When Eleanor Shellstrop (Kristen Bell, "Veronica Mars") wakes up in the afterlife, she quickly realizes she's been sent to the wrong place in "The Good Place," premiering Monday, Sept. 19, on NBC. Ted Danson ("Cheers") co-stars as Michael, who oversees The Good Place, and Eleanor must keep him from finding out that she's an impostor. The series is set to move to its regular time slot on Thursday, Sept. 22.

A prime place

Ted Danson returns to prime-time NBC in 'The Good Place'

By Kyla Brewer
TV Media

As the weather turns cooler and communities across the nation celebrate homecoming, the television season gets underway with hopeful freshman comedies, seasoned senior dramas and plenty of alumni.

This fall marks a very special homecoming for NBC as it welcomes Ted Danson ("Cheers") back into the fold as one of the stars of "The Good Place," premiering Monday, Sept. 19, and then moving to its regular slot Thursday, Sept. 22, on the peacock network. Kristen Bell ("Veronica Mars") headlines the series as Eleanor Shellstrop, a woman who discovers she's dead when Michael (Danson) welcomes her to The Good Place.

That would be fine and dandy with Eleanor, but she soon figures out there's been a huge mistake. Michael, the architect of the idyllic afterlife community, informs her she's been granted access to The Good Place instead of The Bad Place because she helped save innocent people from Death Row. A royal jerk by her own admission, Eleanor knows she's done no such thing, but hides in plain sight from Michael because she has no intention of going to The Bad Place.

Bell talked about why she finds the role challenging when she and Danson appeared on a panel at this year's San Diego Comic-Con to promote the show.

"It's a very fine line that I have to ride to stay likable when I am the unlikable protagonist," explained the actress.

She gave props to director Drew Goddard ("The Martian," 2015), who also serves as executive producer of the new comedy alongside creator and writer Michael Schur ("Parks and Recreation"), Morgan Sackett ("Veep") and David Miner ("Brooklyn Nine-Nine"). A compelling exploration of what it means to be a good person, "The Good Place" shows a lot of promise, especially considering Danson is involved.

Ted Danson and Kristen Bell star in "The Good Place"

As for Danson's part in "The Good Place," while speaking to fans at Comic-Con, he admitted he feels pressure to live up to the quality of the scripts.

"The real pressure I have to say is that the scripts are so good that you just don't want to mess it up," Danson said.

The multiple Emmy and Golden Globe winner should know a good script when he sees one — he starred as lothario Sam Malone in NBC's legendary comedy "Cheers" from 1982 to 1993. Although the first season's ratings failed to live up to expectations, it went on to become one of the most popular television series of all time. He also appeared in HBO's "Curb Your Enthusiasm," and CBS's "Becker" and

"CSI: Crime Scene Investigation." Danson's return to NBC comedy in "The Good Place" is particularly sweet for the network because the show airs Thursday evenings, which was home to the Must See TV programming block "Cheers" bolstered for years.

It's been a while since the Must See TV heyday, and a shift in programming trends means "The Good Place" is the only comedy airing in its time-slot on prime-time network television. The show goes head-to-head with ABC's "Grey's Anatomy," Fox's "Rosewood" and CBS's coverage of NFL football, at least until the return of such comedies as "The Big Bang Theory" to Thursdays later in the fall.

While many industry pundits seem concerned that "The Good Place" may not make good against the other networks' dramas, the move could work to the comedy's advantage as weary viewers look to Thursdays for a few laughs to wind down the week.

There's little doubt Bell and Danson have the power to keep viewers engaged, and it can't hurt that they have a solid supporting cast. Soon after arriving in the afterlife, Eleanor meets her "soulmate," Chidi, played by William Jackson Harper ("How to Tell You're a Douchebag," 2016). He becomes her confidant as she admits there's been a mistake, and he struggles to decide what to do about the situation while helping her navigate life in a world where no one gets drunk or even uses curse words. They occasionally enlist the help of Janet (D'Arcy Carden, "The To Do List," 2013), a source of information in The Good Place. The cast also includes Jameela Jamil ("Koko Pop") and Manny Jacinto ("The Romeo Section") as Eleanor's seemingly perfect neighbors.

Aside from giving away free frozen yogurt with Danson as they promoted the show at Comic-Con, Bell is going above and beyond for her new series. The actress invited her fans and followers to participate in her "'The Good Place' 30-Day Do Good Challenge." She called people into action by prompting them to upload videos and photos of themselves doing good in their communities as they help their neighborhoods, animals or the planet in general using the hashtag #TheGoodPlace.

Bell's in a good place to influence millions to do good. She's been a fan favorite since she starred in the title role of the teen mystery drama "Veronica Mars" from 2004 to 2007. She gained even more fans thanks to her voice work as Anna in Disney's hit animated film "Frozen" (2013).

Bell and Danson are poised to inject new life into NBC's Thursdays with a look at the afterlife in "The Good Place," premiering Monday, Sept. 19, on NBC, before moving to its regular timeslot Thursday, Sept. 22.

Gotham

25 8:00 p.m.

As the city sinks into chaos thanks to such villains as The Penguin (Robin Lord Taylor), Jim Gordon (Ben McKenzie) works as a bounty hunter in the new season. Meanwhile, Bruce Wayne (David Mazouz) uncovers more secrets about his parents' murders.

Kevin Can Wait

4 8:30 p.m.

When Kevin (Kevin James) retires from the police force, he hopes to spend carefree days with his family in the premiere of this new comedy. However, he soon discovers he faces tougher challenges at home than he ever did while walking the beat.

Robin Lord Taylor stars in "Gotham"

Lucifer

25 9:00 p.m.

Lucifer (Tom Ellis) and Chloe (Lauren German) investigate the murder of a stand-in actress, but he's distracted when his mother escapes from Hell in this season premiere. Also, the new medical examiner tests Lauren's faith in Lucifer.

The Good Place

7 10:00 p.m.

Soon after Eleanor (Kristen Bell) awakens in the afterlife, she discovers there's been a huge mistake and she's been sent to the wrong place in this premiere. Ted Danson stars as Michael, the administrator who welcomes Eleanor to the Good Place.

Couples face off in the latest season of 'Sugar Showdown'

By Andrew Warren
 TV Media

Quick, it's time for a pop quiz: what sweet baking ingredient do you get if you combine carbon, hydrogen and oxygen in just the right way? If you answered "sugar," congratulations! You have a sweet mind and at least some knowledge of organic chemistry. If not ... well, who said that TV can't be educational?

Mind you, "Sugar Showdown" on Cooking Channel isn't exactly an educational program; instead, it's a heck of a fun one. The latest season of this oh-so-sweet baking competition got underway last week, and this week's new episode airs Wednesday, Sept. 21.

In a format that's inspired by other popular cooking competitions, each episode of "Sugar Showdown" brings together three expert bakers who, under the watchful eyes of a panel of judges and bearded host Josh Elkin, must bake up the most delectable confections that they can pull off within the tight time limit.

Of course, there's a bit more to it than just that. In the first round of tooth-tingling competition, they're given a mystery ingredient that must be featured in their confections: the confectioner who is least successful at incorporating it, decided by the judges' sweet teeth, is sent packing.

The second and final round does things a bit differently. There's no must-use ingredient; instead, the two remaining bakers are given a theme on which to base their cakes, tart, pies and cupcakes.

This week's episode, though, is shaking up that formula a bit. Instead of three individual bakers facing off, there's three teams of two: couples who love to bake as much as they love one another.

In the first round, the happy couples are forced to use grapefruit in their baking — an ingredient about as delicious as they come. Once one couple has been sent home, it's on to the final round. This week's theme: breakfast-in-bed cakes. It's a fun theme for a couples challenge, and it's only the second episode of what's shaping up to be a fun-filled season of "Sugar Showdown." Catch a new episode of this sweet, sweet baking action Wednesday, Sept. 21, on Cooking Channel.

Free State of Jones

After the disastrous Battle of Corinth in 1862, battlefield medic Newton Knight (McConaughey) deserts the Confederate army and returns to his farm in Jones County, Mississippi. Away from the war, he befriends a slave named Rachel (Mbatha-Raw), who has secretly learned how to read. As the war turns against the Confederacy, Newton turns on the army as well when it starts seizing crops and livestock to feed the war effort. While helping to fight off a small Confederate force sent to take crops from a nearby farm, Newton becomes injured and flees with Rachel into a nearby swamp, where he joins up with a rebellious group of deserters and escaped slaves to make a stand.
 Director: Gary Ross. Stars: Matthew McConaughey, Gugu Mbatha-Raw, Mahershala Ali, Keri Russell, Jacob Lofland. 2016. 139 min. Action.

Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: Out of the Shadows

A year after he was defeated by the four mutant turtles — Leonardo (Ploszek), Donatello (Howard), Raphael (Ritchson) and Michelangelo (Fisher) — the villainous Shredder (Tee) escapes from prison with the help of scientist Vernon Fenwick (Arnett). Once free, he makes contact with an alien being named Krang (Garrett), who promises him great rewards in return for help taking over the Earth. Using an alien mutagen gifted to him by Krang, Shredder creates his own mutants to distract the turtles while he sets out to assemble the pieces of the device that will allow Krang to enter the world.

Director: Dave Green. Stars: Noel Fisher, Jeremy Howard, Pete Ploszek, Alan Ritchson, Will Arnett, Brian Tee, Brad Garrett, Megan Fox. 2016. 112 min. Action.

Neighbors 2: Sorority Rising

With another baby on the way, Mac (Rogen) and Kelly (Byrne) have decided to sell their house, a task made much more difficult when a hard-partying sorority moves into the house next door. When the sorority's leader, Shelby (Moretz), refuses to keep the noise and disruptions to a minimum, the potential buyers of Mac and Kelly's house withdraw their offer, leading the increasingly desperate couple to turn to their old neighbor, Teddy (Efron), for help driving the girls out of the neighborhood.
 Director: Nicholas Stoller. Stars: Seth Rogen, Zac Efron, Rose Byrne, Chloë Grace Moretz. 2016. 92 min. Comedy.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Why is "The Vampire Diaries" not being renewed after season 8?

A: To hear the creators tell it, it was their idea to end the show. But of course they would say that — just like in a breakup, you never want people to think you were the one who got dumped.

It started with a stray quote by "The Vampire Diaries" star Ian Somerhalder ("Lost") back in April, when he told a fans gathered at a convention that, "We have decided to do one last season to really do the story justice." He later backtracked, saying that it was up to CW, which hadn't yet made a decision about the show's fate. But the news was confirmed at the San Diego Comic-Con event in July, when creator and showrunner Julie Plec, reportedly nearly in tears, made the official announcement, calling it "bittersweet and emotional."

Then, at the Television Critics Association press tour in August, CW President Mark Pedowitz said that, "Peter Roth [president of Warner Bros. Television, which produces the show], Julie and I, we collectively came to the same place — actually Julie got there before Peter and I did — that this was the right time to end the series."

It's also possible that Plec and co-creator Kevin Williamson wanted to avoid all the uncertainty they went through this past year. Plec said they were unsure of even getting renewed for this eighth season, so they had to write in a little closure at the end of season 7, in case it was their last chance.

This means that the new season will feature an all-new villain, played by former "UnREAL" star Nathalie Kelley.

"It's a new take on villains for us," Plec said at Comic-Con. "It's definitely something that's rooted back all the way to ancient times."

In other casting news, former star Nina Dobrev, who left the show after its sixth season, is returning for the final season, which will premiere on Oct. 21, and consist of 16 episodes (instead of the usual 22).

Donald Trump has been saying that Hillary Clinton looks unwell. Trump then admitted he thinks any woman over 35 looks like she's dying.

Last week, Twitter introduced a "quality filter" that gets rid of tweets that contain spam, mean or unwanted content. An hour later, Twitter filed for bankruptcy.

McDonald's has decided to remove fitness trackers from their Happy Meals. Apparently, many customers thought McDonald's was just making fun of them.

KFC has come out with a sunscreen that makes you smell like fried chicken. Of course, if you want to smell like KFC, you could just ride around in any single guy's car.

Melania Trump is planning to sue a British newspaper for defamation. Apparently, the paper called her "happily married."

Donald Trump canceled a campaign rally scheduled for Portland, Oregon. This is devastating news for Portland's conservative community: Steve.

The GOP has already started making a strategy around the assumption that Hillary Clinton will win the presidency. Which may explain the Republican Party's new slogan: "Winter is Coming."

It's being reported that in the next iOS update, Siri will pronounce Barbra Streisand's name correctly. The news comes as a huge relief to gay men over 60.

An ex-NFL quarterback was arrested after being found naked with meth and marijuana. In other words, he's back in the NFL.

The Tonight Show With Jimmy Fallon

Last night was the Closing Ceremony for the Summer Olympics. And did you see this? To kick off Tokyo as the next host of the Summer Games, the Japanese prime minister came out of a giant pipe dressed as Super Mario. Sure, after all the water problems they had in Rio, NOW a plumber shows up.

I read that there was no full dress rehearsal ahead of the Closing Ceremony last night because the stadium was being used all week. But somehow, everyone still managed to pull off some truly flawless WALKING AROUND.

I have to say congratulations to Team U.S.A. for winning over 100 medals at the Rio Olympics, the most of any country. And my condolences to everyone who's behind them at airport security.

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

America just dominated the 2016 Olympics! That's right, we killed it. We got 121 medals! And I'm not surprised. I watched the Games here in the States, and from what I saw, apparently only Americans competed. Americans and Usain Bolt. Of course, he's an honorary American because Jamaica is basically tropical Colorado.

The Late Late Show With James Corden

A big part of every Closing Ceremony focuses on where the next Olympics are going to take place. Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe promoted the 2020 Tokyo Olympics by dressing up as Super Mario. Forget Mario, after watching that, I felt like I was the one who had been on mushrooms all day.

The prime minister of Japan coming out of a pipe like Super Mario ... This would be like if the Australian prime minister was carried on stage in the pouch of a
