left his job at Wally's Filling Station to join the U.S. Marines, but his long-suffering sergeant never drilled the goofiness out of him. Golly!

7. This second-cousin of a mountain man who struck oil and moved to California parlayed his new lifestyle (and sixth-grade education) into careers as a movie producer and a double-naught spy.

Laugh Along w/ LateNight

Craig Ferguson

Chelsea Clinton is pregnant. There is another one coming. A little baby Clinton. People are already wondering, is the baby a girl? Is it a boy? Is it going to run for president in 2016?

It's a great day for Victoria Beckham, also known as Posh Spice. It is her birthday. You know who also has a birthday? The Ford Mustang. Now the Ford Mustang and Posh Spice are very different, of course. One's a sleek machine that's been redesigned a couple of times over the years but is still a great ride. And the other one is a Mustang.

According to a new survey, being a mathematician is the best job in America. So congratulations, nerds.

Jimmy Fallon

A woman in Las Vegas was arrested after she threw a shoe at Hillary Clinton while Hillary was giving a speech. The woman was tackled, cuffed and thrown into a police car. Then the cops said, "Normally, WE do that, Hillary, but thank you for the help."

After handling the bumpy rollout of the Obamacare site, Kathleen Sebelius announced today that she is resigning. Which explains why being thrown under a bus is now covered by Obamacare.

The White House just released President Obama's tax returns, which show that he and Michelle paid 98 thousand dollars in taxes last year. When he saw that, even Obama said, "Thanks, Obama."

Conan O'Brien

A new report claims that posing with a dog in your online dating profile makes you more desirable – and posing with a cat means you're going to die alone.

A Southwest Airlines pilot who famously landed at the wrong airport has retired. He tried to retire to Florida but ended up in Alabama.

Potential Republican candidate Jeb Bush is married to an immigrant from Mexico. Yeah, so they're taking our jobs and our Jebs.

Yesterday, North Korea held its annual marathon. Congratulations to first, second and third-place winner, Kim Jong Un.

Moments in Time

On May 5, 1904, Boston Red Sox pitcher Cy Young (born Denton True Young) throws a perfect game against the Detroit Tigers. It was the first perfect game of the modern era: the last had been thrown by John Montgomery Ward in 1880. It was the second of three no-hitters that Young would throw, and the only perfect

On May 9, 1926, according to their claims, polar explorer Richard E. Byrd and co-pilot Floyd Bennett fly over the North Pole in a triple-engine Fokker monoplane, the Josephine Ford, However, the discovery in 1996 of the diary that Byrd kept seemed to suggest that he and Bennett may have turned back 150 miles short of the pole because of an oil leak

Why Do You Say That?

Car Trunk:

The main storage area of an automobile is called a "trunk" in America because that's what it used to be. Early models provided a deck at the rear for the attachment of a large travelling chest or trunk, within which travelers would pack their extra clothes and other essentials for the trip. In England, the trunk is called the "boot," which comes from the word for a built-in compartment of a horse-drawn coach. Speaking of compartments, we have glove compartments because in the early days of hand-cranked ignition systems for cars, you better wish you always had a pair at hand.
