The Band of Oz will perform next in the Alive at Five concert series. The show starts at 5 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7, at Jaycee Park in Morehead City. (Contributed photo)

Band of Oz performs at Alive at Five

In what promises to be one of the biggest Alive at Five concerts of the year, Band of Oz will take center stage at the free event from 5-8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 7, at Jaycee Park on the Morehead City waterfront.

The Band of Oz was originally formed in 1967 as a part-time band playing fraternity parties and high school proms all over the South.

In 1977, the band went on the road full time. Since that time, the band has made a name for itself throughout the Southeast by playing the top clubs and corporate parties.

For several years, the group has been a guest on most of the major beach concerts in the Carolinas, Virginia and Georgia.

The band recorded their first song, "Shaggin'," in 1978. It has become a beach classic.

In 1982, at the Beach Music Awards, the Band of Oz was presented with an award for Best Group and one of their songs, "Ocean Boulevard," was voted Best Beach Record of that year.

In 1984, the band released "Keep Keeping It Up," their first album. "One More Step," their second album, was released in the summer of 1989. The band's third album was released in 1995. "Let It Roll" is one of the most successful beach music records of all time.

At the 1995 Cammy Awards, "Let It Roll" took album of the year and "Shama Lama Ding Dong" was named song of the year. The band also walked away with Group of the Year.

At the 1996 awards, the

A super snack with a pop

Make your next friendly gathering a popping success with desserts and snacks made from a wholesome simple grain. Not only does popcorn bring out the kid in everyone, it's a naturally healthy treat you can feel good about serving your guests. And, because it's naturally low in fat and calories, non-GMO and gluten free, you can rest assured that party-goers will keep popping back by for one more guilt-free bite.

What's more, freshly popped corn makes it easy to tickle all your guests' taste bud cravings. Salty, spicy, sweet - the options are nearly endless. Serve it up with flavors already mixed in, or let guests mix and match their own favorite toppings to create unique tastes of popcorn perfection.

These recipes make it easy to prepare crowd-pleasers for all ages ahead of time so you can focus on the fun. Find more festive popcorn recipes to help plan your next party at www.popcorn.org.

Sea salt caramel popcorn

Yield: 3 quarts

2 quarts popped popcorn
1½ cups pecan halves
½ cup almonds
1 1/3 cups granulated sugar
1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
½ cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon coarse sea salt
Line large, rimmed 17-by-12-inch baking pan with foil and spray lightly with cooking spray; set aside.

Spray large glass or metal bowl with cooking spray and place popcorn and nuts inside.

In medium saucepan, combine granulated sugar, butter and corn syrup. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Clip on candy thermometer and boil, stirring occasionally, until temperature reaches 290°F (about 15 minutes). Remove candy thermometer and stir in vanilla. Pour mixture over popcorn and stir to coat well.

Spread popcorn mixture in even layer on prepared baking pan. Sprinkle with sea salt and allow to cool completely before breaking into pieces to serve.

Store in an airtight container.

Marmalade popcorn balls

Yield: 15 balls

1½ cups sugar
1¼ cups water
1 cup orange marmalade

½ teaspoon salt
½ cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vinegar
5 quarts popped popcorn

In saucepan combine sugar, water, marmalade, salt, light corn syrup and vinegar. Bring to boil, stirring until sugar dissolves. Cook to hard-ball stage (250°F).

Pour slowly over popped popcorn and mix thoroughly. Butter hands and shape into 2 ½-inch balls.

Nutty 'n' natural popcorn

Yield: 3 quarts

2 tablespoons sunflower seed kernels, finely ground
2 tablespoons almonds, finely ground
2 tablespoons walnuts or hazelnuts, finely ground

4-6 tablespoons melted margarine or butter
2½ quarts popped popcorn
2 tablespoons wheat germ
1 6-ounce package (1 2/3 cups) chopped dried fruits and raisins

Pour melted margarine over popcorn. Sprinkle with ground nuts and wheat germ; toss to mix. Stir in dried fruits.

From seed to snack

Popcorn, like all six types of corn, is a cereal grain. It resembles corn on the cob in appearance and cultivation, but only popcorn kernels have the ability to pop. Most of the world's popcorn is grown in the central United States.

Popcorn is usually harvested with a combine, which strips the ear from the stalk and shells the kernels from the cob. The kernels are then loaded into a truck and transported to a storage bin for drying. Then, after cleaning and sorting, kernels are packaged for distribution, allowing Americans to consume more than 16 billion quarts of popped popcorn each year.

A DIY dessert that pops

A popcorn bar is a fun and easy way to have guests take an active role in the party. Provide a wide range of toppings and watch them get creative dreaming up delicious flavor combinations. You can even host a taste test and award prizes to the tasti-est concoctions.

Simply set out a large bowl of popcorn and surround it with smaller bowls with various popcorn fixings. Let each person fill a paper bag or other container with popcorn and top or mix with their desired flavorings.

Topping ideas

- Dried fruit (raisins, cranberries, apricots)
- Dried herbs and spices (oregano, cinnamon, nutmeg)
- Nuts (pine nuts, peanuts, slivered almonds, pumpkin seeds)
- Small candies (chocolate pieces, peanut butter chips, marshmallows)

Review: Mission accomplished for Cruise in new ‘MI’ flick

BY JOCELYN NOVECK
ASSOCIATED PRESS

There’s some interesting talk in the cleverly satisfying script of “Mission: Impossible – Rogue Nation” about the element of luck. As in: How much is luck a factor in the success of Ethan Hunt and his IMF cohorts? After all, in the last movie they merely saved us from a nuclear holocaust. Was it talent, work or dumb luck?

Whatever you decide about that, let’s be clear about this: When it comes to Tom Cruise and his durability as an action hero, luck has little to do with it. The guy’s an action star extraordinaire, and it’s not luck or chance but work and smarts and yes, some swashbuckling derring-do that get him there. Whatever you may think of Mr. Cruise and his complex off-screen persona, let’s give him this: At age 53, he and his Ethan Hunt are, if anything, getting more fun to watch. And they make “Rogue Nation” not merely a serviceable summer flick, but an entertainment well worth your inflated ticket price.

Let’s give kudos to a few other folks, too, starting with director-writer Christopher McQuarrie, who, like each director in the franchise, puts his own stamp on the proceedings. Mr. McQuarrie (“The Usual Suspects”) does this with both a wry script that often makes fun of what’s happening, and some seriously entertaining action pieces, including a complicated assassination sequence set in Vienna’s glittering opera house during a lavish production of Puccini’s “Turandot.” (Parents: here’s a chance to get some opera into your kids’ summer – sort of like hiding the broccoli in the brownie mix.)

Also invaluable is returning “MI” vet Simon Pegg as Benji, the wise-cracking (and safe-cracking) computer whiz who provides a crucial dose not only of humor but also of humanity here. Welcome newcomers include Alec Baldwin, as a pompous CIA boss with deliciously dry delivery, and Rebecca Ferguson, making the most and then some of the obligatory female role. Ms. Ferguson is – get this – Swedish-born, named Ilsa here, and, yes, shows up in Casablanca, too.

“Rogue Nation” doesn’t start slowly. In fact, it begins with the scene you’re most likely to have heard about, because it involves Mr. Cruise’s own stunt work, in which the actor actually places himself on the wing of an airborne jet, and then – why not? – lets his legs slip, hanging on by only his hands as the landscape beneath gets tinier and tinier.

Why is Hunt on the wing? Well, that’s what can happen, annoyingly, when you try to board a plane AFTER takeoff. He manages to successfully remove a case of nerve gas canisters, but we’re just getting started.

We soon learn that the IMF is being disbanded, and the timing is terrible. Hunt is onto something really bad: the Syndicate, a nefarious group of former spies led by a vague, sinister leader (Sean Harris). That the Syndicate is not attached to one particular nation – it is the “Rogue Nation” of the title – has eerie resonance in today’s world.

Hunt soon finds himself chained to a ceiling in a London dungeon. Enter Ilsa (Ms. Ferguson) who obviously has some attraction to Hunt, and a tendency to save his life, but also is clearly not working with him, either.

The two meet again in Vienna, and eventually in Morocco, where Hunt and his friends take on a mission that involves, for one thing, Hunt holding his breath underwater for an impossibly long time while fighting an impossibly strong water current and many other things.

It shouldn’t surprise you by now to hear that Mr. Cruise apparently flirted with on-set danger here, too. And it’s impossible to deny that this knowledge adds to the fun. Early on, when Hunt was hanging off that plane, my 12-year-old companion – who’s grown up in the age of computer-generated wizardry – confidently whispered: “Ha, that’s totally a green screen.” And I was happy to be able to whisper back:

“Mission: Impossible – Rogue Nation,” a Paramount release, is rated PG-13 by the Motion Picture Association of America for “sequences of intense action and violence.” Running time: 131 minutes. Three stars out of four.

N.C. Maritime participates in Pirate Invasion Aug. 7-8

Young dreamers are invited to the N.C. Maritime Museum during Beaufort's annual Pirate Invasion on Friday, Aug. 7, and Saturday, Aug. 8.

During the mock invasion participants will witness living history demonstrations, sword fights, cannon firing, black powder weapons displays, a mock trial and much more.

The museum will offer a child and parent friendly zone where children can participate in programs and activities for visitors to enjoy. Free activities will include pirate hats, museum sea hunts, pirate tattoos and more.

Visitors will be able to participate in a scavenger hunt that will take them around Beaufort looking for pirates.

The N.C. Maritime Museum will offer a reward to everyone who can locate all 14 pirates featured on this year's "Beaufort's Most Wanted" cards. These cards can be purchased for $1.25 in the museum's gift shop while supplies last.

At 11:30 a.m. Saturday, the N.C. Maritime Museum will host its annual "Lunch with Pirates." Seaside Sensations Catering will cater the lunch.

While enjoying their lunch, families will be treated to a fashion show featuring the latest trends in the pirate world, put together by the East Coast Pirate Crew.

The infamous pirate Blackbeard will also be present and may even be willing to tell his tale of piracy. Reservations are required for the Lunch with Pirates, and tickets are $20 per person.

"The Lunch with Pirates is always a very popular event," said Christine Brin, museum educator. "The kids enjoy meeting Blackbeard and the parents enjoy the air-conditioned and calm atmosphere," she stated.

Starting at 10 a.m. on Saturday, families will have their chance to enjoy some free activities and crafts in the museum's library.

Children will get a pirate hat, official pirate tattoo, a pirate sash and even make a "super-secret" pirate treasure map. The activities will close during the "Lunch with Pirates" at 11:30 a.m. but will reopen at 12:30 and run until 4 p.m.

Inside the museum, visitors can see the artifacts from Blackbeard's ship, the Queen Anne's Revenge in a newly expanded exhibit.

One of the highlights of the new exhibit is a conservation laboratory where visitors can view and interact with conservators as they prepare Queen Anne's Revenge artifacts for eventual exhibition.

The lab will provide visitors with a better understanding of the work that goes into preparing these artifacts as they come from the ocean floor to the museum door.

The lab has been designed to support a wide range of conservation activities from opening concretions and cleaning to photography and documentation. It has both wet and dry cleaning stations, an air scribe booth and examination areas.

Broad windows on two sides of the lab will allow visitors to easily observe the work in progress and interact with the conservators. The lab will be manned by a combination of students, professional conservators and museum staff.

These activities are offered as part of the Second Saturdays programs offered this summer in conjunction with the N.C. Department of Cultural Resources. Second Saturdays combines the power of arts and heritage with hands-on fun each second Saturday during the peak summertime faction months. The Second Saturdays' events are free for all ages. To learn more, visit www.ncmaritimemuseums.com.

The N.C. Maritime Museum in Beaufort is at 315 Front St. The museum is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturdays and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. Admission is free, though donations are appreciated. For more information, call 252-728-7317.

Beaufort to defend town from Spanish privateers

Spanish pirates will invade Beaufort on Friday, Aug. 7, to Saturday, Aug. 8, for the annual Beaufort Pirate Invasion.

It was a harrowing day 268 years ago when Spanish privateers came ashore to take the town. Residents watched helplessly as the privateers sailed into the harbor with mischief and mayhem on their minds.

Unable to defend themselves against the greedy pirates who pillaged and plundered throughout the town, Beaufort was soon in the hands of the rogue pirates.

This did not set well with the villagers and Maj. Enoch Ward and his militia of 58 men.

They attempted to stop the ransacking and looting but to no avail. Maj. Ward, however, refused to relinquish his duties and donned the hat of a hero.

He scoured the countryside, raising alarms and spirits, garnering followers and farmers-turned-soldiers to protect his little town.

Within three days, Maj. Ward gathered 100 farmers and locals and armed them with whatever weapons they could find.

Maj. Ward, leading alongside Col. Thomas Lorick, returned to Beaufort with his hodgepodge militia and dispelled the unwelcome visitors from the town.

According to legend, several Spaniards were killed in the scuffle, their ghosts left to wander the streets of Beaufort. Soon, the citizens returned to their homes, but never to forget the Beaufort Pirate Invasion and their unlikely heroes, heroes that are still celebrated.

It was hundreds of years ago since this historical event and yet on the second weekend in August, the Beaufort

Pirate Invasion draws a large crowd of re-enactors, pirates, buccaneers and scallywags of all ages, to Carteret County to witness the re-enactment.

During the mock invasion participants will witness living history demonstrations, sword fights, cannon firing, black powder weapons displays, a mock trial and much more.

The event throughout downtown features a multitude of activities for all ages to enjoy, such as musical entertainment, magic shows, children's costume

Aspiring young pirates can enjoy spontaneous shenanigans as nefarious characters roam the streets and shops, engaging in mock battles, bursting into song and posing for pictures.

Participants can wander through the pirate encampment and learn how to be a scallywag, visit with the ship's surgeon, make baggy wrinkles, tie knots and watch tools forged over a flaming fire.

They will also see pirates going about their daily routines, preparing meals, making ropes, cleaning weapons, knot tying and more.

Official T-shirts will be sold during the invasion at the Dockhouse Park on the Beaufort waterfront.

Scuttlebutt Nautical Books and Bounty is the authorized Beaufort Pirate Invasion swag store for commemorative posters and flags.

Several pirate-related events will happen at the N.C. Maritime Museum. The store will sell Most Wanted Cards and commemorative artist, Chris Kennedy, will be at the museum from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days of the invasion.

This year, Beaufort Pirate Invasion partners with the Carteret County Domestic Violence Program, and part of the money raised during the event will go to the domestic violence program.

The Carteret County Domestic Violence Program helps support happy, healthy, safe and strong families by helping women, men and children rebuild their lives.

Participants can visit the County Domestic Violence Program's booth at the Dockhouse Park both days of the invasion.

Listed below are a few activities that can participants can enjoy during the invasion.

Friday, Aug. 7: Buccaneer Revue. From 7 to 8:30 p.m. at main stage, Middle Lane, participants will be treated to a chicken and barbecue dinner with all the fixings and a pirate talent show.

Tickets are available online or at Beaufort Trading Co. and Tidal Treasures on the Beaufort Waterfront.

Saturday, Aug. 8: The Yo, Ho, Ho and a Bottle of Run 1M/5K. Starting at 8 a.m., participants will be able to walk or run the Beaufort waterfront alongside pirates. Registration is online at [teinvation.com or also available the day of the race.](http://www.beaufortpira-

Authors Moss, Helm to sign books

As part of the annual Pirate Invasion, The Old Beaufort Shop will open its doors Saturday, Aug. 8, to authors Gregg Moss and Jaye Helm for storytelling and book signing at the Beaufort Historic Site.

Mr. Moss is originally from Marietta, Ga., and is now a resident of Beaufort with his wife and two sons, Isaac and Gabriel, the inspiration behind his publications.

Mr. Moss published his first book, The Shark and His Pet Boy in July 2014. Since then, he has added another book to his collection, The Monster Parade.

A recreational writer, he also maintains a full-time job as a real estate agent with Beaufort Realty and publishes a local magazine in Beaufort, called Beaufort-By-The-Sea.

Mr. Moss will be at The Old

Beaufort Shop for storytelling at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

The shop will also welcome Ms. Helm, author of Sarafina and the Pirate's Spyglass for book signing and photo opportunities at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Ms. Helm's love for writing developed at the age of 16. From there, she began her career writing poems and children's stories.

In addition to writing, Ms. Helm loves to dress up in authentic pirate clothing and attend pirate festivals all over the U.S.

She is currently working on the second book in the Sarafina series.

Kayak and yoga trip on White Oak River Aug. 8

The N.C. Coastal Federation and Second Wind Eco Tours of Swansboro are teaming up again to offer a summer kayak and yoga trip on the White Oak River from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Aug. 8.

The NCCF invites people to join April Clark, federation board member and owner of Second Wind Eco Tours, and yoga instructor Michelle Thornell for this trip. The trip departs from and returns to the Cedar Point Wildlife Landing in the Croatan National Forest off Highway 58 in Cedar Point.

Participants will paddle from the Cedar Point Wildlife Landing to Jones Island, which is located in the White Oak River in Hammocks Beach State Park. Depending on wind and tide, it's usually a 20 to 30 minute paddle to the island, and is suitable for beginning adult paddlers.

Participants will learn about the conservation and restoration projects at Jones Island, as well as be able to relax under the shade of giant oak trees during a gentle yoga session. Afterwards, participants will have the opportunity to swim from the beach.

Registration is required to participate in this trip. Registration may be done by sending an email to info@secondwindecotours.com or by calling 910-325-3600.

The price for participation is $35 for federation members and $45 for nonmembers; this includes a kayak rental. If participants bring their own kayaks, the price is $20 for federation members and $30 for nonmembers.

Participants are asked to bring bottled water, a towel, a hat or visor, sunscreen, water shoes and sunglasses. Participants should wear a bathing suit if they'd like to join in the swim.

Beaufort Historic Site to hold Depression bead demonstration, workshop

As part of the Beaufort Historical Association's Living History series, Gigi Koehler will conduct a Depression bead demonstration from 1-3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 15.

Ms. Koehler will demonstrate the way Depression beads are made out of rolled paper and then strung together to create unique necklaces and bracelets.

Although they originated during the Victorian era, the beads got their name because women and girls during the Great Depression made jewelry out of paper instead of purchasing more costly items.

Despite the inexpensive source, the paper beads added a vibrant pop of color to the wearer.

The beauty of a Depression bead relies on the type of paper used, as different colored and patterned paper create different variations in the design.

After paper is chosen, the bead maker cuts it into a shape depending on what type of bead is desired. It is rolled around a sewing needle, creating a tightly wound bead with a hole in the middle.

Finally, the end of the paper is glued to the bead and varnished – a process that takes two to three days. Beads can vary from 1-2 centimeters in length and 0.5-1.5 centimeters in width.

Everyone is invited to observe the Depression bead demonstration. Admission is free.

For those with further interest, the Living History Series will offer a Depression bead workshop at 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 20.

The workshop is limited to eight adults and children 10 years and up, with a materials fee of $25.

Ms. Koehler will incorporate the skills learned through the demonstration in a one-on-one interactive workshop where participants will enjoy the chance to create a piece of Depression bead jewelry.

For information on this and other Living History Programs, stop by the Beaufort Historical Association Welcome Center at 130 Turner St., call 252-728-5225 or 800-575-7483, or visit www.beauforthistoricsite.org.

band took home awards for Best Ballad and Best Live Recording.

The Band of Oz again received an award for Best Group and was inducted into the Beach Music Hall of Fame at the 1997 Cammy Awards.

The band now features a full horn section to total an eight-member group. They still perform well over 200 shows a year.

There is more music to enjoy as Alive at Five continues. Jupiter Jones rocks out on Friday, Aug. 21.

Jupiter Jones, a five-piece band that won Best Band by Greenville's Mixer Magazine three years in a row, is comprised of experienced, multi-talented former members of other local bands like Spare Change and the Victor Hudson Band.

They play a mixture of rock, country, beach, 80s, 90s and dance music from the oldies up to today's hottest hits. The band makes good use of violin, guitar and keyboards along with both female and male lead singers.

Kicking off the Labor Day weekend, on Friday, Sept. 4, the North Tower Band takes command of the Morehead City waterfront.

North Tower has been one of the South's great party bands for over 35 years, providing the best in oldies, beach, top 40 and funk.

Sizzling brass, super vocals, and a wide-ranging repertoire will all make this Alive at Five concert one to remember.

The Alive at Five concerts are sponsored by R.A. Jeffrey's and Bud Light, The Boathouse at Front Street Village, Wells Fargo, Crystal Coast Boats, Bob 93.3, WRNS 95.1, Twice the Ice, First Citizens Bank, Potash Corp of Aurora, Chalk and Gibbs Insurance, Wine and Design, Portside Marina, Starling Marina, Intercoastal Financial Group, EZ Docks, Coastal Press and the Town of Morehead City.

The concerts are hosted by the Downtown Morehead City Revitalization Association (DMCRA). Beverages will be available, and no coolers allowed.

The Alive at Five concert series is at 807 Shepard St. in downtown Morehead City.

For more information on the concert series, call the Downtown Morehead City Revitalization Association at 252-808-0440.

Area student spends summer participating in academic activities

Alexandria Chadwick, 15, a rising junior at Swansboro High, recently attended the Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics program held at East Carolina University and served as a page in the N.C. Senate.

Summer Ventures in Science and Mathematics is a cost-free statewide program of the UNC system that takes students beyond the traditional boundaries of high school science and mathematics.

Alexandria stated that she had the opportunity to use scientific instrumentation that she would not otherwise have ever used. She said the experience gave her a higher level of learning and she was able to collaborate with other students from all over North Carolina.

Alexandria completed a 10-page research paper on the "Effectiveness of Various Substances Against Termites."

During her month at ECU, she studied data driven decision making, biochemistry and catching a wave: physics of sources, signals and sensors.

As well as participating in the Summer Ventures program, she spent some of her summer in Raleigh serving as a page in the N.C. Senate.

Alexandria was sponsored by Sen. Harry Brown, R-Onslow, and appointed by the Senate President Pro Tempore, Phil Berger, R-Rockingham.

Statewide high school students in grades 9 through 12 serve as pages when the General Assembly is in session.

Alexandria is the daughter of Scott and Donna Chadwick of Swansboro and has family in Carteret County.

Choral society to resume rehearsals

The Crystal Coast Choral Society, a mixed-voice community chorus, will resume regular rehearsals for the fall season at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 8, in the fellowship hall of the Swansboro United Methodist Church.

Music director Finley Woolston has chosen a varied selection of music for the holiday season.

The concerts "Christmas Joy and Hanukah Lights: Choral Music of the Seasons" are scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 12, at All Saints Anglican Church, 292 McCabe Road near Newport, and on 3 p.m.

Sunday, Dec. 13, in Onslow County. The location is to be determined.

Members range in age from teens to grandparents and are drawn from Carteret, Craven, and Onslow counties. Membership is made up of high school students, active and retired teachers, nurses, doctors, clergy, military and many others.

Four concerts are given each year – two in mid-December and two in April.

Rehearsals are held from 7-9 p.m. each Tuesday from September through December, and again in January through April.

No audition is required, but members must have a pleasing voice, be able to match tones and be willing to do some at-home practice, as well as attend weekly rehearsals. New members are welcome until Tuesday, Sept. 29.

For more information, call Mr. Woolston at 910-324-6864 or visit www.crystalcoastchoralsociety.org.

The Swansboro United Methodist Church is at 665 W. Corbett Ave., Highway 24, Swansboro.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Samantha Casey & The Bluegrass Jam to close series

The Friends of Fort Macon's free summer concert series concludes its 2015 season with a bluegrass show on Friday, Aug. 7.

Samantha Casey & The Bluegrass Jam will be entertaining in the fort's parade grounds to wrap up another year.

Featuring Samantha Casey

on fiddle, the group stands out with solid instrumentation and vocal harmonies. Ms. Casey is joined by her dad, Daniel Casey on banjo, Dell Tims on bass, Ray Tims on guitar and sometimes with special guest Lindsey Tims on mandolin.

All shows are free, though donations are welcome.

The music is from 7 to 8 p.m., and it all takes place within the walls of historic Fort Macon.

The sally port doors stay open on concert evenings, and picnic baskets are welcome, but alcohol or pets are not permitted.

Participants should bring a lawn chair or get comfortable in the grass or up on the ramparts.

Fort Macon is at 2303 E. Fort Macon Road in Atlantic Beach.

Lecturer to discuss race, rights in WWI

East Carolina University Assistant Professor of History Dr. Kennetta Hammond Perry will explore the role played by African-Americans in the early Civil Rights movement during World War I.

The free lecture will be held 2-3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, at the N.C. History Center in New Bern.

In addition to highlighting the contributions African-American soldiers and military support personnel made to aid in securing an Allied victory during World War I, this lecture will pay particular attention to how African-Americans leveraged the contingencies of war to advance the cause of civil rights and social justice.

Dr. Perry specializes in Atlantic world history with a particular emphasis on transnational race politics, empire, migration and movements for citizenship among people of African descent in Europe, the Caribbean and the U.S.

This free lecture is part of a World War I lecture series held throughout the summer in collaboration with the opening of "North Carolina in the Great War," an exhibit open through Sunday, Sept. 13, at the N.C. History Center.

For more information, call 252-639-3500 or visit www.tryonpalace.org.

During a Tryon Tot's program, children ages 3 to 5 are invited to explore Tryon Palace's kitchen gardens. This program will teach children how the royal governor's food was grown in the 18th century. (Contributed photo)

Tryon Palace invites tots to explore kitchen garden

As a part of Tryon Palace's Tryon Tots program, children ages 3-5 can explore the lush Tryon Palace Kitchen Garden at 10 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 8, in New Bern.

Children will discover how the royal governor's food was grown in the 18th century and plant a seed of their own to bring home.

Tryon's Tots is designed for individual families. Space is limited to 20 children. Extra openings will be filled the day of the event on a first-come, first-served basis.

All Tryon's Tots programs begin at the N.C. History Center in New Bern. To reserve a spot in this program, call 252-639-3524 or visit www.tryonpalace.org.

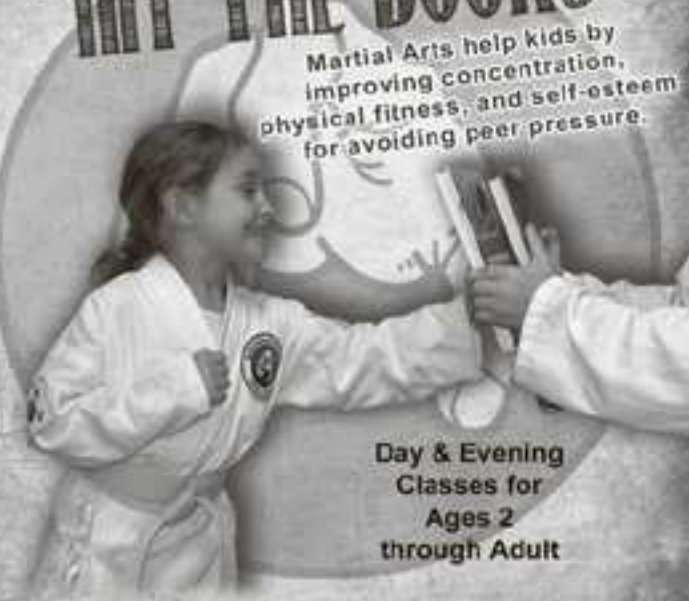

Race and rights in World War I will be the topic of the next free history lecture at Tryon Palace in New Bern. The lecture is from 2-3 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 8. (Contributed photo)

Chick-fil-A staff gets kickin

On July 26, staff members from Chick-fil-A in Morehead City filled Grandmaster Dong's Martial Arts School for a two-hour self-defense seminar.

Participants, who were female team members from the local chicken restaurant, received a short lecture followed by hands-on instruction dealing with situational awareness and assault prevention.

"I know some of the subject matter was uncomfortable for the girls," said participant Janice Bath, "but as a mother of daughters: thank you for doing this."

"We enjoyed this opportunity to work with these ladies," said Shannon Henry, co-owner of the school. "We hope that none of them ever need to use the techniques they learned with us, but we're glad that we could be a part of helping them with some team building and self-defense training."

Grandmaster Dong's Martial Arts offers self-defense classes for businesses or civic groups of five or more at no charge.

Grandmaster Dong's Martial Arts School is at 5270-A Highway 70 west in Morehead City and offers both day and evening classes for ages two and up. It is owned and operated by husband and wife instructors Phillip and Shannon Henry.

For more information about the program visit their website at www.DongsKarateMHC.com or call 252-222-0444.

County 4-H'er earns top honors at state-level event

Alanna Paschall, 11, of Newport, won gold at the recent State 4-H Congress.

This year's 4-H Congress, held in Raleigh from July 18-21, attracted 518 young people and their adult leaders for activities including presentations on a variety of subjects, leadership and citizenship training, service opportunities, officer elections and more.

Alanna is the daughter of Neal and Joan Paschall. She won the division of the careers and entrepreneurship competition with her presentation on radiology and being a radiologist.

The 4-H program is the youth education program of N.C. Cooperative Extension, based at N.C. State and N.C. A&T State universities.

More than 232,000 young people between the ages of 5 and 19 participate in N.C. 4-H activities each year with the help of 20,563 adult and youth volunteers.

For more information on Carteret County 4-H, contact Dee Smith 252-222-6352, dee_edwards-smith@ncsu.edu.
