Closer to home

'The Expanse' brings sci-fi back into our own solar system

By Cassie Dresch
TV Media

Humans have always had a penchant for exploring — from the depths of the ocean to the vastness of the universe, we want to know what's out there. Space exploration has come a long way as technologies have advanced and evolved, which makes it easy to dream of what waits for us beyond our solar system.

TV likes to go out into the cosmos, too: "Star Trek," "Battlestar Galactica," "Firefly," "Andromeda," the list goes on and on. These shows are classic examples of intergalactic, outer space human exploration shows, but what about staying closer to home? There aren't many sci-fi shows that revolve around the vacuum of space nearest our sun.

But Syfy's newest offering does stay within our solar system for a change, "The Expanse," a space opera set 200 years in the future on Earth, Mars and the asteroid belt that separates the two planets, is the cabler's latest original show. The 10-episode series kicks off with a special two-night event Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15, on Syfy, before sliding into its regular Tuesday time-slot.

The show from NBCUniversal's Syfy is based on the international bestselling series of novels of the same name from James S. A. Corey (the pen name used by authors Ty Franck and Daniel Abraham), and stars three-time Golden Globe nominee Thomas Jane ("The Mist," 2007) as Det. Joseph Miller, and Steven Strait ("Magic City") as rogue ice freighter captain James Holden. The pair are on the hunt for a missing woman, and ultimately end up hot on the trail of the biggest conspiracy in human history.

If the source material is any indication, "The Expanse" promises to be an intriguing tale that doesn't need to zip-zoom to the outer reaches of the galaxy to make for good TV. Co-creator Mark Fergus commented on this at the Television Critics Association press tour in January:

"We always felt that the great struggle of a lot of sci-fi we grew up on takes us into a story world where we've already jumped over the interesting part, which is the first fumbling steps of us pushing off this planet, getting out into the solar system, sorting ourselves out as a race. All the struggle and the pain and the glory of that, ... [e]verything is kind of done. And to us, we really got turned on by the books because they told of this world where 'Here is the scaffolding. Here is how it got built. Here is who built it. Here is how humanity started looking at itself differently and getting rid of old forms of racism and creating new forms of racism.'"

Part of the "we" Fergus is talking about is his partner in crime, Hawk Ostby. The screenwriting duo penned the Oscar-nominated film "Children of Men" (2006), the mega-hit superhero film "Iron Man" (2008) and the Daniel Craig and Olivia Wilde-starring film "Cowboys & Aliens" (2011), and now they make their first foray into TV writing with "The Expanse."

The co-creators have a lot of material to draw from as the series progresses — there are currently five novels, two short stories and two novellas, and four more novels and three more novellas are planned for the book series — and, if reaction from San Diego Comic-Con in July and New York Comic Con in October is any indication, the series looks primed for a long run after its initial 10 episodes.

"Welp, we have a new favorite show," io9.com's Lauren Davis wrote following the July screening. "At San Diego Comic-Con, we got to watch the entire pilot ... and we were blown away." Max Nicholson from IGN said that the pilot episode "looked gorgeous. The exterior space shots and zero gravity effects in particular were top notch, especially for television," and after the viewing in New York, Blas-tr's Cher Martinetti said that Syfy "has a winner on their hands," judging by fan response.

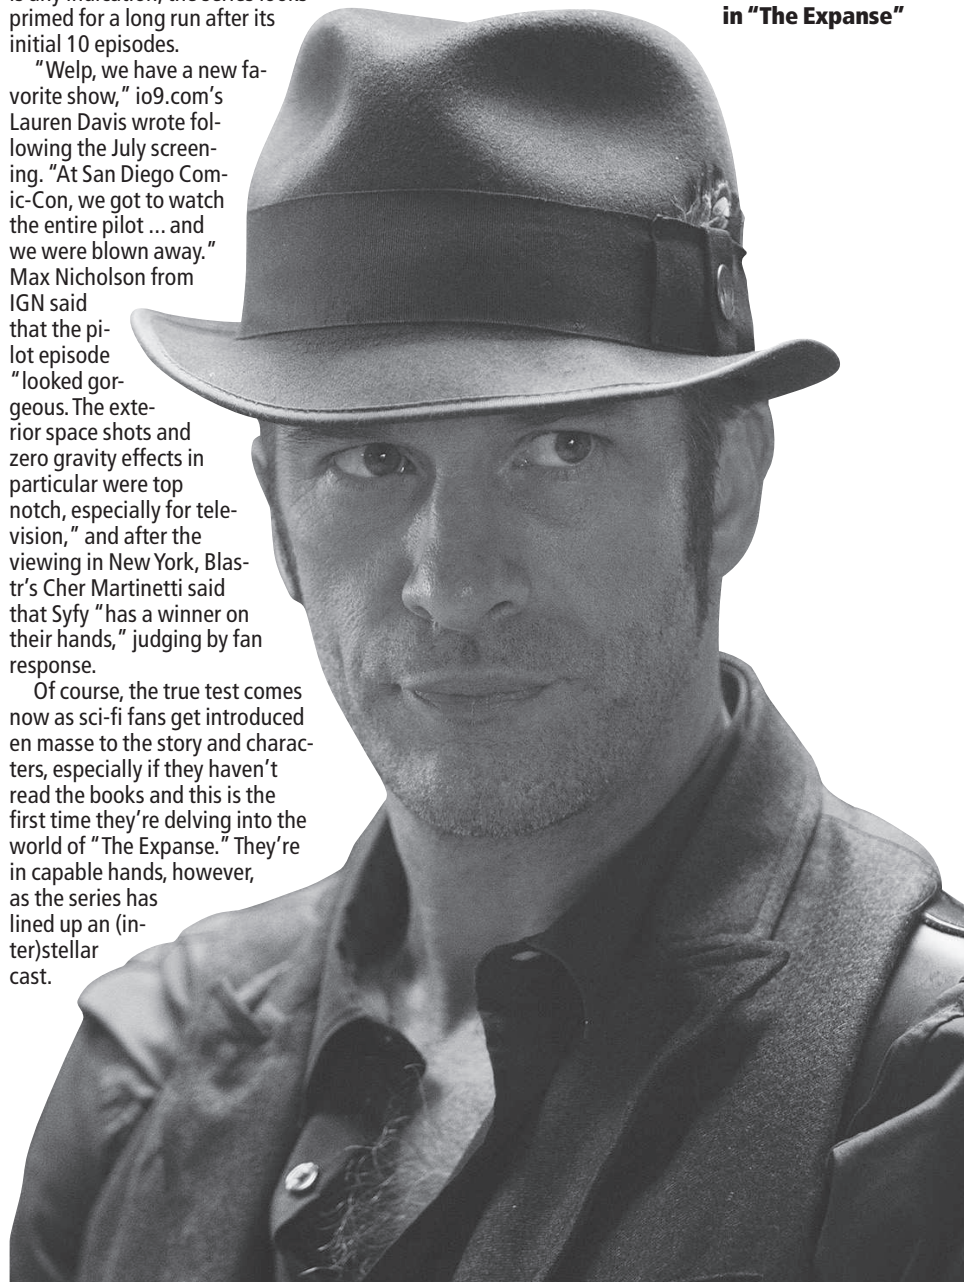

Of course, the true test comes now as sci-fi fans get introduced en masse to the story and characters, especially if they haven't read the books and this is the first time they're delving into the world of "The Expanse." They're in capable hands, however, as the series has lined up an (inter)stellar cast.

Alongside Jane and Strait, the ensemble includes Oscar-nominated and Emmy-winning actress Shohreh Aghdashloo ("House of Sand and Fog," 2003), Chad L. Coleman ("The Walking Dead," "The Wire"), Wes Chatham ("The Help," 2011), Gemini Award nominee Cas Anvar ("The Tournament") and Dominique Tipper ("Vampire Academy," 2014).

The universe is a big, dark, scary place with many corners to explore, and TV likes to do just that. "The Expanse," however, brings things a little closer to home — our own solar system.

With assets ranging from a best-selling series of novels to an accomplished pair of screenwriters to an impeccable cast, this new sci-fi series looks poised to be out-of-this-world good. There's tons of hype about the show right now, so see what it's all about when "The Expanse" premieres with a special two-night event Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 14 and 15, on Syfy, before it settles into its regular Tuesday time-slot.

Mission: Impossible - Rogue Nation

After obtaining hard evidence, Agent Ethan Hunt of the Impossible Missions Force (IMF) is convinced he and his colleagues can finally prove the existence of the Syndicate, a criminal organization the CIA doesn't believe exists. Their plans to expose the enterprise backfire, however, and the IMF is disbanded and absorbed by the CIA. After a warning from IMF Field Ops Director William Brandt (Renner), Hunt manages to evade capture, but is forced back to square one of his investigation. After months of getting nowhere, he recruits former colleague Benji Dunn (Pegg) to help, and what follows is an action-packed odyssey that rocks the global political system to its core.

Director: Christopher McQuarrie. Stars: Tom Cruise, Simon Pegg, Jeremy Renner, Sean Harris, Rebecca Ferguson. 2015. 131 min. Action.

ABC brings the biblical melodrama of King Saul to prime time

By Shona Dustan
TV Media

Divine drama: One of the world's oldest stories is coming to the small screen. There have been some setbacks since its inception, but ABC has finally announced a premiere date for its drama based on the story of King Saul of Old Testament fame: "Of Kings and Prophets" premieres Tuesday, March 8, on the alpha-bet network.

The biblical drama stars Ray Winstone ("The Departed," 2006) as Saul, first king of the united Kingdom of Israel, around 1,000 B.C. When Saul defies an order from God relayed to him by the prophet Samuel (Mohammad Bakri, "Tyrant"), he finds that all his power and might may not be enough to keep him on the throne. Olly Rix ("The Musketeers") also stars, playing David, a lowly shepherd who becomes a serious threat to Saul's kingship.

If the series sticks with the biblical telling of the tale (and why wouldn't they when there's so much drama to be found there?), and if it lasts long enough to get to the meat of the story, viewers will be treated to lots of political intrigue, bloody battles and steamy romances.

I question the show's staying power not because I doubt its quality, but because Tuesday nights have been problematic for the network for a while now. Six shows have premiered and been canceled in short order in the past three years alone, the newest casualty of the cursed time-slot being freshman serial killer drama "Wicked City."

Originally slated to premiere in the fall of 2015, "Of Kings and Prophets" has undergone extensive revamping on its journey to prime time. It seems that ABC has put a lot of eggs in this basket, and network execs are taking no chances. The setbacks have been largely due to the decision to rewrite, recast and reshoot — that's some serious retooling, effort that demonstrates ABC's dedication to making the program work, and to bringing the best version of the story possible to television. With great production value and herculean efforts by the network to get everything just right, it should be worth tuning in just to see what the finished product is like.

Showrunners are hoping "Of Kings and Prophets" is the series that breaks the Tuesday night curse and boosts the network's ratings. A biblical drama certainly is a new tactic, with the potential to attract a broad spectrum of fans.

Tune in Tuesday, March 8, to check out "Of Kings and Prophets" on ABC.

Dancing through the pain: HBO brings a riveting documentary to cable television Monday, Dec. 14. Russia's world-renowned Bolshoi Ballet is the subject of a visually beautiful and surprisingly dramatic program, "Bolshoi Babylon," that delves into the inner workings of the dance institute, including the fallout of the 2013 acid attack on director Sergei Filin.

You read that right — acid attack. In January 2013, ballet director Filin was cornered and attacked with acid outside his home, a horrible event that resulted in the loss of sight in one eye as well as third-degree burns.

The results of the subsequent investigation rocked the ballet company as much as the attack itself, as former principle dancer Pavel Dmitrichenko was charged with masterminding the crime.

Filmmakers of this 2015 Toronto International Film Festival submission interview dancers and other company members, as well as Russian celebrities, politicians and more, to reveal just how important the company is to Russian culture and how deeply it was affected by the attack.

The tension and drama are palpable in this documentary, and the visuals are artistically breathtaking. There's something for everyone in "Bolshoi Babylon," which airs Monday, Dec. 14, on HBO.

Mac is back: One of the most enduring characters of the 1980s is making his way back to television. Though there's no release date as of yet, CBS has committed to the development of a "MacGyver" reboot, and, like all good reboots, the update will put a different spin on the original story.

Produced by Henry Winkler ("Happy Days"), who also served as producer for the '80s series, and written by R. Scott Gemmill, who also wrote for hit shows "NCIS: Los Angeles" and "ER," the new show will start off much earlier in Angus "Mac" MacGyver's life than the original.

In the reboot we'll find a twenty-something MacGyver who is about to be recruited to a clandestine agency. The original

Mac was an ex-secret agent who hated guns and refused to use them; in this version, we'll get to see what brought him to that point, and watch him develop and hone his legendary skills — the unconventional skills that make him so valuable as a spy. MacGyver is known for using his knowledge of science and engineering to repurpose everyday items in order to get himself and others out of impossible situations.

The project is still in development, but the series seems to be hitting green lights at every turn. CBS brings "MacGyver" back to the small screen sometime in the near future.

Q&A Hollywood

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: I just watched "Gone Girl" and loved it. I was told it was based on a book. Have any of the author's other works been made into movies?

A: Another of the Gillian Flynn's four books has indeed been turned into a movie. But if you're really interested in seeing her words on screen, you'll be excited to hear she's started cutting out the middle-medium.

The 2014 film adaptation of her book "Gone Girl" was a huge success, but its successor, "Dark Places," released earlier this year, wasn't.

That film was an adaptation of Flynn's second novel (actually written three years before "Gone Girl"), and starred Charlize Theron and Christina Hendricks. Though it certainly didn't make the same splash as "Gone Girl," it's hard to say how successful "Dark Places" was. That's because it had a pretty unconventional release: it aired on DirecTV Cinema for seven weeks before it even hit theaters. So the fact that it was a flop at the box office (earning just $210,000 in ticket sales, compared to "Gone Girl's" $368 million) doesn't necessarily mean it didn't make money.

It's worth noting that Hollywood is still very much in the Gillian Flynn business. However, it has started getting her to dispense with the book part of things.

She now has two screenwriting projects on the go simultaneously. Both are adaptations of others' previous work, which makes sense, since her only screenwriting experience to date is adapting her own book ("Gone Girl") for the screen.

That said, don't hold your breath waiting for either of them.

One project is a remake of Alfred Hitchcock's "Strangers on a Train." It promises to reunite Flynn with "Gone Girl" actor Ben Affleck and director David Fincher. However, in an interview with Vulture.com, Flynn said the project is on hold for the time being.

Did the kid who played Sam go on to do anything else?

A: The adorable child star of 2003's "Love Actually," Thomas Brodie-Sangster, has grown into a hugely in-demand twentysomething.

He co-stars as Newt in the smash-hit teen-film franchise The Maze Runner, which launched last year and released a sequel this past September. It's based on a popular book series, as many of the big movies are these days. Some of the biggest shows are, too, such as HBO's huge hit "Game of Thrones," which also featured Brodie-Sangster for a while, playing the mysteriously gifted Jojen Reed.

Even if you haven't seen his face since "Love Actually," you may have heard his voice. He plays Ferb on the Disney cartoon "Phineas and Ferb."

Those are his biggest roles, but he's been in quite a large number of other productions, including a few that reunited him with his "Love Actually" castmates (not surprising, considering how many huge stars were in that movie).

Q: What did the guy who played Skinner do after "The X-Files"? It seems like he sort of disappeared. Will he be in the remake?

A: Mitch Pileggi did not actually disappear after "The X-Files," except in the way that character actors are supposed to. But he'll be resurfacing in a big way next year when he appears in the new "X-Files" season, premiering on Fox in January.

Pileggi plays Walter Skinner, Mulder (David Duchovny) and Scully's (Gillian Anderson) boss with frequently questionable loyalties. Duchovny and Anderson went on to proper fame after the smash-hit series, but Pileggi remained a supporting man.

A good supporting star is supposed to disappear into the role, so if you don't think you've seen him since, he clearly is good, because you almost certainly have.

He's had recurring roles in such huge, and diverse, shows as "Sons of Anarchy" and "Grey's Anatomy," and had a starring role in the recent "Dallas" remake.

He also did runs in some other sci-fi hits, including "Supernatural," "Stargate: Atlantis" and "Medium," and plenty of smaller roles elsewhere.

Conan: Conan O'Brien

RadioShack just announced they will be celebrating Black Friday on Wednesday — mostly because RadioShack is worried they won't be around on Friday.

After seven years in office, President Obama has finally joined Facebook. So expect a spike in the number of people claiming to have a "black friend."

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon:

Jimmy Fallon

The Democratic candidates went head-to-head Saturday night in their second debate where, unlike the Ronda Rousey fight, we saw a woman knock out TWO opponents.

Data from social media and Google showed that Bernie Sanders was the most talked about of the three Democratic candidates after the debate. Bernie came in first, Hillary came in second and, somehow, Martin O'Malley came in fourth.

Jimmy Kimmel Live: Jimmy Kimmel

According to a new Reuters poll, [Trump] is in first place among likely Republican voters with 42 percent. Ben Carson is in second with just under 25 percent. Only four percent of Republicans now say they would support Jeb Bush — and that number dropped to two percent when the pollster asked, "Really?"

Jeb's not dropping out. None of them are, because every single one of them — Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio, Ted Cruz — they all look at all the other candidates and go "Those guys? I can't beat THOSE guys?" I still think Trump will drop out once he finds out how much money the president actually makes.

If you're thinking of yelling something out during a moment of silence, here's what you can do to curb that urge: hold your breath, count to 10, and then just keep holding your breath forever.

Johnny (Jordan) — and his protégé, Victor Von Doom (Kebell) at their lab. The team uses the teleporter to embark on an expedition to an alternate dimension, but disaster strikes, and Von Doom is left behind, abandoned in the strange world. The surviving four return with incredible superpowers and are forced to rebuild their teleporter so the government can harness this alternate dimension for its own ends. When they return to the alternate dimension, they find Von Doom — now encased in metal and dead set on eradicating humanity. The four must then learn to use their powers to stop him.

In an attempt to save their marriage, Ted (MacFarlane) and his wife, Tami-Lynn (Barth), decide to have a kid. But since Ted is literally a stuffed bear, they can't do it the normal way. After Ted's best friend, John (Wahlberg), offers to donate his sperm, they learn that Tami-Lynn is infertile, leading them to look into adoption. During the adoption process, however, the state begins to question Ted's status as a human, resulting in the loss of his job and annulment of his marriage. Ted, John and Tami-Lynn then go to court to prove that Ted isn't just a stuffed bear, but a person as well.

Director: Seth MacFarlane. Stars: Seth MacFarlane, Mark Wahlberg, Jessica Barth, Amanda Seyfried, Giovanni Ribisi, Morgan Freeman. 2015. 115 min. Comedy.
