The Thin of It

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

Husband and wife trainer team Chris and Heidi Powell do more than help people lose weight. They transform lives on "Extreme Weight Loss," returning Tuesday at 8 p.m. on ABC. This isn't a competition show about who can lose weight the fastest. The program teaches people how to make life changes so that when the show's over, they have the tools they need to be successful. It's a process that takes more than a year.

"We have them in boot camp for three months where we teach them everything they need to know when they go back home," Heidi Powell says. "When we do send them back home, our journey with them has really just begun. We have another nine months in their home environment where we coach them from afar. We will pop in if we need to. But we want them to experience the ups and downs life has to offer as they are going through this journey. Our goal is for them to have the tools they need to be successful for the rest of their lives."

The boot camp happens in Aurora, Colorado, at the University of Colorado Anschutz Health and Wellness Center. The Powells use the workout facilities, as well as the medical technology and kitchens there, to treat the whole person. They try to help the participants lose up to half their body weight safely in those first few months.

The Powells promise viewers will be surprised by what they see this season. "We had more record breakers than ever before," says Chris Powell. "Two of our participants finished their weight loss journeys in just six months, which is unheard of. We've never had that before. We had a mind-blowing experience with one contestant – and I'm not even sure if I should say this, but I will – who finished in just three months. We've brought in a lot more of the educational aspects of the show so that viewers can see what's going on. Then he had nine months to focus on maintenance, which was something new for him. So, we talk about that."

This season the Powells will work with some couples. "We get to work with people who are like us, but they're struggling in a different way," says Heidi. "We get to share our advice about transforming their bodies, but we also give them marriage advice. We have one couple who was going into a blended family, which Chris and I can relate to. I have two kids from my previous marriage, and then Chris and I had two together. It was kind of awesome to help this couple through some of the day-to-day situations that we, too, had experienced."

One of the hardest parts of weight loss for anyone is to stay motivated. "We sit them down on day one and explain to them that diet and exercise will be covered in about two hours," says Heidi. "The rest of the time is spent covering the components that lead to true transformations. You can find anything that will help you lose weight. As long as you're eating less than you are burning every day, you'll lose weight. But you'll gain it back if you aren't doing what is necessary to transform your body. We have to make sure they are mentally and emotionally prepared for the journey ahead."

Individual or couple, there is a reason the Powells are finding such great success with their program. It comes down to one word. "It's about integrity," says Chris. "One of the first steps is that we start to dig down through the layers. We'll say, 'What is it that you really want?' And maybe that person says they've always wanted to be 150 pounds. Then we ask why? We have to keep asking why they truly want this. It almost always comes back to them wanting to be proud of themselves. They want confidence and to love themselves. They want to be loved.

"We surround them with that why. It is easy for people to begin a journey and then lose motivation. They come out of the gate sprinting and then fall down. Every couple of weeks we change out the visual cues around them. Then something starts to happen on the inside, and that's when we talk about integrity. We aren't just talking about keeping your word to other people. We're talking about keeping your word to yourself.

Trainers Chris and Heidi Powell take their job seriously when it comes to helping people on "Extreme Weight Loss," returning Tuesday at 8 p.m. on ABC.

It's about doing what you say you're going to do, when you say you're going to do it. When we start to honor our integrity above everything else, then we get it done. When you honor the promise of your diet and exercise, then it's going to get done. When people start to honor that integrity, we call them 'promise keepers.' That's when they start to get results."

THIS WEEK'S BEST BETS

FRIDAY

Hell's Kitchen

FOX, 7 p.m.

The remaining culinary contenders of season 14 pair off in the special "Taste It and Make It" challenge, during time which they will attempt to replicate one of Chef Gordon Ramsay's signature recipes – determined by their sense of taste alone.

The winning pair of contestants will then get to visit one of America's premiere ocean liners, The Queen Mary, which has been listed as one of the Historic Hotels of America by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, and is currently docked at Long Beach, California, in its retirement.

SATURDAY

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes

HBO, 6 p.m.

Ten years after human civilization is destroyed by a viral pandemic of Simian Flu, Caesar (enacted by Andy Serkis) leads a colony of his fellow apes with genetically enhanced intelligence, but before they can inherit the world they must contend with a band of humans who survived the plague. This 2014 sequel to 2011's "Rise of the Planet of the Apes" – and the eighth theatrical film of the overall franchise – also stars Jason Clarke, Gary Oldman, Keri Russell, Kodi Smit-McPhee, Kirk Acevedo, Judy Greer and Enrique Murciano.

SUNDAY

2015 Indianapolis 500

ABC, 11 a.m.

Ryan Hunter-Reay beat Helio Castroneves to the finish line by 0.060 seconds to win the race last year. The third "Indianapolis 500" victory for team owner Michael Andretti was the second-closest finish in the 98-year history of the race. The closest finish was in 1992, when Al Unser Jr. defeated Scott Goodyear by 0.043 seconds. Hunter-Reay became the first American since Sam Hornish Jr. in 2006 to take the checkered flag at the iconic race. Hunter-Reay led 56 laps in a race that featured 34 lead changes among 11 drivers, and he averaged 186.563 mph around the 2.5-mile oval.

MONDAY

2015 French Open

NBC, 11 a.m.

Novak Djokovic begins his quest to conquer the one Grand Slam title that has eluded him. Djokovic has won the Australian Open five times, Wimbledon twice and the U.S. Open once, but the top-ranked player in the world has not been able to win the most prestigious clay-court championship. Djokovic has reached the finals at Roland-Garros twice, but both times he lost to Rafael Nadal in 2012 and 2014. Nadal has won the "French Open" nine times in the last 10 years and been dubbed the "King of Clay." Nadal will be pursuing his 15th Grand Slam title this year and a sixth straight victory at the "French Open."

TUESDAY

Your Family or Mine

TBS, 9 p.m.

Kelli (Kat Foster) discovers that her old jean jacket has been taken by her sister Shawni (Collette Wolfe), who won't give it back. Meanwhile, Kelli's husband, Oliver (Kyle Howard), finds her other sister Dani (Stephanie Hunt) naked with his brother Blake (Andrew Lees), and has to get them of the house before anyone else finds out. And

Chris Hemsworth

Kelli's father, Gil (Ed Begley Jr.), gets some help from Shawni's boyfriend Enzo (Adrian Gonzalez) in crafting a letter to the "permit fascists" at the farmer's market. Based on the Israeli series "Sabri Maranan," the family comedy also stars Richard Dreyfuss, Angela Kinsey, Danny Comden, Cynthia Stevenson and JoBeth William.

WEDNESDAY

Rush

Cinemax, 9 p.m.

Directed by Ron Howard, the sports drama revs up the dramatized 1970s rivalry between two real-life Formula One racers: the brash, young British playboy James Hunt (Chris Hemsworth, left) and the calculating, tech-savvy Austrian Niki Lauda (Daniel Brühl). A turning point in their aggressive competition with one another comes during the German Grand Prix, when differing responses to less-than-ideal track conditions sets the course for tragedy.

THURSDAY

Bones

FOX, 7 p.m.

When the body of a well-known cookie jar collector is found in a riverbank, Brennan (Emily Deschanel) and the Jeffersonian team must submerge themselves into the victim's collector community to catch the murderer. Meanwhile, Booth (David Boreanaz) struggles to come to terms with Brennan's decision that he move out of their house due to his gambling addiction, and Special Agent Aubrey (John Boyd) has his eye on one of the "squinterns."

Brilliant Stars Burn Out

Candace Havens
FYI Television, Inc.

Grace Kelly and Marilyn Monroe had more in common than the fact their lives ended so young. The beautiful blondes found fame as actresses in Hollywood, had interesting love lives and married powerful men. They remain some of the most recognizable names in the industry and Hollywood is still making movies about them. There are two Lifetime productions about the actresses this week: "Grace of Monaco" debuts Monday at 8 p.m. and the miniseries "The Secret life of Marilyn Monroe" begins Saturday, May 30, at 7 p.m.

J. Randy Taraborrelli's novel by the same name is the source material for the Monroe biopic. The movie begins with Monroe (Kelli Garner) getting ready for an appointment with a new doctor (Jack Noseworthy) to help with her mental health issues. The doctor begins by delving into her painful past. Her mother, Gladys Morten-son (Susan Sarandon), was a paranoid schizophrenic, giving up Norma Jeane (Garner) when she was young. With her mother in and out of hospitals, Monroe's early days were tumultuous. What most people didn't know is that she inherited her mother's mental illness. The face she put on for the world came at a great personal cost.

"Marilyn struggled with addiction, looking to medicine to fill emotional wounds," says Dr. Colleen Pearson, who works at the Behavioral Institute in Coral Springs, Florida. "The men in her life would need to be selfless and strong to support her through the pain. There's an emotional volatility with addiction, as the person suffering feels emboldened by the drug and like an exposed nerve without it. If anyone in her life pushed her to get help before she was ready, she'd likely push him or her away. Addiction is a horrible disease; it convinces the person suffering that they are handling the drug fine. In fact, it's making them better. Then, a few hours or days without it and the withdrawal begins with internal voices first whispering then shouting, fears, anxieties, insecurities, pointing out wounds, picking at emotional scars, sending the addict back to their drug for relief."

While Monroe's demons came from her past, Grace Kelly (Nicole Kidman) had inner demons, as well, but in a different way. Her marriage was far from the fairy tale she thought it would be. "Grace of Monaco" begins six years after her wedding as Princess Grace is offered the role of a lifetime in the Alfred Hitchcock film "Marnie." At first her husband, Prince Rainier (Tim Roth), says for her to go for it, but political problems create tension for their marriage and the country. She must push her desires away in order to help her husband.

"Marilyn and Grace, both beautiful blond actresses with successful careers, had their legacies cemented because they died tragically," says Pearson. "If they'd passed away from natural causes, they would still have wonderful stories, but would have faded from the spotlight. The stories of their careers might be retold but not with the same sadness and grief associated with a 'gone too soon' label that adds emotional dimension, a sucker punch that makes an impact.

Nicole Kidman plays Hollywood star turned royal princess Grace Kelly in "Grace of Monaco," debuting Monday at 8 p.m. on Lifetime.

"We are fascinated by lives that seem more glamorous than our own," Pearson continues. If we can't live the fairy tale we wanted, at least we can see someone else do so and live vicariously through them. Marilyn's problems made her more human, more like folks we work with, are related to, or know from our past. Grace allowed us to watch a real live fairy tale through pictures and film. It's a fantasy we still see in movies, television shows and read in books today."

Memorial Day Movies

1. A great many fine films have been made to commemorate our valiant fighting forces who died in historic battles, such as this all-star 1962 depiction of the World War II events of D-Day.
2. Another WWII drama, this tale of the titular Pacific battle was one of the few films in which star John Wayne's character perished.
3. And who could recall the casualties of WWII without thinking of the reason we entered it, retold in this 2001 romantic drama.
4. Mel Gibson stars in this 2002 story of the first major battle in the American phase of the Vietnam War.

5. Oscar nominee Ridley Scott directed this 2001 action drama about a near-disastrous 1993 mission of Army Rangers in Somalia.
6. This Oscar-nominated drama of 2009 focuses on an Iraq War veteran's ill-advised romance while a member of the Casualty Notification Team.
7. And this 2004 historical drama finds a beloved frontiersman and his fellow volunteers bravely facing a far-superior force as they attempt to hold an old mission.

New York City has a rat problem. There must be three to four million rats running loose, but finally, Mayor de Blasio has declared war on rats. Here's what he's going to do. He's going to bring in more coyotes.

These are not regular rats. They're enormous, and they're brazen. They have to bait the rat traps with lasagna.

Jimmy Fallon

People are being really picky about the upcoming election. I read that Americans do not want the next president to be a first-term senator, be over 65 or have a former president in the family. Then the Secret Service said, "Hey, whoever slips through slips through. No promises."

A house panel in Texas has approved full marijuana legalization for the state. Yeah, meaning Texas could go from having dude ranches to "Dude, ranches."

Jimmy Kimmel

A zoo in Japan had to issue an apology today because of the name they gave a newborn monkey. They named her Charlotte after the new royal baby in England. The zoo was flooded with angry calls and emails. Can you imagine calling a zoo to complain about what they named a monkey?
