Gritty Drama Full of Surprises

Candace Havens FYI Television, Inc.

Police dramas are nothing new, but "Gang Related," premiering Thursday at 8 p.m. on FOX, takes the genre into new territory. While there are criminals to catch each week, the show digs a bit deeper. Detective Ryan Lopez (Ramon Rodriguez, "The Wire") is a great cop working for the elite Gang Task Force (GTF), but he has also pledged his allegiance to one of the most dangerous men in Los Angeles, Javier Acosta (Cliff Curtis, "Live Free or Die Hard").

Their bond was forged when Ryan was just a kid and Javier took him under his wing. But the members of the task force don't know about Ryan's ties to Acosta, the head of Los Angelicos, one of the most dangerous gangs in the city. "It allows us to show two sides of things," says executive producer Chris Morgan, "and have characters get in arguments about stuff. It's good plot stuff. Good social commentary."

Ryan is torn because he believes in what the GTF is doing, and he's growing close to the team, which includes his partner, Cassius Green (RZA, "Californication"), Tae Kim (Sung Kang, "Fast Five"), Vee Dotsen (Inbar Lavi, "Underemployed") and their leader, Sam Chapel (Terry O'Quinn, "Lost").

"I think my character hopes there's an end game," says Rodriguez, "but I think he sees throughout the season that it's not that easy. You know, there's a ton of challenges going on, whether it's with the family and the family trying to get out or whether it's with the GTF and the GTF trying to take down his family. I think it just continues to get more complex as the season goes on. In the beginning, I think things were very simple at one point and he thought, 'Yeah, this is a great way to get the family out, it's working.' And things really just get complicated, and right now he doesn't see an end game, I don't think, but he hopes for one."

The idea for the series came from a video Morgan watched that was taken off a police dash cam. It showed a man trying to rob a store who used military tactics and an assault rifle. "So, what they realized is the gangs are sending their members into the military to become trained so they can come back and fight on the streets," says Morgan. "And I started thinking about that and thought, 'Well, what if L.A.'s gang task force had a gang member infiltrate like that, and what if he's pulled? What if we pick him up at a time when, you know, he's been one thing his entire life, which is a gang member, someone loval to a family, and then now he has this new

"And I won't get too much into it," Morgan continues, "but one of the things that I thought was always interesting for us is a little bit about the nature of gangs, the fact that, historically, gangs would be some sort of minority that comes into a larger group and is disenfranchised, doesn't get an opportunity, and so for safety or for some other reason, they bond together, and they bond together for the right reasons, which is love of family, protection, but along the way there's other elements that go with that, which is violence. And especially with Ramon and the character of Ryan, he's a guy who we have a chance now to show, you know, a very gray side to everything. One of the things I think is most compelling is that, you know, every hero has a dark side, and every villain has something heroic in them. And so we are able to take these two worlds and kind of put those together."

The cast is diverse, and the show's writers take advantage of that with incredible results. "We were in the editing room just the other day, and we have this one stretch of scenes," says Morgan, "and they are each long dramatic scenes. And the first one is entirely in Korean, the second one is entirely in Russian, the third one is entirely in Terry O'Quinn returns to television as the head of an elite team of law enforcement officers on "Gang Related," premiering Thursday at 8 p.m. on FOX.

Spanish, and the last one is in English. And it's not like a blend or anything like that. These guys kill it, I mean, to be able to learn that and to come in and convey that. We embrace it, not only in the writing room, but in terms of the story and what you will see in the series."

TRIVIA CHAIN

Unconventional TV Families

1. One of the first TV series to stray from the traditional family unit of a father, mother and their children was this long-running Western, in which a thrice-widowed father had three adult sons, all from different mothers.

- 2. Blended families were championed by this iconic sitcom named for the clan comprised of a widower and his three sons together with a previously married woman and her trio of daughters.
- Airing from 1978 to 1986, this sitcom crossed racial lines with its premise of a wealthy widower with a daughter who adopts the two sons of his deceased housekeeper.
- 4. Running with that same ball of mixed-race (and short-statured leads) was this 1980s series about an orphaned boy adopted by his NFL-player godfather and his new socialite

- 5. On this ABC sitcom, a widower raises his three young daughters with the live-in help of both his best friend and his brother-in-law.
- 6. The polygamous patriarch of this HBO drama series had eight kids with three concurrent wives - and still found time for success in business and politics.
- 7. On this stellar comedy series, the family consisted of a father, his teenage son and the father's brother and sister - all assumed roles for a quartet of extraterrestrials making an undercover study of Earth and its people.

Craig Ferguson

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford checked himself into rehab. I didn't see that coming.

A sober mayor of Toronto? I'm getting out of late night just in time.

The Daytime Emmy Awards were announced - a record 24 nominations for the soap opera "The Young and the Restless." Or was it their evil twin? They probably don't know because their evil twin has amnesia.

Jimmy Fallon

Los Angeles Clippers owner Donald Sterling's wife, Rochelle, is being accused of making racist remarks during an incident back in 2009. Sterling should break up with his girlfriend and go out with his wife. They're perfect for each other.

Donald Sterling's girlfriend said she's "going to be president of the United States" one day. Yeah, like we're going to elect someone who secretly records people's private phone calls and conversations.

Toronto Mayor Rob Ford announced today that he is checking into rehab. He said he entered rehab this week to deal with the problem swiftly - and also because Monday is Cinco de Mayo, and he ain't missing that.

Conan O'Brien

Toronto mayor Rob Ford has decided to take a leave of absence to seek help. Specifically what he's seeking help with is getting more crack.

After rumors surfaced of another video of him smoking crack, Rob Ford said he's taking a leave of absence and, of course, he's earned it. The guy's been up since 2004.

Ronald McDonald recently received a makeover, which includes a new vest and bow tie. Not to be outdone, after an operation the Burger King is now the Burger Oueen.

David Letterman

A show business insider told us that the Los Angeles Clippers are up for sale and will be purchased by Oprah Winfrey. The new team physician will be Dr. Phil.

The Clippers will be the only team in the league with a book club.

Moments in Time

On May 22, 1843, a massive wagon train, made up of 1,000 settlers, sets off down the Oregon Trail from Independence, Mo. Known as the "Great Emigration," the expedition finally arrived in October, completing the 2,000-mile journey in five months

On May 25, 1878, Gilbert and Sullivan's "HMS Pinafore" premieres at the Opera-Comique in London, beginning a near-record run of 571 performances. The story of Pinafore concerns a First Lord of the Admiralty who is thwarted in his attempt to woo and marry the beautiful young daughter of a British Navy ship's captain.

Why Do You Say That?

Moonshine:

This term associated with the illegal homemade liquor produced by American hill folk actually originated in 18th-century England, where it was derived from the expression "moonrakers" used to describe smugglers, whose occupational pursuits necessitated working by the light of the moon. During America's Prohibition, "moonshiners" came to be used for both the secretive transport of illicit spirits and the distillation of such in hidden "stills," and in time the product itself was referred to as "moonshine." In contrast, "bootlegging" was first used to describe American colonists' practice of hiding flasks of whiskey in the tops of their boots for a forbidden form of trade with Native Americans, and today the term endures as the illegal transport or smuggling of alcohol to dry counties.
