

News-Times/Steve Moseley

Above: Jay Nelson's duties as superintendent of Bradshaw's infrastructure includes filling downtown planters in the spring. At Right: Any motorist who ever glanced to the south while driving by knows what the Bradshaw standpipe looks like from Hwy 34. This is how it looked from very up-close Tuesday morning.

News-Times/Steve Moseley

The eye-grabbing Bulldog Roadhouse in Bradshaw dates to 1909.

News-Times/Steve Moseley

Big cities have skyscrapers, however tiny Bradshaw also has a couple buildings that reach into the sky.

BRADSHAW NEIGHBORS

A Tuesday peek at Bradshaw

Once a month the News-Times travels to area towns to find out what is interesting and unique to that community. month's featured community is Bradshaw.

News-Times/Steve Moseley

Above Far Left: A mural exhibiting the character of age fights off time the best it can on a downtown building. Above Middle: The Bradshaw school bell proudly rang from 1881-1998 at which time the district merged with Henderson and the result, Heartland Community School, remains a first-rate district today. Above Right: The old and picturesque Bradshaw Town Hall still stands on main street. In fact it was the only thing to remain upright after a tornado flattened the community near the turn of the century.