Secrets Revealed in Haunting New Drama

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

While taking a morning jog, Ben Crawford (Ryan Phillippe) discovers the body of one of the neighborhood children, Tom Murphy (Aiden Malik). Detective Andrea Cornell (Juliette Lewis) quickly pegs Ben as a suspect, but all may not be what it seems. In an effort to clear his name, Ben begins to pull back the curtain on his neighbors, and learns that everyone has "Secrets and Lies," premiering Sunday at 8 p.m. on ABC.

Everyone, from Ben's wife, Christy (KaDee Strickland), to his best friend, Dave (Dan Fogler), is a suspect. But the tenacious, and seemingly emotionless, Detective Cornell is focused on Ben. It's difficult for her to ignore that all clues point to him.

There's a fine line Phillippe has to walk with his performance so that viewers can never quite figure out if his character is guilty or not. The subject matter sometimes weighed heavy on the actor. "Every day I was playing a guy whose life was falling apart, who was being accused, who was being slandered – so much negativity in the material," Phillippe says. "And there were things about that that I think I would take home with me. But I knew that before I signed on, that that would be a part of it. It seemed like an enormous workload on day one, and it was."

Being a suspect ruins Ben's life. His marriage is in trouble, and his clients don't want anything to do with him. Even his children are finding out things they wish they didn't know about their dad. Phillippe had worked on series television before with "Damages," but he wasn't quite ready for the pace of being a lead character on a one-hour drama. "'Damages' was really [in a] supporting capacity," says Phillippe. "I worked two days a week on that show. And they were also wrapping up an entire series, so the emphasis was largely on Glenn (Close) and Rose Byrne's characters, obviously. And this was a completely different work experience because it's a forced perspective show. It's all from my character's point of view, which is exhausting. There are no days off and no scenes off. And so in that regard it was a completely different experience.

"But I think getting into the 'Damages' thing and kind of seeing what it was like to work with rotating directors and to have a different understanding of storytelling, because film, you've got a really short hour-and-a-half, two hours, and these play out over a longer period. So, it allows for more exploration, and I think that's a fun aspect of television."

For Lewis, this is a different type of role for her to play. "I had the great honor to interview many homicide detectives, male and female," says the actress. "Some were married. Some had kids. Some didn't. And I changed everything about my demeanor, which is you have to assert control in any given situation. And all these situations are so emotional. They're so wrought with emotion – raw, visceral emotion.

So, my character does not lead or function or operate with that kind of emotion – and she can't – to do her job well. So, that was really challenging to play.

"But the fact that people are saying I'm scary or I'm intimidating or all these things, I think, is great. But that's not the first thing that I focused on. Her main focus is her obsessive nature to solve the crime, her meticulousness in doing so, and that she does not lead with emotion. And she doesn't mind people feeling completely uncomfortable and thrown off by her demeanor. She doesn't placate or use niceties. And some detectives do that, but she's not one of them."

The American version of the series begins in much the same way as the original Australian drama, but there are some key differences. "What was interesting is the Australian series was really well done," says executive producer Barbie Kligman, "and it gave us the benefit of a new format to do and a blueprint of the first season to work from. But, because Juliette Lewis plays the tenacious Detective Andrea Cornell, who is determined to get her man on "Secrets and Lies," premiering Sunday at 8 p.m. on ABC.

we've done 10 episodes as opposed to six and because I think our pace is faster, we had the opportunity to really go deeper into more of the characters and to get to tell some different stories within that one story arc."

The short-run series could continue on past the first season. "The mystery of Ben Crawford and who killed Tom will be resolved at the end of this season," Kligman continues. "And, hopefully, in subsequent seasons we'll have a different mystery. The only ongoing mystery is Detective Cornell as we sort of unpeel the layers of who she is."

TRIVIA CHAIN

Dramatizing History

1. Starz took viewers to ancient Rome to witness the brutal lives of gladiators and the slave revolt they began with this ultra-violent series.

2. Not the first, second or even third English king with his name, a 16th-century monarch's quest to produce a male heir (at the expense of several wives) was chronicled on this Showtime series.

3. Showtime also followed the sinister moves of this infamous dynasty of Spanish origin that made its power plays on the battlefield, in the bedroom and especially within the Vatican.

4. HBO set this series during the Prohibition era of America, when the corrupt county interacted with such figures as Al Capone and "Lucky" Luciano.

5. The consumption of alcohol was also big in this former gold-mining camp of South Dakota, a legendary Old West haunt of Wild Bill Hickok that lent its name to the title of this hit HBO drama.

6. Red-eye is replaced by martinis and scotch (and lots of cigarettes) as AMC moves ahead about 90 years to focus on Manhattan advertising executives with this Emmy-winning series.

7. This AMC Western series followed the crew building the first transcontinental railroad – and the mobile saloons, brothels and gambling houses that attended them.

David Letterman
 I was going over a memo earlier today, and I found out that it turns out I'm not retiring. My hair is retiring.

Good luck finding a place to park in New York City. And when you do, good luck figuring out the parking signs, restrictions and prohibitions. It is so complicated. It has gotten so bad, I never park my car without a lawyer.

Jimmy Kimmel
 Pot growers in the state of Washington have a problem. Supply there has outstripped demand and they have a lot more marijuana than they can sell. I find it surprising that the marijuana industry did not crunch the numbers properly. That's not like them at all.

Washington has more pot than they can smoke, which might help to explain why Pete Carroll called for a passing play on the 1 yard line.

Seth Meyers
 Ukrainian officials say that while Vladimir Putin was announcing a ceasefire agreement today, over a hundred Russian military vehicles territory. Said Putin, "Is not Ukraine. Is My-kraine."

A new study shows that drivers high on marijuana are less dangerous than drunk drivers. The study shows the biggest issue is marijuana users waiting for the stop sign to turn green.

Moments in Time

On March 5, 1839, Charlotte Bronte writes to the Rev. Henry Nussey, declining marriage. The 23-year-old Bronte told him that he would find her "romantic and eccentric," and not practical enough to be a clergyman's wife. Her novel "Jane Eyre" was published eight years later.

On March 3, 1865, President Abraham Lincoln signs a bill creating the Bureau of Refugees, Freedmen and Abandoned Lands. Known as the Freedmen's Bureau, this federal agency oversaw the transition of blacks from slavery to freedom.

On March 4, 1888, Knute Rockne is born in Voss, Norway. He would go on to become one of the most successful coaches in the history of college football, leading Notre Dame during its golden era in the 1920s. Rockne won three undisputed national championships with the Fighting Irish.

On March 7, 1938, Janet Guthrie, the first woman to compete in the Indianapolis 500 and Daytona 500 races, is born in Iowa. In 1976, she was the first woman to compete in a NASCAR Winston Cup superspeedway race.

On March 6, 1945, members of the Dutch resistance attempting to hijack a food truck unwittingly ambush German Lt. Gen. Hanns Rauter, head of the Nazi SS in Holland. In retaliation, the SS put to death 263 Dutch. Rauter later was executed for war crimes.

On March 8, 1982, the United States issues a public statement accusing the Soviet Union of using poison gas and chemical weapons against rebel forces in Afghanistan. Evidence to support these charges was largely anecdotal. Some critics charged that the accusations were a smokescreen behind which the United States could go forward in upgrading its own chemical weapons arsenal.
