Did you know?

Did you know that hops, used in beer making, may be used to improve your dental health?

It's true! According to a recent study from Japan, parts of hops, used in the production of beer, may be beneficial to oral health. Hop bracts, which are usually discarded, contain substances that could be used to combat dental cavities and periodontal disease.

We've come a long way! With excellent dental care from Dr. Strong, you will protect your teeth, look great, and feel even better. We're here to help!
