Cows gather for a snack in Crawford County, Mo.

MWM photo by Benjamin Herrold
Things You Can Count On:

- As soon as you load your horse in the trailer, he will take a dump.
- Any 4th of July rodeo will get rained out.
- The more a new pair of boots cost, the quicker you will need the tool you forgot.
- You will eventually find something wrong with you.
- If you get all your grain bought at harvest, the price will eventually go down.
- If you sort the heavy end of the calving heifers into a pen under the lights, there will be six left in the other bunch that calve first.
- The further you get from home in your straw hat, the harder the wind will blow.
- No matter who you vote for, you finally have to admit it didn’t make any difference.
- Anyone the press calls an environmentalist does not make a living producing anything you can use.
- If you go to a psychiatrist long enough they will finally achieved the tallest yearling bulls in the show ring, this will be the year the trend starts the other way.
- If you sort the heavy end of the calving heifers into a pen under the lights, there will be six left in the other bunch that calve first.
- March will never be as bad as November because in November you always have March to look forward to.

www.baxterblack.com