Works of Bandon ‘art angel’ to show at CAM

COOS BAY – A show of ceramic sculptures by the late Elena Karina Canavier opens at the Coos Art Museum on Friday, Dec. 9. The reception is from 5-7 p.m. Admission is free for this event and the public is invited.

Canavier’s foundation, AVK Arts, sponsored over 50 art shows in Bandon, mainly at the hospital and on the Bandon Boardwalk. A nationally recognised artist, Canavier’s works are at several national museums, including the Smithsonian. Shows are planned for New York and Los Angeles, but since her work is currently stored at her studio on a mountaintop in Langlois, the first viewing will be here.

The Coos Art Museum is located at 235 Anderson in Coos Bay.

Sawdust Theatre to present ‘A Christmas Carol’

COQUILLE – Few stories capture the imagination and the spirit of Christmas better than the Charles Dickens classic, “A Christmas Carol.” The timeless tale of bitter miser Ebenezer Scrooge and his magical journey to learn compassion and a spirit of giving are a part of Christmas tradition.

The historic Sawdust Theatre presents the beloved holiday favorite this holiday season.

Well known for his miserly ways, Scrooge is visited on Christmas Eve by a series of ghosts, starting with his old business partner, Jacob Marley. The spirits show Scrooge how his dastardly behavior has affected those around him. In the end he is relieved to discover that there is still time for him to change.

The show is directed and produced by Dan Barnett, with Diane Williams as assistant director and choreographer.

“A Christmas Carol” will be presented two weekends only, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 9, 10, 11 and Dec. 16, 17 and 18 at the Sawdust Theatre in Coquille. Showtimes are 7 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. Sundays. Tickets cost $12.50 for adults and $5 for children and are available at www.sawdusttheatre.com, TIX.com, at Kathryn’s Unique Gifts in Coquille, (541-396-2834), by calling the Sawdust Theatre at 541-396-4563 or at the door.

“Come join Scrooge, Marley, Mr. Fezziwig, Tiny Tim, and the Spirits of Christmas to learn how to carry Christmas in your heart all year long!” Barnett said.

As part of the event, the Bandon Western World will give its collection of bound volumes of the Western World newspapers to the museum. SW Oregon Publishing Company publisher Chris Rush will be at the event to officially donate the volumes, as well as Bandon Western World editor

Amy Moss Strong. The collection includes almost all the editions of the Western World from its beginning in 1912.

The collection gives the museum an invaluable record of Bandon life.

Earlier this year, the Western World gave the museum its archive of photographic negatives from about 1982 until the newspaper stopped using film and converted to digital photography in 2001.

Museum volunteers have been converting the film to digital images. The museum is celebrating completing the job of converting the first year's worth of film. The first box of negatives yielded over 3,000 images. With 25 boxes to go, the Western World negative collection should add more than 75,000 images to the museum's photograph collection.

Having the bound volumes of the Western World on hand will allow the volunteers to cross-reference the photographs with the stories they illustrate. They will also be available for the public to peruse during museum hours.

The member's social will include a chance to meet new museum director Gayle Nix, who started work at the museum in October after the retirement of Judy Knox, who served as executive director for 20 years.

Visitors will also get a chance to visit the Department 56 Snow Village, and see the Christmas trees decorated by Ocean Crest second graders.

Members receive free admission to the museum. New members can join on the day of the event.

The Bandon Historical Society museum is located at the corner of U.S. Highway 101 and Fillmore Avenue.

The museum is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.
