LETTER

From the Editor

What's new this month? A name, an event and a hashtag

June is a big month for the Gateway to Logan Martin Lake.

It kicks off Saturday, June 2, in downtown Pell City with a perennially favorite event that is sporting a brand-new name this year: the 2018 Avondale Mills Block Party.

Courtney Hobson, executive director of the Pell City Chamber of Commerce, says it's the same block party the city has enjoyed for years. The new name reflects a new partnership between the chamber (which has staged the block party since its inception) and The Heart of Pell City (a nonprofit group seeking to revitalize the city's historic downtown district).

Scheduled for 2-9 p.m., the block party will be a full afternoon and evening of activities, including a puppy parade, an auto show, the always popular kids' block and a variety of food vendors. It will again feature three music stages showcasing performances by the Jammison Taylor School of Music, NCN, Sam Lewis, Sound Byte Adrenaline, The AJ Beavers Band, The Yellow Dandies and The Wingnuts, among others.

Two Saturdays later, Pell City's Center for Education and Performing Arts (CEPA) plays host to Tastes and Tales of Pell City, a new event billed as "a sampling of local restaurants and storytelling spectacular." Scheduled for 4 p.m. (with the storytelling to begin at 6 p.m.), the event benefits CEPA and the Pell City Library Guild.

When you attend these events or any other around Logan Martin this summer, be sure to tag the photos you post on social media with the lakeside area's new hashtag: #myloganmartin. This is a new and exciting initiative of the Pell City Chamber of Commerce to "raise the profile of our community and showcase the #myloganmartin lifestyle to a broader audience" by encouraging lakeside residents, visitors, business owners and community stakeholders to share their adventures, offerings and experiences this season.

It's already been showing up frequently on Facebook, especially in the All Things Logan Martin Lake group, and we look forward to seeing where #myloganmartin takes you this summer. As always, we thank you for taking Lakeside Living with you.

CALENDAR KEY

Fishing Condition: This is the overall rating for the whole day, based upon our formula:

Best ■ Good ■ Fair ■ Poor ■

Best Time: This column lists the best time of the day when, according to our formula, fish will be biting: MORNING; EVENING.

Bass fishing on hot summer days

During the summer months, even fish look for opportunities to escape the blazing sun.

Largemouth bass tend to seek out shadows under structures. Structure fishing is paramount to success in summer, as bass hang tight to docks, branch overhangs and bridge abutments – anywhere they can cool off in the shadows and hide from the sun.

Work shadow lines by dropshotting worms rigged wacky style or casting chatterbaits to convince bass to come out of the shadow and hit. Once you are 10 feet out of the shadow line, reel up and make a quick cast again, as many times the bass are interested but not committed and will be back to hit the second time around. A well-placed live shiner cast on the outskirts of the structure will also get looks from a largemouth.

When the sun is just below the horizon at dawn and dusk, these are opportune windows where largemouth will be on the feed as waters are spared from the sun. When the sun reaches its apex, bass will go into deeper waters and into the weeds.

A man with a beard and short hair, wearing a green long-sleeved shirt and a red and yellow life vest, is kayaking on a body of water. He is holding a blue paddle with both hands, and the paddle has "Adventure Technology" written on it. The kayak is yellow and has "pyrexia" written on it. The water is calm, and the man is smiling. The background is a soft-focus view of the lake and distant trees.

BIRMINGHAM CANOE CLUB BRINGS KAYAKING TO THE LAKE

Written by Laura Gaddy

If kayakers need another reason to visit Lake Logan Martin, they've got it.

As baseballs pinged against metal bats and parents shouted from the stands at the civic center in Pell City on a Saturday in May, sheets of water rolled off David Atchison's kayak paddle and trickled into the lake. Atchison maneuvered the boat through the flat water of Logan Martin with precision and looked on as less skilled paddlers practiced strokes under his watch.

"It's a safe sport, but you can get in over your head in a hurry," he had said standing on the banks at Lakeside Park less than an hour before. "Always paddle with someone who is more experienced than you."

Atchison is a paddle sport instructor with the Birmingham Canoe Club, a group that brought the kayaking class to Lake Martin for the first time this spring and plans to bring it back next year. Atchison and other club members teach paddling classes across the metropolitan area, but before last month, beginning kayakers and canoers in east Alabama had to travel further to participate.

"There are a bunch of people in east-central Alabama that I felt like this would benefit," Atchison said.

According to a report by the Outdoor Foundation, paddle sports are growing in popularity. Participation in the sport increased by 3 million people in the United States between 2010 and 2015.

In that same time, indicators -- including an increase in the number of kayak rental shops -- pointed to growth in the popularity of the sport in Alabama. Today it is not uncommon to see kayaks piled in the bed of a pickup truck on a spring day in Alabama, and the boats can be bought at big-box chain stores that once limited sales for water sports to fishing gear.

"It's very much like a first-time driver," said Alabama Scenic River Trail Executive Director Jay Grantland. "You can see people drive all your life, but until you get behind the wheel and drive you don't understand the dangers, you don't understand how to do it safely."

He added that paddle classes like the ones offered by the Birmingham Canoe Club are important for people who are new to the sport.

At the lakeside class in May, Atchison was accompanied by other Birmingham Canoe Club members, including Bob Shepard and Judy Ranell. Instruction included pointers on how to tie a kayak to a car, what equipment kayakers should carry and how to discern a flat water kayak from a whitewater kayak.

The workshop also covered how kayakers should respond if they encounter downed trees in the water, how to select a life jacket and guidance on trip planning.

Once the attendees and instructors paddled into the water, conversation centered around paddle techniques, and instruction focused on the differences between various strokes.

A stroke that drags the paddle behind the hip of the paddler, Atchison said, will turn the boat. One that stops the paddle at the hip is more likely to propel the boater in a straight line.

Attendees Michelle Quick and Jeff Quick said they had already kayaked a time or two before taking the course. They were there, they said, for specific instruction about whitewater kayaking, a subset of the sport that requires Paddle sports such as kayaking are growing in popularity, and Logan Martin Lake and the Coosa River are ideal venues for them.

CRAWFISH BOIL

Few things can bring people together quite the way a crawfish boil can.

Written and photographed by Laura Nation-Atchison

As much a party as it is a meal, a crawfish boil is a great way for a community to come together on a warm weekend to celebrate living by the water.

That's what Trident Marine on Logan Martin brought to the lake in proper Southern tradition recently, hosting a gathering that allowed its guests to peel and eat the tasty crustaceans and other bounty from the pot – including corn and potatoes – in a friendly, unrushed atmosphere.

"This is about families and making memories," marina owner Jeff Tolbert Jr. said. "That's something

*Miss
St. Clair Area:*

'Logan Martin Lake doesn't disappoint'

Written and Photographed
by BUDDY ROBERTS

Braidyn Lazenby doesn't expect to forget her first visit to the lake.

"I have been around a few lakes growing up, but Logan Martin was absolutely stunning," the Prattville native said. "It did not disappoint. I was there at the perfect time, and the weather was absolutely perfect. I had so much fun."

Lazenby, an alumna of the University of Alabama, holds the title of Miss St. Clair Area and will represent the lakeside area this month in the Miss Alabama pageant. As she strolled across the green lawn of a Logan Martin shoreline on a balmy May evening, she explained why she has become enchanted by the lake and what she expects in her quest for the Miss Alabama crown.

What have you enjoyed most about your time spent by Logan Martin?

"I love how tranquil it is. I have always been intrigued by nature, and I love being outside. Just sitting and looking around at all of the different wildlife was a great reminder of how diverse the wildlife is right here in Alabama."

Being originally from Prattville, how are you able to represent the St. Clair area?

"In the Miss Alabama Organization there are two types of preliminaries: open and closed. Closed preliminaries have strict guidelines for who can and cannot compete in that preliminary. They might have to be from the county, surrounding counties or attending a certain school. Open preliminaries on the other hand, only require that you live or go to school in the state of Alabama. Miss St. Clair Area is an open preliminary. Personally, I love exploring a new part of Alabama and getting to share my platform in new places with new people."

What have you enjoyed most about being Miss St. Clair Area?

"Whenever you begin representing a city or county that you aren't originally from, it can be intimidating. Between not knowing your way around town to not knowing anyone but your director, it can be a scary commitment. St. Clair County has put me at ease this entire year. The people have been so incredibly welcoming and have gone above and beyond to pull me in to their community and make me feel like family. I have never met a group of people so willing to pour their time and talents into a stranger. But now, of course, I don't feel like a stranger at all."

What is your platform?

"Beat the Odds, which is focused on preventing heart disease. My dad, Brooks Lazenby, passed away at 44 from a heart attack when I was a freshman in high school. That's when I realized how heart disease affects entire families. It made me realize that I needed to make a change and that heart health starts now, and I wanted to help other people realize that too. Most people are related to or know of someone who has been affected by it. The heart is so important, but it's also so fragile. Heart disease is the leading cause of death in both men and women. It is responsible for more deaths than cancer and lower respiratory disease combined."

How are you feeling as you anticipate competing in the Miss Alabama pageant?

"I have a peace about the expectations and outcomes associated with competing in something at this level. It is so much more about the experience than the competition. And while I love to compete, I am taking everything day by day and enjoying this journey that so few women get to experience."

What are the pageant's different competitions?

"We compete in five different categories. Interview, which is a 10-minute private interview with the judges, is the only portion that is not seen on stage. And then for on-stage competition we have talent, swimsuit, onstage question and evening gown."

Which is your favorite?

"Personally, I love the interview. It's the one chance that you get to meet the judges and gives them the opportunity to get to know you."

Which do you find most challenging?

"I would honestly say onstage question. Although it is very similar to interview in content, only having a few seconds to answer a question can be very difficult. All of these questions are based off of current events, and the idea of giving a comprehensive answer to some of these in less than a minute can be daunting, especially when the questions can be emotional topics."

What was your onstage question last year, and how did you answer it?

"Last year, I was asked if I thought alcohol and tobacco products should have an additional tax. Although I am a heart health advocate and do not condone the use of tobacco or alcohol, I do not believe it is the government's job to parent the people in our country. Although I understand that the money from the tax would help generate money for the government, teaching others about the dangers of tobacco and alcohol should start in the home and not in our wallets."

As you anticipate the upcoming Miss Alabama pageant, what would you like to say to your St. Clair area supporters?

"Thank you to everyone who has poured into me this year. Although I still get to represent St. Clair for six more months after Miss Alabama, I am in awe of the time and effort the people of St. Clair have already dedicated to me. It truly takes a team. Whether it is the many teachers who have opened up their classroom for me to speak in or the people who have taken the time to hold mock interviews for me, every kind act has been truly valued. I am so lucky to represent this county at Miss Alabama and I hope to make you all very proud."

FITNESS IS A SNAP IN PELL CITY

Lakeside entrepreneur builds network of training centers

Mike Willingham joined Snap Fitness in Pell City when the gym opened at Cropwell Commons in 2006.

Twelve years later, the lakeside resident owns the fitness center – and three others – and is pleased to have given it a much-needed facelift.

“Snap Fitness is the world’s biggest fitness chain, and the Pell City gym was number 126,” he said. “It opened very early in the cycle. I signed up when it opened and was a regular member all these years.”

When Willingham learned that the gym was for sale by the Snap Fitness corporate headquarters in Minnesota, he bought it as an investment opportunity. “It was desperately in need of a remodel,” he said. “Now, it’s totally, totally different and reflects the look of brand-new Snap Fitness gyms nationwide.”

Offering members access to a full cardio suite (including ellipticals, stairmills, treadmills and arc trainers), a full strength training suite (including weight machines and free weights), anytime virtual workout classes through the Snap-exclusive Fitness on Demand system, a HEX tanning booth (which can provide a 20-minute tan in less than 10) and a full line of Snap gear.

“Basically, a very tired 10-year-old brand has been transformed into a brand-new cutting edge fitness facility,” Willingham said, who had opportunity to take ownership of the Snap Fitness gym in Talladega. “Talladega is my hometown, and I wanted to do for it what we were doing in Pell City.”

Subsequently, he acquired Snap Fitness locations in Moody and Columbiana.

"I was a full-time recruiter. I never expected to wake up one day and be 'Snapman,' with 12 employees and four gyms in three counties, but that's what's happened," he said.

With the Pell City club and its membership of about 1,000 as his flagship location, Willingham believes it's his family-owned-and-operated philosophy that drives his gyms' success. His wife Karen (whom he met while they were both members at Snap Fitness in Pell City) helps him operate the businesses, and his son Ben offers certified personal training services.

"We are a community," he said. "It sounds cliché, but it's true here. Our members come from all walks of life. We know them by name, and they all know each other. We are family-owned and operated, and that's what makes us special."

Members sign no contract, and their monthly membership provides access to the gyms at any time, day or night. "Our lights never go out, and we have surveillance cameras, so you're in a safe environment regardless of what time, day or night, you come to the gym," Willingham said. Local members also have access to any Snap Fitness center worldwide, whether it's in Dallas, Texas, or Australia."

This month, the Pell City gym will become the first in the region, according to Willingham, offering Myzone monitoring programs, which track heart rate and calorie burning during workouts. Looking to the future, he is exploring opening a Snap Fitness location in Lincoln. "I would open a gym in Lincoln tomorrow, but I'm looking for the right real estate."

Complementing Willingham's family-owned-and-operated philosophy is a results-oriented approach.

"We are not interested in taking your money and letting you jump on a machine," he said. "We are all about a healthy lifestyle. We want to help you reach the results you want to achieve."

One for the books: 8th annual LakeFest reaches new heights

Written by CHRIS NORWOOD & BUDDY ROBERTS | Photography by TUCKER WEBB

By every account, the 8th annual Logan Martin LakeFest and Boat Show at Pell City's Lakeside Park was the biggest and best yet.

"The best year we've had out here by far," said Eric Housh, one of the event's organizers. "The official attendance estimate is 15,500, and we were 100 percent full with regards to sponsor and vendor booth space. The feedback has been universally positive. The general theme is, 'Can't wait 'til next year'."

And there will be a next year.

"LakeFest will definitely be back for 2019," Housh said. "Right now, we're looking at the weekend of May 17-18. The boat giveaway was very successful, so we'll more than likely bring that back as well."

A Bennington luxury pontoon boat was the grand prize given away at this year's festival. It was won by Lauren Diehl, who will be officially presented with the boat early this month.

It is also expected this month that beneficiaries of LakeFest proceeds will be named. "Right now, we're still pulling everything together for a final tally," Housh said in late May. "We expect to have a check presentation sometime in early June. At that time, we will announce the charities and amounts."

Since its inception, LakeFest has donated more than $200,000 to causes and organizations in Pell City.

Robb Peoples of Sylacauga Marine – one of LakeFest's sponsors – agreed with Housh that this was the best year yet for the event, and he has been to all of them.

"We started out when this was down there at Horizons, before we even started having it in the park," he said. "I think there were just three or four dealers there that year. There are more vendors this year, and they are more diverse, too."

LakeFest is the South's largest in-water boat show, featuring the latest in watercraft and outboards.

Peoples added that Sylacauga Marine also made history on the first day of this year's event, selling the first Mercury V8 250 four stroke engine in North America shortly after the show opened.

Metro Bank was one of the institutions on hand to help set up financing for those who wanted to buy a boat, and bank officials agreed with the prevailing sentiment.

"We've been coming since this event started, and this really might be the best year yet," said Joe Allinder. "We had a lot of business, and they closed it out with some of the best fireworks I've ever seen."

Pell City firefighter Jason Lane was on duty at LakeFest. "I've been a few times in the past, but this is my first time working it," he said. "Everything went really well, and everybody had a good time."

Housh said the presence of local firefighters and police officers is crucial to the event's success. "We couldn't pull this off without the support of the city. The fire department, the police department, parks and recreation, and administration have all stepped up in a major way to help LakeFest be successful."

“The best year
we’ve had out here by far,”
—Eric Housh,
LakeFest organizer

Although the emphasis was on boats, with other motor vehicles well-represented, there was a wide range of vendors on site.

Alan Sherman of Albertville, owner of Teak 22, said he and his wife Sharalee were attending their first LakeFest. “It’s an adventure,” he said.

“I didn’t even know this lake was here until two days ago,” Sharalee added. “It’s beautiful.”

The Shermans sell furniture and décor made from parts of trees that are normally thrown away, such as the root ball. “If you bought one of our pieces, make sure to mention it in your will,” Alan said. “It will be around longer than all of us.”

Renee Davis of River Rat Unique Outdoor Living of Pell City has been attending LakeFest for the past three or four years, as well as the first two events before it moved to the park.

“This is the best so far,” she said. “The rain got us last year, but this year has been great.”

Bolstered by the success of this year's event, LakeFest organizers are already making plans for the 9th annual event next May.

Housh acknowledged that rain always seems to be a concern when planning the event.

"We joke about how it always rains at LakeFest," he said. "This year, the weather cooperated with us, and I think the true potential of this event was realized. I like to think Jerry Woods pulled some strings for us there."

You'll want to go back to B's Grill

Lakeside area restaurant treats customers like family

WRITTEN BY AMANDA E.H. PRITCHARD

Photographed by Tucker Webb

As the Gateway to Logan Martin Lake, Pell City is home to many special spots, and I recently discovered B's Grill at 408 Cogswell Avenue, where deliciousness is served up on a platter by the husband-wife team of Bryan and Julie McClendon.

Bryan (the "B" in B's Grill) offers this message to prospective diners: "Just come visit us and I guarantee you'll want to come back."

He's not boasting, just confident. And I believe he's right.

During my visit, I tried one of the restaurant's most popular items, the ribs. A plate of fall-off-the-bone ribs, baked beans (complete with ground beef) and potato salad were charmingly placed in front of me.

It all lived up to the recommendation Deismond Sharpe, a UPS delivery man and B's Grill regular, had given me.

"I've tried everything," he said with a laugh. "I'm here every other day. The ribs are so good you don't need the sauce. I also love their fried pork chops, taco salad and potato casserole." That's exactly what Bryan wants to hear.

"I get the most joy from hearing and listening to people," he said. "The biggest compliment I've received is when people are quietly eating with a smile on their face. That's warms my heart. All thanks to God."

As I enjoyed my rib plate, a parade of customers came through ordering such items as chicken wings, onion rings and sausage dogs. A catered order was picked up as well as a large takeout order prepared quickly but accurately.

I asked the McClendons what their favorite menu items are. Rolling her eyes with delight, Julie said hers are the burgers ("They're so good!"), wings and the baked beans, prepared from a recipe she developed two years ago, which were a big hit with friends. Bryan said he loves everything on the menu. His favorite varies, depending on what he's in the mood for. Summer menu items at B's Grill will include fresh fried corn, sub sandwiches, tuna salad, chicken salad with grapes and pecans, pasta salad, ice cream sundae cups and dump cake.

"I didn't know I loved to cook until I got older," Bryan said. "I learned a lot from my grandmother. She was awesome and the head of the McClendon clan."

The McClendons were encouraged to open B's Grill by their church family. "We're over hospitality at our church and a friend said to me, 'Man I would pay $30 for a slab of those ribs.' So we started small and went from there."

B's Grill also provides delivery service. "We go as far as Moody and Talladega," Bryan said. "Orders need to be at least $25 or five orders or more."

The restaurant also caters events and has partnered with the Pell City Coffee Company to serve signature cupcakes.

Call 317-506-7843 for takeout and delivery orders, and more information is available at the restaurant's Facebook page.

Glenn and Joyce Gardner smile as they tell the tale that eventually landed them as fulltime dwellers on Logan Martin Lake five years ago.

It was their youngest grandson, Carson, who suggested that his grandparents find a spot to settle down on that was lakeside, and the Gardners decided that would be a great idea indeed.

So after spending 43 years living in Gardendale, several owning a home in Orange Beach and about seven enjoying traveling the country in their recreational vehicle, the Gardners began their search for the ideal lakefront spot.

They spent time searching and driving, looking around to consider the possibilities, but the hunt came to an end when they discovered Cumberland Cove near Logan Martin Dam. The neighborhood of sloping hillsides and open water, quiet streets and old growth trees has become home now, and the Gardners couldn't be more pleased.

They've found a place with neighbors they love, space for their many friends and family and for all the gatherings they could possibly imagine. And this is what the couple truly enjoys: sharing their dream come true with the people they love.

Their three-level home sprawls across the top of a gentle rise above the water, making for a perfect panoramic view of the broad channel of the lake. There's a pontoon boat for setting out with a group for a leisurely day of relaxing and exploring, along with a ski boat ready to offer even more options in the Logan Martin waters.

The house is set among the shade of many trees that were already established on their property, edged with the fruits of the Gardners' labors of love creating a diverse display of gardens and patios that invite lingering and set a landscape of color and design.

It greets guests with an arched stone covered entry flanked by cottage flowerboxes filled with blooming begonias and fluffy daisies.

The Gardners' formal dining area is the perfect setting for showcasing creative tablescapes during family gatherings.

Inside, the entry is flooded with natural light provided by a second level round window. This is where a hall table that belonged to Joyce's mother is situated, among pieces she has collected herself through the years.

It's a theme that continues throughout the house, where Joyce did not want to part with her favorite family items as well as her own favored furnishings.

"This is a home on the lake, but I also wanted it to be home," she said. "These are things we love."

To the left of the entry is a formal dining area that seats 10 with its mission style table and seating. It's a place where the family china settings are used and enjoyed, a favorite part of the couple's gatherings includes creating beautiful tablescapes to accompany her zest for hospitality.

The entry also opens into the living room, where a selection of warm earth tones in the room are washed with the light flowing inside from a back wall of doubles glass doors. The walls are a soft camel with trim in ivory against a tray ceiling two stories in height.

Furnishings include a pair of chocolate leather wing chairs facing the stone fireplace paired with plush leather couch and an oversized tapestry armchair and ottoman.

RIVERSIDE POKER RUN

Rub a rabbit's foot and get to Riverside Landing on June 16 to participate in the 10th annual Poker Run sponsored by Riverside Beautification Organization.

The family-friendly event will be held from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., and proceeds will be used to make additional improvements to the city's park and other public facilities.

According to RBO member and publicity officer Teresa Hammond, the poker run is the group's biggest fundraising event.

"We used the money we made last year to buy gravel for the walking trail in the park," she said. "We bought flowers and planted them at City Hall, and purchased picnic tables and umbrellas for Riverside Landing. Past proceeds were also used to purchase a welcome sign for the entrance to the city and a sign for the front of Riverside City Hall.

Registration begins Friday, June 15, from 4-7 p.m., and continues Saturday, June 16 from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. The cost is $15 per hand.

During registration, players will receive a large envelope with a number on it. The envelope contains rules and instructions, a map of 8 participating docks in Riverside, a list of prizes that can be won at each dock, 5 poker chips with the player's number marked on them and one playing card with their number on the back.

During the poker run, players visit each dock by boat, draw a card and assemble a 5-card poker hand. A mystery dock will allow players to purchase additional cards to improve their hands, and all poker hands are to be submitted to the judges back at Lakeside Landing before 2 p.m.

After the judges rank the hands, an awards ceremony will be held, and the player with the best hand will receive $300. Second place is $200 and third place is $100. There is also a $50 consolation prize for the player who is randomly chosen from the remaining hands.

Hammond said this year's event will have two first place awards. "There will be a $300 prize for the best hand with a mystery dock card, and a $300 prize for the best hand without a mystery dock card," she said.

"Additional prizes can be won by playing the numbered poker chips at each dock for a chance to win dock prizes, and there will be other prizes and giveaways from our sponsors," she said.

"And if you don't have a boat, you can ride on the Coosa Queen for $15 a person," she said.

This year, RBO amped up its media campaign for the event. Riverside mayor Rusty Jessup will appear on an upcoming segment of ABC 33/40's television show "Talk of Alabama" to promote the poker run.

"And we now have a Facebook page for the Riverside Poker Run, and we also include information about it on RBO's website. We are hoping to exceed last year's attendance of 206 players," Hammond said.

Local sponsors include Metro Bank, Advanced Disposal, Chik-fil-A, Coca Cola, BB&T Bank, and Harris Rebar.

Reservations to ride the Coosa Queen during the event can be made by calling 205-706-2319.

In the event of rain, the poker run will be held June 23.

Meet Me by the

Written and Photographed
by Buddy Roberts

Anna Graham was spending a recent afternoon at Lakeside Park in preparation for the Spina Bifida Association of Alabama Bass Tournament, which Logan Martin hosts this month for the second consecutive year.

"My uncle has a lake house right around the corner, and we spend a lot of time there," the Lincoln native said. "And of course, I'm excited about the tournament being here this year."

A researcher at Children's of Alabama's division of pediatric neurosurgery who serves on the board of the state spina bifida association, Graham has organized the benefit tournament, which will pay a $2,000 first place prize and support the association's advocacy and education efforts.

"The proceeds go to a really great cause and will definitely be used to support camps, scholarships and other assistance programs for these deserving patients," she said, going on to describe the condition, reflect on last year's inaugural tournament and explain why her work with the association means so much to her.

About spina bifida: "It's the number-one disabling birth defect in the country, but it doesn't get the attention it deserves." The condition, resulting from the spine's failure to close properly during the first month of pregnancy, affects as many as 7 of every 10,000 births. "In St. Clair and Talladega counties, we probably have 30 patients who come to our clinic. It is so inspiring to see the strength of these children and their families as they cope with daily issues. They inspire me to be a better person. I view them as my family."

Last year's tournament: "I was concerned about the turnout, because we only had six people pre-register for it. But the day of the tournament, people started coming in before the sun had even come up. At 4 in the morning, boats were backed up down the street at Lakeside Landing waiting to get in. Every participant was so happy to support the cause. They wanted to know more about these kids they were helping. I cried, it was so incredible. We ended up having 75 boats and raised $10,000."

The best advice she ever received: "My dad says it all the time – 'Be who you are, and do what you do.' It's very basic, but my dad told my brother and me that since we were young. Be who you are, and don't feel you have to follow what everybody else does."

How she describes herself: "I try to be happy and helpful all the time, to live positively and have a good attitude. And I'm pretty outgoing. I'd probably talk to a brick wall."

Something an acquaintance might be surprised to know about her: She ran track as a student at Lincoln High School, competing in the 1600m run, 3200m run, javelin and discus.

Anna Graham style: "Basic, but a little classy. I'm really a basic person. I've been wearing the same jeans since I was in high school."

Her favorite lake activities: "Tubing or riding on the jet ski. Skiing would probably be my favorite, but I can't stay up long enough to really have fun doing it. I fish a little, but not competitively. I like catching more than fishing."

The food she could eat every day: "Tacos. Or Mexican food of any kind. My birthday is Cinco de Mayo."

1. Always a fascinating phenomenon, a double rainbow appeared over Logan Martin Lake following a spring rain. Mandy Duty photographed it from her vantage point between Lincoln and Riverside.

2. Drew and Becky Anderson toast an early May sunset during one of their first nights as lakeside residents. The couple looks forward to making new friends around Logan Martin this summer.

3. With the lake at full pool and the return of warmer temperatures, Pirate Island is once again a Logan Martin hotspot. Erik Carmack photographed this assemblage of boats there on a recent weekend afternoon.

Elegance and amenities in Eagle Point

Written by Buddy Roberts
Photographed by Bob Crisp

Prospective homebuyers looking for lakeside elegance with plenty of interior and exterior amenities will find what they're looking for in the property at 150 Eagle Pointe Way in Pell City.

Situated on 1.2 acres, the home features a two-story foyer with hardwood flooring, with the formal living and dining rooms on either side. Also on the main floor is a cozy family room with fireplace and a spacious kitchen with granite countertops, stainless appliances and breakfast bar.

A staircase with an iron handrail leads to the four upstairs bedrooms. The master suite includes walk-in closets, a jetted tub, separate shower and separate vanities and windows.

The finished basement includes a den and office space with built-in bookcases, a half bath, two-car garage, work space and storage areas.

Outside, an open deck is ideal for entertaining, and exterior amenities also include lake access, a boat launch and access to a community pool and tennis courts.

The property lists at $318,000. For more information, call Dana Ellison with LAH Real Estate at 205-870-8580.

Gillham: 'Summer is the perfect time to move to the lake'

Written by Sherry Kughn
Submitted Photo

Daniel Gillham

Busy Realtor Daniel Gillham seems to sigh whenever he describes the relaxed atmosphere of living on Logan Martin Lake.

He, his wife Erin and their two children, seven-year-old Anzlie and four-year-old Barrett, especially enjoy spending time on their pontoon boat. The children have fun riding inner tubes behind it.

"Even after a stressful day, once I see the lake, it is time to chill out," Gillham said.

Whether his real estate clients are searching for country or lakeside living, Gillham, who works with The Realty Pros, advises sellers to spruce up their homes with a coat of fresh paint and new, bright lights. If inspections are ready in advance and the house looks good, sellers should prepare to sell quickly. Many houses, he said, are on the market only a short time during the summer. Some sell as quickly as one day.

Buyers, on the other hand, Gillham advises, should take their time to find the perfect home.

"Don't settle on the first one you see. This is your forever home. Make sure everything is right."

Gillham, a Pell City High School graduate, is happy to help "hometown folks" with their real estate needs. He considers it an honor to help his fellow residents and those beyond. Also, he appreciates that the owners of The Realty Pros, Ronnie and Rita Foster, gave him a wonderful opportunity three years ago.

"Ronnie took me under his wing and showed me the ropes," he said. "Rita helped me with my first closing. Both have been nothing but helpful to me."

Gillham, whose territory includes properties from U.S. 280 to Ashville, Anniston, Gadsden and Sylacauga. The summer months are ideal for both, and sales are brisk, when people are ready to get on the lake.

He hopes this summer season will result in many happy clients. He believes that people are tired from being indoors during the winter and the colder-than-usual spring. Football is not distracting anyone at this time, and now is the perfect time to make a move.

Gillham understands how people feel about their home and how they consider the purchase of a great house to be a worthwhile goal. He is amazed that he has the pleasure of helping them obtain a house for themselves and their family members. He hopes to help them also feel relaxed and even sigh contentedly when they come home each day to a house they enjoy.
