For the week of April 23 - 29, 2017

Adam Campbell, Horatio Sanz, Briga Heelan, Andrea Martin, Nicole Richie and John Michael Higgins star in "Great News"

Tina Fey and fellow "30 Rock" alum Tracey Wigfield team up to bring viewers a laugh-out-loud new comedy about the goings-on at a cable news program. "Great News" promises to not only bring the laughs, but also show the humorous side of generational gaps. Briga Heelan ("Ground Floor") and Andrea Martin ("My Big Fat Greek Wedding," 2002) lead the cast of "Great News," which premieres Tuesday, April 25, on NBC.

'Bizarre Foods' heads back to northern Italy

By Andrew Warren TV Media

'ou'd think that Andrew Zimmern would have run out of truly bizarre culinary experiences by now. With the seasons of Travel Channel's "Bizarre Foods" and its spinoffs — "Bizarre Foods America" and "Bizarre Foods: Delicious Destinations" — now numbering in the 20s, the James Beard Award-winning chef with the iron palate is still finding incredible and exotic new dishes to chow down on.

In "Delicious Destinations" unlike its parent series, "Bizarre Foods" — Zimmern checks out the classic dishes that a location has to offer, whether stomachtwistingly bizarre or all together more ordinary. These dishes all have a story, though, and he explores their history and checks out some local joints that may be doing something a bit less conventional with the classics.

Take the next pair of back-toback episodes, airing Tuesday, April 25, for example. Zimmern pays a visit to Italy, stopping by Venice in the first episode. He's been here before in a previous season, but the world-famous canal city still has so many culinary treats to explore. Venice is the birthplace of carpaccio, and Zimmern finds some of the raw beef dish that's been pounded so thin that it's practically paper. He also checks out cuttlefish that has been stewed in its own ink and a classic Italian dessert: espresso-

In the second of the back-toback episodes, our host heads west to Milan, where a steaming bowl of minestrone soup waits for him. The city is a culinary giant, and the saffron-tinted risotto that Zimmern sinks his teeth into is pretty indicative as to why.

Of course, no culinary visit to Milan would be complete without having a taste of the city's most famous dessert. Panettone is a fluffy, delicious cake that has found popularity throughout Europe and Latin America, especially around Christmastime; but as any food junkie knows, the most authentic version of a dish is always found in its birthplace.

There may not be many truly bizarre foods left for Andrew Zimmern to sink his teeth into, but that doesn't make his international culinary adventures any less entertaining. A new episode of "Bizarre Foods: Delicious Destinations" airs Tuesday, April 25, on Travel Channel.

Undercover Boss

4 8:00 p.m.

Executives and other high-ranking employees leave their posh offices behind to work entry-level positions in their companies. In this new episode, the CEO of Taco Bueno goes undercover among his employees.

Let It Fall: Los Angeles 1982-1992

6 9:00 p.m.

This premiere documentary takes an in-depth look at the conflict between law enforcement and the black community, and takes a look at tensions across Los Angeles as a whole. Filmmakers trace the roots of the civil unrest to long before the L.A. riots.

Renee Maloney, co-founder and CFO of Painting with a Twist, in "Undercover Boss"

Ancient Aliens

нізт 9:00 р.т.

This season premiere takes a look at how scholars, scientists and governments have united in the search for intelligent life beyond earth. While this may seem like a new development, it's actually secretly been in motion since the 1940s.

Tanked!

ANPL 10:00 p.m.

Filmmaker Kevin Smith enlists the help of the ATM crew in this new episode. With two turtles and one tortoise in desperate need of a new home, Kevin dreams of a tank capable of housing both species, despite the fact that they require different things.

Q: Who is the man that does the Trivago commercials? Is he related to former president George W. Bush? He sure looks like he could be.

A: You aren't the only person to notice the resemblance between Trivago pitchman Tim Williams and former U.S. president George W. Bush, however there seems to be no actual relation.

There are a few sources for the similarity: Both seem to suit the salt-and-pepper hair they're sporting, both manage to look casual in whatever they're wearing, and then there's the facial expression — what media industry blogger Brad Warthen called "the patented 'W' smirk." Williams described himself as the "class clown" in high school, a term that has been applied to young Bush as well, including by his supporters — his approachable charisma has been considered one of his great political assets. Perhaps the smirk is part of that persona. Or maybe it's a Texas thing. Both grew up in Houston (though Bush was actually born in Connecticut).

Williams isn't in Houston anymore, though. The Texan transplanted himself to Germany after failing to get much acting work in Hollywood.

Hollywood Q&A

It was a different story in Berlin. After landing a role in the 2003 film "In Search of an Impotent Man," he landed a regular role in the German soap opera "Good Times, Bad Times." That got him the attention of Trivago's people (the online travel agency is also based in Germany).

Though he's since become famous back home, he's still based in Germany and still appears in German film and TV. He had a major role in the 2014 historical drama film "Labyrinth of Lies," which was a huge hit in Germany and gained some attention (and a few awards) stateside as well. Earlier this year, he had a small role in the TV series "You Are Wanted," a German series produced by Amazon.com. Amazon has since dubbed it into four other languages.

President Trump turned down a chance to throw out the Opening Day pitch for the Washington Nationals. For some reason, Trump doesn't want to be surrounded by a bunch of large Hispanic men holding baseball bats.

Today we learned that Trump is violating another norm because he won't throw out the first pitch at the Washington Nationals's Opening Day. I don't know why. Maybe he's worried his hands are too small to palm a baseball.

Since Taft, every president other than Jimmy Carter has thrown out the first pitch of the season opener. That means FDR did it! Let that sink in! Not only did FDR beat Hitler in World War II, he also struck him out.

Here we go, America! Trump won't throw out the first pitch. What else? He won't go to the Correspondents' Dinner. He won't release his tax returns. He won't put his business in a blind trust. He doesn't want to live in D.C. What presidential tradition will Trump abandon next? This Thanksgiving, those turkeys better run.

On Sunday, Fox News tweeted out a news alert that Donald Trump was spending the weekend working at the White House. Now this wasn't just news, it was a news ALERT. Like: "This just in, the president is actually doing his job."

Late Night With Seth Meyers

White House press secretary Sean Spicer said today that President Trump came to Washington "to get things done." That's why, five minutes into every meeting, he says, "Are we done?"

President Trump yesterday made his 13th trip to a golf course since taking office. Hey man, you're the president! My only job is making fun of you, and I don't even have time to play golf. You play golf like you're trying to complete a punch card. "One more and I get a free meatball sub!"

STATINS ON A WIDER SCALE

Over the past decade, the number of Americans aged 40 years and older taking cholesterol-lowering "statin" medications for protection against heart attacks and strokes has risen to 40 million. Now, the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force (USPSTF) is recommending that even many healthy individuals should begin taking the drugs for primary prevention. According to the new guidelines, people should consider taking a low to moderate-dose statin if they are Preventive Services Task Force between ages 40 and 70; have no known cardiovascular disease or symptoms; and have one or more of the following Association/American College conditions: an elevated lowdensity lipoprotein cholesterol level or a low high-density lipoprotein level, diabetes, high reduce cardiovascular disease.
