Halle Berry Headlines New Series

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

The new sci-fi series
"Extant," airing Wednesday at 8 p.m. on CBS, delves into the worlds of aliens and artificial intelligence. But the show is deeply rooted in a real, if somewhat futuristic, world.
Halle Berry plays astronaut
Molly Woods. After 13 months alone in space, she has returned home and is doing her best to assimilate into her normal life. But she's brought back something from her trip,
and it's life-changing.

Her husband, scientist
John Woods (Goran Visnjic), has created a robot son, Ethan (Pierce Gagnon), for them.
While Woods is working to get funding to create more robots, he doesn't understand that his creation may not be what he had expected. Two sci-fi subgenres come together in this intense drama, and that combined with the family drama makes it one compelling show.

That said, it was important for creator and executive producer Mickey Fisher to make the show as realistic as possible. "I think the thing to me that sort of keyed in early on, whether consciously or unconsciously, was just grounding it in the family," says Fisher. "There were these two big stories: there's sort of an extraterrestrial story, and then there's a story about AI. And I get asked a lot why I put both of those in the same story when most people would focus on one or the other. And I just always saw it as writing about a family and kind of grounding it in family. And I think that's pretty rich territory.

"As for the inspiration for it, I say this a lot about our executive producer Mr. (Steven) Spielberg, because I was a kid who grew up on Amblin movies, and I think in so many ways my creativity was almost programmed by those things and guys like George Lucas. I'm also a big fan of 'Dr. Who.' When I got stuck writing the pilot, I would think, 'What would Steven Moffat do?' And the answer was always that he would just write better. So, I kept trying to do that. That show has such great heart to it, and I'm trying to do that with my show."

With the sci-fi elements, it's no surprise that Spielberg and his Amblin Entertainment would want to be involved. "In the beginning, he was very involved," says executive producer and showrunner Greg Walker. "I mean, even before I was involved, he read Mickey's script and brought it under his roof there at Amblin Television and brought Mickey in. And then I joined up. But every step of the way, from the creation of the world, the extension of Mickey's pilot, and through every character development and all the season-long arcs, we consulted with Steven and had long conversations with him."

While it isn't exactly clear what year the show takes place in, there are a great many fun and futuristic gadgets. "A lot of it we dream up in the writers' room," says Walker. "Our scientific consultant is our writer Peter Ocko, who comes up with a lot of it. We imagine what would be a logical evolution of the technology that we have. And then sometimes we invent these things for fun just to bring a little bit of that future life to our world.

"That being said, we do have this mandate, that we gave ourselves early on that we never wanted to it to be just about the gadgets. We never wanted it to be just about the cool stuff; we want it to be about the characters. So, it always had to be in service of the story. But we did some research along the way and we are always coming across articles and things that we send each other that help us sort of flesh it out and inspire things for the show."

"For us," adds Fisher, "the sort of underlying theme is this question of what it means to be human. Going back to those two stories, they sort of speak to that question. Molly's story in space, the story about Ethan, the way those two stories intersect, it becomes a story about what is human and about how we're connected to each other. And title of the show, 'Extant,' is that we're in existence, that we're surviving. And how we ensure that what was human survives in the face of these challenges, these sort of pivot points in human history are where we're going to meet."

Astronaut Molly Woods (Halle Berry) has brought back a surprise from outer space on "Extant," airing Wednesday at 8 p.m. on CRS heroic day on the highly

THIS WEEK'S BEST BETS

FRIDAY Crossbones

NBC, 9:01 p.m.

Having learned of Blackbeard's (John Malkovich) plans to attack innocent civilians in Jamaica, Lowe (Richard Coyle) devises a way to report back to his spymaster, William Jagger (guest star Julian Sands).

But having done so, Lowe discovers that Jagger might be an even greater madman than the Commodore.

The time has come to make a choice between two evils, but which way will Lowe jump?

SATURDAY MLB Baseball

FS1, 3 p.m. Catcher Jonath

Catcher Jonathan Lucroy and the Milwaukee Brewers renew their National League Central Division rivalry with the St. Louis Cardinals. LuCroy, who set school records at Louisiana-Lafayette, was drafted by the Brewers in the third round of the 2007 amateur entry draft. Lucroy is challenging St. Louis catcher Yadier Molina as one of the best offensive and defensive catchers in the game. Lucroy and the Brewers spiced up the rivalry with an ad campaign, designed to get Lucroy voted on to the National League All-Star Team, which took playful jabs at Molina and the Carpals. The two teams Malkovich dinals. The two teams split their first six meetings of the season.

SUNDAYThe Strain

FX, 9 p.m.

When a plane lands in New York City with everyone on board dead, Harlem pawnbroker Abraham Setrakian (David Bradley) races to the airport, convinced that what looks at first like a mysterious viral outbreak might be the beginning of something infinitely more sinister. Meanwhile, Dr. Ephraim Goodweather (Corey Stoll), head of the Center for Disease Control's Canary Project, and his team are called upon to investigate the ominous matter. Created by writer-director Guillermo del Toro ("Pan's Labvrinth") and Chuck Hogan, who based the series on their novel trilogy, the horror thriller is helmed by Carlton Cuse ("Lost") and co-stars Sean Astin, David Bradley, Natalie Brown, Kevin Durand, Jonathan Hyde, Ben Hyland, Mia Maestro, Robert Maillet and Richard Sammel.

MONDAY

24: Live Another Day

FOX, 8 p.m.

The clock ticks toward the final seconds of Jack Bauer's (Kiefer Sutherland) most heroic day on the highly anticipated season finale. As the world teeters on a terror plot of mass proportions, Jack and the team reunite one last time to avert an imminent international crisis. With little time left and the fate of the free world on the line, Jack is faced with an unthinkable and grave decision. Lives will be lost and the American administration will grapple with the day's most devastating news as the clock stops.

TUESDAYRoyal Pains

USA, 8 p.m.

Divya (Reshma Shetty) treats a NASCAR crew chief (guest star Michael O'Keefe), who channels his anxiety into an unexpectedly dangerous habit. Meanwhile, the chef (guest star Tyler Labine) at Ray's (guest star Jeremy Davidson) new restaurant seems to be getting drunk on the job, but Hank (Mark Feuerstein) believes it's not just a matter of hitting the bottle. Elsewhere, Evan's (Paulo Costanzo) friendship with Ray helps him find a promising space for HankMed's new lab, but Jeremiah (Ben Shenkman) has concerns about the location.

Later, Hank tries to get Emma (guest star Willa Fitzgerald) to think about her future, and Divya makes an important decision about her own.

WEDNESDAY

Motive

ABC, 9 p.m.

Detectives Flynn (Kristin Lehman) and Vega (Louis Ferreira) are tasked with finding a person who knocked a young man unconscious during what appeared to be an erotic encounter, before the attacker returned to finish the job. Later, Flynn calls in a favor that ends up back-firing on her.

THURSDAY Working the Engels NBC, 8:30 p.m.

The Anniston Star

When a family of ne'er-dowells must band together to keep their heads above water after their father and breadwinner passes away, leaving them a mountain of debt, they all go to work running Dad's storefront law firm, although daughter Jenna Engel (Kacey Rohl) is the only one qualified to practice law on the new NBC family comedy. Unfortunately for Jenna, this also means taking on her eccentric relatives as co-workers. Ceil (Andrea Martin), the selfabsorbed and overly dramatic but fiercely protective mother works as the firm's paralegal; Sandy (Azura Skye), a former pill-popper who has never worked a day in her life, is the receptionist and first line of defense at the firm; and Jimmy (Ben Arthur), a petty criminal and bad boy who is utterly devoted to his family, is the firm's investigator. Jenna, the youngest sibling and "good one," becomes the unlikely family patriarch, running the law firm and keeping her crazy family together. It's not pretty, but it's family.

Guillermo del Toro Creates a New Breed of Vampire

Dan Rice FYI Television, Inc.

"What has been will be again, what has been done will be done again; there is nothing new under the sun." This bit of wisdom from Ecclesiastes rings true with the remakes and re-imaginings that continue to proliferate among movies and TV shows, but fortunately the adage doesn't necessarily apply to vampires, who, after all, do their best to avoid being under the sun. The new millennium has already brought the shift to beautiful and sexy members of the romantic undead with "True Blood" and the "Twilight" franchise and their source novel series, and now vampires get another makeover injecting fresh blood to the genre with "The Strain," premiering Sunday at 9 p.m. on FX.

Already practiced at retooling monsters with his "Hellboy" and "Pacific Rim" franchises, Guillermo del Toro ("Pan's Labyrinth") designed "The Strain" as a television series from the beginning, but being unable to find a buyer for the series, the writer-director took the advice of an agent and transformed the story into a trilogy of novels he co-wrote with Chuck Hogan. The vampires they envisioned are unique from the inside out, and that whetted the appetites of such readers as Carlton Cruse, the creative force behind "Lost" and "Bates Motel."

"I first read the first of the three novels when it was published in 2009," Cuse recounts. "Actually, that's not true. I bought it in 2009. I put it on my stack of books that I intended to read when 'Lost' was finished, and when 'Lost' was finished, I read the first of the three books, and I loved it, just as a fan. And so cut to May of 2012. I got a call saying, 'Would you be interested in sitting down and talking to Guillermo del Toro about turning 'The Strain' trilogy into a television series?' And this began a very wonderful and fruitful collaboration, and to take this property from sort of one literary form to another, I'm immensely grateful, as is Guillermo, to FX who gave us the resources and the time to really prepare this show like a movie.

"Basically, the show opens with the arrival of an airplane at John F. Kennedy, and it kind of rolls to a stop, and everyone on the airplane appears to be dead, Cuse says of the plot.

"The plane, as it turns out, is carrying a mysterious cargo, which is the way in which this strain of vampirism will spread throughout New York City and ultimately the world. And Corey Stoll plays the leader of the Canary Team from the Center for Disease Control who is trying to stop the spread of this disease, and he picks up a lot of other interesting characters along the way, including Abraham Setrakian (David Bradley), a guy we very soon discover has had encounters with these creatures before, and it's kind of this wonderful complicated mosaic of life in New York as it's upended by this virulent disease, and that's the setup."

Co-starring Sean Astin, Mia Maestro, Natalie Brown, Kevin Durand, Jonathan Hyde, Ben Hyland and Robert Maillet, the series best succeeds with its unique reinvention of vampires, which Cuse credits to the genius of del Toro.

"The thing that I really responded to in the story, and I think that once you see it you will agree, you will never look at vampires the same way again," Cuse begins. "These are not sparkly, brooding dudes with fangs and romantic problems. These vampires, or to use the Romanian word, 'strigoi,' are really scary creatures, and this is a really original re imagining of vampire lore, and I think it also says some things about the kind of precariousness of our modern world. I think there's really an interesting intersection ultimately in the story between empiricism and religion.

"One of the reasons I really wanted to collaborate with Guillermo on this project was I think he is a real visionary when it comes to creating monsters and fantasy worlds, and so these creatures, as imagined by Guillermo, I believe, are really compelling, interesting and different than what you've seen before. I don't really want to say too much about them because I don't want to spoil the reveal

A driven biochemist (Mia Maestro) and other scientists investigate a possible outbreak that turns out to be an ancient threat to humanity on "The Strain," premiering Sunday at 9 p.m. on FX.

of them, but not unlike 'Pan's Labyrinth,' I feel like Guillermo has brought real vision to the way these creatures have been realized that I think audiences will find really compelling. It was something that was sort of engineered all the way down to the actual biological systems. I mean, I spent a lot of time discussing with Guillermo the fact that these vampires feed and [crap] at the same time, and they have this incredibly elaborate biological mechanism that overtakes the regular human biology, and all that is detailed pretty thoroughly in the show."

Cuse stresses that these undead characters are far from the alluring vamps of "Twilight" and "True Blood." "They're not sexy," he insists. "There is sex in the show, but the vampires themselves are not having sex in the show. No. No. They are not romantic creatures. Believe me. You will see it when you watch."

SOAP OPERA REVIEW

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Oliver asked Maya if she still had feelings for him. Brooke and Katie reflected on their tumultuous past and agreed to move forward in a positive direction. Ridge began to panic when he realized that his greatest talent might have been destroyed by the accident. Rick and Caroline debated whether to play the recording of Oliver for Alv. Eric called a company meeting to showcase Ridge's new designs. Ivy Forrester arrived in Los Angeles for a visit, which put her at the right place at the right time. Ridge begged Katie to keep his heartbreaking secret. Wyatt and Liam shared a new brotherly bond. Bill and Brooke discussed how they were going to make up for their interrupted nuptials. Wyatt received two very unexpected gifts in one day. Wait to See: Carter is furious over Maya's recent antics. Oliver comes clean with Aly. Bill and Justin fear that Ridge is on to them.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

Sami's move was a game-changer. EJ urged Abigail to cooperate with him. Clyde spied on Jordan and Ben. Brady lashed out at John and finished with a chilling threat. EJ received some unexpected news. For JJ's sake, Jennifer tried to make peace with Eve. Later, Eve "fired" Daniel, only to ask him out on a date. Clyde broke into Jordan's apartment. Sami and EJ had a major confrontation. Jennifer didn't get quite the reaction she was expecting from Eve. Hope took Aiden's breath away when she arrived at the gala. Theresa and Brady partied hard in Vegas. Marlena unveiled a hidden talent to save the gala. Abigail's worst nightmare came true. A livid JJ confronted Eve. Aiden and Hope shared a romantic dance. Wait to See: Theresa and John's verbal altercation ends in violence. Eric tries to talk Sami out of seeking revenge. Hope and Aiden explore a new chapter together.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Silas blamed himself for Rafe's downward spiral. Patrick was forced into a compromising work situation. Levi warned Nathan not to reveal any information about his visa. Now that they discovered that there was a new player in the mob, Anna and Jordan devised a plan. At the end of the day, the latest Port Charles tragedy weighed heavily on Julian's guilty conscience. Despite her declining health, Alice was determined to warn Michael about Tracy's schemes. Patrick and Silas were at odds over Rafe. Brad walked in on a close moment between Lucas and Felix. Maxie tried to sort out her conflicting feelings for Nathan. Sam questioned Patrick about the recent events that unfolded at the hospital. Wait to See: Maxie makes a shocking announcement. Spencer plots to bring Britt and Nikolas back together. Lucas turns to his dad for love advice.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Victoria wondered if she could ever trust Stitch again. Nick told Sharon about Mariah's ties to Ian. Chelsea admitted to Billy how she really felt about him. Nick decided not to interfere with Summer's relationship with Austin. Lily lashed out at Hilary. Ian filed a lawsuit against Nikki. Nick and Sharon discussed where they were headed as a couple. Stitch called Chelsea out on digging into his past. Jack struggled to make peace with Summer and Austin's dating. Nikki told Paul that if she had known he was Dylan's father, she never would have given him up for adoption. Devon realized that he must stay away from Hilary so as not to break his father's heart. Wait to See: Adam spies on Chelsea and Billy. Traci returns to Genoa City. Victor is determined to find out Sharon's secret.
