Late Laughs

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

We've been off for a week, right? And there's so much to talk about. But let's get right to the story that is gripping this nation and really all nations. On Saturday [Nov. 11], Travis Kelce was spotted with Taylor Swift in Argentina during the Chiefs' bye week. ... Trav-Trav was down there to see Tay-Tay's tour-tour.

The imminent demise of his campaign didn't stop [former Republican candidate Tim] Scott from reaching out to voters. He sent out an email giving them one last chance to donate — 13 minutes before he announced his departure. [Mimicking airplane announcement] "Attention, passengers. If you look out the window, you'll notice our engines are on fire, which means you have one last chance to purchase a $15 Mediterranean snack box."

According to the Washington Post, [Donald] Trump has long toyed with the language of fascists but is now echoing dictators like Hitler and Mussolini. Yes, some in the media are starting to suspect that the guy who sent a violent mob to murder his vice-president so he could stay in power might have a dark side.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Today [Nov. 13], President Biden hosted the Vegas Golden Knights at the White House to celebrate their Stanley Cup championship. Between Biden and the hockey players, no one had their original teeth.

Last night [Nov. 12], Republican Sen. Tim Scott dropped out of the race for president. Everyone responded by saying, "That's too bad" and "Who is that again?" But the announcement has really shaken up the race for fifth place.

Ahead of Thanksgiving, the TSA just announced that they are predicting the busiest holiday travel season ever. And this was a classy move; Southwest cut right to the chase and canceled all their flights.

I read that Pepsi is on track to surpass Coca-Cola as the biggest U.S. beverage company. Apparently, it's all thanks to Pepsi's strategy of releasing a new Mountain Dew flavor every hour.

Jimmy Kimmel Live!

At long last, the actor strike is finally now over. ... The Hallmark Channel immediately started shooting all 1,200 of its Christmas movies this morning [Nov. 9].

Donald Trump was not at the [third Republican] debate. I bet this drove him nuts, though. Out of all the topics they covered last night [Nov. 8], they ranked them. ... Donald Trump was all the way down at No. 17. He was the 17th most talked about subject, behind Venezuela. He only got 56 seconds of love, which according to Stormy Daniels is just about all he needs.

Travis Kelce flew all the way to Argentina to see Taylor Swift in concert. ... After the show, she comes off stage and he's there. She runs, jumped into his arms. And then, he ran her back 57 yards for a touchdown. It was incredible.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Biden on Thursday [Nov. 9] met with members of the United Auto Workers in Illinois and wore a red UAW T-shirt. Yes, the outfit of the common man, a T-shirt over a button-down. He looks like he ran out of clean laundry and had to wear everything inside out.

South Carolina Sen. Tim Scott announced that he has suspended his presidential campaign in a Fox News interview yesterday [Nov. 13] and said he thinks the voters are telling him, quote, "Not now, Tim." And I think he made the right call because half of them said, "Not now, Jim."

Former president Trump's pollster predicts that Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis and Nikki Haley will be in a dogfight for second place. And you can tell DeSantis and Haley are getting ready for a rumble because they both just took off their heels.

Still making music: Barry Manilow celebrates the holidays on NBC

By Jay Bobbin
TV Media

Barry Manilow in "Barry Manilow's A Very Barry Christmas"

While we may already be in the season for celebration, any occasion showcasing Barry Manilow is a holiday for his generations of fans.

A winner of a Grammy, two Primetime Emmys and a special Tony Award, the enduringly popular singer-songwriter has released seasonal albums over the course of his nearly 50 years as a star, and some of those tunes will factor in — along with many of his pop standards, from "Mandy" to "Copacabana" — when "Barry Manilow's A Very Barry Christmas," airsMonday, Dec. 11, on NBC. (The special also will stream on Peacock starting the next day.)

Taped at the International Showroom of the Westgate Las Vegas Resort & Casino (which was formerly the Las Vegas Hilton), where Manilow has broken Elvis Presley's record for doing the most shows at the venue during his 14-year association there, the hour will also include such seasonal favorites as "Jingle Bells" and "White Christmas." A 24-piece band backs Manilow during his Vegas performances, one of which was attended by network executives — setting the stage, both figuratively and literally, for the new special.

"A whole bunch of NBC people came to see the regular show I do at the Westgate, and they were interested in filming that," the genial Manilow explains. "During the conversation after the show, they said they were looking for Christmas stuff because they couldn't create anything until after the writers' strike, which was going on then. I said, 'I've got a Christmas show.' They said, 'You do?' And I said, 'Yeah. And it's all ready to go, if you want it.'

"We do it in various places every year," notes Manilow, "and I sent them a video of it, and they loved what they saw. They came to the Westgate with their cameras, we had a big audience, and off we went. The only problem was me, because I kept forgetting to do certain things, but they made the show even more beautiful than it was before. There were many more lights and more Christmas trees, and it was just gorgeous."

Manilow has a long-standing affinity for the holiday season. "I love my Christmas albums," he maintains of "Because It's Christmas," "A Christmas Gift of Love" and "In the Swing of Christmas." "I loved doing them. I don't listen to my albums, but now and again, if I'm going to listen to any of them, it's those. I love the arrangements and the orchestrations and the songs that I chose. I'm very proud of those Christmas albums."

Still, Manilow realizes that his fans also want his time-tested hits. That catalog encompasses such standards as "I Write the Songs," "Could It Be Magic," "Looks Like We Made It," "Tryin' to Get the Feeling," "Can't Smile Without You," "Weekend in New England," "This One's for You," "Even Now," "Daybreak" and "New York City Rhythm."

"I've figured out a way of putting together some of the hits and a lot of Christmas songs," Manilow says, "but it always still feels like a Christmas show even if I'm doing 'I Write the Songs' or 'Mandy.' I think the audiences would probably be disappointed if I didn't do the hits, and that's what we've done for NBC, too. We had to edit it down, because the live Christmas show goes about 90 minutes, and you can't do all of that on a one-hour TV show with commercials. We recorded everything, though, in the order that I always do it."

Las Vegas has been a factor in Manilow's career virtually from the beginning. "I started in Vegas when I was a kid," he recalls. "I opened for Helen Reddy, and the Vegas audiences were really great, very kind to me. And I thought, 'I think I'm going to wind up here eventually.' We went back periodically to do [shows at] the Desert Inn and then the Sahara, so when I was offered a Vegas residency, I jumped at it. That meant I could stop touring, but I didn't want to stop performing or lose my band and my crew, so it was a perfect thing to do."

2023 has been a bountiful year for Manilow, encompassing a sold-out concert run at New York's legendary Radio City Music Hall (where he'll return in April) and the opening of the second Broadway show he has composed the music for, "Harmony," with lyrics by his longtime collaborator Bruce Sussman. It's the true story of the Comedian Harmonists, six young German men whose success before World War II was impacted by global events.

"This has been the wildest year ever," Manilow reflects. "You couldn't get away from me! It started at Carnegie Hall, where the New York Pops honored me with a whole evening, accompanying singers doing my stuff. From there, I went to Radio City Music Hall and on tour, and it just kept going from there. Month after month, there was another event. And I like that. If these things hadn't happened, I would have invented something.

"I just like creating," Manilow concludes. "I'm not one of those guys to just sit around and watch television. Either I have an album to promote or a concert, and I like doing what I do. I really do."

Combining seasonal tunes with some of his pop standards, "Barry Manilow's A Very Barry Christmas" airs Monday, Dec. 11, on NBC, streaming the next day on Peacock.

Back in action: 'Reacher' returns to military life for Season 2

By Dana Simpson
TV Media

Diehard James Bond fans may argue that there is no one quite like MI-6 Agent 007, but those familiar with the espionage genre on a larger scale know there exist plenty of similar heroic figures — both in literature and on screen. One such fictional character has been regaining momentum, this time among TV fans, and the second season of his self-titled series, "Reacher," premieres Friday, Dec. 15, on Prime Video.

Similar to Bond's humble beginnings in the written works of late novelist Ian Flemming, the character of Jack Reacher (played in the Prime series by Alan Ritchson, "Fast & Furious X," 2023) was born from the imagination of another famous Brit: Lee Child.

Reacher, who first appeared in the 1997 thriller novel "Killing Floor," is described as "extremely tall" (six-foot-five, readers later learn), "extremely broad, long-armed and long-legged" — all of which is a clear advantage for Ritchson, who stands about six-foot-three and could definitely be considered "extremely broad."

And while Mission Impossible franchise star Tom Cruise did briefly take on the role (in 2012's "Jack Reacher" and its 2016 sequel "Jack Reacher: Never Go Back"), Jack Reacher fans seem to prefer a return to the canon established during a quarter-century of Child's work, which includes a total of 26 novels and 15 short stories to date.

Ritchson's first big test as Reacher came, of course, during the series' February 2022 release. Unsurprisingly, the actor fit snugly into the role of the hulking hero and he proceeded to kick serious butt during those first eight episodes.

While Season 1 of "Reacher" followed the character's journey as he battled corruption in the police force, the business world and politics following his own wrongful arrest for murder, Season 2 plans to focus more on Reacher's backstory, including a look at the connections he made during his time in the force and his allegiance to the concept of "duty."

According to the official plot synopsis for the new season, "'Reacher' Season 2 begins when veteran military police investigator Jack Reacher receives a coded message that the members of his U.S. Army Unit, the 110th MP Special Investigations, are being mysteriously and brutally murdered one by one. Pulled from his drifter lifestyle, Reacher reunites with three of his former teammates turned chosen family to investigate."

Among this "chosen family" unit is returning character Frances Neagley (Maria Sten, "Swamp Thing"), as well as forensic accountant Karla Dixon (Serinda Swan, "The Coroner") and "fast-talking, switchblade-wielding family man" David O'Donnell (Shaun Sipos, "Krypton") — both of whom are new to the series this season.

Also joining Ritchson and company for Season 2 are Ferdinand Kingsley ("The Sandman") as A.M., Robert Patrick ("Peacemaker") as Shane Langston, and guest stars Luke Bilyk ("Degrassi: The Next Generation"), Edsson Morales ("Nobody," 2021), Domenick Lombardozzi ("Tulsa King"), Dean McKenzie ("Shooter"), Shannon Kook ("The 100"), Al Sapienza ("The Sopranos"), Ty Olsson ("War for the Planet of the Apes," 2017), Josh Blacker ("Stargate Universe") and Andres Collantes ("The Night Agent").

Season 2 of "Reacher" takes a page out of its protagonist's book (nearly literally) and makes a bold choice. Skipping ahead 10 books from where the plot left off in Season 1, the new season is based on the 11th book in Child's Jack Reacher literary series, "Bad Luck and Trouble." While not normally a suggested move to gloss over 12 years of source material, both Amazon Studios executives and series creators are hopeful that fans will adore this plotline and are excited to release it this winter.

"Alan is back, and he is so fantastic in the role," Amazon's head of television Vernon Sanders said while in discussion with Collider reporter Steve Weintraub. "I'm so proud of the producers [for] finding that fit for 'Reacher.' The 'Reacher' fans of the book, their reaction to the show has just been a dream. Season 2 is awesome, and as great as Season 1 was, I think Season 2 delivers beyond that."

Sanders also added hope for fans looking to the future: "I do think there's a good chance that the show will be back next year."

Child, who served as executive producer on "Reacher's" debut season, returns to his behind-the-scenes duties for Season 2. Joining the author is "Scorpion" creator Nick Santora, who also writes for the series and serves as showrunner. Adams Higgs ("Orphan Black") and Scott Sullivan ("Scorpion") also executive produce, alongside Skydance Media founder and CEO David Ellison; president of Skydance Television Matt Thunell; Skydance's president of Feature Film Production Don Granger ("The Tomorrow War," 2021); and the entertainment company's chief creative officer Dana Goldberg.

Don't miss your chance to catch the first three episodes of "Reacher" Season 2 when they premiere simultaneously on Prime, Friday, Dec. 15. The remaining five episodes will be released each Friday on the streamer until the Jan. 19 finale.

'The Masked Singer' presents holiday sing-along

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

Masked merriment: Christmas with a … cow? Maybe. But only if they don't get voted out. "The Masked Singer" puts holiday cheer center stage, as a new edition of "The Masked Singer Holiday Special" debuts on a special night, Tuesday, Dec. 12, on Fox.

"Holiday splendor and masked merriment collide," the network promises. "In this beloved yuletide special featuring all-new jaw-dropping surprise performances from Season 10 contestants, spectacular sing-along fun from Masked Singer alumni and 'The Masked Singer' carolers: Nick Cannon ["Celebrity Prank Wars"], Jenny McCarthy-Wahlberg ["Two and a Half Men"], Ken Jeong ["Community"], Robin Thicke ["Paula," 2014] and Nicole Scherzinger ["Killer Love," 2011]. Celebrate the holidays with a look back at the best moments from the milestone 10th season, all leading into the can't-miss final two episodes!"

During the special, Season 10's remaining contestants (still masked) will perform a slate of holiday songs, with each act including some all-new animated clues that just might give away the singer's identity. Meanwhile, the already unmasked celebrities will join in on the holiday fun, together performing their favorite festive tunes.

While this year's upcoming performances are being kept under wraps, previous "Masked Singer" holiday events saw Crocodile (Backstreet Boys member Nick Carter, "Now or Never," 2002) singing "Silent Night," the Sun (LeAnn Rimes, "Blue," 1996) singing "Rockin' Around The Christmas Tree" and Mushroom (Aloe Blacc, "Good Things," 2010) performing "The Christmas Song." Even panelist Ken Jeong got in the spirit of the season, hopping on stage to energetically sing "The Little Drummer Boy" during 2020's sing-along event.

So far this season, "The Masked Singer" has revealed: Hibiscus as Luann de Lesseps ("Real Housewives of New York City"), Hawk as Tyler Posey ("Teen Wolf"), The Royal Hen as tennis player Billie Jean King, the Pickle as Michael Rapaport ("Atypical"), Tom Sandoval ("Vanderpump Rules") as Diver, Anthony Anderson ("Black-ish") as Rubber Ducky, Anonymouse as Demi Lovato ("Sonny with a Chance") and more, with the remaining contestants still to be revealed in the season's last two episodes — meaning this may just be the fans' last chance to guess who stands behind the remaining masks.

Sing along with your holiday favorites and try your best to guess who's who, as "The Masked Singer Holiday Sing-Along" returns Tuesday, Dec. 12, on Fox.

Hip-hop hooray: A night celebrating music, history and excellence in the industry, "A Grammy Salute to 50 Years of Hip-Hop" airs Sunday, Dec. 10, on CBS, simultaneously available to stream on Paramount+.

Presented by The Recording Academy, Jesse Collins Entertainment and CBS, this live concert special looks back on five decades of hip-hop history, saluting genre giants in an event that took place Wednesday, Nov. 8, at the YouTube Theater at Hollywood Park in Inglewood, California.

Nick Cannon from "The Masked Singer"

The two-hour tribute special will feature performances from legends of the genre and Grammy-winning artists, including: LL Cool J ("Bigger and Deffer," 1987), Queen Latifah ("All Hail the Queen," 1989), De La Soul ("De La Soul Is Dead," 1991), Jermaine Dupri ("Life in 1472," 1998), Black Thought ("Streams of Thought, Vol. 1," 2018), Common ("BE," 2005), Three 6 Mafia ("Mystic Stylez," 1995), 2 Chainz ("Based on a T.R.U. Story," 2012), GloRilla ("Anyways, Life's Great," 2022), Arrested Development ("Don't Fight Your Demons," 2020), Too $hort ("Blow the Whistle," 2006), Roxanne Shante ("Bad Sister," 1989), Black Sheep ("A Wolf in Sheep's Clothing," 1991) and Questlove ("Phrenology," 2002), among others.

According to Billboard magazine, "two of these acts made hip-hop history. In 1993, Arrested Development became the first hip-hop act to win the Grammy for best new artist. In 2006, Three 6 Mafia became the first hip-hop act to perform a nominated song on the Academy Awards telecast. 'It's Hard Out Here for a Pimp' [by Three 6 Mafia] went on to win the Oscar."

Ahmir "Questlove" Thompson of Two One Five Entertainment and LL Cool J will also serve as executive producers of the special. Questlove previously helped to produce the recent '50 Years of Hip-Hop' segment during the 65th annual Grammy Awards (which aired Feb. 5 of this year), during which he presented a 15-minute spot featuring three dozen rap acts. This "kicked off a year of hip-hop celebrations [highlighting] the importance and dominance of the genre," Billboard explains, as Aug. 11, 2023, marks the exact 50th anniversary of a back-to-school party held in The Bronx that many point to as the spark that ignited the hip-hop culture we know today.

An event "celebrating the profound history and monumental cultural impact that hip-hop has made around the world" (Grammy.com), "A Grammy Salute to 50 Years of Hip-Hop" airs Sunday, Dec. 10, on CBS, also available to stream on Paramount+.

"Chicken Run: Dawn of the Nugget" (2023)

Get ready to shake your tail feathers when "Chicken Run: Dawn of the Nugget," the sequel to the beloved and highest-grossing stop-motion animated film of all time, "Chicken Run" (2000), premieres Friday, Dec. 15. on Netflix. The film follows Ginger (Thandiwe Newton, "Westworld"), who, after pulling off a death-defying escape from Tweedy's farm, has found her dream on a peaceful island sanctuary, far from the dangers of the human world, with enough room for the whole flock. She's also hatched a little girl, Molly (Bella Ramsay, "The Last of Us"), with Rocky (Zachary Levi, "Chuck"), making her happy-ever-after finally seem complete. But, when news of a great and terrible threat to chicken-kind back on the mainland reaches them, Ginger and her team put their own newfound freedom at risk to break in and save the day. From Aardman Animations and director Sam Fell ("ParaNorman," 2012), "Dawn of the Nugget" features a screenplay by Rachel Tunnard ("Adult Life Skills," 2016) and the original "Chicken Run's" Karey Kirkpatrick and John O'Farrell. Jake Ryan, Jason Schwartzman and Tom Hanks in "Asteroid City"

The cast of "Night Court"

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

"Asteroid City" (2023)

The latest adventure from acclaimed director Wes Anderson ("The Royal Tenenbaums," 2001) looks to the stars, as this spacey, Southwestern, retrofuturistic romp features an A-list cast: Bryan Cranston ("Breaking Bad"), Edward Norton ("Fight Club," 1999), Jason Schwartzman ("Rushmore," 1998) and more star in "Asteroid City" (2023), available to stream on Prime Video as of Tuesday, Dec. 13. Paying homage to the American mythos of extraterrestrials and UFOs, this film – set in a Southwestern desert town during a stylized 1955, located in close proximity to atomic testing sites – tells the tale of a writer (Schwartzman) who travels to rural Asteroid City with his tech-obsessed family, all in order to compete in a junior stargazing event. The story is told through a play put on by the residents of Asteroid City, unraveling one man's odd experience in an odd town. Written by Anderson and Roman Coppola ("Moonrise Kingdom," 2012), the cast of "Asteroid City" also includes Jake Ryan ("Eighth Grade," 2018), Scarlett Johansson ("Lost in Translation," 2003), Grace Edwards ("Modern Love"), Maya Hawke ("Do Revenge," 2022"), Rupert Friend ("Hitman: Agent 47," 2015), Jeffrey Wright ("The Batman," 2022), Hope Davis ("Succession"), Steve Park ("Fargo," 1996) and Liev Schreiber ("Spotlight," 2015).

"Copshop" (2021)

Starring Gerard Butler ("300," 2006), Frank Grillo ("The Grey," 2011), Alex Louder ("Violent Night," 2022) and more, this action-thriller film – "Copshop" (2021) – will be available for Prime Video subscribers to stream, as of Sunday, Dec. 10. Directed by Joe Carnahan ("The A-Team," 2010), this flick follows as con artist Teddy Murretto (Grillo) heads on the run from a lethal assassin (Butler), soon devising a scheme to hide out in a small-town police station. His plan almost works – that is, until an unsuspecting rookie cop (Louder) arrives at the station and finds herself stuck in the crosshairs of a confrontation between a con and the man sent to end his life. Written by Kurt McLeod ("Laundry," 2010), Mark Williams ("Ozark") and Carnahan himself, 2021's "Copshop" also stars Toby Huss ("Halt and Catch Fire"), Chad L. Coleman ("The Wire"), Ryan O'Nan ("Fargo"), Jose Pablo Cantillo ("Crank," 2006), Kaiwi Lyman ("Den of Thieves," 2018), Robert Walker-Branchaud ("Hawkeye"), Tracey Bonner ("Sweet Magnolias"), Keith Jardine ("Inherent Vice," 2014), Marshall Cook ("Goliath"), Christopher Michael Holley ("Pride and Glory," 2008) and Marco Morales ("The Tax Collector," 2020).

"Night Court" – Complete Series

Judge Stone is in session: From creator Reinhold Weefe ("Barney Miller"), the complete, original series, "Night Court," will be available to binge on Prime Video, as of Friday, Dec. 15. This series, which aired on NBC for nine seasons (1984-1992), features 193 total episodes, a fan-favorite that – much later – was renewed for a revival, with the first season of the all-new "Night Court" premiering in January of this year. Less than a month later, the series proved to have the original "Night Court's" staying power, with a second season announced, set to premiere later in the year (December 23, 2023, on NBC). This original iteration stars Harry Anderson ("It," 1990) as Judge Harry T. Stone, a young, unorthodox judge who presides over the night shift of a Manhattan Criminal Court. Eccentric and fun-loving, Judge Stone is joined by a cast including John Larroquette ("The Librarians") as Dan Fielding, Richard Moll ("House," 1985) as Nostradamus "Bull" Shannon, Charles Robinson ("Love & War") as Mac Robinson, Markie Post ("There's Something About Mary," 1998) as Christine Sullivan, Marsha Warfield ("9-1-1") as Rosalind "Roz" Russell, Joleen Lutz ("Easy Wheels," 1989) as Lisette Hocheiser, Mike Finneran ("The Rocketeer," 1991) as Art Fensterman, Selma Diamond ("All of Me," 1984) as Bailiff Selma Hacker and William Utay ("Days of Our Lives") as Phil Sanders.

The Creator

In the aftermath of a devastating war with artificial intelligence (AI), U.S. Army Sgt. Joshua Taylor (Washington) is tasked with capturing a mysterious weapon capable of restoring humanity's future. Ordered by Gen. Andrews (Ineson) and Col. Howell (Janney) to go behind enemy lines to the AI sympathetic territory of New Asia, Taylor discovers the supposed superweapon to be a robotic stimulant in the form of a young child (Yuna Voyles). The final remnant of the work built by AI creator Nirmata (Chan), Taylor rejects the orders of his superior officers and flees with the child, dubbed "Alphie."

Dumb Money

Noticing the falling stock price of video game retailer Gamestop, Keith Gill (Dano) goes all-in on the unconventional investment, aware of the hedge funds awaiting to exploit the company's perilous financial state. Catching the online attention of various amateur day traders, including struggling nurse Jenny (Ferrera), Gamestop employee Marcos (Ramos) and Keith's own disinterested brother, Kevin (Davidson), the overwhelming support upends the stock's value, reshaping the plans of big business.

Director: Craig Gillespie. Stars: Paul Dano, Pete Davidson, Vincent D'Onofrio, America Ferrera, Nick Offerman, Seth Rogen, Anthony Ramos, Shailene Woodley, Sebastian Stan. 2023. 104 mins. Drama/Comedy.

Tilly Ramsay joins 'MasterChef' dad to judge junior holiday competition

By Caroline Collacutt
TV Media

You have to whisk it to risk it — and maybe add a little nutmeg for a taste of holiday cheer. Celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay welcomes both his family and yours to spend some time in the kitchen this holiday season, as the all-new "MasterChef Junior: Home for the Holidays" airs a two-part special, taking place Sunday and Monday, Dec. 10 and 11, on Fox.

"Gordon Ramsay welcomes nine young culinary contestants to cook up seasonal delights themed to Christmas, Hanukkah, Kwanzaa, Lunar New Year and more," a recent news release from the network shared, continuing: "Judges Gordon Ramsay, his daughter Tilly Ramsay, Aarón Sánchez and Daphne Oz will crown a winner, who takes home the ultimate holiday gift: a $25,000 grand prize, a Viking Kitchen package and a one-of-a-kind 'MasterChef' snow globe trophy." In fact, each junior chef who competes will leave with a kitchen-related prize, including a second Viking Kitchen package for the runner-up.

Like its predecessor, "MasterChef Junior," this iteration will also feature young aspiring cooks — children aged eight to 13 — with each episode putting the heat on these talented junior chefs with a series of challenges. They'll compete in skills-based tests, boxes of mystery ingredients, team challenges and elimination rounds, including the "Pressure Test," in which losing team members must compete against each other to make an impressive dish within a limited time frame.

Gordon Ramsay, Tilly Ramsay, Daphne Oz and Aarón Sánchez from "MasterChef Junior: Home for the Holidays"

Once the competition is reduced to its strongest chefs, the remaining few must face off in a three-course cook-off, with all courses equally weighed by judges to determine an overall winner.

It's a big feat to face one Ramsay for chefs of all ages — let alone two. A world-renowned chef himself, Gordon Ramsay's daughter, Tilly, was previously a contestant on "Celebrity MasterChef Australia," proving that talent in the kitchen might just be genetic. The second-generation Ramsay is also set to join the cast as a judge of "MasterChef Junior's" upcoming ninth season, acting as a reminder of what young chefs can accomplish once they really get cooking.

Bubbling over with family fun and holiday cheer, this seasonal special is sure to give fans a taste of what's to come in "MasterChef Junior" Season 9. "MasterChef Junior: Home for the Holidays" airs as a two-night event, Dec. 10 and 11, on Fox.

"Science Fair: The Series" - Season 1

Inspired by the award-winning documentary "Science Fair," by Cristina Costantini and Darren Foster and directed by the pair once again, the new National Geographic docuseries "Science Fair: The Series," premieres Monday, Dec. 11, on Hulu. As industrious young students set out to solve some of the world's most pressing issues, they strive to take their work all the way to the top, competing for a coveted spot at the International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF), the most competitive science fair on the planet. Following along with the bright young minds competing at the fair "in their relentless pursuit of excellence as they tackle contemporary topics in various areas of science — teen suicide prevention, wound care monitoring systems, high-efficiency alternatives to induction motors and more" (per Hulu), the series also takes a deeper look at their families and teachers as they support them along the way.

"Dragons: The Nine Realms" - Season 8

The riders are back and ready to take to the skies once more when Season 8 of "Dragons: The Nine Realms" streams Thursday, Dec. 14, on Hulu. Set 1,300 years after the events of DreamWorks' hit family film "How to Train Your Dragon" (2010), this computer-animated spinoff series takes place in the modern world, where dragons are nothing more than a myth. But when a geological anomaly opens up a fissure in the earth and draws in scientists from around the world in the series' first season, a group of misfit kids brought to the site by their parents uncover the secret of dragons and learn where they've simply been in hiding all these years. With the dragons rediscovered, it's up to the newest generation of Dragon Riders to keep their secrets safe as they explore, discover new realms and bond with the massive creatures. This season, Tom (Jeremy Shada, "Adventure Time") and the Dragon Riders must protect the realms now that the dangerous World Serpent Jörmungandr is on the loose. But Sledkin (Carrie Keranen, "Miraculous: Tales of Ladybug & Cat Noir") throws a wrench into their plans when she steals Plowhorn from the riders, hoping to further her search for the Gods Realm and the Dragonsite gem. Faced with what feels like an impossible challenge, the Riders must build an army of dragons to fend off Jörmungandr and save the Hidden World. From creator Henry Gilroy ("Star Wars: Rebels"), "The Nine Realms" also voice stars Ashley Liao ("Fuller House"), Aimee Garcia ("Dexter"), Marcus Scribner ("Black-ish"), Vincent Tong ("Ninjago"), Julia Stiles ("The Lake") and Keston John ("In the Dark").

"Blue Jean" (2022)

The directorial debut for writer and director Georgia Oakley ("Little Bird," 2017), 2022's "Blue Jean" will be available to stream on Hulu as of Thursday, Dec. 14. Following the story of a closeted, queer teacher living in England during the late 1980s, "Blue Jean" stars Rosy McEwen ("The Alienist," 2018) as Jean Newman, a secondary school teacher who finds herself pushed to the brink when a new student (also an active member of Jean's netball team) learns of – and soon threatens to expose – Jean's sexuality, putting not only her job, but also her personal relationships at risk. "Blue Jean" also stars Kerrie Hayes ("Nowhere Boy," 2009), Lydia Page ("The Larkins") and Becky Lindsay ("Burnt Toast and Cigarettes," 2022).

"Swamp People" – Season 14

Gator season is back on, as Season 14 of "Swamp People" will be available to stream on Hulu as of Thursday, Dec. 14. Featuring fan favorites like Bruce Mitchell, William "Willie" Edwards, the Landrys, the Edgars and more, an all-new season of this reality series follows the day-to-day activities of hunters living in the swamps of Louisiana as they tackle their busiest time of year: Alligator season. With only 30 days in a season, this brave bunch make their yearly income managing a seemingly impossible task, depending on years of experience and the will of the weather as they try and capture their quota of gators – hopefully enough to last them to next year.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I just realized that the girl who played Miss Rhode Island in "Miss Congeniality" is in, like, every other romantic comedy from the time. But I haven't seen her much since the '90s — what's she been doing?

A: Heather Burns did, indeed, have a great run as the rom-com best friend in the '90s and early aughts. And while her career hasn't quite hit those heights since, it's been steadily busy.

The biggest recent project on her resume is probably the Oscar-winning 2016 drama "Manchester by the Sea." She had a small but significant role as Jill, who is set up on a date with the film's protagonist (played by Casey Affleck, "A Ghost Story," 2017). But, Burns told the Los Angeles Times when the film was released that her real role was providing "a bit of comic relief at a point of the film where you really needed that."

She's also dabbled a little in television, including a lead role in the short-lived sitcom "Save Me" in 2013, and a recurring role as a hacker in another NBC series, "Blindspot," from 2017 to 2020.

Besides those roles, it's been a bunch of other supporting gigs in big-screen rom-coms — such as "What's Your Number" (2011) and "Breaking Upwards" (2009). But none were as big as the ones she made her name with around the turn of the millennium.

That run started with 1998's "You've Got Mail," in which she played an employee and friend of the bookstore-owning protagonist (played by Meg Ryan, "When Harry Met Sally," 1989).

Two years later, in 2000, she was Miss Rhode Island in "Miss Congeniality," a role she reprised in the 2005 sequel.

In between those, it was 2002's "Two Weeks Notice," which reunited her with her "Miss Congeniality" co-star, Sandra Bullock.

Q: Why did Graham Elliot leave "MasterChef"? And what's he doing now?

A: It looks as if, for once, we have a pretty clear answer to the why-did-they-leave question.

Graham Elliot left "MasterChef," the Fox cooking show starring celebrity chef Gordon Ramsay, in 2016, trading upwards to another, arguably even bigger, cooking show. And, in fact, he says so pretty openly on his own website.

"After 10 seasons working side-by-side with Gordon Ramsay, Elliot departed to become a judge in Bravo's 'Top Chef,'" says his bio on GrahamElliot.com.

He did, indeed, immediately join the cast of "Top Chef" a few months after leaving "MasterChef," where he stayed for two seasons before leaving in 2018.

After that, he was just doing occasional guest appearances on other shows until he popped up in another full-time cooking show gig, as a judge in PBS's "The Great American Recipe," which he's been doing since 2022. But, that's not really a full-time job — the show airs just eight episodes per season.

And so, it seems that he's turned his attention away from TV and back to what made him famous in the first place — restaurants. He runs a couple of spots in Fort Worth, Texas: F1 Smokehouse and French restaurant Le Margot.

He also still serves as culinary director of the Lollapalooza festival, which he's been doing every year since 2009.

Q: We watch "Eight Crazy Nights" every year — it's a holiday favorite in our house. But we can't figure out who is the voice of the narrator. Can you help?

A: If you cycled through the list of frequent Adam Sandler collaborators, you would have gotten there. The narrator of "Eight Crazy Nights" is Rob Schneider ("Deuce Bigalow: Male Gigolo," 1999).

Schneider and Sandler, of course, came up together on "Saturday Night Live" in the early '90s — two of the most beloved stars from one of the show's most beloved periods.

But that was just the beginning of their partnership.

Sandler has, of course, had an incredibly prolific film career. He's written, produced and starred in dozens of feature-length comedy films, all dealing in one way or another with a man-child getting himself into trouble and then learning a lesson as he gets himself back out. And Schneider has appeared prominently in most of those.

This includes, as you say, "Eight Crazy Nights" (2002), Sandler's attempt to make a Hanukkah movie in the vein of the popular animated Christmas movies he grew up on as a kid.

Others include 1998's "The Waterboy" (Schneider's character was unmemorably named "Townie" but is remembered for his "You can do it!" line) and then 1999's "Big Daddy" — still two of the more successful movies in Sandler's oeuvre.

They've appeared in almost 20 films together and counting (their most recent collaboration, the animated comedy "Leo," came out just a few weeks ago, so they show no signs of stopping).
