“Owning a small business is just as much about being a community member as it is about making an excellent product and offering great services,” comments Jennifer Mital, co-owner of Creekside Vineyards Winery & Inn. “We are honored to be a tourist’s weekend getaway, or a neighbor’s place to celebrate and relax, just as much as we are to be a customer’s favorite vintage to enjoy at home.” Celebrating six years in business, Creekside Vineyards continues to focus on its mission of creating community through creativity and quality.

Guests visiting the year-round Preemption Tasting Room can now enjoy outdoor seating and seasonal local music, along with grill offerings by Team Applesmoke on Thursdays and Fridays from 4-6 p.m. beginning in May. Also, Creekside Vineyards' new Concert on the Crush Pad Series highlights the community: a percentage of sales from each event supporting either the Sherrard Academic Foundation, Viola or Sherrard Pubic Library. Fall fundraisers are also planned in Coal Valley for Gilda's Club and QC Paws.

"We take pride in offering well-balanced, Illinois grown wines. Using grapes from local growers and our own vineyard have allowed us to create a diverse line up while keeping production local," comments John Mital, whose wines have earned high marks at the Finger Lakes International, Illinois Wine, MidAmerican, and Indy International Wine Competitions.

Visitors can enjoy Creekside Vineyards wines in Preemption, Coal Valley, or in town at one of their supporting retailers. Featuring vineyard tours, yoga, nature writing, local musicians and special events, the Wine Terrace is a must experience in the Quad Cities. Creekside Vineyards is also delighted about its newest partnership with Parker Run Vineyards in New Windsor, which boasts a breathtaking event venue, complete with Creekside Vineyards service and fine wines. No matter what the venue or vintage, their creativity offerings and friendly service remains top notch.

New exhibitions, installations, interactives, and kid-friendly spaces are being introduced at the Muscatine Art Center in May 2017. The historic Musser-McColm Home, built in 1908 and recently listed on the National Register of Historic Places, features period rooms with fine and decorative arts. Paintings from the Mississippi River Collection and works of art by Marc Chagall, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Camille Pissarro, and other internally recognized artists are on view. A new installation of pattern and art glass and an exhibition of portraits from the permanent collection opens in May 2017. The "Learn to Look" Gallery for kids and families, also opening in May, includes a wide variety of hands-on activities.

The exhibition, "Not So Ordinary: Iowa Regionalists and Scenes of Rural Life", is on view in the Stanley Gallery through July 30, 2017. The exhibition showcases the Muscatine Art Center's remarkable

Iowa Regionalist collection. Visitors to the exhibition can compare paintings and prints by Grant Wood to works by Marvin Cone, John Bloom, Alma Held, Arnold Pyle, Juanita Jamison, Harold Allison, and others, including Muscatine's own, William Bunn. Some of these artists are connected to Grant Wood through the Stone City Art Colony, while others overlapped at the University of Iowa's School of Art. Some completed Works Progress Administration (WPA) murals under the supervision of Grant Wood, while others also exhibited in the Iowa Art Salon in the 1930s.

The Muscatine Art Center is located at 1314 Mulberry Avenue in Muscatine, Iowa.

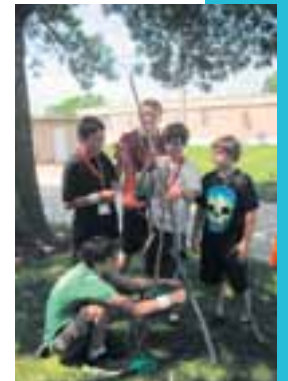

Hours are Tuesday through Friday from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Thursday evenings until 7:00 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Admission is free of charge. For a time, his sidemen were John Paul Jones and Jimmy Page (with John Bonham occasionally coming by), a pairing that would lead to great things, to say the least. SCOTT COUNTY FAMILY YMCA
Building a stronger Eastern Iowa since 1858

Serving the community since 1858

Youth Development has been the foundation of the YMCA's mission since it first began serving Davenport in 1858. This summer, 159 years later, some of the tools and toys might have changed, but the Y's mission focus on youth development for all of our community kids is first and foremost!

The Scott County YMCA has put together a variety of programs, camps and clinics with staff teams trained to provide the most safe, and highest quality activities. From zip lines and water slides, to horse camp, shooting arrows and canoeing, to travelling all over the Quad Cities in search of healthy fun!

In addition to ensuring parents that their precious kiddos will be safe, and making certain the kids have a great time, the Y is also working to meet the needs of our entire community by furthering the cause of learning and reading enrichment for all. Every day, over 1,000 area kids will find a quiet place, grab a book and celebrate education by reading. By doing this, we set a great example for kids by celebrating such an important, enriching activity. Together, as a community partner, we are working to close the achievement gap by including more kids in these awesome activities!

American Presidents: Life PortraitsMay 13, 2017-October 29, 2017*Herbert Hoover Presidential Library-Museum*West Branch, Iowa-1/4 mile off Interstate 80 at Exit 254

The Herbert Hoover Presidential Museum's newest exhibit will provide an engaging overview of two hundred and twenty-eight years of American history through the lives and administrations of the forty-five individuals who have held the office of President of the United States.

A replica of the White House entrance will begin your journey to meet some of the most interesting and influential political leaders from our nation's past and present. The exhibit text panels with portraits by Chas Fagan were created by C-SPAN as part of their traveling exhibit program. Original artifacts for each of the presidents will be on display to provide further insight into their personalities and administrations.

The exhibit begins with George Washington, represented by his personal copy of the political philosopher John Locke's On Human Understanding. The volumes are signed by Washington and carry his bookplate. John Adams designed his own family crest which will be displayed. The author of the Declaration of Independence and third president, Thomas Jefferson, will be represented by his pen holder.

The Civil War era marked a milestone in American history. Abraham Lincoln's presidential portfolio that carried working papers, including the drafts of the Emancipation Proclamation, will be displayed with his presidential seal. Theodore Roosevelt, who often began his day by riding a horse, will be represented by his horse saddle. Warren G. Harding enjoyed playing golf as seen by his golf bag, clubs, and accessories while Franklin Roosevelt was an avid stamp collector, with some of his philatelic materials on display. Lyndon Johnson was constantly on the telephone cajoling and arm-twisting members of Congress to vote for administration legislation. One of his telephones along with tape recorded conversations captured by the White House recording system will shed light on the Johnson years. Ronald Reagan loved working on his ranch as evidenced by his work gloves. And Barack Obama liked to play chess with a set given him by the King of Jordan.

The exhibit will also feature four home movies taken by First Lady Lou Henry Hoover including two of the recently preserved color home movies. Take your photograph with some of the Presidents who will be represented with life-size portraits. The Presidents await your visit!

The Beach Boys at 7:30 p.m. You can capsulize most pop music acts by reciting how many hits they’ve had and how many millions of albums they’ve sold. But these conventional measurements fall short when you’re assessing the impact of The Beach Boys. To be sure, this band has birthed a torrent of hit singles and sold albums by the tens of millions. But its greater significance lies in the fact that it changed the musical landscape so profoundly that every pop act since has been in its debt. Happily for us all, The Beach Boys continue to create and perform with the same bold imagination and style that marked their explosive debut over 50 years ago.
