FYI Television, Inc.

Three-time Emmy nominee Rainn Wilson ("The Office") makes his return to network television as the brilliant Everett Backstrom, a hardboiled detective whose shell is cracking from the strain of an unhealthy lifestyle and cynical outlook, on the offbeat FOX crime procedural "Backstrom," premiering Thursday at 8 p.m. Based on the Swedish book series by Leif G.W. Persson, the dramedy series was developed for American television by "Bones" executive producer Hart Hanson.

Like Wilson's popular character of power-hungry Dunder Mifflin salesman Dwight Schrute, an intense, martial arts-loving and Draconianminded sycophant; and his role as the overly judgmental costumed vigilante in the feature film "Super," Backstrom exhibits a certain repugnance toward lesser specimens of humanity, yet here he pairs his loathing with self-destructive behavior that hints at his childhood abuse.

"I don't want to get all psychological about it," Wilson prefaces his description, "but he's addicted to pretty much everything on the Earth. He's an alcoholic, drug addict, food addict, sex addict – you name it – and he partakes. That partially comes from family upbringing, but mostly it's just his own genetic makeup. His life is falling apart, and it's just not working for him."

After his offensive behavior got him exiled to the traffic division for five years, Backstrom has returned from his disgrace to head up the new Special Crimes Unit (SCU) of the Portland, Oregon, police department, a position in which he is assigned the city's most sensitive and serious cases. Assisting him in these duties are a team of fellow officers distinguished by their own skills and eccentricities.

"Well," Wilson reveals, "you've got Dennis Haysbert playing Almond, who starts to factor in throughout the course of the season much stronger as a character. He's also a preacher, so he sees the best in everyone and believes in a higher spiritual redemption, and Backstrom doesn't. And then there's Niedermayer, played by Kristoffer Polaha. He's an expert in forensics but everyone in the forensics department hates him. And you've got Paquet, played by Beatrice Rosen, who's a brilliant kind of information technology person, and she's a civilian who's been hired by the department. And then you've got Moto, played by Page Kennedy, who used to be a MMA fighter and is the muscle of the operation." The cast also includes Genevieve Angelson as Detective Nicole Gravely, an ex-vice squad officer who is the heart and soul of the SCU.

As Backstrom's doctor (guest star Rizwan Manji) nags at him to make smarter choices for his health (even prescribing that he make at least one new friend), the detective routinely reveals his keen acumen for solving crimes – the latter marking a departure from the source novels.

"In the Swedish books he kind of accidentally solves crimes, almost due to his own boorishness," Wilson explains, "and obviously you can't have a TV show where someone accidentally solves a crime each week. [On our show] he's brilliant at solving crimes. Because he's so closely connected to the dark side of humanity, and he sees the worst in people, he's able to kind of intuit what's going on in the minds of criminals. He has these kind of like dark instincts where he literally sees the world through a different lens."

While Wilson had been reluctant to sign on to another TV series after nine seasons of "The Office," he says he just couldn't resist the multifaceted character. "There are so many colors and textures to this guy," Wilson elaborates. "He's despicable and funny, and charming and wounded, and acerbic and big-hearted – parts like this just don't come around very often.

"I love how unfiltered he is. He says exactly what he thinks - and he says what a lot of us think but in this PC world we're not able to say. And he's an equal opportunity hater. You know, you could say he's racist but he hates white people just as much as he hates any other race. And Dwight had that, too. Dwight would sometimes just say things, you know. He would say, 'You're PMSing pretty bad, Pam,' you know, just kind of the stuff that would come out of his mouth. So, there's a similarity there."

Despite Backstrom's extreme viewpoints, insulting manner and reckless lifestyle, Wilson believes the character will be highly relatable with most viewers. "I think every culture in the world has harddrinking, prickly, misanthropic people around who are brilliant at their jobs," he posits. "Probably from Swahili to Urdu, you can find that kind of character."

The actor acknowledges Backstrom's kinship with such classic film-noir detectives of the past as Philip Marlowe, but he insists his characterization has more contemporary roots. "Hart and I spoke about how his dialogue is very hardboiled – almost Sam Spade. Of course, I grew up watching all those films and love them, but I didn't base the character on any of those. To me, it's like if Columbo was an a**hole." The comedy of "Back-strom" is even more incidental than that of "The Office," but Wilson insists that doesn't make it any easier. "You know, any kind of humor is hard," he says, "whether it's as broad as 'Dumb and Dumber,' or whether it's as subtle as 'Veep' on HBO, which is one of my favorite shows. Anytime you try to make someone laugh, it's super hard. I think the good thing about 'Backstrom' is it's a believable world in which crimes are being solved and the stakes are very high, first and foremost, and then you get laughs because of the quirkiness and the realness of the characters.

THIS WEEK'S BEST BETS

FRIDAY Cold Justice

TNT, 9 p.m.

Former crime-scene investigator Yolanda McClary and former prosecutor Kelly Siegler continue their mission of reopening unsolved murder cases in small towns, where they have lingered for years without answers or closure, on season three. In this episode, the two sleuths head to Yakima County, Washington, where in 1997 a young mother of three was found shot to death in her car that was pulled over on the side of a highway. McClary and Siegler are faced with the difficult task of finding a killer who seemed to disappear under the dark cover of night. Since the premiere of "Cold Justice" in 2013, McClary and Siegler have assisted local law enforcement in securing a total of 20 arrests, 10 criminal indictments, four confessions, three guilty pleas and two convictions.

SATURDAY Identity Thief HBO, 9 p.m.

While she is in Washington, Hetty (LinAfter Denver account processor Sandy Patterson (Jason Bateman) learns that a woman (Melissa McCarthy) in Florida has stolen his identity and is ruining his credit, he heads cross-country to personally track down McCarthy the thief. Directed by Seth Gordon, the movie co-stars Jon Favreau, John Cho, Morris Chestnut, Robert Patrick and Amanda Peet.

SUNDAY

The Librarians TNT, 7 p.m. Tech wizard Ezekiel Jones (John Kim) and the other Librarians are summoned to help with a case that, at first, appears to be that of a missing individual but suddenly takes an unexpected turn on the two-part season finale. And then at 8 p.m., counterterrorism agent Eve Baird (Rebecca Romijn) finds herself passing through a series of harrowing alternative timelines when the mysterious immortal Dulaque (Matt Frewer) is able to change the course of fate, and each of the timelines reflect the changing destinies of the Librarians, as well as her own inevitable doom.

MONDAY Sleepy Hollow FOX, 8 p.m. Michelle Trachtenberg guest-

stars as renowned First Lady Abigail Adams – a dear friend from the past of Ichabod (Tom Mison) and Katrina (Katia Winter), whom they are reminded of after the mysterious death of an art restorer at the Sleepy Hollow Historical Society Soiree. Meanwhile, Abbie (Nicole Beharie) is shocked by someone's visit to the police precinct.

TUESDAY

Justified

FX, 9 p.m.

TV STAR

The final season premiere finds Ava (Joelle Carter) being guided by Raylan (Timothy Olyphant) through the process of informing on Boyd (Walton Goggins). Raylan tries to turn Boyd's old ally Dewey Crowe (Damon Herriman) against him as well, all while Boyd works to pull off a daring heist right under Raylan's nose.

WEDNESDAY

Chicago P.D. NBC, 9 p.m.

Lindsay's (Sophia Bush) new gig has her planning a trip

 Sophia Bush

to Bolivia for an undercover investigation that could be for an extended amount of time.

Meanwhile, Bob Ruzek (guest star Jack Coleman) is the first to arrive on the scene of a double murder. Intelligence arrives to take over the investigation, and tensions arise

as Bob needs to hand over the case to his son (Patrick

Flueger) and Voight (Jason

Beghe). And Burgess (Marina

Squerciati) and Roman (Brian Geraghty) realize they need to put past events behind them

so it doesn't jeopardize them going forward.

THURSDAY Nightwatch A&E, 9 p.m.

Sgt. Nicole Barbe is among the elite teams of emergency responders risking their lives to work the busiest and most unnerving time of the day, the overnight shift in New Orleans, on the new series. In the historic city, police officers, firefighters and EMTs working the overnight shift answer as many as a thousand emergency calls a night. This nonfiction series from executive producer Dick Wolf follows multiple sets of partners in the New Orleans Emergency Medical Services unit who cover the intense and unpredictable period from 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. as they battle time and circumstance to save lives. The skills, dedication and determination that these critical and dangerous jobs require are on full display nightly while each new traumatic call comes in. As the city's heroes, one thing remains clear: the job of an emergency responder in NOLA is not only about saving lives, it's being there as a support system for the community of people in this diverse and inspiring city.

'Justified' Sings Swan Song

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

When "Justified" returns for its final season on FX, Tuesday at 9 p.m., it will be business as usual in Lexington, Kentucky. Deputy U.S. Marshal Ravlan Givens (Timothy Olyphant) will be hunting down bad guys and driving everyone around him crazy. His first order of business is guiding Ava Crowder (Joelle Carter) through the process of informing on her fiancé, local criminal Boyd Crowder (Walton Goggins). Ava is trying to survive by playing both sides of the longtime rivalry. While all of this is going on, Boyd is doing what he does best: scheming. His latest plan is to pull off a daring heist right under Ravlan's nose.

For executive producer Graham Yost, deciding this would be the final season took a great deal of thought. "A lot was just sort of figuring out how much story we had left," he says. "Our biggest concern telling these stories is that we don't run out of story and we start repeating ourselves. But the thing is that we learn more about what we don't do, so we're not going to do that kind of story. And at the same time, well, we can't do that story because we've already done it. And it just sort of felt as we talked it out - and this was a long conversation between me and Tim (Olyphant), Michael (Dinner), Sarah Timberman, Carl Beverly and Fred Golan we all talked about it a lot. And there were financial incentives to keep going, but it really felt, in terms of the story of Raylan Givens in Kentucky, that six years felt about right."

With Chief Deputy Art Mullen (Nick Searcy) being injured last season, Deputy U.S. Marshal Rachel Brooks (Erica Tazel) has had to step up at the office and take on more responsibility. Part of her job is making sure Raylan doesn't go off the rails. Deputy U.S. Marshal Jacob Pitts (Tim Gutterson), who has always understood Raylan better than most, will be working closer with him.

Raylan has one goal, and that is taking down Boyd. Once he does that, he can meet up with Winona (Natalie Zea) and their daughter in Florida. But first he must end the criminal operations of Boyd and his cronies Wynn Duffy (Jere Burns) and Katherine Hale (Mary Steenburgen), who heads up the Dixie Mafia. Boyd, Wynn and Katherine are after the cash Ty Walker (Garrett Dillahunt) and his paramilitary outfit has to buy land around Harlan. But what they don't know is that Ty and his team won't go quietly into the night. The situation also creates more complications for Raylan's plan.

While the writing on the show has always been one of its greatest strengths, the casting is equally impressive. The drama's memorable characters are due, in part, to casting director Cami Patton. Finding the right person to play a villain or a hero is something she excels at when it comes to "Justified."

For Patton, it's all a part of the job. "I think it's about taste and usually being a little outspoken," she says. "Then Marshal Raylan Givens (Timothy Olyphant) is after foes both old and new on the final season of "Justified," returning Tuesday at 9 p.m. on FX.

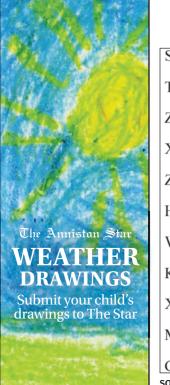

also being able to put your creative mind to the side and put your business hat on and work within a budget and know how you can get people to do something that maybe they normally wouldn't do for that rate. And it's a very complicated job, but I just think it's about really being good at it and anybody can do that."

One of the most complicated and rich characters ever created for a television show is that of Boyd Crowder. Yost and the late Elmore Leonard may have created him, but it's hard to imagine anyone but Goggins making the role work. It one of those times where the casting and writing came together to create a character we won't soon forget.

"He's such a wild animal for me," says Goggins. "He is cool in ways that I could never be. I constantly have to broaden my definition of him so as not to leave any crumbs on the carpet. You come on a run like this in this situation with this group of artists collaborating together, and it's very special, and it may never happen again. If it does happen again, it might not be with everybody on this stage. And so I'm just soaking it all in, man, and I'm just very grateful."

Deputy U.S.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Rick was put on the spot when Maya asked him if he truly loved her or if he was just using her to get back at Caroline. Regardless of Caroline's unwavering desire to reunite with Rick, Ridge advised her against fighting a losing battle. Ridge then pointed out to Caroline that there were no more reasons why they couldn't pursue a relationship together. Ivy and Aly connected through their family's history and shared some laughs at Rick and Maya's expense. Having reached a new crossroads in their relationship, Rick and Maya spent a romantic evening between the sheets. Ivy issued Rick a warning to re-examine his feelings for Caroline before he did something irreparable. Carter was still reluctant to believe Maya's relationship was genuine. Wait to See: Spencer Publications has new management. A long-lost relative arrives in Los Angeles. Bill tries to win back Katie's heart.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

Clvde dropped another bomb on Jordan about the death of her mother. Hope started to realize that she was not getting the full story from Aiden. A vengeful Eve was tempted to tell Jennifer that she had sex with JJ. John made a big career change. Clyde forced Jordan to face a traumatic memory she had long repressed. JJ made a stunning confession to his mother. Eve suggested to Paige that they leave Salem. Melanie and Brady agreed not to tell anyone they were planning to date, but the cat was let out of the bag when someone caught them kissing. Nicole and Serena got into a heated exchange at the opening of Victor's new club. Wanting to get Brady out of her system, Theresa set her sights on a new man. Will tried to reach out to Paul. Adrienne spent time with Lucas and found herself laughing for the first time in ages. Wait to See: Nicole and Serena get into a physical altercation. Tensions rise at Salem's latest hotspot. Paul learns something surprising about Will.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Rosalie was in cahoots with someone who urged her to get Michael out of the old Spencer house. "Fluke" had a warning for Johnny. Nikolas questioned Helena about her underling and business partner. Sonny instructed Shawn to follow "Fluke" in order to determine his true identity. Anna encouraged Jordan not to blow her cover. Meanwhile, Sloane questioned Dante and Nathan about Anna's confidential informant. Despite Dante's warnings to stay away from his wife, Johnny had a business proposal for Lulu. Michael asked Lucas if he would be interested in running his new clinic. Elizabeth interrupted Jake as he prepared to carry out Helena's latest task. Sam and Patrick prepared for their romantic date, unaware that someone else was there. Wait to See: Sonny learns who is working with "Fluke." Johnny runs into Maxie. Nina makes a new friend.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Kevin asked Mariah to be honest about what she wanted. Nick confided in Avery. Devon learned some surprising news about Neil and Hilary. Victor asked Jack why he was bringing up Adam's name out of the blue. Austin accepted a new job offer. Phyllis made a shocking discovery. Nikki struggled with her sobriety and then lashed out at Victor. Adam feared Chelsea was slipping further and further away. Ashley wasn't happy to see Victoria show up to the lab with Stitch. Sharon made a fresh start. Lauren and Michael decided to tell their friends that Michael was battling cancer. Wait to See: Devon sneaks off to see Hilary. Avery reminisces about her past with Joe. Adam presses Sage to get close to Nick.
