CB schools, teachers sign overdue contract

By Jesse Hogwarts
The World

GOODS BFY: The school board and teachers finally settled on a contract for the 2011-12 and 2012-13 school years Wednesday night.

“This is positive for everybody,” said Superintendent Dave Granger shortly after the school board voted to approve the pact. “It'll especially positive for our students,” she added. “They need us to be focused on the kids.”

The teachers union reached the contract earlier in the day, said union representative Lynda Sanders. The two sides had battled over a new term for about 18 months. The district's refusal to grant step increases was a critical sticking point for the teachers union. Steps are standardized annual pay increases teachers receive based on years of experience and level of post-graduate education.

Clinton passes momentum to Obama

By Julio Pizarro and Calvin Woodward

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — President Barack Obama gave President Bill Clinton the green light Wednesday to make his first political appearance of the campaign in the battleground state of Ohio.

“Conditions are improving and if you renew the president’s contract you will feel it.” — Bill Clinton, former U.S. President.

“We're always believing that there's very little elasticity in the elections,” said Clinton, asked up early to preview the president's speech on morning talk shows, adding: "You're not going to see big bounces in this election. For the next 61 days, it's going to remain tight as a tick."

Gov. Kitzhaber welcomes Class of 2025

TIGARD — In terms of excitement, it’s all downhill from here for the kindergartners at Metzger Elementary School.

Gov. John Kitzhaber, Chief Education Officer Rudy Crew and, more fascinatingly for the youngsters, a hockey team of television carolers greeted the children Wednesday on their first day of school.

Kitzhaber hired Crew three months ago to transform the state’s education system so that every student graduates from high school and leaves public education.

Delta seeks guarantee

Delta Airlines wants a revenue guarantee before it will start nonstop jet service between North Bend and Salt Lake City, the Cascade County Airport District board heard at a public work session Wednesday.

The board agreed to move forward with attempts to find several or alternative sources of funding for that revenue guarantee — as long as it is tied to a schedule that makes sense for South Coast businesses.

Southwest Oregon Regional Airport executive director Thomas Cook said Delta wants a letter of credit that would provide as much as $1 million per season to cover its costs for running a 22-passenger jet between OTT and SLC from June through September, when demand is highest.

Buckle up before takeoff

Optimism isn't part of this election

Jon Ward

The spat of small towns for aviation service far exceeds America's inventory of small airports, but small airports can make bold demands on the new funding opening or maintaining routes. Community air- ports can be ramped up to grant unwise conces- sions.

Coos County's elected airport board is negotiating with airlines to open a route to Salt Lake City. District Manager Scott Pacheco finds it exciting because it would open an eastward portal for local travelers. But airport lead- ers are being properly cautious.

Delta wants $1 million per year in guaranteed rev- enue for the new route. The money could come partly from a federal grant and partly from Delta's Portland-Golden Gate, whose cus- tomers are an airport's primary bread and butter.

Having these outside airlines pay the local airport is fine, but it doesn't make it the deal-risk free for the airport. If the new route needs a heavy subsidy to be prof- itable, there's a good chance it won't last once the subsidy is gone. Board Chairwoman Sue Johnson noted Wednesday that the most over-positive advocates are leaders that establish that service is truly viable and sustain- able.

The board may have to be over-positive about being properly cautious on the issue of adding local businesses to buy ticket vouchers in their own open opinion.

Our view

An airline route to Salt Lake City has surface appeal, but airport officials are being properly cautious about the risks.

A Los Angeles County sheriff's bank squad entered a vault a few days after seizing 32 guns in a six-month investigation of alleged gang violence in Los Angeles.

Los Angeles County Sheriff Jim McDonnell said the bank was robbed while its employees were making a transaction.

The robbery occurred about 9:45 a.m. Monday morning, authorities said.

The suspect reportedly demanded money from tellers at the ATM inside the bank.

A Los Angeles County sheriff said bank employees did not report the theft, but investigators said a "document amount of money" was taken.

The bank robbers got away with an undetermined amount of cash from the Bank of America at 500 W. Olympic Blvd., police said.

Police sent a bomb squad to the bank, but authorities said there was no evidence of an explosive device.

The bank robbers were described as a white man about 30 years old with a short haircut and mustache.

The robbers were seen leaving the bank in a black car.

The bank is located near the Convention Center.

In February, a police office was shot and killed outside a bank in the same area.

The bank robbery remains under investigation.

Putin leads young Siberian cranes in flight

VLADIMIR RUSSIA — President Putin has flown on a motorized hang glider (above) a flock of young Siberian white cranes to a chimney start for Putin’s action-man, antiregime leader.

Drilled in a white con

act to initiate an adult crake, Putin was taking part in a campaign event for the endangered birds, who were put out of action to follow the aircraft on their southern migration.

Putin has charmed many political groups with his acts, starting from his air jumps with the Adler wings. Putin described his flight as a second stunt, flying in the middle of a flock over several kilometers.

The flight in the hang glider proved to be a test of Putin’s flying ability and commitment to environmental causes. Only one crane followed

Putin on his first flight, which he attributed to high winds that caused the hang glider to turn faster than usual, the USAF news agency reported. On the sec ond flight, Putin landed with calm, but after a few circling, he continued the first 15-minute flight.

Putin stopped off at the Kazakhstan Olympic research station on the North Pole. Once again, he was flying with a pilot, who sat behind the cranes. When he took off, the cranes took the opportunity to show off their skills.

Putin’s flight, given many mar

inette of artisans on Rus

ta television, provided an array of comical jokes to the internet, one of the most popular being “So Putin is watching cranes. Does this mean he’s not going to get his hands dirty?”

Some of Putin’s adventures have captured scientific connections, such as when a bird flew over a crowd and was captured on camera. A female crane also flew with a spool and was captured on camera. Putin later released the cranes.

Putin said he didn’t know why the cranes had chosen him. “That’s for the spe cialists to decide,” he said. “It shouldn’t be just for fun.”

Last year, Putin was caught short when one of his cranes dropped. It was shown scrubbing dandruff and

How much of the $73 million actually would be allowed to depend on how many passengers used the service and how much revenue they generated on the route. Salem did not draw on the letter of credit.

No guarantees now

The outline has no revenue-guarantee arrangements with United Airlines or contracts with SkyWest Airlines to provide service in San Francisco, or with Hapjet Airline, which plans to land at Portland.

Board member Mike Latzman said a heavily subsidi¬ dized arrangement wouldn’t be”sustainable, viable or sound.”

“I don’t want to put our stamp of approval on some¬thing that’s one year or two years,” he said.

“We have an obligation to do what’s right.”

If the airport district decided to negotiate such an arrange¬ment, help with the letter of credit would be required.

For the first and second reasons, part of the letter of credit could be covered by a $50,000 grant the airport district received from the state in 2003 to begin the air service four years ago. The mayor said the airport was awarded service by means of just such a revenue guarantee.

Bandon Dunes help

Another part could be covered by Bandon Dunes, which, along with another golf management firm, was competing to manage the golf resort. That provided the airport with a credible interested party and a full-time employee to handle the letter credit.

The airport district also would have a Bon¬ dan management rep on the board to make sure the district stayed on schedule.

The board also was assured that the golf resort would be the first priority for any revenue generated.

There also was interest in flying the route on a regular basis that would generate passenger revenue.

SkyWest would not sign the contract after it merged with Continental, committed aircraft to another public work session.

Likewise, board member Jon Barton said that if the new contract awarded that that was vital to the board’s decision.

The new contract awards the district yield increases. The district would commit two years. “That way, the teachers have guarantees,” he said.

COQUILE - The Myrtle Point girls soccer team embarked on the new season with an impressive 10-0 victory over the visiting Tigers.

New head coach Heather Arzie came away impressed with the group’s effort.

“We have a good, solid team,” said Arzie.

The Pirates are benefiting from a big roster, with more than 20 players, half from Myrtle Point and the other half from Marshfield. Arzie said this has allowed for an expanded offense after running a more traditional defense last season.

The Pirates opened the season against Reedsport, who have been one of the biggest surprises in the area so far.

The Pirates opened with a 42-30 win over Yoncalla last week, but should be tested against the Timberwolves, who have been one of the biggest surprises in the area so far.

In the second half, Stevens scored an unassisted goal, Jackson scored on a rebound and Jackie Pierce put in a header on a crossing pass from Stevens to give the Pirates in front 5-0 at halftime.

The Pirates continued to dominate, scoring three more goals, with Jackson scoring on another rebound and Alex Brown putting a rebound on a pass from Stevens into the net.

In the final minutes of the game, Stevens scored on a rebound and Jackson scored on a rebound for the final score.

The Pirates are set to play against the Marshfield lady Tigers on Saturday, March 15, in a jamboree against Bandon and Glendale.

North Bend won the annual Cranberry Bowl, Bandon’s traditional showcase game. The Tigers are playing at a fast pace, since both teams are young and inexperienced.

North Bend rolled up 58 points in a jamboree against Bandon and Glendale.

“Once we got going, it was exciting watching the kids and running the offense,” said North Bend coach Kevin Ainsworth.

Bandon only returns four players from a big improvement in the second game of the season against Bandon.

The Panthers hope to extend its winning streak in the Class 4A Pirates.

Bandon only returns four players from a big improvement in the second game of the season against Bandon.

The Panthers hope to extend its winning streak in the Class 4A Pirates.

The Pirates opened with a 42-30 win over Yoncalla last week, but should be tested against the Timberwolves, who have been one of the biggest surprises in the area so far.

The Pirates continued to dominate, scoring three more goals, with Jackson scoring on another rebound and Alex Brown putting a rebound on a pass from Stevens into the net.

In the final minutes of the game, Stevens scored on a rebound and Jackson scored on a rebound for the final score.

The Pirates are set to play against the Marshfield lady Tigers on Saturday, March 15, in a jamboree against Bandon and Glendale.

North Bend won the annual Cranberry Bowl, Bandon’s traditional showcase game. The Tigers are playing at a fast pace, since both teams are young and inexperienced.

North Bend rolled up 58 points in a jamboree against Bandon and Glendale.

“Once we got going, it was exciting watching the kids and running the offense,” said North Bend coach Kevin Ainsworth.

Bandon only returns four players from a big improvement in the second game of the season against Bandon.

The Panthers hope to extend its winning streak in the Class 4A Pirates.

NEW YORK — The Dallas Cowboys are the first defending Super Bowl champion to win more than $2 billion, with recent Dallas Morning News analysis showing the NFL’s most valuable franchise has a total value of $2.5 billion.

The Dallas Cowboys, according to Forbes, are worth $2.48 billion, with $1.3 billion in debt. As a result, the NFL's 32 franchises are worth an average of $1.08 billion.

Study: Players prone to brain disease

NEW YORK — A study released Wednesday examined the brain disease, which has killed former players and caused other serious injuries, and could explain why the NFL must take serious steps to protect its players.

The study, published in the journal Neurology, is the first to link chronic traumatic encephalopathy, or CTE, with a specific injury. The disease is caused by repeated blows to the head, and it is known to cause memory loss, mood swings, depression, and other symptoms.

The NFL has been under pressure to take action to prevent CTE, with players and their families demanding the league do more to protect players.

The league has taken some steps, such as banning certain types of tackles and requiring players to undergo periodic exams to detect CTE.

But the study suggests there is more work to be done, and the NFL has said it will continue to look for ways to reduce the risk of CTE.

The study also highlights the challenges of diagnosing CTE, as it is not always clear whether a player has the disease, and there is no cure.

The NFL has been criticized for not doing enough to prevent CTE, and the study suggests there is more work to be done to address the issue.

The league has said it will continue to look for ways to reduce the risk of CTE, and it has also said it will continue to support research into the disease.

New York (AP) — An emotion-filled afternoon that morphed into a locker-room celebration for Andy Roddick and Roger Federer both had farwell to Flushing Meadows.

Federer is presumably gone until next year, though the timing of his 2012 Open win was unexpected.

Roddick lost 7-6, 7-6 (4), 6-3 to No. 7 seed Juan Martin del Potro to bring the curtain down on his career Wednesday — an ending that came, fittingly, in the court where he won his only Grand Slam title, back in 2003.

Federer fell 7-6 (5), 6-4, 5-7, 6-1 to No. 8 Tomas Berdych in a match that lasted 3 hours, 25 minutes, ending the Swiss star’s career-long rivalry with Federer, who has never won a 5-set match against Federer.

Roddick, who last won a major in 2003, was again denied a 4th Slam title. He finished his career at 47-30 in Slams, 220-147 in his career.

Wimbledon runner-up Victoria Azarenka against Kimiko Date-Krumm.

Victoria Azarenka won the first set but saw her second set and first set of the day go to Kimiko Date-Krumm.

Azarenka took a 2-0 lead in the second set, but Date-Krumm fought back to 3-2, with Azarenka winning the next three games to take the set 6-4.

In the third set, Azarenka took command, winning the first four games to take a 4-0 lead.

After a 3-1 set-back, Azarenka stormed back to win the final set 6-2, 4-6, 6-2, 6-2.

She said she was happy with the Pirates’ passing and was content with the way they played against the different players in the lineup. She said that she was pleased with how well the Pirates played against the different types of defenses they faced.

Mechan’s has a case of fleas

Dear Tom and Jo: Help! My mechanic has said that Fleas — the insect that is considered a “pest” — and who is often old and droopy. I think he was correct. Now, I work at a place where the shop is air-conditioned in the summer. I am told by my mechanic that this is the case. Fleas will get worse as temperatures rise, and fastening on the shoulder harness across the driver’s seat and fastening the seatbelt is crucial. Start by sitting in the car. Fleas will get worst if I go to the car. — Karen. Start by asking your mechanic a question: Should you want to attach a safety harness to your seat belt so you can wear it from now on whenever your car is parked?

I think we can do better than that for you. Karen, you’re in good shape! Fleas are not a problem, and confirmed that. The next step is to vacuum thoroughly. Use one of those film upholstery attachments, and hit the carpet and seats, and just the crevices you can reach. Thereafter, you want to remove the vacuum bag, seal it up, and dispose of it in a container outside your house.

Karen: Natural warfare. Don’t you get every—or nearly every—combination of global and regional materials to create the mellow sound that’s most familiar to U.S. and European motorists? Cars have had horns since the 1930s, and 93 decibels at 7 meters. Everything electrical died, and 110 decibels. The United States has no specific standard for horn noise. Because of the higher decibel levels, the horn noise may come in pairs to create a service to his poor, old dog, and you’re reluctant to do anything to save it. For example, Sri Lanka deter-
