Star Exposes Roster of Klux Force Peddling Memberships

District Sales Managers in Charge of Domains Known as Grand Goblins, While Each State Is a Realm, Under a Kleagle—Exultant Imperial Kleagle Rejoices at Canvassers' Busy Days; Arizona Is Represented.

SAYS "MAGNIFICENT OFFICE FORCES" MONTHS BEHIND LISTS OF APPLICANTS

All Under Pledge of Personal Fealty to "Emperor" Simmons and Bond to Turn in "Imperial" Share of Takings—Northeast Headquarters in New York, With Solicitors for New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

WHAT IS THE KU KLUX KLAN?

How has it grown from a nucleus of thirty-four charter members to a membership of more than 500,000 within five years?

How have its "domains" and "realms" and "Klans" been extended until they embrace every State in the Union but Montana, Utah and New Hampshire?

What are the possibilities of an order that preaches racial and religious hatred of the Jew and the Roman Catholic, of the negro and the foreign-born citizen?

What are the possibilities of a secret organization that practises censorship of private conduct behind the midnight anonymity of mask and robe and with the weapons of whips and tar and feathers?

What ought to be done about an order whose members are not initiated but "naturalized," whose oaths bind them to obedience to an "Emperor" chosen for life?

What ought to be done about an organization with such objects when the salesmen of memberships in it work first among officers of the courts and police departments, following then with the officers on the reserve lists of the military and naval forces?

At the end of months of inquiry throughout the United States and in the performance of what it sincerely believes to be a public service, The Star this morning continues the publication of a series of articles in which answers to these questions will be offered, set out against the vivid background of as extraordinary a movement as is to be found in recent history.

ARTICLE IV.

The Ku Klux Klan which has for its principal object the establishment of a secret and insidious government within the government of the United States, which has for its aim the perpetuation of race prejudice and religious persecution, which is founded on the tenet that all men are created unequal, has had an amazing growth throughout the country during the last five years and particularly during the last 12 months simply because it has been industriously pushed in all parts of the country by a corps of skilful salesmen, provided with a line of selling talk designed to appeal to the ignorant, the cruel, the cowardly and the vengeful. This sales force differs from the selling organizations maintained by legitimate business organizations in only one particular.

The one point of difference is solely one of labels. The Klan is nothing if not original in matters of nomenclature, and the wizardry of its imperial dictator constantly shines in the bestowal of fresh names on otherwise old objects.

Kleagles Peddle Membership; Grand Goblin District Boss

In the shining vocabulary of "Col." Simmons there is no such thing as a salesman. The house-to-house membership peddlers who induce prospects to sign on the dotted line and part with the $10 "donation" consigned "to the propagating fund of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc.," rejoice in the title of Kleagles. The state sales manager to whom they report is a King Kleagle, who in turn works under the supervision of a higher sales functionary known as a Grand Goblin how is nothing more or less than a district sales manager.

In the same way, in the apportionment of sales territory, a single state loses its constitutional entity and becomes a "realm" of the "Invisible Empire," while a sales district comprised of several states is known as a "domain."

The general sales manager of the Ku Klux Klan is Edward Young Clarke, who works from the offices of the Southern Publicity association in the Flatiron building, Atlanta, and whose Klan title is Imperial Kleagle.

In a report made to "Emperor" Simmons on July 2 last, Imperial Kleagle Clarke, who still spells his own name with a "C" instead of a "K," wrote:

"In the past three or four months we have added to our membership a little more than 48,000 members. In all my years of experience in organization work I have never seen anything to equal the clamor throughout the Nation for the Klan. The headquarters of the domain chiefs are located in New York, Washington, Indianapolis, Denver, Dallas, Houston and Los Angeles. In all these cities our investigators are working eighteen hours a day, and in most instances are three and four months behind their lists of applicants.

"Completely Camouflaged."

"Although we are located in all the cities named," the Imperial Kleagle added, "with magnificent office forces on the job, 'the enemy' has yet to locate us, even though they have made diligent search. We are completely camouflaged in each of these places and it will be almost a miracle if we are located (i. e., discovered) in any city where headquarters have been established."

The almost-miracle has come to pass, despite the Imperial Kleagle's prediction. In fact, on the very date when he was making the above statement to his Emperor there was in the office of The Star, among a mass of other documents bearing on the character and progress of the Ku Klux Movement, Inc., an official roster of the employes and officers of th propagation department of the K. K. K., as prepared for circulation from the Imperial Kleagle's office among the sales force, under date of June 15.

The roster shows that the propagation (sales) department of the Klan had 214 employes working on commission in the Nation-wide field, which for administrative purposes had been divided into eight sales districts or domains. The names and addresses of these workers, as given in the list, were as follows:

CLUBWOMEN TO MAKE STUDY OF WORLD AFFAIRS

Committee Arranges for Discussion of Day's Problems at Tucson Club Meeting

THE current events section of the Tucson Woman's club will hold its first study class this afternoon in the small room in the clubhouse on Alameda street at 2:30 o'clock.

Miss Mary Perry will be in charge of the meeting and the study hour promises to be very interesting. Other meetings will follow during the season on every first and third Thursday of the month. The aim of this section is to keep pace with all the important questions of the day.

The committee on this program for the current events section is composed of Mrs. Richard Sprague, Mrs. William Musser, Miss Mary Perry and Mrs. Arthur Ishell.

ROUND TABLE MEETS

THE Campus Round Table held its usual dinner last evening in Maricopa hall at 6 o'clock. Dean Frank C. Lockwood spoke to the assembly. The Round Table has been established for the purpose of discussing the problems of the campus heads and includes the deans an dthe house matrons of the sorority homes.

Women Athletes of America Will Meet Crack English Team on Hockey Field

Left, Miss K. E. Lidderdale, star of the English women's hockey team, in action, and Mrs. M. S. Clay, goal tender, blocking the ball.

New York, Nov. 2.—"You jolly well know we can ply the bloomin' gayhute," says Miss K. E. Lidderdale, speediest star of the stick with the English field hockey players who have just arrived in America to ply the hair ribbons off'n our lassies.

And nobody's disputing her word. Huh, uh—not for a minute. We remember too well how our own maidens sauntered over the foam last summer and got their trimmin's at 'ockey on the island. That's wot.

But they are a sturdy crew, these English girls, and are the pick of the best players and clubs in all of England. They all possess that masculine type of slashing athletics so familiar to the British woman. They have the prowess that would bespeak any of America's average male athletes—endurance, so-get'm and accuracy.

There are 13 of them in number. The team of 11 members, an official amp from the English Hockey club, and the team captain, Miss C. J. Gaskell.

Strange to say, Miss Gaskell never gets into the game—that is into play—because it isn't the custom of the Isles. She imitates John McGraw and directs the movement of the ball from the pine boards on the side lines. She She led the team that went to Australia and came back with all the honors that were possible in this particular branch of sport.

Should the Britishers win the majority of their games here they will be entitled to the title of world champions, in view of the fact they have mastered all possible opponents of the British empire.

Children's Home Has Five Babies to Be Adopted

Youngsters Arrive at Age for Entering Life in Families of Foster Parents

FIVE BOYS AND GIRLS of the Arizona Children's home want homes, someone to love them and a chance to show their mettle when it comes to making a place in the world. They are all bright, willing and lovable youngsters and each is hoping that someone will come to the home shortly to find a boy or girl to fill a place in a real home.

The little, dark-eyed Hindoo baby who came to the home last summer when he had not as yet learned to walk is now pattering all over the premises and the delight of his life is to introduce all new visitors to the home to the boys and girls.

With his big eyes shining, "little Buddha" takes the visitor by the hand and chattering in his own beloved tongue, presents each boy and girl in proper manner to the visitors. He is the life of the party on every occasion, and those who know his wonderful smile love him dearly.

Masons of the city entertained the youngsters at the Sells-Floto circus. They all agreed that it was a red-letter day in their lives and returned to the home, tired but happy, Tuesday evening.

Bible Institute Head Will Lecture in Tucson

Today's Horoscope

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 3

Anxious conditions are due to prevail on this day, judging from the adverse angles of some of the important planets. The chief menace lies in the tendency to irritability, impetuosity and misjudgment. With this proclivity undercontrol there is good prospect of pulling through safely, as the sinister forces are in rather negative operation. Those in the employment of others should be amiable and guard the truth. The impulse to fly to law for redress for grievances should be checked, as there are indications that such measures may end disastrously.

Those whose birthday it is have the forecast of a year of possible perplexity in business unless they keep firm control on their temper and refrain from rash and reckless maneuvers, especially shunning litigation. A child born on this day may be very quick of tongue and temper, with the tendency to disregard the truth in order to gain a point unless well-trained in early life.

Many Enlist in Gym Classes for Girls of Tucson

Business Women to Be Given Chances for Exercise in Y. W. C. A. Courses

WORK in the Tucson Young Woman's association, under the direction of the recently arrived secretaries, Miss Amy Gordon and Miss Helen Brier, is arousing much interest. There is scarcely an evening or an hour of the day when there are not some activities going on in the Pennington street home.

On Tuesday evening of this week the Tuc-Hi girls met in a lovely candle lighting service at 7 o'clock, and all members of this department were present to light the various candles representing their membership in the work of the Tuc-Hi club.

This branch of the "Y" has planned an active program for the season and will "carry on" with the spirit of their purpose in mind, that of the inscription on their programs for the year, "To face life squarely."

"The strength of our Girl Reserve corps means the future strength of the association," says Miss Amy Gordon. "These youthful members of the corps will, in the future, rule the ideals and work of the Young Woman's Christian association wherever they are, in Tucson or elsewhere."

Fill Gymnasium Classes.

The gymnasium classes promise to be well attended this season. The classes for the year have been signed for in large numbers. The first meetings will be held this evening at the "gym" of the "Y. W."

An early class for the girls will be held from 5 to 6 in the evening, starting their work tonight at 6 o'clock. Business women will find a class formed to meet at 6:15 until 7 o'clock for their convenience after their office hours are over.

For the first time in the season, the Berean Bible class will meet following the supper tonight. Those who desire to attend the supper must notify Miss Amy Gordon before noon today. Those who do not care to remain for the Berean class are at liberty to attend the supper.

In the future the Bereans will meet every Thursday evening at the home. Miss Gordon has arranged a splendid course of study. Those desiring to join may communicate with Miss Gordon telephone No. 170, or by calling at the home on Pennington street.

ENGINEERS ENTERTAIN

THE electrical engineers of the University of Arizona gave a pleasant entertainment in the form of a smoker last night in the Mines building. There was a short program of talks and a concert by "wireless" included in the evening's entertainment.

GIRL STUDENTS PLAN BALL TO AID BENEFIT TREASURY

Costume Dance to Provide for Expenses of Needy Undergraduate to Be Given

ONE of the events of the university season will be the benefit masque promenade which the co-eds will give for the student loan fund. The affair will be given Saturday evening, November 5, in the gymnasium on the campus.

During the year it has been the aim of the co-eds to assist some girl who is making her way through college by paying for her course, and it is to swell the fund for this year to the amount of $100 that the young women of the university are staging the event.

A fee of 25 cents will be charged for admission and the guests are asked to come in costume and masques. Ice cream cones will be for sale that the kiddies may have refreshments, a department which Miss Nina Sannin will have in charge.

Miss Catherine Tait will have charge of the program and Tommy Brandt has donated his orchestra for the dancing. All women and children are invited to attend and assist in providing the loan for the girl student of this year.

Yeomen of Tucson Are Guests at Party at Old Fort

The Yeomen of Tucson have begun their season with much entertainment. Their regular meeting this evening at the I. O. O. F. hall on South Sixth avenue will be arranged ith thwe business of the lodge, followed by a social hour.

Saturday evening the Yeomen and their friends were the guests at a delightfully arranged party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Martin, of Fort Lowell.

The decorations of the new Martin home were in Hallowe'en colors and the evening was spent in games and dancing. A large number of Yeomen with their friends attended the party.

Today's Fashions

One of the most delightful fashions at the present time is revealed in this model. It shows the dress fashioned from black crepe Marocain with sleeves of jade green crepe. The gown is modeled on the plainest lines for the crepe is simply draped about the figure and drawn toward the back, where it is slightly raised.

Its exceeding tightness contrasts vividly with the wide sleeves. These also reveal another interesting style touch, for they are dropped downwards on the arm so that the top of the shoulder is apparent. Other interesting color combinations would look equally well should you desire to copy this dress.

THE Business and Professional Woman's club will not hold its usual luncheon today. The president, Miss May Johnson, has asked the members to watch the newspapers for the announcement of the next luncheon, which will be held on Thursday, November 10.

U. of A. Museum Receives Many Rare Exhibits

Dried Head of War Chief From South America Specimen of Gruesome Craft

FEW PEOPLE in the Old Pueblo realize the interest attached to exhibits in the Museum of Art and Archaeology at the University of Arizona, which is rich in Oriental lore, Indian curios, pottery of the type of which Omar, poet and tentmaker, sings, and mythical paintings done by Indian chiefs long since dead.

Owing to the fact that the museum has been undergoing a re-arrangement of its exhibits, attention has not been drawn to its collection, second to none in the United States. Within the next week, however, it will be ready for visitors and its collections catalogued.

Among the fascinating, yet somewhat gruesome trophies of a former age of savages is the dry, shrunken head of a young and once handsome chief of the Jivaro, a tribe of Indians of Ecuador, South America, displayed in one of the Indians collections at the museum and loaned by Miss Lois Hartman.

One gazes fascinated at this head, for the face still retains the rather comely contour, the hair is black, shining and life-like in its texture, and the mustache which in the chief's days of human loves and emotions was probably his pride, still adorns the upper lip.

What tales of desire, disappointment and torture might those lips tell, if they could speak! The work of the Jivaro in shrinking the head has been perfect, for while the head is not much larger than one's fist, its features are distinctly individual in every outline. No doubt the chief's friends would recognize him at once!

The manner of procedure in preparing a head for shrinking is told in the October number of the National Graphic Magazine, in an article by H. E. Anthony.

The victim's head is prepared as a lasting war trophy, Mr. Anthony has said. It is cut off and later, in the seclusion of his hut, the victor prepares it, attaching to it the significance which the North American Indian attached to scalps. The skin is opened from the base of the neck to the crown and the skull is removed entire, leaving only the soft plant skin. Later it is dipped in a vegetable extract which dyes it a blue-black and probably has some action as a preservative, and then the skin is sewed up to restore the head to its original form.

"The cavity is filled with hot sand or pebbles," writes Mr. Anthony, "after which the head is constantly turned and moved so that the drying goes on uniformly. Sometimes the process goes on for several days, until the head is completely cured."

The museum has received some very new and notable collections lately, among them priceless pewterware, pottery, Chinese teak furniture and some rare armor.

Miss Cummings, sister of Dean Byron Cummings, who is now studying in Mexico with Mrs. Cummings, is in charge of the museum.
