From landlubbers to old salts, cruises offer something for everyone

The N.C. Coastal Federation summer cruise programs are full steam ahead.

One cruise leaves from Hammocks Beach State Park called the marsh cruise. Another is the shelling cruise a perfect fit for beach lovers.

The federation's staff will show participants a side of the coast they likely haven't seen and will give them a deeper appreciation for these waterways.

The N.C. Coastal Federation cruises have something for everyone: gorgeous scenery, encounters with wildlife, local anecdotes and a better understanding of the importance of the coastal waters.

Participants will hear tales of native settlers, past fishing villages and pirates; swing by uninhabited isles and see the Crystal Coast from whole new vantage point.

The cruises will continue through August. To find a full list of cruises or to learn more information about the cruises, see N.C. Coastal Federation's event calendar at nccoast.org/events.

Review: Lotsa grinding, little plot in ‘Magic Mike XXL’

BY JOCELYN NOVECK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

There’s an early scene in “Magic Mike XXL” that hints at what this much ballyhooed sequel woulda, coulda, shoulda been.

Mike Lane, played by the well nigh irresistible Channing Tatum, is alone in his furniture workshop. As he saws, measures and sands, the beat of the music he’s listening to starts to transport him. He can’t stop himself: he begins to dance, all around the shop, over and under the tools, a guy who just can’t keep those limbs from moving.

Mr. Tatum’s a great dancer and a wonderfully physical actor. We’d watch him do this all night. But we don’t get to.

Instead, we get almost two hours of often rambling setup, finally leading to a long-awaited climax when Mr. Tatum, fellow chiseled stud Matt Bomer and their buff male stripper cohorts take the stage to bump, hump, grind and swivel tirelessly as gleeful women rain dollar bills onto their oiled skin. Yes, we admire this tirelessness. But is it treasonous to suggest that eventually it becomes tireSOME, too?

Those who fondly remember the original “Magic Mike” will be sad to realize that Matthew “Alright Alright” McConaughey is missing this time around. So is director Steven Soderbergh, though he’s back as cinematographer and editor; his associate Gregory Jacobs has taken the reins. What’s most obviously missing in this sequel, though, is a real plot. What there is can be summed up in five words: Road Trip to Stripper Convention. Or maybe six: LONG Road to Stripper Convention.

We begin three years after Mike traded the stripper life for his long-held dream of setting up his own custom furniture company. It’s not going as well as he’d planned.

Suddenly, Mike gets a call. It’s a ruse, but it brings him back to his old buddies from the Kings of Tampa, planning one last big stab at glory before retiring their act at the convention in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

One last show: Hardly an original premise. Still, there are moments of fun. One of these comes at a gas station convenience store manned by a young woman with an apparent inability to smile. Mike, seeking to convince Big Dick Richie (Joe Manganiello) that he has the creativity to move out of his stock fireman character, challenges him to find a way to make the young lady grin. He does, and gets his mojo back.

But too often, the gang’s stops on the way to the contest - sort of a male stripper-themed “Little Miss Sunshine,” when you think about it - start well and then just go on forever. This is true of a visit to a private Savannah strip club, whose owner, Rome (Jada Pinkett Smith) has an unresolved past with Mike.

Rome and Mike? The idea is intriguing. But we never learn much about what happened. Things get sewn up quickly, and we move on. The same happens with the oddly unsatisfying (for us) relationship Mike strikes up with a pretty photographer (Amber Heard) he meets one night. We’d like to know more; she’s still there at the end of the movie, and we don’t really know why.

But maybe all that’s beside the point. The only thing that really matters is the giant show at the end, where each man gets his moment to shine, though frankly we’d have been happy just to fast forward to Mr. Tatum. But even when the star takes the stage, some of us might wish he’d do a little less, uh, simulating, and a little more actual dancing.

By the end, we’re somewhat exhausted. Surely “XXL” in the title wasn’t meant to indicate the length of the movie, but it rather feels like it. Sometimes a medium is a better fit.

Wonders and Wanders with Woz at the Core Sound Museum

BY MEGAN SOULT
NEWS-TIMES

During Thursdays this month, the Core Sound Waterfowl Museum and Heritage Center is holding an outdoor program called Wonders and Wanders with Woz that gives children an opportunity to explore nature.

The program is from 10:30 a.m. to noon for elementary school-age children and from 1 to 2:30 p.m. for middle school-age children.

Children participating in the program have the chance to explore with John Waszak, a Beaufort Middle School teacher, and learn about the environment.

During the program, children will learn about animals and the plants that are in the local environment by collecting creatures in nets from Willow Pond, near the museum, examining plants and creatures on the nature trail, traveling to Back Sound to identify creatures living in the sound and more.

“The program exposes the children to what’s in the environment,” Mr. Waszak said. “There are a lot of kids who don’t know about the environment, and the more they know, the more they will care.”

The activities provide an interactive learning experience, and they allow the children to see the importance of the environment. Parents are welcome to attend the program with their children.

“It’s good to see all these kids and their parents at the museum this summer,” said Kathryn Smith Chadwick, chairman on the Core Sound Waterfowl Museum and Heritage Center Board of Directors.

“We hope all of them will keep coming back week after week with their friends. Seeing them here learning, playing and exploring is what we’re all about.”

The next Wonders and Wanders

Great Fourth race scheduled July 11

On Saturday, July 11, traditionally rigged sailing crafts will rally to celebrate the historic voyages that carried the news of the signing of the Declaration of Independence to the Outer Banks. It's all part of the annual Great Fourth Race sponsored by the Friends of the N.C. Maritime Museum.

The course covers between six and 20 miles and is designed so that the race will last between four and eight hours.

The start and finish line for the race is in Taylor's Creek, just off the dock of the museum's Harvey W. Smith Watercraft Center in Beaufort.

The race committee will not announce the course until the day of the race to suit wind and weather conditions.

For landlubbers, the best viewing time for the race will be between 9-10 a.m. The fleet of boats will be in Taylor's Creek at that time.

"This is a great way for people to have fun racing and to commemorate a historic event that occurred in the Outer Banks," said Brent Creelman, director of operations for the Friends of the Museum.

Boaters interested in participation must register in advance by calling 728-2762.

For more information on the Friends of the N.C. Maritime Museum call 728-1638 or visit the website at www.maritimefriends.org.

N.C. Maritime Museum in Beaufort is at 315 Front St. The museum is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 1 to 5 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free, but donations are accepted.

For more information, call 728-7317 or visit the website at www.ncmaritimemuseums.com.

BHA sets date for annual summer party

The Beaufort Historic Site is the place to be on Saturday, July 11, for the Beaufort Historical Association's annual Summer Party. The party starts at 7 p.m. and continues until 11 p.m. in Beaufort.

The annual summer party started as a celebration of Beaufort's 300th anniversary in 2009 and has quickly become a tradition and a great way to celebrate the seafaring community.

Everyone is invited to join the party for great food, a full bar and live music.

Tickets are $100 a piece and may be purchased in advance or the day of the event at the Beaufort Historic Site Welcome Center at 130 Turner St., downtown Beaufort, by calling 728-5225, or online at www.beaufort-historicsite.org.

Beaufort Grocery Co. will provide the food with a menu inspired by the sea and a full bar available.

The Summer Party committee will welcome guests with a signature drink by co-chairman Doug Brady.

The Summer Party will also feature live music by Raleigh band North Tower.

One of the South's great party bands for over 35 years, they play oldies, beach music, top 40 and funk. Band leader and artist Larry Dean is a friend to the Beaufort Historic Site, having been the featured artist for the 2014 Old Homes Tour.

Complementing the food, drinks and music will be both live and silent auctions.

Many unique items will be offered in auctions including: a helicopter ride for four over Cape Lookout National Seashore, charter for six aboard the motor yacht Everest, Lookout catamaran sunset cruise for 40, vacation stay at a Bald Head Island home overlooking the seventh green of the Bald Head Island Club, a Blowing Rock stay at a mountainside condo, classic motor yacht cruise, dinners, jewelry, paddleboards and more.

"So many of our friends only come to Beaufort during the summer, so it's a great time to celebrate the fun of a big party in a relaxed atmosphere," said event co-chairman Katherine Team. "This is a great way to have fun while supporting a worthwhile cause."

All proceeds from ticket sales and auction items benefit the preservation, restoration and education programs of the Beaufort Historic Site.

Chisholm, music direction is by Lorene Walsh. Jason Aycock is the assistant director and choreographer.

The production features Jason Aycock as New York playboy Bobby Child whose dreams of Broadway take a backseat to his mother's (Fran Tabor) plans for the future. She sends him to Deadrock, Nev., to foreclose on a theater; instead, Bobby falls for the only girl in town, Polly Baker (Kendra Goehring-Garrett), whose father, Everett (William Fleming) owns the theater.

Bobby decides to help Polly save the theater, but when she finds out he works for the bank, he is forced to impersonate impresario Bela Zangler (Richard Bunting) to put on a show and save the theatre.

Waiting in the wings to throw a wrench in his plans are Bobby's socialite fiancée Irene Roth (Courtney Poland) and Lank Hawkins (Christopher Rickert), owner of the local saloon and would-be suitor to Polly.

Adding to the mayhem are British brother and sister Eugene and Patricia Foder (George Domby and Hunter Wyatt), who are traveling across the west, writing a travel guide.

This musical theatre cocktail is brimming with singing cowboys, tap-dancing showgirls, screwball comedy and an earnest let's-put-on-a-show-enthusiasm.

Full of Gershwin tunes- "I Got Rhythm," "But Not for Me," "Nice Work if You Can Get It," "Someone to Watch over Me," "I Can't Be Bothered Now," "Naughty Baby," "They Can't Take that Away From Me" and "Embraceable You"- this explosion of song and dance is full of youthful exuberance.

Featuring all the glamour and romance of Broadway in its heyday, "Crazy for You" is everything people love about musical comedy.

Pine needle workshop July 16 at Beaufort Historic Site

As part of the Beaufort Historic Site's Living History series, Sandi Malone will conduct a workshop on the centuries-old folk art of pine needle basket making.

The workshop is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday, July 16, at the Beaufort Historical Site

Welcome Center.

Space is limited to 10 participants for this workshop, so registration is required. A materials fee of $40 must be paid at the time of registration and a bag-lunch break is scheduled.

Workshop participants will learn all aspects of the craft, from how to collect the necessary materials to actually making a pine needle basket of their own.

ket of their own.

The art of pine needle basketry can be traced back to east coast Native American tribes, who coiled and stitched pine needles to create feed baskets and vessels to transport water.

The practice achieved decorative art status during the Civil War when women began using pine needles to make hats. Today, pine needle basket makers still use the original coiling and stitching technique as the Native Americans.

Pine needle baskets are made by removing the sheath that holds the pine needles together, soaking the needles, stitching and coiling them.

Artists can make a number of different designs using various types of needles and changing the stitches.

For information on this and other Living History Programs, stop by the Beaufort Historic Site Welcome Center at 130 Turner St., call 728-5225 or visit www.beauforthistoricsite.org.

Program targets childhood obesity

A new group is teaming up with local physicians to educate families on the medical necessity of exercise.

The Shape Carteret Committee, in conjunction with local pediatricians, has created a program called Exercise is Medicine.

The goal is to educate families about childhood obesity and ways to combat the problem.

Educational brochures and materials will be given out by participating pediatricians during a child's medical visit.

The Shape Carteret Committee is comprised of individuals from local agencies and businesses whose goal is to reduce childhood obesity through good nutrition and physical activity. They have been working more than four years under the umbrella of the Carteret County Partnership for Children, a nonprofit agency whose mission is to inspire, support and advocate for young children and their families in the area of health, education and childcare.

The group has created the brochure, "Healthy Family, Happy Family," which points out the increase of child obesity rates, the link between overweight and early onset of diseases like diabetes and the key role parents play modeling a healthy lifestyle.

Pediatricians will also be provided with "Your Prescription for Health: Exercise is Medicine" prescription pads to remind parents that children need 60 minutes of physical activity each day. Shape Carteret is also enlisting doctors'

Sponsorships available for Carolina East Singers

The Carolina East Singers Board of Directors recently announced that sponsorships for the 2015-16 concert series are available.

Several levels of sponsorship are available, beginning at $25. Donors will be part of providing choral music experiences to the community.

Last year, due to the support of their sponsors, the Carolina East Singers were able to hire a 14-piece orchestra to accompany them for their "Christmas Glorias" concert.

The generosity of its sponsors plays a significant role in the future of Carolina East Singers.

Sponsors help the group achieve its mission as a community choir offering both sacred and non-sacred music and entertainment.

"The mission of CES is to build a choir that strives to offer the highest standard of music for the enjoyment of our community," said Carolina East Singers board president Jerri Oehler. "The financial needs of CES range from publicity and advertising, music and supplies, staging, and guest orchestral personnel. Our choir members pay no dues; they are all volunteers who participate for the sheer joy of creating beautiful music."

For those who are able to support Carolina East Singers with at least $250, complimentary tickets are available. So far, two performances are scheduled: one Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 5 and 6, and one next year in the spring. The number of tickets sponsors receive varies by donation level. Also, donors receive recognition in event programs. Finally, contributions are tax-deductible.

The sponsorship fundraising campaign will continue through mid-August.

"It is our sincere hope that all who assisted us last year will continue to be able to do so again," says sponsorship chairman Suzy Lewis.

"We hold a corporate passion to grow musically and to serve the larger community in our performance endeavors and offerings," Ms. Lewis said. "To that end, our mission in this 2015 sponsorship season is to enter into lasting relationships with our sponsors so that Carolina East Singers has sustainability for many years to come."

Sponsorship committee members will meet with sponsors in person to present information and lay the foundation for enduring support.

Anyone interested in supporting Carolina East Singers may contact either Suzy Lewis at francesmarianphotos@gmail.com or 336-693-9582; or publicity chairman Sally Lumpkin at sally@promiselandphoto.com or 659-0253.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Wild Honey to perform at Fort Macon

The Friends of Fort Macon free summer concert series continues Friday, July 10, with a live performance from Wild Honey. The concert is from 7-8 p.m.

Wild Honey is an acoustic music duo based in Swansboro.

They have been playing their mixture of pop, blues/boogie, country rock and folk since 2009, performing more than 60 shows a year in venues ranging from restaurants and clubs to concert series, business functions and private parties.

Cooper on vocals and rhythm guitar and Matt Miller who also sings and plays an assortment of instruments including guitar, mandolin, dobro and harmonica.

Ms. Cooper is from Hickory and honed her natural singing abilities in church. Prior to forming Wild Honey with Mr. Miller, she played in the Christian Worship band Still Waters for eight years. Still Waters was a band that played throughout North Carolina and released several quality recordings.

She is heavily involved in the local civic music and arts scene and has been the main force behind bringing weekly outside shows to local Swansboro and Emerald Isle during the summer, and indoor performing arts series throughout the year.

Ms. Cooper provides quality singing and a strong rhythm guitar to Wild Honey along with a casual, friendly personality that patrons easily warm up to.

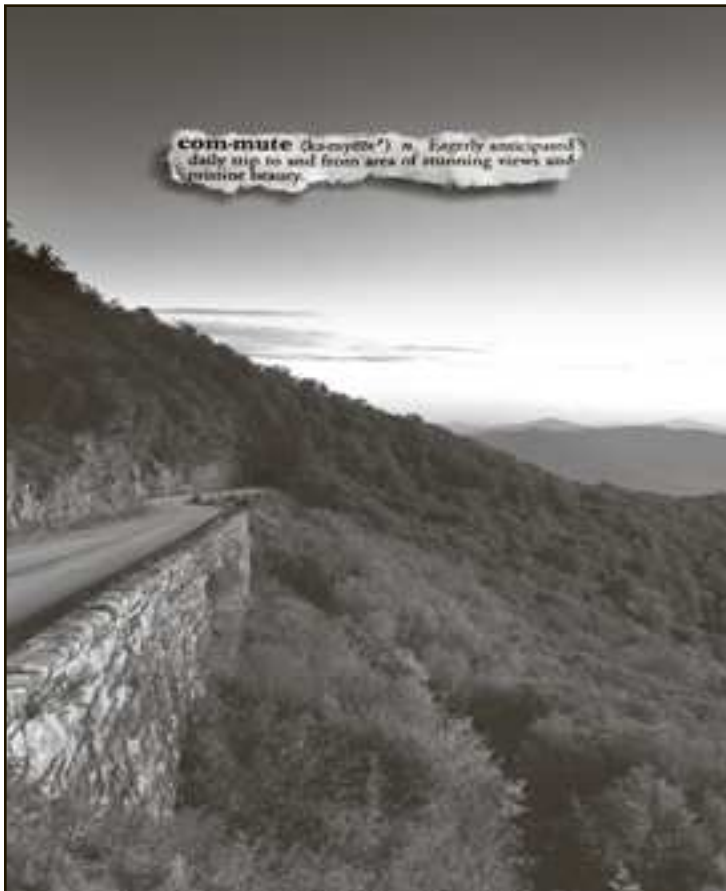

Mr. Miller hails from Ashland, Ky. The mixture of blue collar Ohio valley steel mill town toughness along with eastern Kentucky's rural back roads and rich history of bluegrass and country music come out in his playing.

He can drive a blues boogie song on acoustic guitar like few others, gently finger pick a folk song or play styles in between. Whether adding driving or mellow bass lines to rhythm or playing fiery or sweet lead parts, he displays knowledge of

Wild Caught local seafood, music festival returns July 10

The fourth annual Wild Caught Festival will be held Friday, July 10, and Saturday, July 11, at a new location, 380 Pigott Road in Gloucester.

This site is down the road from the former site of 224 Shore Drive, Gloucester, and looks across The Straits to Brown's Island. The new location offers ample space for parking, camping and small watercrafts.

The festival opens at 6 p.m. Friday, with music from Unknown Tongues and other performers until 10 p.m. On Saturday, the music is from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Seafood and fixings, including charcoal mullet are served Saturday afternoon.

For a list of performing bands, visit www.unknown tongues.com/wildcaught.

Wild Caught Festival celebrates roots music, local seafood and produce and maritime traditions.

The seafood is straight from The Straits, vegetables are from the garden and the view includes livestock roaming the shores of Brown's Island to the light of Cape Lookout sweeping the tree-tops each evening. The music is homegrown and multi-generational.

During the festival, participants will learn about traditional boats, commercial fishing and Carteret Catch, an organization that prides itself on promoting the county's fishing industry through public marketing and education.

This festival is free and is made possible by donations. Participants are encouraged to bring something to drink, chairs, bug spray and sun protection.

The festival also welcomes local businesses and organizations to be listed as sponsors. To be listed as a sponsor, send checks made out to Accidental Productions, P.O. Box 91, Gloucester, N.C. 28528.

Church committee presents scholarship

The First Presbyterian Church Choir Scholarship Committee announced Jonathan Gosnell is the primary recipient of the 2015-16 scholarship.

This $2,000 award will help him as he begins his studies at Campbell University. When he auditioned for the Campbell band program, he was selected for snare in the Athletic Band, the drum line, and is in line for timpanist in the concert band.

While at West Carteret High School, Jonathan participated in the marching and concert bands all four years and recently made snare for the All-District Band.

Jonathan actively participated in Key Club and held several offices while being involved in community service with nonprofit organizations.

He was a member of the National Honor Society and won Academic Achievement awards all four years.

He received the Good Patriot Award and was recognized in the band program for outstanding commitment.

The Choir Scholarship Committee also awarded two other grants.

Madeline Fisher, who received $2,000 last year as the award's first recipient, was given $1,000 to further her music career at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Jacob Smith, while not a member of First Presbyterian Church, was awarded $500 in appreciation of his musical gifts and his willingness to share it with local churches.

This scholarship fund was begun as a way of honoring Carolyn Meadows upon her retirement from First Presbyterian Church of Morehead City, as music director for over 40 years.
