Newspapers.com by Ancestry
Lincoln Journal Star (Lincoln, Nebraska) · Thu, May 21, 1891 · Page 4
Downloaded on Nov 11, 2025
https://www.newspapers.com/image/66401636/

THE LINCOLN SAVINGS BANK AND Safe Deposit Company,
Southeast Corner P and 11th Sts.
Capital, $250,000. - Liabilities of Stockholders, $500,000.
ONLY SAFE DEPOSIT VAULTS IN LINCOLN.
Burglar and Fire Proof Safes to Rent at $5 per Annum.
INTERESTS on DEPOSIT at 5 PER CENT PER ANNUM.
CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT.
HENRY K. LEWIS, President. A. P. S. STUART, Vice President. W. H. MCCREERY, Treasurer. R. WELCH, Teller.
DIRECTORS: N. S. HARWOOD, H. J. WALSH, JNO. R. WAGNER, A. P. S. STUART, WM. MCLAUGHLIN, HENRY K. LEWIS, W. H. MCCREERY, H. P. LAU, FRED WILLIAMS.

CAPITAL NATIONAL BANK
LINCOLN, NEBRASKA.
CAPITAL, $300,000.
C. W. MOSHER, President. H. J. WALSH, Vice President. J. E. CUTCHALL, Cashier. J. W. MASON, Asst. Cashier.
DIRECTORS: W. W. HOLMES, J. C. PHILLIPS, C. W. MOSHER, A. S. PARKER, C. H. GERRARD, A. P. S. STUART.
Accounts Solicited.
Banks, Bankers and Merchants

THE FIRST National Bank, Lincoln, Neb.
Capital - - $200,000
Surplus - - $90,000
OFFICERS:
J. D. MCFARLAND, President.
OSCAR CALLIHAN, Cashier.
C. S. LITTINCOTT, Asst. Cashier.

I WILL DO BETTER THAN ANYBODY
35 AND 5 PER CENT
GIVEN OFF ON BABY CABS.
GREAT TEN CENT STORE, 118 South 12th St.

A CHURCH COUNCIL

The Episcopalian Diocesan Gathering.

MOSTLY ROUTINE WORK.

Rev. Williams of Omaha Proves to be an Able Parliamentarian Than the Chair, and Relives the Proceedings Considerably—The Missionaries Must Wait a Year.

The Diocesan Council.

The afternoon session of the council was decidedly lively. A memorial prepared by a missionary delegation from the jurisdiction of the Platte was received. The memorial concerned the division of the diocesan funds between the state diocese and the missionary diocese of the Platte. It was stated that when the diocese was formed no division of the funds was made, and the new diocese, owing to reason of its location, did not receive any of the funds collected by the old diocese. Bishop Graves of the Platte diocese addressed the council on this points, and gave the reasons for asking a division.

The question of immediate consideration of the postponed for a year brought out a very lively discussion. Bishop Worthington and several of the clergymen had a verbal passage at arms, one of the latter, Rev. Williams, being accordingly fowsh and forcible in his opinions. Finally it was agreed that the matter should be referred to the bishop and all the clergy to report in a year. Meanwhile the missionaries will struggle.

The well fed and white cholared gentlemen who comprise the Episcopal council all now in session in this city, were startled at an unusually early hour this morning. The first thing that greeted their eyes was a large and very damp shower of rain, which fell upon the just and the unjust alike.

At 7 a. m. the holy communion was celebrated, Rev. Charles Whitemarsh officiating, Rev. E. A. Marsh acting as deacon. At 9 a. m. morning prayers was said by Rev. C. H. H. Leeds, the lesson being read by Rev. Burgess.

The business meeting convened at 10 and was productive of some excitement. When the minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read all reference to yesterday's heated debate over the division of funds was stricken from the records. It was rather peppery for a religious meeting.

The standing committee of the diocese of Nebraska, consisting of Bishop Worthington and the clergy of the diocese of Massachusetts had been confirmed. This was a disappointment to the reporters, as a fresh discussion of this appointment had been anticipated.

An effort was then made to elect a standing committee for the ensuing year. But the ballots seemed to get things a little mixed. At least Rev. Williams seemed to think so, and he moved that the ballots be back and all by again. They brought Dean Gardner to his feet to remark that he objected to the bishop at large trying to instruct the bishop in the rules how to conduct the business of the council. Rev. Williams retorted by saying that any rules, whether he be bishop or large, the dean at large or very large dean, had a right to express his views. For his remark Rev. Williams was called to order by the bishop, and Rev. Williams withdrew his remarks. But Rev. Williams came out on top, for a new vote was demanded and allowed. And then another difficulty arose, for some members insisted upon the right to vote for as many as he chose providing he did not exceed. Mr. Thomas argued that if a member got at all he would have to vote for all six. Rev. Williams appealed from the decision of the chair, and Rev. Williams again came out on top. The members of the council were then allowed to vote for as many less than six as they chose. The roll was then called. The tellers retired to figure out who had received the highest vote. It was a close and hard task, as the result was not made known at 12 noon, when the council adjourned for dinner.

Twenty-Sixth Anniversary.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Springmeyer, at 2123 S street was a scene of one of the most enjoyable gatherings of the season last night, the occasion being the twenty-sixth birthday of Mrs. S. Alice Springmeyer, which couple united in one them with well indeed basket and informed them that they were there to take possession. They also brought with them a handsome parlor lamp as an evidence of their good will. The evening was spent in card playing and dancing and the company left at late hour feeling indebted to Mr. and Mrs. S. for an unusually pleasant evening.

For Sale or Exchange.

Nine Lots in Omaha, one the lot is one running horse, one single driver, good order, 4 years old, Will Exchange for work and driving teams. Will exchange for city property or farm lands. Enquire of C. W. Kaley, 1524 O street, or address J. T. Bullard, McCook, Neb.

For One Day Only.

We will offer a good carpet, made and laid, for 50c.

A. M. DAVIS & SON.

Shiloh's Vitalizer

Shiloh's Vitalizer is what you need for constipation, loss of appetite, dizziness, and all symptoms of dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Henry H. Barth, 999 O street.

Wars Declared.

Our neighbors have started cutting prices on carpets. Get their prices and we will sell you a better quality at less price.

A. M. DAVIS & SON.

We are Leaders.

And defy competition. We carry only standard makes of carpets.

A. M. DAVIS & SON.

Those whiting fine white bread should use "Shiloh" flour. Last leading grocers handle it.

SPECIAL BARGAINS
In Muslin Underwear!
Corsets And Hosiery at
HERPOLSHEIMER & CO.
Call and Examine What We Have to Offer.

LITTLE LOCALS.

AWNINGS. Gunn & Avery, 135 S. 11th.

Prices reduced away down at Brown's restaurants.

Dr. Hook has just returned from a two weeks' visit at St. Louis.

D. B. Howard's Bureau of repairs, room 20, McMurtry block.

Mesmer & Wolfe are wholesale lumber, 1123 O street. 'Phone 497.

First-class cleaning and dying at 1240 O street, Capital Steam Dye works.

Koch's lymph and Liebrich's lymph. Dr. Mutz is now supplied with both.

You can get a "Shiloh" cure if you want the best. All grocers handle it.

O'Neill's fine gun fixtures must be sold at auction, 135 North Ninth street.

Newly furnished rooms for rent in the Meslove block, Eleventh, between P and Q, room 3.

ORDER OF P. H. COOPER AND GET GOOD ICE. TELEPHONE 988 AND 984.

Graham & Byer, 423 South Eleventh street sell flour, feed, baled hay and coal. Hello 300.

BUY YOUR BREAD AT THE BAKERY, NO. 138 SOUTH TWELFTH STREET.

The usual splendid social time was enjoyed last evening at the regular monthly social of the First Congregational church.

Reporter Thayer will hear the petition for commutation of the sentences of Frost and Shepherd on Thursday, May 28.

Judge Stewart issued a marriage license yesterday to Fred E. Hostetler, 24, and Miss Ollie M. Alloway, both of Lincoln.

Dr. John Arnoup of California is in the city and will probably deliver a few of his celebrated lectures of which due notice will be given.

The funeral of W. W. Holmes will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence corner Twelfth and J streets.

We have three good bed room suits at $13.50; new suit. Housekeepers fitted out at lowest possible prices. Bayard & Guerin, 1207 O street.

E. W. Baker has bought up a number of the notes issued to employes by John Lenham, and sues in county court for the value thereof, $202.60.

The handsome yard of Mrs. J. P. Lansing was despoiled last night by some vandals, who helped to a lot of choice plants, and carried them away.

The local lodge of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association gave a delightful ball last evening. A good orchestra and congenial company made the evening pass pleasantly and enjoyably.

The remaining members of the Comic club enjoyed a very pleasant time at Cushman park on Tuesday evening. May the program was so elegant, cool and Prof. Seibert furnished the usual fine music.

R. H. Cowdry, ex-secretary of state, was today appointed bank examiner in the place of A. P. Brink, who resigned to take the cashiership of a South Omaha bank. W. T. Jerdon, recently appointed, is an individual examiner to the original number of the board, and Mr. Brink is considering the appointment of a fifth.

Eh. Mockett of Lincoln and Curt Clark of Hastings, both of whom have been honors at bicycle riders, have signed articles for a match to be run in Hastings on the afternoon of May 30. Mr. Mockett returned yesterday from Hastings, and secured Clark's signature for a thirty-five mile race. Mockett was defeated upon the same ground a year ago, but it was only an accident, and everybody in Lincoln is willing to back him as well as the time. An excursion train will be run from Hastings.

Dr. Conway of Omaha was fined from the state science medical society yesterday at Omaha because he had violated the ethics of the profession by extensive advertising. The offending doctor acknowledged that it was a crime to advertise one's business, he was guilty. He unusually scared the members when he ran around after a reporter to get a personal, while he rode up in his cushioned carriage to the business office, and paid for his advertising like a little man."

HE HAS WEALTH.

Mrs. Joannah Graham Wants a Divorce and $50,000 Alimony.

After a week's rest the divorce mill was this morning furnished with some fresh food for the hopper. Joannah Graham in pale violet typewriter ink sets forth her woes and wants. She says that in the month of December, to-wit: the 31 day of that month in the year 1891, she was wed in Marion county, Illinois, to Jesse Graham. She says further that John is a skillful carpenter, and is capable of acquiring large wads of wealth by proper industry. Nonetheless, John he has cruelly and wantonly refused to furnish her with support, and she has had to perform that necessitous duty herself since March, 1890.

In February last, continues Mrs. Graham, John erected a large wad of money, the exact amount of which together with his monthly stipend she is unable to state because he has secreted the same to prevent her obtaining any. She says he has large amounts of money loaned out at interest or in the hands of friends, and concludes that $50,000 would be her share, one-tenth of which she asks John to keep the same moving. Incidentally a divorce would suit her complexion.

Insurance policies against cyclones and windstorms, in best companies, issued by M. D. De Levia, room 113 Richards block.

BOARDING—Two or three young men can get board and pleasant furnished room cheap at 444 South Thirteenth street, corner Thirteenth and K.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. Sold by Henry H. Barth, 999 O street.

THE SHEEDY CASE.

The Defense Begins Its Innings Today.

NOTHING STARTLING YET.

Several Witnesses Tell What They Know of the Matter—The Defense Promises Some Interesting Testimony, but None of it Forthcoming—The Mrs. Sheedy Creates Some Excitement.

The Defense Has Its Innings.

This morning the defense introduced two witnesses named Bartlett and Mrs. Curry upon the stand to prove that immediately following the shots fired by Sheedy upon the evening of the assault, they saw two men running up Twelfth street from the vicinity of the Sheedy residence. They had evidently returned to the place where they had suddenly and very mysteriously disappeared.

Both of these young men hung their heads and kept their eyes fixed almost constantly upon the floor while giving their testimony, and their general bearing created anything but a favorable impression upon the spectators, and presumably upon the jury.

In addition to these young men the defense dug up three or four willing witnesses, whose bias is favor of Mrs. Sheedy was made manifest by their eagerness to venture opinions favorable to her.

Yesterday Afternoon.

The most important witness of the state was the last one called. It was Mrs. P. H. Smith, who had by subpoena been endorsed on P. H. Smith on the information. She was a most unwilling witness, and it looked as if the attorney for Strode had been talking to her about the case, and trying to work on her friendship for Mrs. Sheedy. The effect of this conversation was very apparent on the witness, and it was with the greatest difficulty that she could be induced to come out of her. In fact for the first quarter of an hour she carefully avoided saying anything of any consequence to the state. Even then the witness attempted evasion, but finally some startling things were revealed by her.

Mrs. Sheedy looked intensely interested, and as usual with her, moved close up to witness, and promptly had attorney in cross-examination. The witness testified:

"I was in the habit of visiting Mrs. Sheedy some five or six months before Mr. Sheedy died; she did not speak of her husband to me; I never heard her husband; she said he was a real cross of a husband and that her do as she pleased; she said she was afraid that he would attempt to kill her with a revolver; she told me this was the result of a quarrel over a relative; when she commenced to my I laughed and told her that I had heard that she had lost a ring and that her husband had got angry and charged her with having given it away; she said that; this was not what she referred to at another time she said she had the blues awful bad because her husband had had used something to get rid of having a child, and at the time was all right. She said that her reason for doing so was because her husband was mean to her at that time. She told me that she had fixed to leave him at one time. This was along in the first of November. One day when I went to the Sheedy residence I had some trouble in bringing anybody to the door. Mrs. Sheedy had gone to attend service, the servant girl came and I asked to see Mrs Sheedy. After awhile she came out of bed room, but returned there shortly afterward."

The inference drawn by the audience was that McFarland was in the room, but this was not brought out by the prosecution, the witness being unable to recall the fact.

Witness said: "Was there on the day Mr. Sheedy died. She told me that Mr. Sheedy could not live; I told her that hot water and mustard plasters would help him. She said that it was useless to give him anything."

There was fun when the cross-examination began. Mrs. Sheedy prompted Mr. Strode to what questions to put in the interesting lying to make it appear that the witness and Sheedy were part called friends. The first question fired at the witness was:

"What was your name when you lived at York?"

"Miss Lou; Bill." was the reply.

"What was it at Plattsmouth?"

"Mrs. Johnston. I went there to live after I was married.

"What is your name now?"

"Mrs. Swift."

"Were you divorced from Johnson?"

"No sir."

Strode then jumped up and demanded: "Why weren't you?"

"Mr. Johnson died," was the quiet reply.

Strode looked annoyed, the crowd tittered and Mrs. Sheedy leant forward and whispered something again in Strode's ear. The attorney thundered out:

"How many times did Mr. Sheedy take you to dance?"

"Only once alone. At all other times Mrs. Sheedy went along."

"Didn't Sheedy send you a present on Christmas?"

"No, sir. Mrs. Sheedy made a present to me Christmas of three pairs of stockings. If they were from Sheedy, I did not know it."

Lambertson then asked the witness concerning what Strode said to her at noon. She replied:

"Strode said, 'I thought you were a friend of Mrs. Sheedy.' He said that the evidence I would give was very important and was the only one that would convict her. While Mrs. Sheedy was away Mrs. Dean kept house for Sheedy. Strode blamed that I should tell him all I knew of the case, and I did so."

The defense objectioned Mr. Hall, counsel for the prosecution, as forebalmed by the Mrs. Sheedy, and stated that an examination had been made of the premises and blankets, but no traces of morphine were found by the experts. Mrs. Hall, however, in a number of standard medical works in evidence to prove that too long a time had elapsed for any morphine to be found in those organs.

The things that Strode said to her to prejudice her for the defense were detailed at length. Witness further testified that Mrs. Sheedy said to her shortly before the assault:

"Someone is after Mr. Sheedy who will kill him and they will get him yet."

The appraisement of the property of John Sheedy at $97,485 00 was next offered in evidence.

This Morning.

Lew Franklin called: Was a friend of Sheedy; saw Mrs. Sheedy, shook hands and she said that she did not think Sheedy would come home, but hoped he would; tried to arouse him.

[illegible] cross-examined: I stayed there about ten minutes; I was at Sheedy's house when Sheedy was stabbed, and thought that Mrs. Sheedy showed a great deal of nerve; I was surprised and called to take care of him herself as she thought he was dying; I did not prevent the wound bearing a scar; do not remember how long he was sick, but I was there four or five times; I called on him simply because I was a friend of his father; I generally called on him on Sunday morning about 9 o'clock; have visited him frequently during the last six or eight years; last visit to Mr. Sheedy before his death was about the time of, or before, the state fair, during the races; saw Mrs. Sheedy that day; I did not call on Sunday, but during the week, and it was thunderstorm—Lew Kelly; I left at noon; John was not there at this visit; I left at 12 noon; I was in the room when he was shot; I was in the room when he was stabbed; I was in the room when he was stabbed; I was in the room when he was stabbed