Watercraft Center charts new course in traditional boat building

FROM THE N.C. MARITIME MUSEUM

There's a long tradition of craftsmanship in custom boat building in North Carolina. One doesn't have to look further than Front Street in Beaufort to see where that tradition continues.

The Harvey W. Smith Watercraft Center serves as an important economic force at the N.C. Maritime Museum by showcasing the art and skill of traditional boat building. The museum's Watercraft Center sits on Taylor's Creek, across from the museum.

The Harvey W. Watercraft Center carries on the rich boatbuilding heritage of the North Carolina coast through wooden boat building courses. These courses bring together participants of all ages from different parts of the country with "a common thread of creativity."

The Watercraft Center at the N.C. Maritime Museum has three primary missions.

- Preservation and Restoration: Preserving significant examples of the state's watercraft is a key element in fulfilling the Museum's mission.
- Boat building Demonstrations:

The Watercraft Center preserves and transmits the heritage of wooden boat building by publicly demonstrating the construction of new boats using traditional techniques.

- Education: A key Watercraft Center mission is actively teaching wooden boat building to new generations.

To meet the mission of the N.C. Maritime Museum, the Watercraft Center offers a number of boat building courses including the Introduction to Wooden Boat Building and the popular Build a-Boat-in-a Day where participants can build a boat in a day with a team of friends or family members.

The fall schedule includes some new boat building courses never offered before. These include "Build Your Own Skin-on-Frame Boat" and "Build Your Own Stand-up Paddle Board (SUP). These courses are available for all skill levels.

The courses have been developed by the new personnel overseeing the Harvey W. Smith Watercraft Center along with Paul E. Fontenoy, curator of Maritime Research and Technology for the museum.

Grant Caraway, of Swansboro, is the new manager for the Watercraft Center. He graduated from Swansboro High School in 2001, attended East Carolina University and graduated in 2005 with a Bachelor of Science in management of recreation.

Previously, Mr. Caraway worked with the National Park Service, the Rachael Carson

• 4 Eating healthfully: easier than you think this week

8/13/15 - 8/19/15

Did you know that according to the NPD Group National Eating Trends database, the average American achieves the recommended dietary guidelines for Americans just seven out of 365 days? Despite what most people think, preparing delicious, well-balanced meals is attainable and doesn't have to cost a small fortune. There are many ways to achieve balanced nutrition throughout the day, even when you're not cooking for a family of four or spending hours in the kitchen.

One solution comes in the form of a tool created by Nestlé called Balance Your Plate. The program provides creative meal plans to encourage more healthful eating through the use of frozen entrees. These culinary-inspired, nutritionist-approved meals are convenient, affordable and aimed to help consumers meet dietary guidelines.

To generate new balanced meal ideas, Nestlé challenged more than 100 culinary and nutrition professionals to develop recipes that incorporate frozen entrees while keeping taste, health and convenience at the forefront.

Winners include these first place Spinach Artichoke Mini Layered Ravioli Cups (incorporating Lean Cuisine Ravioli), which mimics a delicious multi-layered lasagna in a fraction of the time. Another entry earning top recognition is this Pizzanella Salad, which presents a fresh way to enjoy cheese pizza.

Find more recipes and tips for building healthy meals with frozen foods at www.nestleusa.com/balance.

Spinach artichoke mini layered ravioli cups

Prep time: 10-12 minutes

Cooking time: 17-19 minutes

Serving size: 2 (2-cup) servings

2 packages Lean Cuisine Spinach Artichoke Ravioli

1 medium zucchini

1/3 cup marinara sauce, plus 1/4 cup for topping

1/4 cup low fat cottage cheese

1 large egg

Dash of black pepper, dried basil and dried oregano (optional)

Cooking spray

1/4 cup shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

Flat-leaf Italian parsley leaves for garnish (optional)

Heat oven to 375°F and prepare ravioli according to package directions. As ravioli cooks, slice zucchini lengthwise in 1/4 inch strips, then into squares that fit in muffin cup; set aside.

In medium bowl, whisk together marinara sauce, cottage cheese, egg and seasonings. Coat muffin tin with cooking spray and begin layering cups with 1 tablespoon marinara mixture, 1 ravioli, 1 tablespoon of the spinach artichoke sauce and veggies from ravioli package, zucchini squares and mozzarella cheese until muffin cup is full. Top off with 1 tablespoon of mozzarella cheese. Repeat for 4 ravioli cups.

Bake cups for 17-19 minutes, until cheese is melted and begins to bubble. Remove from oven to rest for 8-10 minutes. Using spoon, remove cups and place 2 on each plate, topping with remaining marinara sauce and using parsley leaves to garnish.

Pizzanella salad

Prep and cooking time: 15-20 minutes

Serving size: 2 large entree salads

1 cup grape tomatoes
1/2 medium onion, thinly sliced

2 cloves garlic, minced

2 teaspoons olive oil

2 slices (1/3 of pie) prepared DiGiorno 4 Cheese Rising Crust Pizza

4 cups bite-size pieces Romaine lettuce

2 tablespoons basil pesto

2 tablespoons red wine vinegar

Heat oven to 450°F. On baking sheet place tomatoes, onion and garlic and drizzle with olive oil. Bake 5-7 minutes, or until onions are tender, and remove from oven to cool. Once cooled, slice tomatoes into halves.

Cut pizza into bite-size pieces for croutons. In large bowl, toss lettuce, tomatoes, onion, garlic and pizza with pesto vinaigrette made by combining pesto and red wine vinegar. Let it sit for 10 minutes before serving to allow bread to absorb dressing. Serve on a dinner plate.

Review: An unsettling 20-year secret comes to life in ‘The Gift’

BY SANDY COHEN
ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nobody likes a bully —especially a past victim with a long memory.

Figuring out who’s the bully and who’s the victim is part of the mystery in “The Gift,” a satisfying directorial debut from writer, producer and actor Joel Edgerton.

While it doesn’t break any new ground, this first feature from STX Entertainment succeeds as an unsettling psychological thriller that might make you want to check the locks on the front door.

Simon (Jason Bateman) and wife Robyn (Rebecca Hall) just moved from Chicago to a picture-perfect house in his hometown of Los Angeles, where he has a great new job and an impending promotion. Simon insists his wife not start working right away so they can focus on starting a family.

While shopping, the couple bumps into Simon’s old high school classmate, Gordo (Mr. Edgerton). Shy and awkward, he re-introduces himself to Simon, who doesn’t recognize him. They exchange pleasantries and innocuously part ways.

Suddenly, a bottle of wine appears on the couple’s doorstep, a gift from Gordo, though they hadn’t given him their address. Then he pops by unannounced, ostensibly to be helpful. More spontaneous gifts arrive — he fills their pond with koi — along with a dinner invitation.

To Robyn, Gordo seems lonely. To Simon, he seems delusional. He remembers they called him “Weirdo” back in high school.

When Simon insists they cut ties, Gordo responds with an ominous reference to their shared history, which inspires Robyn to question what happened between them as teenagers.

She becomes the protagonist in the film’s second half, an amateur detective investigating her husband’s past. The more she discovers, the more she distrusts him. Gordo doesn’t seem so solid, either.

Along the way there’s a pond of dead fish, a disappearing dog and a scary shower sequence, with nerves ratcheted to the max with the effective film score by Danny Bensi and Saunder Jurriaans.

Mr. Edgerton’s film pays homage to the polished, stylized thrillers of the 1980s and ‘90s, when things went bad for the Yuppie generation. The sprawling, glass-walled, pond-fronted house where Robyn and Simon live is so gorgeously aspirational that it’s practically a character in the film. Gordo’s class envy is revealed when he tries to outshine their home with his own.

Mr. Edgerton keeps his screenplay timely by his use of bullying as a backdrop. He also makes Robyn an equal to Simon, empowered to stand on her own.

The lead performances look effortless, a credit to Mr. Edgerton’s direction. His Gordo is eerily on point as a quiet lurker with a menacing side. Ms. Hall is commanding as a confident yet vulnerable wife, conflicted about the man she married. And Mr. Bateman deliciously plays against type as a manipulative, back-slapping executive who will step on anyone to get ahead.

At its conclusion, “The Gift” takes a leap that’s hard to believe, but it doesn’t undo the story’s main theme, which could be summed up as “what happens when you poison other people’s minds with ideas.”

“The Gift” was rated 2 and a half stars out of four.

DMCRA awards façade grant to Carolina Artist Gallery

Carolina Artist Gallery in Morehead City received a $450 façade grant July 28 from Tom Kies, director of the Downtown Morehead City Revitalization Association,

The award was presented to Sheila Brodnick, vice president, and Crystal Wasley, president of the Carolina Artist Gallery, for the work they've done on the façade of their building including a colorful new sign and logo.

The objective of the Façade Improvement Grant Program is to dramatically improve the facades of downtown buildings so that after completion of work, citizens will notice a marked improvement in the appearance of the buildings.

The DMCRA is a nonprofit organization dedicated to restoring Morehead City to a vibrant economic, cultural, historic, social and recreational center.

New installation at regional airport

New Bern Historical Society Curator Jim Hodges and his team were busy at work recently on a new display in the Craven County Regional Airport.

The first of a two-part installation went in with many artifacts from the Battle of New Bern.

These items provide a time-travel connection to those who were in New Bern over 150 years ago.

The items in the display are:

- A fragment of a shrapnel shell, burst open, so viewers can see the interior.
- A large chip cut from a tree two months after the battle. This chip has a bullet still lodged in it. The tree had over 30 bullet holes.
- A map drawn one month after the battle showing positions of the troop.
- A scale model of a surf-boat like those used by Gen. Ambrose Burnside's troops in making their historic amphibious landing at Slocum Creek prior to the battle. The model, built by John Klecker, is on loan.

Jim Hodges, Jan Beijer, Betty Evans, Jane Dagnon and Claudia Houston selected these items from the New Bern Historical Society's collection of Civil War artifacts.

The society houses a New Bern Collection dating from the late 18th century into the 20th century. Many items are on display at the Attmore Oliver House at 511 Broad St. where the display is open to the public.

The second part of the airport project will be completed by the end of this month.

For more information, contact the New Bern Historical Society at 252-638-8558 or go to www.NewBernHistorical.org.

September 4, 5, 11, 12 @8:00 pm and September 6 and 13 at 2:00 pm.
Tickets are $22.00 for reserved seating, $20.00 for others and $8.00 for students thru high school with a valid ID.

Event to cover business, coming activities for Beaufort Wine & Food

Beaufort Wine & Food will welcome new and existing members at its Membership Appreciation party on Saturday, Aug. 15.

The celebration will start at noon and will feature heavy hors d'oeuvres, wine and beer served at the patio garden at Beaufort Grocery Annex on Queen Street in the old port town.

During the party, recently awarded grants will be reviewed and dates for upcoming events will be announced.

Last month Beaufort Wine & Food donated over $80,000, raised during its April 2015 festival weekend, to 19 separate Carteret County charities.

"The funds will allow projects that improve or enhance services to the public," explained Nelson Owens, Beaufort Wine & Food president. "Our members are the core of Beaufort Wine and Food, and through their support we are proud to give back to the community."

Beaufort Wine & Food began as a weekend event in April 2005 and has evolved into an organization that holds fundraising events year-round.

Memberships were initiated in 2013 to encourage continuing participation and to acknowledge those who regularly attend and support the fundraising events.

Benefits of membership include discounted rates on tickets and merchandise and exclusive or early access to special events. Beaufort Wine & Food currently has over 300 members.

Along with the discussion of funds distribution, Beaufort Wine & Food will announce dates for upcoming fall events including the Chef's Competition series, a Blind Pig dinner and Oyster Roast.

The Chef's Competition includes three preliminary rounds where area chefs compete in an evening featuring wine and appetizer pairings, and culminates with the winners of each round competing for top honors at the final round with guests and expert panelists deciding the winner.

The Blind Pig underground supper club showcases Asheville chef Mike Moore and guest chefs designing concept-driven charity dinners. These are held in unique locations, with the venue announced to guests only 48 hours prior to the event.

The fall Oyster Roast will be held in a natural outdoor setting in mid-November complete with bonfire and hay wagon transport, and highlights steamed oysters with local seafood and North Carolina pork and poultry. All events benefit area nonprofit organizations.

Beaufort Wine & Food is a nonprofit organization and proceeds from its events benefit nonprofits that excel in community enrichment and enhance quality of life in Carteret County.

To join, volunteer or become involved with Beaufort Wine & Food, or for more information, call 252-515-0708, go online to www.beaufortwineandfood.com or stop by the Beaufort Wine & Food office at 400 Front St., Suite No. 8.

Beaufort Wine & Food will host a Members Appreciation party at noon Saturday, Aug. 15. During the party, recently awarded grants will be reviewed and dates for upcoming events will be announced. (Contributed photo)

The Thomas Thomas house at North River, built in 1880, was the site for the Thomas family reunion on Aug. 1. (Contributed photo)

Family holds reunion at Thomas House in North River

On Aug. 1, the Thomas Murray Thomas Sr. family held a reunion on the grounds of the Thomas Thomas house built at North River in 1880 by Capt. Thomas.

Thomas Murray was the son of Capt. Thomas Thomas who is buried in the historic Old Burying Grounds in the plot just north of the Ann Street United Methodist Church, the church that the Thomas family has called home for seven generations.

Thomas Murray Thomas Sr. was born in 1848, and later married Laura Pelletier of Carteret County. They lived at 301 Front St. until the time of their deaths. Thomas Murray died in 1940 at the age of 91.

They had 11 children. The eight who survived until adulthood were Charles W., Mary Adeline, Jeremiah Pelletier, Thomas Murray Jr., Samuel Hughes, Leonidas Elijah, Laura Ester and Phillip Norvel Thomas.

Descendants of five of these children were in attendance with a gathering of 165 coming from all across North Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Louisiana.

The Thomas Thomas house has remained in the Thomas family and currently is the home of Allison and Curtis Willis. Ms.

Willis is the great-great-granddaughter of Thomas Murray Thomas.

Judy Thomas Brake of Beaufort served as master of ceremonies and the other family members shared stories of the Thomas family including George Thomas III, Berta Daw, Ralph Thomas Jr., Phyllis Williams and family friend Michael Fulcher, who shared research on Capt. Thomas' schooners the Thomas Thomas and the T.M. Thomas.

George Thomas III initiated the event.

Bright Ideas 'Early Bird' deadline nears

Educators who submit their NC Bright Ideas grant applications by the Friday, Aug. 14's early bird deadline will be entered for a chance to win one of five $100 Visa gift cards.

Carteret-Craven Electric Co-op (CCEC) and other North Carolina electric cooperatives are accepting grant applications to fund creative, classroom-based learning projects for the 2015-16 school year. The final deadline to apply is Friday, Sept. 18.

Teachers can apply for Bright Ideas grants of up to $1,000, which is part of $600,000 in Bright Ideas funding that will be awarded to teachers statewide during the 2015-16 school year.

Classroom teachers at qualifying schools in Carteret and Craven counties can apply for grants.

Last year, CCEC awarded more than $23,000 locally for 36 projects.

Since 1994, the co-op has awarded more than $350,000 in grants for projects that have benefited roughly 88,000 students.

Since 1994, North Carolina's electric cooperatives have awarded more than $9.6 million in Bright Ideas grants funding for more than 9,200 projects benefiting 1.8 million students.

The application, grant-writing tips and more information about the Bright Ideas education grant program can be found at www.ncbrightideas.com <<http://www.ncbrightideas.com>>.

Red Cross plans scholarships

This summer, high school and college students can win a scholarship by hosting an American Red Cross blood drive through the Leaders Save Lives program.

Registration is now open to host a participating blood drive between now through Monday, Aug. 31.

The Leaders Save Lives program encourages community-minded 16- to 24-year-olds to host blood drives to help maintain the blood supply over the summer months.

Students who participate as a blood drive coordinator are eligible to win a scholarship up to $2,500 for higher education and to earn a gift card.

"The Leaders Save Lives program is a great way for students to learn valuable leadership skills while helping hospital patients in need of lifesaving blood transfusions," said Red Cross spokesperson, Page Gambill, CEO of the Mid-Atlantic and Appalachian Blood Services Regions.

"Summer can be a challenging time to maintain a sufficient blood supply," she added.

With this program, students are helping the community by recruiting their friends and family to donate during this crucial season."

A total of 10 scholarships will be awarded via drawing to students who achieve 100 percent of their blood drive collections goal.

All students who achieve the designated blood drive goal will receive an electronic gift card to giftcertificates.com.

For more information and to register to host a Leaders Save Lives blood drive, visit the website redcrossblood.org/leaderssaveives.

Anchor Splash raises money for arts

The Community Council for the Arts is hosting a fundraising event from 6-9 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15, to raise money for the Community Council for the Arts in Kinston.

The event, Anchor Splash, takes place at 148 Hoop Pole Creek Road in Atlantic Beach. The evening includes an art show and sale that features diversely skilled artists from around the region.

While in attendance, guests will enjoy heavy hors d'oeuvres, Mother Earth Beer and assorted wines.

Bobby Merritt, of Kinston, will provide live entertainment. Mr. Merritt's playlist includes music from Jimmy Buffet and The Eagles, beach and country music, and soft rock from the 70s and 80s.

When not performing solo engagements, Mr. Merritt performs as half of the successful group, The Ray and Bobby Band.

Tickets for the event are $35 and may be purchased from the Community Council for the Arts by calling 252-527-2517, emailing the Arts Center at payments@kinstoncca.com, paying online through PayPal at www.kinstoncca.com or by purchasing tickets in person at the Arts Center at 400 North Queen St. in Kinston. The event is casual attire.

For more information about this benefit, contact The Arts Center at 252-527-2517 or go online at www.kinstoncca.com.

Bobby Merritt will provide live music for the Community Council for the Arts event, Anchor Splash, on Saturday, Aug. 15. The event is from 6-9 p.m. and all proceeds will benefit the Community Council for the Arts in Kinston. (Contributed photo)

Cycle opens for grant requests

The board of directors of the Carteret Community Foundation is accepting grant requests for community projects funded from its community fund, according to Richard McIntyre, president.

Funds are available for non-profit organizations that serve general charitable needs in Carteret County.

The 2015 grant application deadline is at noon on Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Applications are available online at the N.C. Community Foundation's website; www.nccommunityfoundation.org. Select "Apply for Grants and Scholarships" and follow the Grantmaking Guidelines, under "Grants."

The Carteret Community Foundation was established in 1984, and is an affiliate of the N.C. Community Foundation (NCCF).

The Carteret Community Foundation provides grants to local nonprofits, college scholarships to county students and offers professional advisers who can help individuals, families and nonprofit agencies establish an endowment or designated fund for specific charitable purposes.

Tax-deductible contributions in any amount can be made to the Carteret County Unrestricted Endowment Fund and mailed to the regional post office box: P.O. Box 3411, New Bern, N.C. 28564.

For more information about the Carteret Community Foundation and its services, visit the website, nccommunityfoundation.org/carteret or call NCCF Regional Associate Kim Ball at 252-288-5706.

Mr. Caraway and boat builder Tim White are charting some new courses for the Watercraft Center.

"We have had a number of people who want to build boats that are more user friendly," Mr. White said. "We have had great interest in the new SUP course."

Mr. White recently moved to Beaufort from the New Jersey shore. He attended the Landing School of Boat Building and Design in Kennebunkport, Maine, in 1990.

Mr. White has 25 years of boat building and educational experience in such venues as the Independence Seaport Museum in Philadelphia, Pa., where he served as the director of the "Work Shop on the Water" for eight years.

He oversaw the service department of the Crockett Bros. Boat Yard in Oxford, Md., and taught classes at the Chesapeake Maritime Museum in St. Michaels, Md.

Mr. White operated the boat shop at the Maritime Aquarium in Norwalk, Conn., for eight years. Most recently, he taught classes and built and restored boats at the Tuckerton Seaport Museum in Tuckerton, N.J., and the Toms River Seaport Museum in Toms River, N.J.

The "Introduction to Wooden Boat Building" is a two-day, hands-on course where students will explore the art of boat building from start to finish.

They begin with the design and lofting of boats and move on to the setup, steam bending and different methods of creating the backbone of small boats.

In addition, they will learn how to make planking systems, both carvel and lap strake and all the appropriate fastening systems.

By the end of the course, students will have the knowledge and skill to choose a design and style of boat to build on their own and the confidence to take on the job.

The "Build Your Own Skin-on-Frame Boat" class allows participants to build their own skin-on-frame, ultra-light boat in the Inuit style.

These versatile and time-tested boats can be fashioned in a myriad of styles including the North Alaska Retrieval Kayak, Greenland Style Sea Kayak, Pram Dinghy and Canadian Canoe.

After the frames have been pegged and lashed together from fir and steam-bent white oak frames, the skin of 12-ounce ballistic nylon is sewn over the frame and coated with either varnish or paint to produce a light, tough and boat.

The "Build Your Own Stand-up Paddle Board" class gives participants the opportunity to build their own Stand-up Paddle Board constructed from cedar and plywood.

These boards will be custom fit to each student's size. These are fun to build and fun to paddle. Once the course is over, the builder will be responsible for varnishing or painting their new boards at home.

According to Mr. Caraway, "Stand-up paddle boarding is the fastest-growing board sport because it appeals to a wide range of people."

One of the more popular courses is "Build a-Boat-in-a Day."

Each participating team assembles a prepared kit for a small flat-bottomed plywood boat suitable for paddling. The boat is 12 feet long, 32 inches wide and weighs about 40 pounds.

By the end of the class, each boat will be completed to a watertight condition. Detail finishing and painting is the responsibility of team members and may not be undertaken in the Watercraft Center.

The boatbuilding courses are held year-round, which helps generate an economic impact to the county as the participants have traveled from Texas, Florida, Iowa, Virginia and more in order to stay on The Crystal Coast.

"The participants eat in the local restaurants and stay in nearby inns and B&B's. Oftentimes they bring other family members to enjoy the local attractions," said David Cartier, the public relations coordinator for the N.C. Maritime Museum system.

Mr. Cartier acknowledged that grant money from the Crystal Coast Tourism Development Authority has allowed the museum to broaden its reach in attracting more people interested in boat building.

The grant has enabled the museum to advertise the boat building courses in Wooden Boat magazine.

"Without their support, we simply would not be able to bring as many people from outside the area to Beaufort," Mr. Cartier said.

Because the museum offers free admission, there is little opportunity to generate revenue needed for operations and expanded programming. "The boatbuilding courses are one of the few opportunities that the museum has to generate revenue," Mr. Cartier added.

Even if visitors are not building a boat, the viewing platform above the shop floor in the Watercraft Center is a great place for them to watch the boats take shape, from frame to finished product.

The Harvey W. Smith Watercraft Center is part of the N.C. Maritime Museum at 315 Front St., Beaufort. For more information about programs offered at the N.C.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

County Hall of Fame nominations reopen

Sports enthusiasts still have time to vote for Carteret County's first Hall of Fame athlete or coach as the voting process has been reopened because of community interest.

Nominations for the Hall of Fame, which was created as a part of the Smithsonian's "Hometown Teams" exhibition at the Core Sound Waterfowl Museum and Heritage Center on Harkers Island, continues until Saturday, Aug. 15.

The "Hometown Teams"

exhibit is presented by the N.C. Humanities Council and the Smithsonian Institution. It highlights the last 100 years of American sports with a special focus on Carteret County sports. The exhibit will be on display until Monday, Sept. 7.

The Carteret County Hall of Fame project currently has 15 nominees who are profiled at the Hometown Teams Exhibit at the museum.

As the interest has grown and the word has continued to spread, the committee has heard many requests for more nominations.

So based on the interest and commitment of fans, players and community members from across the county, the Hall of Fame Committee will reopen the nomination process to give additional residents the chance to nominate their favorite athlete or coach.

Rodney Kemp, Hall Of Fame chairman, said, "It is exciting to

New Bern business to host Bears Aug. 15

The Bears, New Bern's premiere oldies band, is presenting a fresh approach to its selection of oldies, with an "unplugged" concert at Trent River Coffee Co. in New Bern on Saturday, Aug. 15.

The Bears' "way back machine" takes listeners on a roller-coaster ride through three decades, featuring Classic Rock, Surf Music, British Invasion, and more, served up with humor, hot licks and a great sense of fun.

Steve Latimer is "Baby Bear," the band's youngest member. Mr. Latimer sings, and for this concert, plays acoustic guitar.

Janet Montero is "Mama

Bear." She sings and plays bass and other instruments.

Pat Engeman, "Yogi Bear" is the drummer, as well as both a lead and harmony singer. He will play muted snare, conga, and cajon for the "unplugged" program.

Simon Spalding is "California Bear." He will play a "U-bass," a baritone ukulele with "rubber band" strings, muted violin and a modified acoustic guitar.

Trent River Coffee Co. is at 208 Craven St. in New Bern. The music begins at 7 p.m., and tickets are $10. The tickets are available at the door.

For more information, call 252-514-2030 or check out www.thebears.band.

Boy Scouts participate in 'From Manteo to Murphy'

This summer, the theme for Boy Scout Troop 252 in Davis is "From Manteo to Murphy." As a part of the summer theme, 38 Scouts and family members recently took a weekend camping trip to the Outer Banks.

Along with camping at Oregon Inlet, the Scouts went swimming, visited Bodie Island Lighthouse and toured the Wright Brother Museum and Monument. Then it was over to Manteo where they visited Fort Raleigh and attended the outdoor drama "The Lost Colony."

Scouts attending were Nicholas Hynes, Mackenzie Eubanks, Chandler Mason, Devin Garner, Logan Kreager, Cameron Walton, Daylen Piner, Ethan Fulcher, Matthew Honore, Landon Katz, Chandler Block, Harrison Goodwin, William Chadwick, Landon Merkley, Matthew Koegler, Hayden Williams, Colin Irvine, Blake Gray and Cooper Siggler.

Next up for the Scouts is an eight-day trip to the mountains. The Scouts plan to travel to Morganton, to Murphy and then down to Blairsville, Ga., before returning home.

ROMEO group celebrates 225 years of USCG with luncheon

Marlin Murphy, U.S. Coast Guardsman, and other World War II veterans gathered for fellowship and to celebrate the 225th anniversary of the U.S. Coast Guard on Aug. 3, at the Sanitary Fish Market and Restaurant in Morehead City.

The actual anniversary was Aug. 4.

Mr. Murphy, a World War II veteran who spent 25 years in the U.S. Coast Guard, was the guest speaker for the August gathering of the Retired Old Men Eating Out World War II group.

He concluded the speech by saying that he was grateful that he had the opportunity to serve this great country.

Rainy weather didn't keep the veterans from coming out and sharing stories with each other.

Shelby Freeman, World War II veteran, and Hank Gotard, County Veterans Services Officer, conducted the meeting.

Mr. Freeman shared his recent visit to the National World War II Museum in New Orleans stating that it was a wonderful experience and urged everyone to see it while they were still able to.

Mr. Gotard spoke to the veterans about additional Veterans Administration benefits that they could possibly qualify for.

The group learned that last year veterans contributed over $8 billion to this state's economy.

In Carteret County, $64 million were brought into the county as a direct result of veterans benefits earned.

The ROMEO group meets every other month and invites Korean War veterans to join their luncheons.

Veterans who are interested in joining the luncheons should call the Veterans Services Office at 252-728-8440.

see this kind of interest in this Hall of Fame, and we are willing to open the door to more nominees for this year's inaugural class. We have decades of great athletes to honor and recognize."

This is expected to be an annual event with the Hall of Fame, continuing for years to come. Nominations will be accepted in early 2016 for consideration for next year's class.

One person already listed in the nominees is Coach Tom McQuaid.

Coach McQuaid was the head basketball coach and athletic director of Beaufort High School from 1936 to 1942 and 1945 to 1964. He has been said to be one of the best North Carolina boys basketball coaches with a state-record 91-game win streak and four 1A state titles during his 27 years at Beaufort.

Nomination forms are available at the museum, by emailing Pam Morris at pamdmorris@coresound.com, or from Mr. Kemp at Chalk and Gibbs in Morehead City. Forms can also be downloaded at www.carteretcountysports.org.

For more information, contact Mr. Kemp at rodneym@chalkandgibbs.com or Ms. Morris at the Core Sound Museum, 252-728-1500 ext. 25.
