five outings with 20 of 65 coming against Chicago State. It opponents (UC Irvine and Northern Colorado) with winhasn't been a matter of coming out flat as the Lobos have ning records. Nor have the Wildcats been road warriors this season as all 11 of their non-conference games are been good defensively and created quality first-quarter at home. Still, it's a UA team that can use quickness and scoring chances. UNM has simply shot poorly (21 of 82, defensive pressure to rack up points in a hurry. Point 25.6%) in its last five first quarters with numerous missed guard Cornfield is the catalyst and does an oustanding layups and rushed perimeter shots. The Lobos are largely jog distributing the ball, amassing 56 assists through a guard-oriented bunch but they do need more producseven games. Perdue is by far the top 3-point threat and tion from their posts. Craig managed just 3 total points has accounted for half of her team's 90 attempts and 30 in UNM's two games in Florida, and Naijuma capitalized makes. Arizona has considerable size on its bench but on extra minutes with 21 rebounds off the bench. New Mexico's bench as a whole continues to be productive Burke has opted for a smaller, quicker lineup that leans heavily on its starters. Perdue played all 40 minutes and Bradbury continues to go 10 to 11 players deep on a regular basis. The starting guards have provided steady against Southern and is one of three players averaging play with Hooks and Antonio the top scoring threats, more than 30 minutes per game. The Wildcats rely on transition. They force nearly 19 turnovers per game and although both had off shooting days in the Lobos' 63-60 average 16.9 points off turnovers. loss to Cincinnati.
