Did you know?

Did you know that one of the precious treasures of the Buddhist world is a tooth?

It's true! In Sri Lanka, off the southern tip of India, a holy relic called the Tooth of Buddha is kept in the Dalada Maligarva temple, and is taken out every July, for public display in a great parade called the Festival of Elephants.

We've come a long way! With excellent dental care from Dr. Strong, you will protect your teeth, look great, and feel even better. With dental implants, you can now keep your smile for a lifetime! We're here to help!

FREE FLU VACCINATIONS, Tuesday, Oct. 1, city's lot at 11th Street and Elmira. Gate opens at 7. Sponsored by Southern Coos Hospital - "We're Here for Life"

Watercolor Society show to be featured

The public is invited to the opening reception of the statewide exhibit of the Watercolor Society of Oregon at Southern Coos Hospital & Health Center in Bandon from 4:30-6 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5.

Music will be by Rogue River Jam, featuring Sharon Guinn of Gold Beach, a WSO member whose painting was selected for the show. Refreshments will include food from local sources.

The 80 paintings that will be displayed, which have been selected from hundreds submitted by WSO members by juror Linda Doll, the current president of the National Watercolor Society, will remain on display through Oct. 31. After that, the 20 award winners, which Doll selects, will travel around the state, while the other 60 will remain in Bandon through Dec. 28, supplemented by new works of Steven Thor Johannesen, a WSO member whose works were shown at the hospital three years ago.

In addition to the opening of the show of, a "Painting With Abandon," weekend conference for WSO members will take place Oct. 4-6. Some 250 artists and their families will be coming to Bandon to enjoy restaurants, beaches, lodging, recreational offerings, shops and galleries.

Planned activities include sessions at The Barn, paint-outs on the beach, the boardwalk and Faber Farms; and photoshoots (led by local photographers Susan Dimock, Kelle Herrick and Pat Stannard) at Coquille Point, Bradley Lake and Floras Lake in Langlois.

Doll will remain in town for a week to conduct a workshop for WSO members, and on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 8, she will be giving a public lecture at The Barn on how she is incorporating digital photography into her work.

A $10 donation is suggested for that event. Those interested can contact Victoria Tierney at victory7777@hughes.net.

Southern Coos Hospital flu shot clinic

It's time to roll up your sleeve to protect yourself from two varieties of seasonal flu and the H1N1 virus. Southern Coos Hospital will again be offering its free drive-up flu clinic today. The gate will open at 7 a.m. and the event will continue until 2 p.m. or when all 700 doses have been administered. Often that occurs about noon so people are encouraged to come early.

The city of Bandon is again providing its property at the corner of Elmira and 11th Street in Bandon as the site for the clinic. People will enter from 11th Street and exit on 13th Street to Rosa Road. The hospital will pitch its large white tent so those who prefer to walk inside to be vaccinated may do so.

Nursing staff will provide several stations to keep traffic moving and minimize the time it takes for people to receive their shot. Required paperwork will be distributed as people enter the site and collected before the vaccination. Donations to Southern Coos Health Foundation will be accepted to help cover the $7,000 cost of the vaccine. A grant from the 2013 Immunize Oregon coalition will help pay for supplies and personnel.

Those receiving the vaccinations will be participating in a disaster preparedness exercise that is a cooperative effort between Southern Coos Hospital & Health Center in Bandon and the City of Bandon. People arriving at the site to get flu vaccinations will create an influx similar to what might be expected during a disaster, hospital officials explain.

Anyone age 18 and above is eligible to participate providing they are not sick that day, do not have allergy to eggs or a component of the vaccination and have never had a serious reaction to past flu vaccinations.

Bandon Feeds the Hungry set for Oct. 5

An array of talent will be featured in the sixth annual Bandon Feeds the Hungry variety show and silent auction, to be held at 7 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 5, at the Sprague Community Theater, 1202 11th St. S.W.

Mike Lehman, Executive Director of Oregon Coast Community Action will be master of ceremonies and Jay Straley is backstage manager, with Jeff Norris handling sound and lighting.

This year's performers include Robert Cawley; Susan Christiansen; the 2013 Cranberry Court; Destyni Fuller; Tessa Fuller; the Gold Coast Chorus;

Marlo Dance Studio dancers; Kevin and Kim Paulson with Cynthia Leaf Robertson; Steven Robb and Eric VonBosse; The Silvertones featuring Elaine Beausoleil and Bella Schwartz; Marin Sterling; Teagan Sterling; Kelley Straley; Lori Straley; Autumn Moss-Strong; Gareth Williams, accompanied by Bobbi Neason; Kylie Wilson; and Jenn Winchell.

Tickets are on sale at Bandon Mercantile, Bandon True Value Radio Shack, Begin Agains, Winter River Books and will be available at the door. General Admission is $12; seniors and students, $10.

"Be sure to attend our show and remember to bring a non-perishable food item and be eligible for a door prize at the end of the show," said organizer Lyn Silverman.

Bandon Feeds the Hungry will benefit the five food assistance programs in Bandon: Bandon Senior Nutrition, Coastal Harvest Cleaners, E.A.T. (Everyone at the Table), Good Neighbors Food Bank and Restoration Church Food Pantry.

Those wishing to donate silent auction items or door prizes or for more information can call Silverman at 541-347-1585.
