Defendant weeps at arraignment

By Lou Sennick, The World
Timothy Henson appears before Circuit Court Judge Michael Gillespie Tuesday afternoon facing two charges of aggravated murder plus others following the shooting death of two men Sunday north of Bandon.

By TYLER RICHARDSON
The World

Murder suspect Timothy Henson's lower lip quivered, his eyes slowly filling with tears, as he listened to the charges filed against him Tuesday.

Henson, whose bail was set at $6 million, turned and looked at his wife while Coos County District Attorney Paul Frasier read the five Ballot Measure 11 offenses with which his office is charging Henson for his alleged role in a double-fatality shooting Sunday near Bandon.

"Just telling my wife I love her," Henson told Coos County Circuit Court Judge Michael Gillespie after Gillespie ordered him to pay attention.

Before he was arraigned, Henson, shackled from the legs up in a blue jump suit, looked at his wife and assured her he still loved her.

"I loved you more than anything," he said in court. "But at least it's done."

Wife, two men shot

Frasier alleges Henson shot his wife, Vallenga R. Tuell, in the forearm during an altercation where he also shot George Micheaux III and Milton C. Leach. Micheaux and Leach both died as a result of the shooting, although it is unclear how many times each man was shot.

Autopsies on both men are scheduled for Thursday.

Frasier said Micheaux, who was married to Tuell's mother Ruth S. Micheaux; Leach, who was Ruth Micheaux's ex-husband; Henson; and Tuell all traveled to the coast from Myrtle Creek to enjoy the weekend after they learned Leach had been diagnosed with terminal lung cancer.

The five lived together, along with small children, on a property in Myrtle Creek.

Frasier said the Micheauxs lived in a trailer on the property; Tuell and Henson lived in a house; Leach lived in a room in the garage.

'Family get-together'

Frasier described the weekend as a "family get together" before Leach would become too ill to travel. All five stayed at a Bandon motel Saturday night, Frasier said, and traveled to several beaches Sunday before deciding to

Democratic Convention

Bill Clinton takes center stage tonight

By JULIE PACE AND CALVIN WOODWARD
The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Bill Clinton takes center stage at the Democratic National Convention today as President Barack Obama's nomination is placed before a party hoping that the last president to preside over sustained growth can help propel him to re-election in a sputtering economy.

The former president's speech will be a high point in a checkered relationship between two men who sparred, sometimes sharply, in the 2008 primaries, when Clinton was supporting wife Hillary's campaign for the nomination.

If day two of the Democrats' convention was all about grabbing some of Clinton's luster, opening day was designed to portray Obama as someone who understands the problems of ordinary people.

Michelle Obama played those cards with force in a speech declaring that after four years as president, her husband is still the man who drove a rust-bucket on early dates, rescued a coffee table from the trash and knows the struggles of everyday Americans because he lived them in full.

"I have seen firsthand that being president doesn't change who you are, it reveals who you are," the first lady said to lusty cheers Tuesday night in a deeply personal, yet unmistakably political testimonial.

Fire inspires young campers to donate planters to church

By JESSIE HIGGINS
The World

NORTH BEND — The Growin' Yer Grub summer day camp was supposed to hold a camp at the North Bend First United Methodist Church this summer.

But the church burned down before it began.

Heather Lilienthal, camp leader, was in Coquille hosting another Grub Camp the day the church caught fire.

"Our first thought was, obviously, we would have to find a different location for the camp," said Lilienthal, an Oregon State University Extension agent.

"If we couldn't find a different place, we would have to cancel the camp."

Other thoughts swam through Lilienthal's head that morning. The church had supported the summer

day camp — where third through fifth graders learned to grow food, harvest produce and cook with it — since the camp began in 2001.

Changing course

"It seemed like we needed to do something for them," Lilienthal said. "It didn't seem right to me to just say, 'Well, our camp is displaced; let's find a new location; bumper for us.'"

Lilienthal did find a new location for the camp, the North Bend Fire Department. Then, with the permission from campers' parents, she changed the curriculum a bit.

Instead of growing food, the kids made a dozen planter boxes for the church.

"The kids loved it," Lilienthal said. She used a completed planter box as an example. The campers figured out how to make the rest. At the end of the three-day camp, the children had built a dozen 2-by-8-foot cedar boxes that were 1-foot deep.

CBSB may ratify teacher pact today

THE WORLD

COOS BAY — The Coos Bay School Board may vote tonight to ratify its proposed contract with teachers at a special board meeting.

The teachers union and school board have arbitrated over the teachers' 2011-12 and 2012-13 contract for more than a year. A key sticking point has been the district's unwillingness to give teachers their annual step pay increases.

Steps are standardized pay increases teachers in Oregon receive based on years teaching and level of post-graduate education achieved. Union leaders and board members tentatively agreed on a contract earlier this summer, but the details have been kept secret. The union wanted to ensure all the teachers could examine it together this week.

The special board meeting will start at 7 p.m. at the Milner Crest Education Center, 1255 Hemlock Ave.

Civil War class starts Sept. 24 at SWOCC

Thefts & Mischief

BY GAIL ELBER
The World

Think you learned about the Civil War in school?

Did you learn about "The Great Locomotive Chase," the "Jackass Raid," or the escape from Libby Prison?

No? Then you need John Hartman's community education class on the American Civil War, offered at Southwestern Oregon Community College on Monday nights this fall from 7 to 8:30 p.m. for 10 weeks starting Sept. 24.

This term, Hartman will cover different personalities and incidents every week. He'll describe Coos Bay resident Capt. Morton Tower's 1864 escape from the Confederates' Libby Prison.

The role of women in the Civil War, in combat and out, will be covered, as well as the daily life of the common soldier. He'll present incidents of the war such as "The Great Locomotive Chase," a daring act of sabotage by Union soldiers, and the "Jackass Raid," an unsuccessful Union assault that involved infantrymen and cavalrymen mounted on temperamental mules.

A family divided

"We are in the middle of the sesquicentennial observance of the Civil War," said Hartman.

"It's an opportunity for the public to learn more about the war, which has been reduced to a few paragraphs in students' textbooks."

Hartman became interested in the Civil War while studying his own family's history when he learned he had ancestors who had fought on both sides.

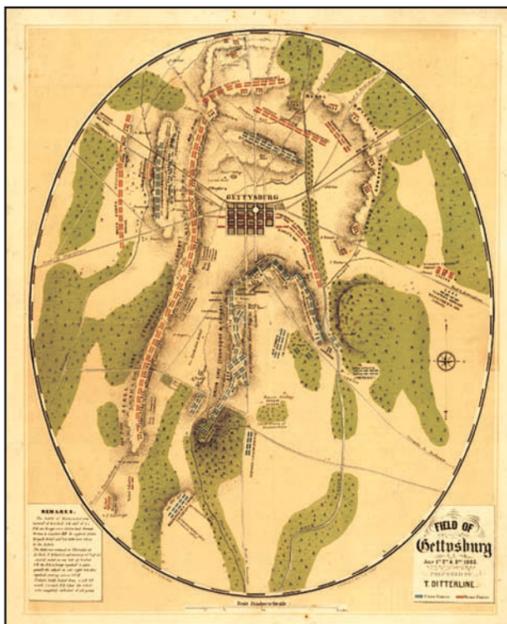

"My family is a microcosm of the Civil War," he said.

"We had one person who went AWOL, one who died of disease, one who got wounded and one who got captured," he said.

"The more I read the more interested I became."

The same thing seems to happen to students who take Hartman's class. He originally designed a one-term class, but students encouraged him to offer additional classes. Now, Hartman offers three terms of the class with different content. Students can take the classes in any order.

the class, and no books or examinations are required. Total cost for the class is $35. To receive additional information or register, call the SWOCC community education office at 541-888-7328.

Fire chars 2 acres near Allegany

THE WORLD

A forest fire that burned Tuesday night near Nesika Park east of Allegany was contained this morning.

The fire started around 7 p.m. near Highway 241, said John Flannigan, a spokesman for the Coos Forest Protective Association, which responded to the blaze.

The fire's cause is under investigation. Fire crews should remain on the scene until about 6 p.m. today to mop up hot spots.

The highway is open, but Flannigan warns drivers to be cautious in the area, and to limit unnecessary trips. Firefighters are working from the road. Also, the area where the fire burned is steep, presenting an increased danger of falling debris.

Flannigan said the fire spread to about two acres on private land before it was contained. No one was injured, and no homes were threatened.

The association brought a bulldozer, a helicopter, three engines, a tender and 22 firefighters to battle the blaze.

Firefighters seek trailer as likely source of blaze

ELKTON — Fire officials say a brown pickup towing a boat trailer may have started the natural-cover fire about five miles west of Elkton on Monday afternoon.

The fire erupted on the river side of state Highway 38, then quickly jumped the road and spread uphill, blocking holiday traffic for hours.

The fire may have been started by a brake on the boat trailer, according to the Douglas Forest Protective Association, which responded to the fire call around 3:30 p.m.

The association brought in a helicopter and bucket to scoop water from the Umpqua River and a bulldozer to create a containment line around the fire as it spread uphill. The fire was contained inside about 1½ acres, the association said.

Crews remained on scene through the night, mopping up hot spots and checking containment lines. Firefighters will remain at the scene today to ensure the fire does not restart.

Coos Forest Protective Association, Elkton Fire Department, Scottsburg Fire Department and the Oregon Department of Transportation responded to the scene.

Traffic was interrupted until about 10 p.m., according to the Douglas association.

Anyone with information about the brown pickup and boat trailer that may be responsible for the fire should call the Douglas Forest Protective Association at 541-672-6507.

No drive-thru

By Jessie Higgins, The World
Travel southbound on U.S. Highway 101 through Coos Bay was slowed this morning by a semi-trailer that detached from its cab. The gravel-hauling truck was turning onto 101 from Ingersoll Avenue around 8 a.m. when the trailer came off, blocking the two right lanes of traffic, according to police officers directing traffic at the scene. The Oregon Department of Transportation brought in equipment to remove the trailer.

A love letter to Coos County

I'm a native Northwesterner who had the misfortune to be born in Chicago.

Washington state and, now, Oregon are the places where Dana, my wife, and I feel truly at home.

Both of us were born, reared and educated in the Midwest. The last time we were east of the Mississippi was in 2004. The visit filled us only with an urgency to leave.

One of our favorite things about this neck of the woods (some neck, some woods!) is the genuine friendliness of its people. Mind you, Midwesterners aren't noted for their hostility to strangers, but Northwesterners are nicer still.

They're certainly nicer than the folks in Texas, which prides itself on its hospitality. We spent the longest 15 years of our lives in the Lone Star State. There, a super-market slogan proclaimed, "Texas friendly spoken here," as if it were a different dialect.

Well, we never heard it. If we did, it didn't sound sincere.

"Jimmy, the trees!"

I'm certain that a community's natural surroundings shape its character, just as environments shape other species. The Northwest has some spectacular scenery that's more powerful than just pretty.

When my parents traveled from Illinois to visit us in Olympia, Wash., my mother's awestruck reaction was, "The trees! Oh, Jimmy, the trees!"

I frequently feel the same way. On the grayest day, I can peer up the trunk of even a third-growth Doug fir and marvel at its vitality and grace. In a place where most trees are taller than most buildings, the message is that something far larger than I is in charge of the universe.

Mill towns

Writing this, I remember putting similar words onto paper as a columnist in Everett, Wash., where I had landed with eyes agog at Puget Sound, the Olympic Mountains and the Cascades. In many ways back in the 1970s, Everett resembled Coos Bay/North Bend: a scruffy mill town reeling from a timber recession and finding few things to like about itself.

And, like our Bay Area, Everett compared itself to richer or larger cities and found itself sadly lacking.

When I started telling Everett folks — right out loud in print and everything — how I loved the place, their first reaction was that I was a few cones short of a hemlock. But I kept up the message, and eventually some readers began to believe.

Turn, turn, turn

I feel much the same about Coos Bay: If you think it's ugly, just turn 90 degrees and view beauty. If you think it's down and out, remember the toughness that always has pulled it up and back.

And if you think it's just too small, open your eyes wide and slowly turn 360 degrees to take in hills, forests, bays and the boundless ocean pounding upon breathtaking beaches and shores.

I still may talk with a Shi-Cawww-Go accent, but I'm speaking from the heart:

Coos County, you're a wonderful place to live.

Love: A must in any platform

"He didn't just see a tangle of plastic and tubes; he saw our beautiful little girl, and he was clearly overcome with compassion for her," Pam Finlayson told the Republican National Convention in Tampa on Thursday night. She was talking about the man of the hour, Mitt Romney, and the love he demonstrated as a lay bishop in the Mormon Church. Her daughter was born three and a half months early, with grave medical problems.

"Our daughter Kate grew into an amazing girl of faith and love," Finlayson said, to audible relief and applause from the audience, as a photo of a girl in an angel costume appeared in the background. Shock filled the room, however, as she continued: "Complications of her birth remained with her, and after 26 years of both miracles and struggle, she passed away just a year and a half ago."

Columnist

As Ann Romney explained it, her relationship with her husband cannot be expressed through the usual "storybook marriage" trope. "In the storybooks I read, there were never long, long, rainy winter afternoons in a house with five boys screaming at once. And those storybooks never seemed to have chapters called 'M.S.' or 'breast cancer.'"

"What Mitt Romney and I have is a real marriage," she declared. Former senator and onetime Romney rival Rick Santorum elaborated on the virtues of just such an institution prior to Ann Romney's speech. "Many Americans don't succeed because the family that should be there to guide them, and serve as the first rung on the ladder of success, isn't there or is badly broken," he observed.

Before making the case that Romney's policies could bolster marriage, Santorum said: "The fact is that marriage is disappearing in places where government dependency is highest. Most single mothers do heroic work and an amazing job raising their children, but if America is going to succeed, we must stop the assault on marriage and the family."

It's a theme that Romney has been running with, and one that I've personally heard him talking about in one way or another since I first started paying attention to him in 2005. In the most important speech of his political life thus far, in Tampa, he said: "My mom and dad gave their kids the greatest gift of all — the gift of unconditional love. They cared deeply about who we would be, and much less about what we would do."

"Unconditional love," he reflected, "is a gift that Ann and I have tried to pass on to our sons and now to our grandchildren. All the laws and legislation in the world will never heal this world like the loving hearts and arms of mothers and fathers."

Love is a many-splendored thing. And it can even reach across political parties. New York Archbishop Timothy Dolan, president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops, prayed at the RNC and will do so at the Democratic National Convention as well. He will also break bread with both candidates at a charity dinner on Oct. 18, hoping to bring light "in a time when divisiveness and almost a hyperbolic partisanship seem to have overtaken the American political process," he tells me.

"If I speak in human and angelic tongues but do not have love, I am a resounding gong or a clashing cymbal," St. Paul wrote in I Corinthians 13. "And if I have the gift of prophecy and comprehend all mysteries and all knowledge; if I have all faith so as to move mountains but I do not have love, I am nothing. If I give away everything I own, and if I hand my body over so that I may boast but do not have love, I gain nothing." This is true in life and in politics: Without love, any victory is fleeting.

Best care you can ask for at BAH

Thank you to the doctor and nursing staff at Bay Area Hospital, North Bend Medical Center, South Coast Orthopedic Association and South Coast Physical Therapy in Coquille. I would like to say thank you for two jobs well done.

On June 27, 2011, I went to BAH for a total hip replacement which went very well with a quick recovery time and no infections.

In April 2012, I went into BAH for a total knee replacement, which also went very well.

I had the best care that I could ask for from the highly trained staff and everyone involved. My orthopedic specialist, Dr. Shaun Hobson, in my opinion, is first-class in his field and did.

I have worked in the logging industry for 42 years and just wore out. They have me a new lease on life to be able to walk again.

A genuine choice for state senate

Scott Roberts doesn't know me, but I know about him. Besides a couple visits to his office, I have followed his campaigns over the past couple years. In Scott, I see someone who is willing to go against the political grain to advocate for our interests here on the coast.

He is concerned for the folks here who need good, well-paying jobs. He knows those jobs won't come if every new opportunity is tied up in endless red tape and regulatory hairballs. He understands that our needs here are somewhat unique, and that what is good for the metropolitan areas is not necessarily good for us. He is willing to step up to the plate and make sure our voices are heard, then work hard to get things done for us. Here. On the coast.

Arnie Roblan doesn't know me, but I know about him. I have watched him side over and over again with the folks who don't represent my views. When he was principal at Marshfield, I had a few discussions with Arnie regarding one of my foster children, and wasn't particularly happy with the outcome. When my own kids reached high school age, we opted to send them to North Bend High School rather than Marshfield. I can't say it was all because of Arnie, but he WAS the principal there at the time. 'Nuff said.

I will be voting for Scott Roberts for state senator in November. I encourage you to join me in electing someone who will listen, then represent OUR interests in Salem.

Columnist lied about Medicare

Can't understand why The World would publish a piece about purported lies that in itself was a lie. I'm referring to the anti-Romney hit piece by Gene Lyons in the Aug. 29 issue, titled "Romney's bare-faced lie" regarding cuts to Medicare to fund Obamacare.

According to the CBO under Obamacare, there will be reductions of more than $716 billion to Medicare over the next 10 years. It is projected that seniors will be paying about $3,700 more per year within the next five years due to reductions of $156 billion to Medicare Advantage plans, and the Medicare trustees also project that the cuts will drive more than 4 million seniors out of these plans between 2012 and 2018. The chief actuary of Medicare says that due to cuts to hospitals and nursing homes under Obamacare, at least one-quarter of them will drop out of the Medicare program by 2030. So where's the lie?

Medicare is a health-care program designated for people 65 years or older, and Obamacare is for the rest of the people. So Lyons is lying when he disputes Romney's claim that taking about three-quarters of a trillion dollars from Medicare won't hurt seniors. So now, money that had been designated for health care for seniors will be spent on younger people, and seniors will just have to tough it out the best they can with the reductions to Medicare. Talk about throwing Granny off a cliff!

If Lyon wants to honestly write about a politician's lies, how about mentioning Obama's promise, months before Obamacare was passed, to post any new proposed legislation on the Internet for several days before a vote? It was passed behind closed doors at midnight on Christmas Eve 2009, by a bunch of Democrat representatives including our very own Peter DeFazio, and then by the Democrat Senate on March 21, 2010.

For the first two years of Obama's presidency, the Democrats were in total control of Congress, so Republicans for the most part weren't allowed to participate in the legislative process during that time. The sad part of this whole fiasco was that no one even read the 2,700-page document, and Nancy Pelosi, speaker of the house, cavalierly said, "We have to pass the bill so that you can find out what is in it."

Keith Comstock Myrtle Point

Know what you're voting for

What exactly is Measure 6-143, this Coos County Home Rule Charter? It's a constitution creating an enforceable contract between citizens and elected officials. Nine Oregon counties have charters. Charters can be amended, not by the commissioners, but by a vote of the people.

In late 2010, several troublesome issues began to arise: an unelected county administrator, urban renewal tax expansion, Bandon Marsh expansion and the Coos Bay Wagon Road timber management. Some citizens wondered what they could do. This "Voice of the Voters" charter started there.

With this charter, there will be no county administrator without an amendment by the people. County urban renewal tax decisions will go to a vote of the people. Transfer of major county assets will go to the people. Five commissioners will be full-time, fully accountable, elected at large, paid for by eliminating credit cards, reducing human resources salary, bulk purchasing, and required maintenance savings.

Commissioners will vote only at regularly scheduled Coquille board meetings. Citizen comments will be allowed at all meetings. The county will have open published contract bids and accountability for quality and compliance. Major decisions on Wagon Road timber, county water rights, and county forestlands will be decided by the voters. And, following the abandonment and dismantling of the unmaintained Beaver Hill incinerators, preventative maintenance will now include dedicated funds.

To qualify for the ballot, this Charter needed 1,521 signatures. It garnered 2,701 or almost 80 percent more than needed, and in only two months.

A county administrator? Unelected, golden-parachuted firewall between you and your elected commissioners?

Also, this charter requires no special elections. The state sets regular election days in March, May, September, and November every year, when major issues can be brought before the voters.

Additionally, longevity raises for county employees at 5, 10, and 20 years have existed for years. The charter simply adds year 15 as an additional anniversary. If providing free document copies to the taxpaying citizens is going to cost "tens to hundreds of thousands," then where in the county budget are these currently collected amounts, while the county is still charging 50 cents per copy?

This charter's name is "Voice of the Voters." It is not only its name but also its philosophy. It was written from the view of the voters and it returns local county government to that old-fashioned American value of government "of the people...."

Father's idea of cuddling is too close for comfort

DEAR ABBY: My mom's boyfriend wants to spend time with my 16-year-old sister and take her places all the time. He wants to cuddle with both of us whenever we sit on the couch and gets really upset when we don't want to. He's my biological father, but I have known him only for a year because he left my mom when she was pregnant with me.

Now he wants to play "dad" when I already have had a dad all my life. (Mom was married for 11 years to another man.) I'm 14.

He yells and swears all the time and takes things away from us if we don't do what he wants. He isn't physically abusive yet, but the cuddling freaks me out and I don't think it's right. I told my school counselor. She said to get over it, that it wasn't a big deal.

Abby, what can I do? I think he is grooming my sister for sex since he told us he likes young girls and was used to them before Mom. Mom has problems with depression and reality and won't listen to us. Help us, please. Where can I go? — HELPLESS IN THE MIDWEST

DEAR HELPLESS: Because your father's overtures make you uncomfortable, and he "punishes" you if you don't accept them — it IS a "big deal." Before this goes any further, you should call Childhelp and describe what's happening. The toll-free number is 800-422-4453. The person who answers the phone can refer you to help in your state. Please don't wait. Your safety and that of your sister could depend on it.

DEAR ABBY: I am romantically attracted to a girl, "Jade." We have known each other ever since we were in diapers. She's bubbly, vivacious and beautiful. We flirted with puppy love about 10 years ago, but it never went beyond writing love letters and ended quickly. It was so disappointingly brief that I have never regarded it as a true relationship. I consider her my first love.

Jade goes through boyfriends like a chain-smoker goes through cigarettes. It seems as if every time I ask her, "So, how is your current boyfriend?" that she has a new one. Her mother is the same way, truth be told, and never found a good father figure for Jade. The men her mother dated were abusive. Consequently, Jade isn't the best judge of men, either.

My parents have suggested that she may view me as a friend because I'm the only decent guy in her life, and she's afraid we wouldn't be friends if our romantic relationship ended. I want to tell her that I'd like to date her the next time her current relationship ends. At the same time, I want her to know I'd rather have her as a friend than nothing at all. Thanks to the wonder of social media, I will know when her next relationship ends. Should I wait till then? If not, how long? — FIRST LOVE IN THE SOUTH

DEAR FIRST LOVE: You seem to have a lot of insight about Jade. Because she was raised by a mother who was involved in one abusive relationship after another, she may feel that unless there is pain and drama, that what she's experiencing is boring and not really "love." Until she realizes that the criteria she's using in choosing men are flawed, and is willing to get help, her pattern will continue to repeat itself.

As you hover over your keyboard waiting for news of her next romantic failure, I suggest that rather than "pounce," you keep her as a friend until she's ready for a mature relationship. If you don't, you will only suffer more disappointment.

DAMASCUS (AP) — A few years ago, residents of the rural Damascus area in Clackamas County got together to incorporate as a city, Oregon's newest and first in two decades.

But a split between those who want to develop land and those who want to keep a rural life has been hard to bridge.

City commissioners have asked voters to vote in November on whether they favor pulling about half the city of about 10,000 people out of the regional planning process, a move that could lead to returning that part of the city to rural status.

Some in the city are talking about doing away with Damascus' incorporated status entirely.

Kitty O'Meara, who helped develop the draft comprehensive plan rejected by voters in 2010, said the deadlock over development has proved too difficult to overcome.

"We've just been circling the drain for a long, long time," she said.

State law requires cities to have comprehensive plans so that they can zone property. The vote against the plan was 65-35.

In another development, the state Department of Transportation has pulled a federal grant Damascus was using for work on its state-required transportation system, citing passage of a local measure that requires voter approval of major plans and ordinances.

A major landowner, 89-year-old Lowell Patton, has filed a lawsuit that claims the city's development deadlock has cost him $66 million.

Patton operates a rock products business and has held land, some of it with sweeping views of Mount Hood, for nearly four decades, waiting for the right time to build. He hoped to start four or five years ago, during better times for real estate. Among his ideas is a winery with mountain views.

"I figured when I bought all this it was a retirement program," Patton said.

But because Damascus lacks a development process, Patton's land has remained mostly empty. Now he hopes he can de-annex his property and proceed with what he's planned since long before Damascus was a city.

If the measure proposed by the City Council passes in November, the council would ask the regional government Metro to remove the land from the urban grown boundary it administers. City council members say that same area will probably be de-annexed, which would lower taxes for those property owners.

"I think that could alleviate some of the angst," said council President Diana Helm. But, she said, that's only part of the solution.

"Could it be the whole solution if the city reincorporated? I don't know," she said. "There are people all throughout the city who are just ready to throw in the towel."

Portland council considers underground water tanks

PORTLAND (AP) — The Portland City Council considers a $57 million contract today for new underground water storage tanks.

The proposal for southeast Portland's Kelly Butte is opposed by Commissioner Amanda Fritz who says it's too expensive and unnecessary to comply with drinking water regulations. Fritz says it would be cheaper to cover Portland's open reservoirs with heavy plastic covers.

The Oregonian reports Water Bureau officials and Commissioners Rany Leonard and Dan Saltzman say plastic covers are a bad idea because they are temporary and don't address the need to upgrade reservoirs to withstand earthquakes.

Arrest in fatal shooting of Salem, man

SALEM (AP) — Salem, police have made an arrest in a fatal shooting that happened in the parking lot of a local Walmart store.

Police detectives arrested 41-year-old Mark Edward Brown of Salem early Tuesday in a Tigard hotel room. He was arrested for investigation of murder in Monday's death of 28-year-old Bryan John Lee Knorr, also of Salem.

Police Lt. Dave Okada says the victim had been shopping and was confronted in the parking lot by a gunman. Okada says shots were fired after a confrontation.

Arthur (Bud) M. Heart Jr.

March 22, 1931 - Aug. 23, 2012

A memorial service was previously held for Arthur (Bud) M. Heart Jr., 81, of Vienna, S.D., formerly of Coos Bay.

Arthur was born March 22, 1931, in Leavinworth, Kansas. He died Aug. 23, 2012, in Vienna, S.D.

Arthur lived most of his life in Coos Bay. There, he met and married his wife, Betty, and raised three children. He worked at Evens Mill, Coos Head Co-op, Montmore Mills until they closed and Ron's Oil in Coquille as a long haul trucker.

He retired at the age of 62 and he and his wife moved to South Dakota in 1998. His eldest daughter moved with them to help with his and Betty's medical problems.

Arthur was a hard worker, good provider, husband, father and friend. Those who he left behind who knew and loved him will miss and think of him every day.

Arthur is survived by his wife, Betty Heart of South

Dakota; daughters Juanita Topping of South Dakota and Maude and Calvin Welborn; son Kenneth and Tina Heart of Florida; younger sister, Jeri Lakey of Kansas; many grandchildren and great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

Arthur is preceded in death by his father, mother and older sister.

Arrangements are with Furness Funeral Home, 605-532-5772.

Alan Ronald Tommila

May 2, 1960 - Aug. 18, 2012

A memorial service to celebrate the life of Alan Ronald Tommila, 52, of Eugene, formerly of Coos Bay, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 8, at the Lower Umpqua Senior Center, 460 Winchester Ave., Reedsport.

Alan was born May 2,

1960, in Oakridge, to Ronald and Shirley Tommila. He passed away Aug. 18 in Eugene, after a brief illness.

Alan worked for International Paper's Logging Division, in Gardiner, for 17 years. He then moved to Coos Bay and worked for Baycrest Village. In 2008, he moved to Eugene and worked for Lane County Parks; a move that he had wanted to do for some time. Alan enjoyed Eugene's many celebrations, concerts, bike trails and, of course, the Oregon Ducks, among other things.

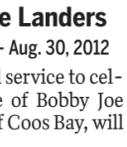

Alan is survived by sons, Shane, Trevor and Ebony; daughter, Alison; grandchildren, Kylee, Keenan, Taylor, Mckenzie, Carson and a baby boy due in Dec.; parents, Ron and Shirley Tommila; brother, Dan; sisters, Corinne and Mike Leach, Darcy Turney and Carmen and Roy Brewer; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Arrangements are under the care of Andreason's Cremation & Burial Services, 541-485-6659.

Bobby Joe Landers

Bobby Joe Landers

July 14, 1938 - Aug. 30, 2012

A memorial service to celebrate the life of Bobby Joe Landers, 74, of Coos Bay, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 6, at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church, 1290 Thompson Road in Coos Bay, with Pastor Jon Strasman presiding.

Private cremation rites were held at Ocean View Memory Gardens in Coos Bay.

Bobby was born July 14, 1938 in Morehead, Mo., the sixth of eleven children, to William and Mary Landers. He passed away Aug. 30, 2012 in Coos Bay from natural causes.

Bobby spent his youth living on a farm, later joining the U.S. Army in 1958. During his military service, he achieved the rank of sergeant and received an honorable discharge after a service related injury.

On Dec. 2, 1958, he married Gloria S. Linn. Together they had three children and raised one foster child. After moving to the Coos Bay area, Bobby worked for a period of time for Roseburg Lumber Company, later attending Southwestern Oregon Community College where he received his associate's degree in machinery. After school, he began working at Koontz machine shop, later starting his own businesses, Bob's Building Maintenance and Coast Cities Chem-Dry Carpet and Upholstery Cleaning. He later retired and sold the businesses.

Bobby was the happiest when he was working with his hands. He loved working in his shop, building rocking horses and special things for his grandchildren.

He is survived by his wife, Gloria S. Landers of Coos Bay; son, Robert J. Landers of Eugene; daughter, Penny A. Holbrook of Lakeside; foster son, Michael Merchant of Coos Bay; granddaughters, Shilo L. Landers of Grants Pass, Neisha L. Landers of Eugene, Jennifer L. Holbrook of Coos Bay and Misty W. Wilford of Hawaii; grandsons, Anson M. Fields of Ft. Hauchuca, Ariz. and Derek A. Winger of Portland; great-grandchildren, Deven, Elliah, Abigale, Stephanie, Jacobie and Kieani; brothers, James, Richard, Jack, Kenneth and Darel; sisters, Mary, Bertha and Linda; and many nieces and nephews.

Arrangements are under the direction of Coos Bay Chapel, 541-267-3131.

Oma Gene Barringer McDonald

Oct. 8, 1929 - Aug. 31, 2012

A memorial service to celebrate the life of Oma Gene Barringer McDonald, 82, of Coos Bay was held at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 2, at Coos Bay Chapel with Major James Ross of the Salvation Army officiating.

Viewing preceded the service. Private cremation will be held at Sunset Memorial Park Mausoleum, 63060 Millington Frontage Road, Coos Bay.

Oma was born Oct. 8, 1929, in El Paso, Ark. to Harlow and Lillie Bell (Ramsey) Foreman. She passed away Aug. 31, 2012, in Coos Bay.

Oma lived in El Paso until she married Dexter J.W. Barringer Oct. 19, 1946, in El Paso. Her first son, Jimmie, was born Aug. 1, 1947 in Conway, Ark. and later died in 1961. Their next child, Peggy, was born June 15, 1949 in Beebe, Ark. In September of 1950, they moved their family to Coos Bay. Their third child, Barbara, born May 8, 1951, and fourth child, Ronnie, born March 8, 1953, were both born in North Bend. Oma and Dexter were married over 47 years when Dexter died March 21, 1994. During their marriage, Oma worked as a waitress, a secretary for Dunn Realty, a sales clerk in the yardage department at The Hub Department Store and a grocery clerk at Fred Meyer. After being widowed for six years, Oma married Paul William McDonald Feb. 14, 2000, in Coos Bay. Paul died July 1, 2009 after nine years of marriage.

Oma has been a member of the Salvation Army since 1957. During this time, she served as Sunday school teacher, ladies group leader, rest home ministries leader as well as head lay leader for the church. While her children were in school, she served as Parent-Teacher Association president for eight years at Michigan Avenue School. She worked on the Election Board for several years, responsible for ballot boxes and ballot counting. Oma also worked for the Red Cross during blood drives and was a volunteer at Bay Area Hospital.

India's emergency care system in tatters

By NASR UL HADI
The Associated Press

NEW DELHI — Bharat Singh saw headlights zooming toward his motorbike and swerved. For a split second, he thought he had dodged the truck. Then his passenger screamed.

Singh saw the bloody flesh hanging loose from his brother's knee and hit full throttle. It would take five hours for his brother to get the care he needed, in a journey that highlighted the deadly gaps in India's emergency care system.

Singh didn't bother calling the emergency helpline on the unlit Uttar Pradesh highway because he knew help would probably come late, and that it would probably be a police officer rather than a medical professional who responded.

His brother would end up needing an ambulance anyway, because doctors at the nearest hospital, a half-hour away in Bulandshahr, said he needed surgery that was too complex for them to perform. He had to make the three-hour trip to New Delhi in a small van with a stretcher, an empty oxygen tank, worn-out shock absorbers that magnified each bump — and no medic.

Trauma care barely exists across much of India, where 160,000 people die in road accidents every year. Some of those people would surely survive if the system were better.

Ambulances have no medical equipment, and very few doctors are trained in emergency care, said Piyush Tewari, whose nonprofit helps trauma victims get medical attention within the first 60 minutes after an emergency, when medical intervention has the best chance of saving a victim's life. A 2006 report in the Indian Journal of Surgery found that more than 80 percent of Indians don't get care within that "golden hour."

This delay hasn't really improved in the last six years, said Dr. Mahesh Joshi, head of emergency medicine at Apollo, India's largest network of private hospitals. "Even in big cities like Mumbai, it is virtually impossible for a heart or trauma patient to reach any doctor within the first hour," he said.

Some private emergency response networks are quicker, but they bring in less than 7 percent of the 4,000-odd patients that reach Apollo's emergency rooms across the country every day, Joshi said.

People don't even know how to call for help. The emergency number could be 108 or 102 or 100, depending on which state you are in. A survey at Delhi's top trauma center showed that 90 percent didn't know they could reach an ambulance at 102.

Local police do help accident victims reach hospitals, but their response times vary. In most cities, patrol cars don't have room for a stretcher, and victims can be injured during transport.

The police in Delhi are the quickest, said Tewari, and they bring in most of the cases that make it to the city's top trauma center.

On one weeknight in July, the crew of patrol car Eagle Six had just unpacked dinner when the operator radioed about a motorcycle accident. Four minutes of siren blaring and tire screeching later, they were trying to resuscitate a badly bruised stranger in their patrol car. By the time they reached the hospital, their patient was disoriented but conscious.

"Still, we could use better training," said Constable Ajeet Singh.

1.5 carat meal: Man swallows $13,000 diamond

By BHARATHA MALLAWARACHCHI
The Associated Press

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — A man visiting a gem exhibition in Sri Lanka's capital swallowed a 1.5 carat diamond in front of the owner and was taken by police to a hospital, where an X-ray showed the $13,000 stone inside him.

Exhibitor Suresh Wijekoon said the man was behaving suspiciously at his stalls and when he reached closer to the suspect, the man suddenly swallowed the diamond at his hand before Suresh alerted police at the exhibition venue.

Chou Wan, a 32-year-old from China, is in custody pending further investigation, police spokesman Ajith Rohana said.

An X-ray proved the diamond was inside Chou's body, said hospital director Dr. Anil Jasinghe at Colombo National, where the suspect was taken for the test.

Suresh, owner of Belgrade International Pvt Ltd, said the diamond weighed about 1.5 carats. It was worth 1.8 million Sri Lankan rupees ($13,636), Rohana said.

Sri Lanka does not mine diamonds but is renowned for other highly treasured gems. Facets Sri Lanka 2012 is the island nation's annual largest gem and jewelry exhibition and it attracts a large number of local and foreign buyers.

Shooting mars win for Quebec separatists

By PHIL COUVRETTE
The Associated Press

MONTREAL — Police say a man fired a gun during a midnight victory rally for Quebec's new premier, killing one person and wounding another. The new premier, Pauline Marois of the separatist Parti Quebecois, was whisked off the stage and uninjured.

It was not clear if the gunman was trying to shoot Marois, whose party favors separation for the French-speaking province from Canada. Police identified the gunman only as a 50-year-old man. Police say he set a small fire behind the building before he was arrested.

Marois returned to the stage after the shooting and asked the crowd to peacefully disperse.

Police say they don't know the gunman's motive, but say the suspect, while being dragged toward the police cruiser, shouted in French, "The English are waking up!"

Turkey accuses Assad of 'state terrorism'

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's prime minister says Syrian President Bashar Assad's regime is engaged in "state terrorism" and is criticizing the world for just watching the "slaughter of Muslims" there.

Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan also said today that Syria's 18-month-long conflict had killed close to 30,000 people, including 2,200 children. He said some 76,000 people were missing.

Erdogan said inaction by the U.N. Security Council and the international community was giving Syria the "strength to continue its massacre."

Turkey has become the Assad regime's strongest critic and is host to Syrian opposition groups as well as some 80,000 refugees.

Earlier, Egyptian President Mohammed Morsi said Assad must learn from "recent history" and step down before it is too late.

First lady's message: Obama is just like you

BY JULIE PACE
The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Michelle Obama's message: President Barack Obama is just like you.

"Barack knows the American Dream because he's lived it," the first lady told the Democratic National Convention on Tuesday in an address intended to reassure voters that her husband shares their values — hard work, perseverance and optimism — while also drawing a contrast between him and Mitt Romney.

Mrs. Obama never mentioned the president's Republican challenger, who grew up in a world of privilege and wealth.

But the point was clear as she wove a tapestry of their early years together, when money was tight and times were tough, when they were "so in love, and so in debt." She reminisced about the man who now occupies the Oval Office pulling his father out of the trash and wearing dress shoes that were half a size too small. And she told stories about a president who still takes time to eat dinner with his daughters nearly every night, answering their questions about the news and strategizing about middle-school friendships.

With a mix of personal anecdotes and policy talk, Mrs. Obama's speech was her most political yet.

"Today, after so many struggles and triumphs and moments that have tested my husband in ways I never could have imagined, I have seen firsthand that being president doesn't change who you are — it reveals who you are," she said.

To that end, the first lady painted a portrait of a leader who knows the struggles of everyday Americans, who listens to them as president and who pushes an agenda with their interests in mind.

"That's the man I see in those quiet moments late at night, hunched over his desk, poring over the letters people have sent him," she said. "I see the concern in his eyes ... and I hear the determination in his voice as he tells me, 'You won't believe what these folks are going through, Michelle. It's not right. We've got to keep working to fix this. We've got so much more to do.'"

She added: "I see how that's what drives Barack Obama every single day."

With such stories, the first lady sought to counter Republicans trying to paint Obama as something other than a typical American, and implied that it was Romney who couldn't relate to people trying to get by in tough economic times.

To be sure, neither Romney nor Obama fits the bill of the average, working-class American struggling with credit card debt and mortgage payments. Both are millionaires who live a privileged life few Americans will ever experience.

But each candidate is trying to convince Americans that they're best suited to run an economy hampered by sluggish growth and high unemployment. Polls show Romney leading on who voters say would best to manage the economy; but Obama has the advantage on who voters believe understands their economic challenges better.

As she stood in the center of the convention's blue-carpeted stage, Mrs. Obama's words went straight to the core of the contrast Democrats are trying to draw between Obama and Romney. They say the president is pushing policies to boost the middle class, while Romney wants to protect the wealthy and hope their success trickles down.

Once a reluctant political spouse, Mrs. Obama delved more deeply into the details of her husband's policies than she has in her previous speeches. She promoted his health care overhaul, push for tax cuts for middle income earners and the auto bailout. And she took on the economy, her husband's biggest political liability, arguing that he "brought our economy back from the brink of collapse to creating jobs again."

"In the end, for Barack, these issues aren't political. They're personal," she said.

The first lady, wearing a bright pink dress, drew thunderous applause from the crowd and chants of "four more years" that are more often reserved for the president.

At the White House, Obama watched his wife's speech with the couple's two young daughters.

"I'm going to try to not let them see their daddy cry because when Michelle starts talking, I start getting all misty," the president said at rally earlier Tuesday in Norfolk, Va.

Pentagon says ex-SEAL book contains secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Navy SEAL's insider account of the raid that killed Osama bin Laden contains classified information, the Pentagon said Tuesday, and the admiral who heads the Naval Special Warfare Command said details in the book may provide enemies with dangerous insight into secretive U.S. operations.

Rear Adm. Sean Pybus told his force Tuesday that "hawking details about a mission" and selling other information about SEAL training and operations puts the force and their families at risk.

"For an elite force that should be humble and disciplined for life, we are certainly not appearing to be so," Pybus wrote in a letter to the roughly 8,000 troops under his command. "We owe our chain of command much better than this."

The letter was obtained by The Associated Press.

At the Pentagon, press secretary George Little said that an official review of the book, "No Easy Day," determined that it reveals what he called "sensitive and classified" information. He was not more specific but said the author was required to submit the book to the Pentagon before publication for a formal review of potential disclosures of such information.

"When you have special operations units that perform these missions, there are tactics, techniques, and procedures, not to mention human life, that are in play," Little said. "And it is the height of irresponsibility not to have this kind of material checked for the possible disclosure of classified information."

He told reporters during a briefing that the Pentagon is still reviewing what legal options should be taken against the author.

If the Pentagon determines the bin Laden book does disclose classified secrets, the government could consider bringing federal criminal charges against Bissonnette. The potential charges and penalties would depend largely on what type of secrets were disclosed.

Pybus, in his letter, was more direct, saying that, "We must immediately reconsider how we properly influence our people in and out of uniform NOT to seek inappropriate monetary, political, or celebrity profit from their service" with the SEALs.

"We all have much to gain or lose," he said. "In the weeks ahead, we will be taking actions to meet this challenge, and I appreciate your leadership and support of our community in this effort."

Last week, Adm. William McRaven, head of U.S. Special Operations Command, warned his troops that he would take legal action against anyone found to have exposed sensitive information that could cause fellow forces harm. The Naval Special Warfare Command is a unit within U.S. Special Operations Command.

National debt hits $16T

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department said Tuesday that the national debt has topped $16 trillion, the result of chronic government deficits that have poured more than $50,000 worth of red ink onto federal ledgers for every man, woman and child in the United States.

The news was greeted with a round of press releases from Barack Obama's GOP rivals, who used the grim-but-expected news to criticize the president for the government's fiscal performance over his 3 1/2 years in office.

Obama has presided over four straight years of trillion-dollar-plus deficits after inheriting a weak economy from his predecessor, George W. Bush.

"We can no longer push off the tough decisions until tomorrow," said No. 2 House Republican Eric Cantor, R-Va. "It's time to address the serious fiscal challenges we face and stop spending money we don't have." Last summer, Cantor dropped out of a set of budget talks hosted by Vice President Joe Biden, citing the insistence of the White House on tax increases to help close deficits that require the government to borrow 33 cents of every dollar it spends.

The spiraling debt means that lawmakers and the eventual winner of the White House in November will have to pass a law early next year to raise the government's borrowing cap from the current ceiling of $16.39 trillion. Passing such legislation last year proved enormously difficult and the nation's credit rating suffered.

Hackers say they have Apple device data; FBI disputes accusation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI on Tuesday disputed a computer hacker group's claim that it stole personal identification data on millions of Apple device owners from an FBI agent's laptop.

FBI officials said the bureau never asked for and never possessed the database that the group, which calls itself AntiSec, is posting on a website.

The group has released a link to a database of more than 1 million unique identification numbers for Apple devices, which could include iPhones and iPads. AntiSec said the data is just a piece of the more than 12 million unique identification numbers and personal information on the device owners that it got from a laptop used by an FBI agent.

The FBI denied that it ever had that information. But officials there said they could not verify the validity of the data that AntiSec released. Federal officials also warned that computer users should be careful when clicking on such links because they sometimes may contain malware that can infect computers.

Joe Stewart, a security researcher with Atlanta-based Dell SecureWorks, said, however, that he tested the link and did not find any connection to malware.

Treatments other than medicine manage urinary incontinence

DEAR DOCTOR K: I'm a man in my late 70s, and I'm having trouble holding my urine. Medicines have helped somewhat, but not completely. My doctor says he's tried every medicine and that I may have to live with my problem to some degree. Is there anything else you can suggest?

ASK DOCTOR K
Anthony Komaroff

DEAR READER: Though you may not guess it from TV ads, losing control of urine — incontinence — is not just a woman's problem. Men, particularly older men, can have trouble too. Studies find that one in four men your age experience incontinence at least once a year — and as many as one in 10 experience it nearly every day.

If medicines are not fixing the problem completely, there are other ways to manage urinary incontinence that are specifically designed for men. But first, I should say that many commonly used medicines may actually be a cause of incontinence. I have a list of such medicines on my website. If you're on any of these, talk to your doctor about whether they might be responsible in your case.

As for treatments other than medicines that might help, several pads and other absorbent products are designed for the male anatomy. Drip shields (with light protection) or guards (that absorb more) with waterproof backings slip over the head of the penis. They can be kept in place with any tight-fitting briefs. For heavier incontinence, you can wear absorbent inserts, shaped to fit men, inside your own underwear or special mesh briefs. If you have constant leakage, devices that collect rather than absorb urine can help. A condom catheter (or "Texas catheter") is a soft sheath made of silicone or latex. It fits over the penis like a regular condom. It attaches to a drain tube leading to a urine collection bag. The bag is strapped to your leg, underneath your pants and out of sight. Another option is a clamp placed around the base of the penis. The device is designed as an inflatable ring or a foam-lined frame. The clamp is tightened just enough to prevent urine from leaking. Every few hours, you loosen the clamp to urinate.

You may also be troubled by dribbling urine after the main stream has stopped. To avoid this, try to "milk out" the last few drops of urine. Using your fingertips, start an inch behind your scrotum and gently press upward. Keep applying pressure as you move your fingers toward the base of the penis under the scrotum. Repeat. This maneuver should move the pooled urine into the penis, where you can shake out the last few drops.

We have more information on male incontinence in our Special Health Report, "Better Bladder and Bowel Control." (Learn more about this report at AskDoctorK.com, or call 877-649-9457 toll-free to order it.)

Ongoing incontinence can irritate your skin. After each leak, clean the area with luke-warm water or a gentle soap or cleanser. Then apply diaper rash treatment, or a lotion or cream made for incontinence.

Lost toys inspire ingenuity

My older son was a huge fan of Legos. And Hot Wheels — my boys loved their Hot Wheels. They're grown and gone, but I still remember conducting search parties — with flashlight in hand — for lost treasures under the couch. I don't know if pool noodles even existed 30 years ago, but now that I have a grandson with treasures of his own, I'm going to install some under my couch.

EVERYDAY CHEAPSKATE

Mary Hunt

Furniture road block. I have two small boys who love toy cars, Legos and marbles. These things inevitably end up under the couch, so I placed a pool noodle under the couch. It sits under the skirt, so it isn't visible, but it buffers the perimeter so that toys don't get lost underneath the furniture anymore. — Paige, Colorado

Lint screen cleanup. My dryer was taking far too long to dry clothes. I clean my lint filter religiously following each load, but I learned that dryer sheets cause invisible buildup that hinders a dryer's ability to heat properly. I started washing the lint screen with mild soap and water, and I've noticed a remarkable difference. — Vicki, email

Toilet seat remodel. My husband and I feel as though we've completely remodeled all of our bathrooms just by replacing the toilet seats. Wow! It's amazing how one small change can make a huge difference in the decor of a room. — Lisa, New Hampshire

Sugar 'n' spice relief. If you end up cooking something that is too spicy, just add a teaspoon of sugar, and you will cut down on the spiciness of the dish. — Nancy, email

Gleaming stainless. Clean and shine stainless steel by mixing 1 tablespoon cream of tartar with a few drops of water to make a paste. Rub the paste onto the appliance. Scrub with a sponge, and wipe clean with a damp paper towel. If you have a lot of stainless steel in your home, don't depend on those tiny bottles of cream of tartar in the spice aisle. You can buy it cheap in bulk online. — Gwen, California

Super glue to the rescue. I use super glue to quickly seal cuts and blisters. If you can't find a Band-aid, a dab of super glue will do in a pinch. After you've cleaned the wound and stopped any bleeding, apply a very small amount of super glue to the area and quickly spread it around before it dries. The glue will harden into a mesh that essentially acts as replacement skin until your body is able to heal itself.

Super glue is non-toxic, but it might cause some minor skin irritation. It takes a long time to come off, so I use this trick only for small wounds and if no proper bandages are available. — Mary, Washington

Flour shaker. I save spice containers that have shaker caps. I wash them out and fill them with flour or sugar. These containers are convenient when you just need a sprinkle or shake, such as when kneading dough. — E.H., email

Wisconsin quarterback Danny O'Brien breaks away from Northern Iowa's Jake Farley during the first half of their game Saturday. The Badgers visit Oregon State this week.

Oregon State's first game is a big one

■ Wisconsin visits Corvallis a week after the Beavers' game with Nicholls State was delayed

BY ANNE M. PETERSON
The Associated Press

CORVALLIS — Coach Mike Riley jokes that Oregon State has been in the longest training camp ever.

The Beavers, who started camp back on Aug. 6, didn't play their opener Saturday against Nicholls State because Hurricane Isaac swept through the Colonels' Thibodaux, La., campus.

Officials from Oregon State and Nicholls State jointly decided last Wednesday night that it was in the best interests of the students to postpone the game, possibly until the first weekend in December.

The result is that Oregon State will finally open its season this Saturday at home against No. 13 Wisconsin.

It is the first time a Big Ten team has ventured to Corvallis since 1971, when the Beavers defeated Iowa 33-19.

"I've been saying it's as big a nonconference game that Oregon State has ever hosted," Riley said. "I think it's awesome."

After the Nicholls State game was called off last week, Riley gave the Beavers a day off before getting back to work. He thought there might be a letdown among the players because they had already started their preparations for the Colonels.

"We tried to look at the silver lining: We get in a little more work, we might get a couple of guys healthy, we practice the routine of a game week," Riley said. "Hopefully all those things are good. I think you find out the most about your team when you play a game, which we didn't get to do. But we've tried to spin the positives from this and get ready for a big game."

Last year, the Beavers traveled to Madison and fell 35-0 to the Badgers. The loss was the second of a four-game losing streak to start the season for Oregon State. The Beavers finished the season a disappointing 3-9, and out of the postseason for the second straight season.

Wisconsin went 11-3 last season and lost to Oregon in the Rose Bowl.

The Badgers opened this season with a 26-21 victory at home over FCS power Northern Iowa.

Coach Bret Bielema said he was pleased to get the win but said there were things the Badgers needed to improve before facing the Beavers.

"I know we're going to see a much improved football team going out there this year than we faced last year at Camp Randall," Bielema said.

"And obviously anytime you travel for the first time it's got its own set of issues. Tuesday is the first day of classes as well. So a lot of big firsts coming this week for this team to take on."

There was some gamesmanship going on this week when Bielema decided not to give Oregon State the Northern Iowa game film because the Beavers had no game film to offer in return.

Riley was able to get ahold of the film anyway, although he kept his source anonymous.

Saturday's game will be the Beavers' latest season opener since a Sept. 9, 1989, game against Stanford.

As for the Nicholls State game, officials from both schools are still mulling options for rescheduling. Because the teams have different off dates, the game could be scheduled for the weekend of Dec. 1, but there could be a conflict if the Colonels reach the FCS playoffs or the Beavers go to the Pac-12 championship. Pac-12 officials also will be involved in rescheduling the game.

On Tuesday, Oregon State announced that ticket holders could either hold on to them for the rescheduled game, or exchange them for tickets to a Pac-12 home game based on availability.

Oregon State had not missed a game since 2001 when a home game against Montana State was canceled because of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

Pac-12 can make a statement this week

BY JOHN MARSHALL
The Associated Press

PHOENIX — The Pac-12 had a long opening week, stretching from four games Thursday night to Arizona's frenetic game with Toledo that went into the wee hours of Sunday morning.

There were a couple of surprising losses, some tougher-than-expected wins, but mostly the week was filled with lopsided victories against overmatched opponents.

This week figures to get a lot tougher for the conference with ranked teams like Wisconsin, Nebraska and Oklahoma State on the schedule.

The most daunting game would go to Washington. Coming off a win against San Diego State, the Huskies get a huge test in the bayou when they face No. 3 LSU on Saturday.

"They are a very good football team," Washington coach Steve Sarkisian said.

Oregon State is facing a pretty good one, too.

The Beavers had their game against Nicholls State postponed due to Hurricane Isaac, giving them extra time to prepare for No. 13 Wisconsin.

They may need it.

Oregon State was overrun 35-0 in Madison last year and this season the Badgers are the favorites to win a third straight Big Ten title behind Heisman hopeful Montee Ball and quarterback Danny O'Brien, a transfer from Maryland.

UCLA faces a big jump in competition from one week to the next.

The Bruins started their inaugural season under coach Jim Mora impressively, rolling over Rice 49-24 after Johnathan Franklin ran for 214 yards and three touchdowns.

Week 2 gets a whole lot tougher for UCLA: No. 16 Nebraska.

The Cornhuskers appear to be back among the nation's elite and are coming off a 49-20 rout over Southern Mississippi. Nebraska had 632 yards of total offense, most since coach Bo Pelini took over in 2008, and Taylor Martinez threw for a 354 yards with five touchdowns against the Golden Eagles, giving UCLA plenty to think about before its second game.

Rain puts damper on U.S. Open schedule

■ Matches for Roddick and Sharapova are stopped in the first set by wet weather

NEW YORK (AP) — His match, and his retirement, put off for at least another day, Andy Roddick stepped out of Arthur Ashe Stadium and into the drizzly night, a black jacket's hood pulled overhead, a bag of ice soothing his right shoulder.

He'll try to prolong his U.S. Open — and his professional tennis career — today.

Roddick's fourth-round showdown against another past champion at Flushing Meadows, Juan Martin del Potro of Argentina, was suspended because of rain Tuesday night, with the American leading 1-0 in a first-set tiebreaker.

A little more than a half-hour later, the players were told they could head to their hotels.

They were scheduled to resume today as the second match in Ashe, after four-time major champion Maria Sharapova's quarterfinal against 2007 Wimbledon runner-up Marion Bartoli. That was halted Tuesday with Bartoli ahead 4-0.

Other matches stopped in progress, also in the first set, included defending champion Novak Djokovic against No. 18 Stanislas Wawrinka, and No. 8 Janko Tipsarevic against No. 19 Philipp Kohlschreiber.

On a day of off-and-on action because of intermittent showers, only two singles matches were completed: Top-seeded Victoria Azarenka reached her first U.S. Open semifinal by cobbling together a 6-1, 4-6, 7-6 (5) victory over defending champion Sam Stosur, and No. 4 David Ferrer reached the quarterfinals by beating No. 13 Richard Gasquet 7-5, 7-6 (2), 6-4.

So, Victoria, what went through your mind as your high-tension, high-quality match stretched into that third-set tiebreaker?

"You don't want to know what I kept telling myself," Azarenka deadpanned. "I would have to beep that, I think."

She went on to offer a cleaned-up version of what her thoughts had been — "Don't be a chicken" — while assuring herself of retaining the No. 1 ranking no matter what happens the rest of this week.

"Definitely I don't want to stop. I really want it bad," Azarenka said about the prospect of adding a second Grand Slam trophy to the one she earned in January at the Australian Open. "I'm going to do absolutely everything I have, you know, to give it all here."

Her match, like most at Flushing Meadows so far, took second billing to one involving the 20th-seeded Roddick, who surprisingly announced last week that this tournament would be the last of his career.

Since then, he picked up victories over players ranked 43rd and 59th, but the No. 7-seeded del Potro figured to provide more of a challenge. Del Potro is the only man other than Roger Federer, Rafael Nadal or Djokovic to win any of the past 30 Grand Slam titles.

Pirates win road match

THE WORLD

Marshfield's volleyball team opened the new season with a win at Cascade Christian on Tuesday.

The Pirates swept the Challengers 25-10, 25-16, 25-14.

"We played well," said Marshfield coach Tammie Montiel. "I thought we did a good job of playing our speed of game. I was impressed with it being our first match out to be that composed."

Brea Mosieur had eight kills to lead Marshfield's attack. Hannah Olson, Peyton Babb and Emily Moe each had five kills, while Olson had three blocks, Babb had eight digs and Moe had four blocks. Setter Lauren McGowne had 21 assists.

The Pirates played short-handed, Gabby Bryant, one of two sophomores on the team, was left home with a high fever, and another player missed the match with an injury, Montiel said.

Bryant already was a fill-in at her position, libero, for Alicia Hatzel, who injured her knee late in the spring and will miss the entire season.

"So we played seven players," Montiel said.

Marshfield hosts Churchill in a nonleague match Friday. The evening will include just a varsity match, starting at 5 p.m. so the players and fans can get to North Bend for the Civil War football game, which starts at 7 p.m.

Pacific tops Powers to open league

THE WORLD

Pacific's volleyball team topped visiting Powers in the Skyline League opener for both teams on Tuesday.

The Pirates swept the Cruisers, 25-16, 25-20, 25-17.

"This was fun," said new Pacific coach Ashley Moore.

Pacific matched its win total from last year — the Pirates beat Powers in their season finale.

The Pirates got contributions from every player in the lineup, Moore said.

"All of them played well," she said. "Every single girl hustled their butt off, and they're working as a team."

Kaylee Ells had three aces in a row in the third game. Heather Hardcastle didn't miss a serve the entire evening. Caitlin Happeny had two aces. Miranda MacFarlane had a solid night as setter. And Hannah Fortune, a first-year player, was all over the court making plays, Moore said.

Pacific had a couple of advantages for the match.

The Pirates played a match last week against Gold Beach, and though Pacific lost in three sets, it was a competitive battle and the girls told Moore the team played better together than it did all last fall, Moore said.

Powers, meanwhile, has not been able to practice in its own gym for more than a week while the floor was repaired. Instead, the Cruisers spent the week practicing on a grass court coach Heather Shorb set up.

"It was kind of fun," Shorb said of practicing outside. "I'll be glad to be on our court tomorrow, and I know the girls will, too."

Shorb said she was pleased with her team's effort Tuesday.

"We played very hard," she said. "It was really good to finally play a game after having only three practices in a gym."

Rebecca Standley had six aces, five kills and two blocks for the Cruisers. Sadie Blanton had two kills and eight digs, while Jessie Hunter had four kills and four blocks.

"We know what we need to work on now," Shorb said. "We will improve."

Pacific plays tonight in the Reedsport jamboree and both teams will be back in league play on Friday, with Powers visiting Camas Valley and Pacific visiting Umpqua Valley Christian.

Myrtle Point d. North Douglas: The Bobcats rallied from a two-set deficit to beat the host Warriors 12-25, 16-25, 25-18, 25-21, 15-9.

Logano joins Penske racing

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MOORESVILLE, N.C. — Penske Racing announced Tuesday that Joey Logano will join the team in 2013 and drive the No. 22 Ford in the NASCAR Sprint Cup Series.

The 22-year-old Logano is a two-time Cup Series winner in his fourth full season. He is leaving Joe Gibbs Racing for the seat that opened when AJ Allmendinger was released after a failed drug test.

Logano was also the youngest winner in Nationwide Series history when he won at Kentucky at the age of 18 in 2008. A year later, he won at New Hampshire to become the youngest winner ever in Cup Series competition. He was the 2009 Sprint Cup Series rookie of the year.

Union wants suspended players to rejoin teams

NEW ORLEANS — The NFL Players Association asked a federal judge for a temporary restraining order that would allow players suspended in connection with the NFL's bounty investigation to rejoin their teams in time to play regular season games.

The union filed the motion on behalf of New Orleans defensive end Will Smith, Cleveland linebacker Scott Fujita and free agent defensive lineman Anthony Hargrove, arguing that the players will suffer irreparable harm if they are forced to miss games while their case against the league proceeds.

Suspended Saints linebacker Jonathan Vilma already had filed a similar motion when his full-season suspension began earlier. The other three players' suspensions began this week.

The players want their suspensions thrown out because they argue the disciplinary process was fundamentally flawed and unfair.

Dolphins release backup quarterback Garrard

MIAMI — Quarterback David Garrard was released by the Miami Dolphins, leaving former Oregon State quarterback Matt Moore as the veteran backup to rookie starter Ryan Tannehill.

Garrard signed in March and climbed to the top of the depth chart in training camp before he was sidelined by a left knee injury that required arthroscopic surgery on Aug. 11. In his absence, Tannehill claimed the starting job for Sunday's opener at Houston.

PRINCETON, N.J. — Oregon State is one of four regional hosts in the field for the 2K Sports Classic benefiting the Wounded Warrior Project.

Alabama, Oregon State, Villanova and Purdue had been announced as the regional hosts. They will play in the semifinals on Nov. 15 at Madison Square Garden with the winners meeting the next day.

The regionals will be held Nov. 9 and 11.

UDC and Marshall will play at Villanova. South Dakota State and West Alabama are at Alabama. Bucknell and Hofstra visit Purdue. Niagara and New Mexico State go to Oregon State.

Penn State's costs on Sandusky case skyrocket

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Penn State's costs for legal fees, consultants and public relations firms hired to help deal with the Jerry Sandusky child sex abuse scandal have reached nearly $17 million.

The university said it has spent almost $16.8 million through June 30.

Nearly $10 million of that went to seven firms for what Penn State calls internal investigation and crisis communications. Nearly $4 million went for university legal services and defense.

The university is also facing lawsuits from Sandusky's accusers while the NCAA leveled a $60 million fine against the school in July.

Irish radio commentator Pinkett suspended

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — The Notre Dame radio network suspended former Irish running back and commentator Allen Pinkett without pay for two more games after his comments last week that teams need bad guys to give them an edge.

Pinkett had already been pulled off last Saturday's season opener against Navy in Ireland. He will now miss the games against Purdue and Michigan State.

Pinkett said during the interview with WSCR-AM of Chicago: "I've always felt like, to have a successful team, you have to have a few bad citizens on the team." He pointed to Ohio State as an example.

Minor league pitchers suspended for drugs

NEW YORK — Three minor league pitchers have been suspended under baseball's minor league drug program.

The commissioner's office announced the penalties Tuesday.

Kevin Grendell, a left-hander with Baltimore's rookie-level Gulf Coast League Orioles, has been suspended 50 games for testing positive for Dehydroepiandrosterone (DHEA). Grendell was an 11th-round pick out of San Pasqual High School in Escondido, Calif.

Yancarlos Santiago, a left-hander playing rookie ball for the Los Angeles Angels, has been suspended 25 games following a violation of the drug prevention and treatment program. Santiago is on the roster of the Orem Owls of the Pioneer League.

Free-agent right-hander Ysmael Carmona has also been suspended 25 games for violating the drug prevention and treatment program. Carmona's suspension will take effect when he signs with another major league organization.

There have been 85 suspensions under the minor league drug program this year and five in the big league program.

Badminton pair banned after trying to lose

JAKARTA, Indonesia — The Indonesian Badminton Association has banned a women's doubles pair for four months for its involvement in the play-to-lose scandal at the London Olympics.

Greysia Polii and Meiliana Jauhari were ejected from the games along with the Chinese world champions and two South Korean teams for trying to deliberately lose group matches in order to gain an easier path through the knockout stages.

The same ban on participating in national and international tournaments until Dec. 3 was also handed to their coach, Paulus Firman, the association said on its website today. It quoted Jauhari as accepting the ban.

Indonesia has called for future Olympics to return to a straight knockout tournament to prevent manipulation of the draw. The Badminton World Federation will discuss future formats in November.

The Associated Press
Tampa Bay's Evan Longoria strikes out during the first inning on a pitch from New York Yankees starting pitcher Freddy Garcia on Tuesday in St. Petersburg, Fla. Longoria later hit the go-ahead home run.

Rays beat struggling Yankees

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Evan Longoria hit a go-ahead homer and the Tampa Bay Rays beat New York 5-2 on Tuesday night to drop the struggling Yankees into a tie for first place in the AL East.

Coupled with Baltimore's 12-0 win at Toronto, the Yankees fell into a tie for the division lead with the surging Orioles after sitting atop the standings by themselves for 84 consecutive days — New York's longest streak since 2004.

Desmond Jennings and B.J. Upton also homered for the third-place Rays, who pulled within 1½ games of the Orioles and Yankees. Tampa Bay trailed by 10½ games at the end of play on July 18.

Longoria hit a two-run shot off Freddy Garcia (7-6), wiping out a 2-1 deficit in the third inning. Jennings and Upton delivered back-to-back solo shots in the fifth, giving Alex Cobb (9-8) and Tampa Bay's bullpen all the offensive support they'd need against the Yankees' sputtering lineup.

Orioles 12, Blue Jays 0: Mark Reynolds hit a three-run homer, Zach Britton (5-1) pitched seven innings to win his fourth straight start and the Orioles moved into a first-place tie in the AL East with a victory over the Blue Jays.

Baltimore's third consecutive victory coupled with the Yankees' loss at Tampa Bay gave the Orioles a share of first place in September for the first time since 1997.

Reynolds went 3 for 4 with four RBIs as the Orioles pounded out a season-high 18 hits.

Twins 18, White Sox 9: Chris Parmelee hit a three-run homer to cap a 10-run fifth inning and Minnesota routed Chicago.

The Twins also batted around in a seven-run second against rookie Jose Quintana (5-4), but first-place Chicago remained one game ahead of Detroit in the AL Central.

Minnesota pecked away methodically with 17 hits — only three went for extra bases.

Indians 3, Tigers 2: Justin Masterson (11-12) pitched six solid innings, and the Indians beat Detroit for their second straight victory over the playoff-chasing Tigers.

Miguel Cabrera hit a two-run homer for Detroit, but the Tigers missed another opportunity against a struggling team.

Angels 6, Athletics 1: Zack Greinke (4-2) pitched seven sharp innings to win his third consecutive start as Los Angeles beat Oakland.

Kendrys Morales had three hits and an RBI for the Angels, who remained 3½ games out of a wild-card spot. Los Angeles has won four of five on its six-game road trip and 11 of 14 overall.

Royals 6, Rangers 3: Jeremy Guthrie (4-3) pitched seven strong innings and the Royals got home runs from Alex Gordon and Johnny Giavotella in a victory over Texas.

Gordon broke a 2-all tie in the fifth with a two-run shot off Matt Harrison (15-9), the third home run he has allowed to a left-handed hitter this season.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 3: Cody Ross tied it with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, Ryan Lavanway connected two batters later and Boston snapped its seven-game losing streak with a win over Seattle.

Dustin Pedroia and Jacoby Ellsbury opened the sixth with singles off starter Blake Beavan (9-9) before Ross hit his 20th homer. Two outs later, Lavanway lined his first of the season.

The quick turn of fortunes made a winner of Jon Lester (9-11), who gave up consecutive homers to Franklin Gutierrez and Kyle Seager in the third. Andrew Bailey worked a scoreless ninth for his second save.

AL Recap

Nationals blast six homers in victory

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Adam LaRoche hit two of Washington's six homers, Ian Desmond had four RBIs and the Nationals beat the Chicago Cubs 11-5 on Tuesday night.

LaRoche and Jayson Werth had four hits apiece for the NL East-leading Nationals, who opened a season-high 7½-game advantage in the division. Second-place Atlanta lost to Colorado 6-0.

Desmond, Jesus Flores, Tyler Moore and Ryan Zimmerman also went deep. The six home runs matched a team record.

Washington right-hander Edwin Jackson (9-9) allowed four runs and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Diamondbacks 8, Giants 6, 11 innings: Aaron Hill had a career-high five hits and Jason Kubel tripled home the tiebreaking run in the 11th inning to lead Arizona over San Francisco.

The first-place Giants used 11 pitchers, matching a major league record for extra-inning games. They remained 4½ games ahead of Los Angeles in the NL West because the Dodgers also lost at home in extra innings, to San Diego.

Hill drove in two runs and was a triple shy of his third cycle this season.

Padres 6, Dodgers 3, 11 innings: Logan Forsythe hit a two-run single for San Diego with the bases loaded in the 11th inning after Yasmani Grandal tied the score against Los Angeles with a two-run homer in the eighth.

Andre Ethier homered but the Dodgers wasted an excellent outing from ace Clayton Kershaw and dropped 1½ games behind St. Louis in the race for the second NL wild card.

Rockies 6, Braves 0: Carlos Gonzalez hit his second home run since July 23 to give Colorado the lead, and Jordan Pacheco also went deep for the Rockies.

Four pitchers combined on a nine-hit shutout. Carlos Torres (4-1), who took over after Drew Pomeranz lasted only three innings, threw three scoreless frames. Rex Brothers and Matt Belisle closed it out.

Pirates 6, Astros 2: Andrew McCutchen had his major league-leading sixth four-hit game of the season and drove in three runs to help the Pirates snap a four-game losing streak.

Brock Holt added four hits in just his third major league start, and Pittsburgh's Wandy Rodriguez (10-13) scattered four hits over seven shutout innings against his former team.

Cardinals 5, Mets 1: Jaime Garcia (4-6) carried a shutout into the eighth inning and Yadier Molina got his 1,000th career hit with an infield single that started a three-run second for St. Louis against rookie Matt Harvey.

Daniel Descalso and David Freese had two hits and an RBI apiece for the Cardinals, who are 42-26 at home for the second-best mark in the National League.

Reds 2, Phillies 1: Jay Bruce homered for the third straight game, hitting a two-run shot that sent the Reds to the win with first baseman Joey Votto watching from the bench.

Votto was activated off the disabled list before the game, but didn't play. Cincinnati went 32-16 without him, taking control of the NL Central.

Mat Latos (12-4) gave up one run — on a bases-loaded walk — and four hits in seven innings. Aroldis Chapman worked the ninth for his 35th save in 39 chances.

Jimmy Rollins doubled off Latos in the fifth inning, making him the fourth Phillies player to reach 2,000 career hits.

Brewers 8, Marlins 4: Norichika Aoki and Jeff Bianchi homered and drove in three runs apiece to power the Brewers to the victory.

Ryan Braun drove in Milwaukee's other two runs to give him 98 RBIs, which leads the National League. The reigning NL MVP is looking for his fifth straight season with 100 RBIs.

Kenseth announces move to Joe Gibbs Racing

HUNTERSVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Matt Kenseth opened this season with a second victory in the Daytona 500, and it didn't take him long to establish himself as a legitimate championship contender.

But before the midpoint of the season, Kenseth had decided he no longer wanted to drive for Roush Fenway Racing. On Tuesday, nearly two months after RFR said Kenseth was leaving, the driver finally confirmed he's moving to Joe Gibbs Racing at the end of the season.

"Surprise," he said as he entered a JGR news conference, a dry quip at one of the worst kept secrets in NASCAR.

Kenseth was deliberately vague, though, as to why he's leaving RFR after 13 full Cup seasons. He's never driven for anyone else at NASCAR's highest level, and paired with Jack Roush won 22 races, a pair of Daytona 500s and the 2003 championship.

"I knew it would not only be a good fit, but it's about winning races and winning championships and you want to put yourself in a position to be competitive going forward," Kenseth said. "I felt like this was it."

But he was winning races and he was competitive at Roush, where the 40-year-old Kenseth is considered one of NASCAR's elite drivers. Pressed as to what JGR offered, Kenseth knew he wasn't going to give a clear answer.

"There's just a lot of different things that go into that. It's about 2013 and beyond," Kenseth said. "I felt like and I feel like (Gibbs) was the right place for me. I know without a doubt at all it's the right place for me to be."

Dallas Cowboys quarterback Tony Romo prepares to pass during a preseason game against the Tennessee Titans last week. Romo and the Cowboys visit the New York Giants in the season opener tonight

Giants, Dallas open season tonight

■ New York begins defense of title as favorite at home against Cowboys

BY BARRY WILNER
The Associated Press

So there we were, the final game of the 2011 season, the Cowboys at the Giants with the NFC East title on the line.

New York won 31-14 and, a month or so later, was taking home its second Vince Lombardi Trophy in five seasons.

Now, here we are, the opening of the 2012 schedule, and there are the Cowboys journeying today to the Meadowlands to take on the Super Bowl champions, who are 4-point favorites.

It's one of the NFL's better rivalries, but the Giants have won most of the significant meetings in recent years. And no team has lost the prime-time kickoff to the season after winning the NFL title since the tradition was begun in 2004.

"Every game is a tough game," Giants coach Tom Coughlin said. "Seems to go pretty close to the wire. On the 17th week last year was a little bit of an exception, but every game is a battle. These two teams play each other hard and they're two talented teams that are very physical and that's the way these games always are."

As this one will be. Dallas retooled its defense, particularly the secondary, to deal with the strong passing game the Giants and Eagles present in the NFC East. The Giants also had significant changes, especially on offense with rookie David Wilson now the primary backup to running back Ahmad Bradshaw, and big-play third receiver Mario Manningham gone.

One key player, Dallas tight end Jason Witten, is recovering from a lacerated spleen. The Cowboys need him to have any chance. ... GIANTS, 27-17.

Miami (plus 10 1/2) at

Houston: Texans are aiming for Super Bowl. Dolphins are aiming to avoid cellar ... BEST BET: TEXANS, 27-6.

Atlanta (minus 2 1/2) at Kansas City: Chiefs are hurting, but relatively healthy compared to 2011 debacle. ... UPSET SPECIAL: CHIEFS, 17-14.

Pittsburgh (plus 1) at Denver: Could be punishing return for Peyton Manning. He'll survive the pounding. ... BRONCOS, 22-20.

Indianapolis (plus 9 1/2) at Chicago: Rough debut for Andrew Luck. Better times ahead. ... BEARS, 27-10.

Washington (plus 9 1/2) at New Orleans: Rough debut for RG3. Actually he should do well, but Saints are ticked off bunch that will score plenty. ... SAINTS, 33-23.

Seattle (minus 2 1/2) at Arizona: Another rookie QB, Russell Wilson, will fare better than Luck and Griffin. ... SEAHAWKS, 20-16.

San Francisco (plus 5 1/2) at Green Bay: They easily could meet again at Lambeau in January. ... PACKERS, 24-17.

Philadelphia (minus 8 1/2) at Cleveland: Eagles can't afford another stumble out of the gate. ... EAGLES 17-10.

Buffalo (plus 3) at N.Y. Jets: Mario Williams and Mark Anderson meet at the QB, whether it's Sanchez or Tebow. ... BILLS, 17-13.

New England (minus 6 1/2) at Tennessee: Tom Brady got banged around in preseason. Titans can rush passer. Still ... PATRIOTS, 28-24.

Jacksonville (plus 4) at Minnesota: Might be only time Vikings are favored this season. ... VIKINGS, 14-9.

St. Louis (plus 8 1/2) at Detroit: Difficult spot for Jeff Fisher in first game as Rams coach. ... LIONS, 30-13.

Carolina (minus 2 1/2) at Tampa Bay: Bucs being touted as one of most improved teams. We think that might be Panthers instead. ... PANTHERS, 27-20.

Cincinnati (plus 6) at Baltimore, Monday: With improving offense, Ravens could be class of AFC. ... RAVENS, 21-13.

San Diego (minus 1) at Oakland, Monday: Norv Turner needs fast start to season with Chargers. ... CHARGERS, 27-20.

PAC-12 Huskies visit LSU Saturday

"They're a nationally ranked team that comes off an impressive win, they've got a lot depth, they're very talented and very well-coached," Mora said. "We're going to have to play our best to beat them."

Arizona also is facing a big step up in competition after barely getting past a smaller-conference program in coach Rich Rodriguez's debut.

In a game that appeared to be stuck on fast-forward, the Wildcats and Rockets combined for an astounding 182 plays while playing well into Sunday morning. Arizona won it 24-17 in overtime when quarterback Matt Scott threw a 10-yard touchdown pass to Terrence Miller and its defense held.

The Wildcats had plenty of mistakes and breakdowns in that game and will need to get better quick; up next is No. 18 Oklahoma State.

The Cowboys have beaten Arizona each of the past two seasons and didn't give the Wildcats much game film to look at from their opener, pulling most of their starters after the first period of an 84-0 win over Savannah State.

Oklahoma State showed some mercy with the over-matched Tigers and still had their most lopsided victory since 1916.

Yeah, that will get your attention.

"Their last game, they could have scored 184 by halftime if they had left their starters in, and their backups are pretty good, too," Rodriguez said. "It's a big challenge and we're going to have to play well to have a chance in this game, but it's also an opportunity to see where we're at."

Washington was already going to have a tough time playing the Tigers on the road. It will be even more difficult after running back Jesse Callier tore the ACL in his right knee against San Diego State and right tackle Ben Riva broke his forearm.

The good news for the Huskies is that they've played LSU close before.

In 2009, Sarkisian took over a team that had lost its previous 14 games and was facing the nation's 11th-ranked team. Despite some pre-game jitters, the Huskies held their ground at home against the Tigers and came away with a respectable 31-23 loss.

"Hopefully, we look a little better in pregame warm-ups," Sarkisian said. "I was a little kind of looking at their side and looking at our side and it didn't feel like this was a great matchup in pregame warm-ups. I thought our kids played hard that first time around."

They'll need to do it again to have a chance this time — just like many of the other Pac-12 teams.

USC also has a long road trip this week, to Syracuse.

Stanford and Arizona State both host teams from BCS conferences, though their opponents — Duke for the Cardinal and Illinois for the Sun Devils — are not nearly as tough as Wisconsin, Nebraska or Oklahoma State.

Oregon, meanwhile, continues its stretch of four straight home games to start the season when the Ducks host Fresno State. They also have Tennessee Tech and Arizona at home before finally hitting the road on Sept. 29 to face Washington State.

BRIDGE

Lewis Mumford, who was known for his study of cities and urban architecture, said, "A day spent without the sight or sound of beauty, the contemplation of mystery, or the search of truth or perfection is a poverty-stricken day."

This deal from a duplicate presents a mysterious puzzle. All six tables played in four spades by South. Three declarers won nine tricks, one made 10, and two took 12. How come?

This auction looks normal, but

Vulnerable: East-West

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♦
4 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: ??

East might have rebid three clubs. What should West lead against four spades?

The two declarers who won 12 tricks received a club lead, with East incorrectly putting up the queen. The six-lead must be a singleton, given North's opening and East's having bid diamonds. East should play low. Then South can be held to 10 tricks.

The other Wests led the diamond jack, East taking two tricks in the suit. Two defenders now played the ace and another heart, South claiming.

One East shifted to a low club. Declarer won with his 10, drew trumps, and led the club king, getting the bad news. Now he erred, playing a heart to dummy's queen. East won and returned a heart to defeat the contract. For his bidding, East had to have the heart ace. South should have overtaken the club king with dummy's ace and called for the heart nine. When East played low, declarer would have had to guess who held the jack. But at least he would have had a chance to get it right. Don't play third hand high when it cannot help your side.

NOTICE: WE ARE A DEBT COLLECTOR. THIS COMMUNICATION IS AN ATTEMPT TO COLLECT A DEBT AND ANY INFORMATION OBTAINED WILL BE USED FOR PURPOSES OF DEBT COLLECTION.

Reference is made to that certain trust deed made by Sonya J Haworth and Kari L Sanders, as Joint Tenants, as grantor, to Netco, as trustee, in favor of U.S. Bank National Association ND, as beneficiary, dated March 7, 2008, recorded March 26, 2008, in the mortgage records of Coos County, Oregon, as Recording Number 2008-2976, covering the following described real property situated in said county and state, to-wit:

Beginning at the meander corner of the right bank of the Coquille River between Sections 21 and 22, Township 29 South, Range 12 West of the Willamette Meridian, Coos County, Oregon; thence North 4 chains and 20 links; thence East 14 chains and 10 links; thence South 45 degrees East 4 chains; thence South 45 degrees West 12 chains and 68 links to the right bank of the said river; thence down the right bank of said river to the point of beginning.

EXCEPT: That portion contained in the State Highway in final judgment under Circuit Court Case No. 23216 to State of Oregon, by and through its State Highway Commission.

Both the beneficiary and the trustee, David A. Weibel, will sell the said real property to satisfy the obligations secured by said trust deed and a notice of default has been recorded pursuant to Oregon Revised Statutes 86.753(3); the default for which the foreclosure is made is grantor's failure to pay the following sums:

- Monthly Payments: Delinquent Monthly Payments Due from 8/12/2011 through 6/12/2012: 13,897.73
  - Total Payments: 505.36
  - Accrued Late Charges: 127.00
  - Lender's Other Fees: 127.00
- THE SUM OWING ON THE OBLIGATION SECURED BY THE TRUST DEED: $14,530.09

- Delinquent Real Property Taxes, if any.

By reason of said default, the beneficiary has declared all sums owing on the obligation secured by said trust deed immediately due and payable, said sums being the following, to wit: Unpaid balance is $197,230.61 as of June 29, 2012. In addition there are attorney's fees and foreclosure costs which as of the date of this notice are estimated to be $2,500.00. Interest, late charges and advances for the protection and preservation of the property may accrue after the date of this notice.

WHEREFORE, notice hereby is given that the undersigned trustee, David A. Weibel, on November 7, 2012 at the hour of 11:00 am, in accord with the standard of time established by ORS 187.110, at the front entrance to the Coos County Courthouse, 2nd and Baxter Streets, Coquille, State of Oregon, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the interest in the said described real property which the grantor has or had power to convey at the time of the execution by grantor of the said trust deed together with any interest which the grantor or grantor's successors in interest acquired after the execution of said trust deed, to satisfy the foregoing obligations thereby secured and the costs and expenses of sale, including a reasonable charge by the trustee.

Notice is further given that any person named in ORS 86.753 has the right, at any time that is not later than five days before the date last set for the sale to have this foreclosure proceeding dismissed and the trust deed reinstated by payment to the beneficiary of the entire amount then due (other than such portion of the principal as would not then be due had no default occurred), paying all advances authorized under the trust deed, including all costs and expenses incurred in enforcing the obligation and trust deed, and by curing any other default complained of therein that is capable of being cured by tendering the performance required under the obligation or trust deed, and in addition to paying said sums or tendering the performance necessary to cure the default, by paying all costs and expenses actually incurred in enforcing the obligation and trust deed, together with trustee's and attorney's fees not exceeding the amounts provided by said ORS 86.753.

In construing this notice, the singular includes the plural, the word "grantor" includes any successor in interest to the grantor as well as any other person owing an obligation, the performance of which is secured by said trust deed, and the words "trustee" and "beneficiary" include their respective successors in interest, if any.

Your Birthday

THURSDAY, SEPT. 6, 2012
New avenues are being opened in the year ahead that could make it possible for you to fulfill a secret ambition that you've long held. You'll have even more fun if you take the road less traveled to get the job done.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
— When in charge, asking nicely will be much more effective than issuing forceful commands. If you want to attract everyone's attention and support, speak softly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
— Should a friend display a little favoritism toward you, keep it to yourself and don't broadcast all the special perks that you're getting. All it would do is cause animosity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
— A crucial decision will turn out well if it's predicated upon unselfishness. Think of others and how your actions affect them, before you make a move.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
— Devote some time to a labor of love, and it will be a very productive day for you. A purposeful attitude will bring great rewards.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
— You're apt to be extremely fortunate in a partnership arrangement, especially if your cohort is a member of the opposite sex. Don't take such luck for granted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
— This is an excellent day to begin working on those artistic changes that you've wanted to make around your home or office. Do it now, while you're in a creative mood.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
— Someone who likes you is currently making some very pleasant plans of a social nature, in which you play a prominent role. Act surprised when you learn of them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
— Through the efforts of someone who has been looking after you for some time, you'll finally get something that you've been wanting for a long time. Show your appreciation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
— Charm, wit, humor and tact will be the tools you'll use to successfully win over a number of admirers. The more relaxed you are, the easier it will be to enjoy the limelight.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
— Don't be reluctant to request a favor from someone who can help you with a confidential matter. There isn't any reason why this person wouldn't be responsive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
— Because the last thing you'll want is to be a loner, make it a point to plan some type of activity that involves others. You could spend many happy hours with friends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
— If you want to be a good leader and not just someone giving orders, be genuinely concerned about everyone who's in your care. Having the right attitude will arouse the support that you need and crave.
