Trouble Getting to the Altar on 'Marry Me'

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

Annie (Casey Wilson, "Happy Endings") and her boyfriend Jake (Ken Marino, "Eastbound & Down") return from an almost perfect vacation on "Marry Me," premiering Tuesday at 8:01 p.m. on NBC. There's just one small problem. After six years of dating, Jake didn't propose. Annie is, to put it mildly, disappointed. What she doesn't realize before going off on a tirade is that Jake was just about to propose. The moment spoiled, the couple isn't sure how to move forward.

While Hill has been married to writer and executive producer David Caspe ("Happy Endings") since last May, she's quick to point out that the show isn't based on their relationship. "This was inspired by some friends of David's," Wilson says. "We had dated for about two and half years. So, that part might be the same. But I'm a woman over 30, so the engagement was shorter - about seven months."

"I hadn't proposed, but I knew I was going to," adds Caspe. "And in an attempt to sell the show, because I care much more about money than personal relationships, all my pitches were basically, "What's great about this show is that it's going to mirror my actual life because I'm going to be proposing very soon," he jokes. "And then I swore all the presidents of all the networks to secrecy."

The part about Annie screaming right before the proposal did come from something Caspe says could have happened in their relationship. "I did fly her father and brother in and my family was there," he says of their real-life proposal. "It did make me imagine what could happen. Casey is very capable of screaming at me while I'm trying to do something nice for her. I thought about how it could happen."

"And I did have a friend," Caspe continues, "who was going to propose to his now-wife and they went on a horseback ride. He had a hotel room filled with flowers and romantic stuff. They got in a huge fight on horseback, as tends to happen, and then did not get to the hotel that night. But they did get engaged six months later. But during that six months it was kind of crazy."

While the first episode is about the engagement between Annie and Jake, the show is more about the ensemble cast. There are plenty of quirky characters to add to the fun including Casey's best friend Denah (Sarah Wright Olsen), slacker friend Gil (John Gemberling), crazy friend Kay (Tymberlee Hill) and Casey's dad, Kevin (Tim Meadows). They are a big part of the show.

"We will be doing stories about everyone who is on the show," Caspe says. "It's a much more ensemble feel going forward. And it will not be just Casey exploding and apologizing. I get that all the time. I want this show to be very relatable. I want them to feel like a real couple and their friends, parents and stuff."

Marino is no stranger to comedies. In addition to acting he writes, produces and directs. "The Goldbergs," "Children's Hospital" and "Trophy Wife" are just a few of the shows he has worked on behind the scenes. But this role is his priority and was a little something different for him. "Lately, I've been playing a lot of [jerks] in things," says the actor. "When I read the script, I was very excited because it was just a fun part. I was excited to be working with Casey. I was a big fan of 'Happy Endings.' It's fun to play a nice guy for a change. And it's a funny show."

Hill says everyone knows someone who is like the character she plays. "I feel like Kay is like that friend of mine in college that always did a little bit too much," she says. "She's like the staple. She is always there. She crashes on your couch. She asks to borrow your car and brings it back with no gas. But she doesn't get why that's a bad thing, because she did bring your car back."

As for working on the show with her new husband, Wilson isn't worried. "He spends a lot of time in the writers' room," she says. "And we joke a lot, but he knows me better than most people. I don't think he's afraid to push me out of my comfort zone and I think that's a good thing. And we joke a lot, but there's a reason I love him. He's a great guy."

Surprises Ahead for Jane

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

Jane (Gina Rodriguez, "Filly Brown") is a young woman who plays by the rules on "Jane the Virgin," premiering Monday at 8 p.m. on The CW. She is 23 years old and she works hard, studies until the wee hours of the morning and protects her virginity at all costs. She tries so hard to be perfect, but life has a funny way of shaking things up.

Through a wacky set of circumstances that aren't so funny to Jane, she finds herself with a baby on the way, a life-changing event for anyone. For Jane, it's difficult to believe given that she's never had sex. Her mother, Xiomara (Andrea Navedo, "Golden Boy"), had Jane when she was an unmarried teen. Jane's never met her father. Her grandmother Alba (Ivonne Coll, "Switched at Birth") has always preached abstinence. But Jane is lucky in that no matter what her choices might be on this difficult path, her mom and grandmother support her.

Jane's boyfriend (Brett Dier, "Ravenswood") isn't so supportive when he hears her news, but she's a determined young woman. She's going to do what she thinks is right. And while this may not sound funny, it is. Executive producer Jennie Snyder Urman has a way of turning these confusing circumstances into an amusing and sweet comedy.

It's that point of view of a young woman taking the unexpected road that made Rodriguez want the role. "She's been working so hard to have a better life," says Rodriguez of her character. "She's striving to make her dreams come true, and have a better life than her parent. Jane is grasping that with both hands. She's trying so hard. I think it's just a beautiful example of what happens in real life. We face things all the time, whether it's positive or negative. And it's our approach, and it's going to be exciting to go on this journey with this girl, who has serious things happen to her. We'll see how she handles the choices in her life, even if those are not the popular choices. I think that's an awesome thing to put out into the world.

"Don't get me wrong: I can twerk. But we're bombarded by those images. I see what they do to my niece and nephew who are 4 years old. I see what they do to my cousins who are 13. If I can use my art, and what I love to do every day to change that perception, that's awesome. That's the blessing and that's the money for me."

While it's tough to find work in the acting world, Rodriguez is careful about the roles she takes. "Our stories have been told and being a maid is fantastic," says the actress who was once offered a role on Lifetime's "Devious Maids." "I have many family members that have fed many of their families doing that job.

Jane (Gina Rodriguez) has spent her life being a good girl, which is why she can't figure out how she ended up in so much trouble on "Jane the Virgin," premiering Monday at 8 p.m. on the CW.

"But there are other stories that need to be told. And I think that the media is a venue and an avenue to educate and teach our next generation. Sadly, right now the perception they have of Latinos in America are very specific to maid, landscaper and pregnant teen. Mind you, I'm playing a pregnant woman, but not a teen. I didn't become an artist to be a millionaire. I didn't become an actor to wear Louis Vuitton. I have to give my dress back when we're done. I became an actor to change the way I grew up. I never saw myself on screen. I have two older sisters. One's an investment banker. The other one is an actor. I never saw those being played by people who look like me. I'm not a size zero. I waited patiently for Jane."

The new iPhones are out and some are complaining that their phones are bending. They say if you squeeze the ends hard enough, the phone will bend. And if you hit it with a hammer, the phone will break. Here's an idea. Don't bend the phone.

If you do bend the phone, wrap it around your wrist and tell people it's the Apple Watch. You'll be the first one to have it.

Jimmy Fallon

Attorney General Eric Holder announced today that he is resigning after five years with the administration. Obama said, "Wait, you can do that?"

Political reporters are complaining that the White House has been asking them to edit some of their stories to make the president look better. The White House said that's not true, and those reporters should please change what they said.

David Letterman

They've had security problems at the White House. Last weekend a couple of guys hopped the fence and ran in. One guy got all the way in and made himself a sandwich.
