HATTIE LEE'S BOUTIQUE

LETTER

From the Editor

Remembering a Logan Martin pioneer

January may be the first month of the year, but at Lakeside Living, we tend to count our days starting with April.

That's because it was in April of 2007 that Lakeside Living began publication as a full-color glossy magazine, which means that this issue marks our 11th anniversary. We hope you enjoy the content our staff has prepared.

This month, we have occasion to learn about some upcoming events in the lakeside area, including April in Talladega, the St. Clair County Water Festival and LakeFest (which we'll also be providing more details about next month). We also visit a new marina that has located on Logan Martin and are invited into Sharon Wilson's superb lakeside condo.

We would like to dedicate this issue to one of Logan Martin Lake's earliest pioneers, Sara Jean Lee Goodgame.

When she died last month, the lake lost one of its staunchest supporters and a direct connection to its history. Mrs. Goodgame and her husband, Floyd A. "Sonny" Goodgame (who died in 2010), opened the first marina and campground on the lake shortly after Logan Martin was developed 54 years ago.

"My grandparents got lucky," said Ashley Goodgame Morton, who now manages the General Lee Campground and Marina in Cropwell. "The water ended up on their property. When things started off, it was primitive – just woods. They worked really hard clearing the land to get the campers in here."

Ashley began managing the marina in 2011 upon her grandmother's retirement, "and I do feel like she's right here beside me when I'm here," she said, recalling the "very driven, very stubborn, very caring person" who was still wielding weed eaters and pressure washers around the marina at age 80.

"Grandmother used to call it heaven on earth here, and she gave up her heaven on earth so other people could enjoy it. She provided a place for working people, an affordable place they could go with their families and enjoy Logan Martin, and so many people have been able to enjoy it because she shared it with the public."

Walking into the office and store at General Lee is a bit like stepping back three or four decades in time. The vintage Alabama auto license plates on the walls, the Winston clock, the old-fashioned candy racks and the coolers, fishing lures and other merchandise all evoke a different era, and

Sara Jean Goodgame

Ashley says that's intentional.

"We've tried not to change stuff. So many people who came here with their families as children are bringing their families here now, and when you have great memories of a place, you don't want to go back and see everything changed."

From left, Sonny Goodgame, Nita Staggs, Cindy Goodgame and Sara Jean Goodgame in the office at General Lee Marina and Campground, sometime in the early 1990s.

Craig Goodgame, Ashley's father, says the entire operation is a testament to his mother's hard work.

"She didn't know anything but work," he said recalling his childhood at the marina and how he learned to launch boats at the marina when he was 9 years old, and the time when Mrs. Goodgame "launched a tractor while launching a boat. The boat, the tractor, everything went in the water. I believe it was the only time I saw her embarrassed."

For all the boats that she launched, though, "I only remember a handful of times when she actually went out on the lake," said Cindy Goodgame, Craig's sister and owner of Lakeside Landing (which the Goodgame family acquired in 1998). "She was always working. When they first opened General Lee, they didn't close. They never had set hours for the longest time."

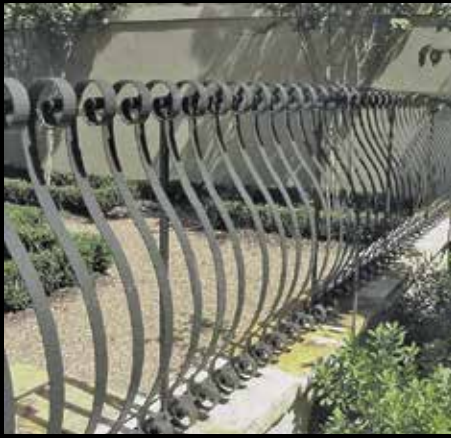

Cindy also remembers her mother as a hard worker with a big heart.

"She was the most energetic person you ever met. She got up going. This lady launched boats, she cut grass, and you didn't mess with her tools. She carried them with her in the car everywhere she went. And she was like Mary Poppins – she could pull anything out of her purse."

"Her heart was at the marina," recalls Blair Goodgame, Cindy's daughter, who, like her cousin Ashley, has fond memories of a childhood spent at the marina. "You always knew where you stood with her. She told you exactly like it is, but she always found the good in everybody. And if you ever ate her homemade biscuits and gravy, you knew you'd be ok."

While her heart was at the marina, it was also with her family. "It was a close contest between the two for number one on her list," Ashley said with a laugh. But Cindy was always aware that her mom knew that running a business that required constant attention could take a toll on a family.

"Mother always apologized to us for our lifestyle," she said. "But as kids we thought we were the luckiest people ever. We got to stay at the marina all the time."

April showers are good for fishing

April is regarded by many anglers as the best month for bass fishing in the South.

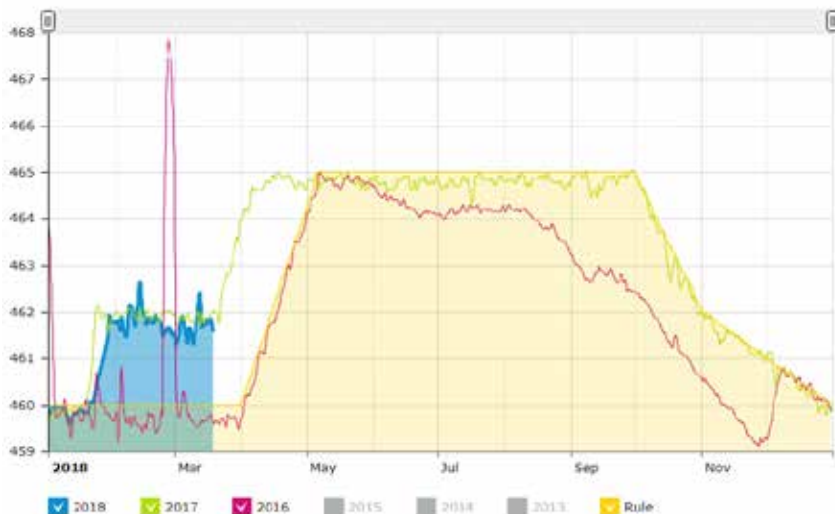

It is often the only time that large female largemouth bass are even seen. Older and wiser, the females tend to live longer and grow much larger than the males. They are drawn out of their safety zone by only one thing: nature. Water temperature is the key factor that brings them from their winter depths to the spring spawning sites.

In April, sunshine brings warmth to the water, and warm spring rain also heats up the water. Both of these factors are then mixed by the spring wind.

April showers actually improve fishing in most lakes. The warmer spring rain will raise water temperatures, and bass are always looking for warmer water. Fish will move to coves where warm water runoff is entering a lake.

Anglers often find success by beginning in a shallow area of a lake and moving toward the dam and deeper water in search of large pre-spawn bass. Choose your lures based on the weather conditions. Spinnerbaits are good in April between areas of weeds and the season's first lily pads. Chartreuse or shad colors can be good choices.

"Funds have also been used to help restore the chamber of commerce, Heritage Hall and the Hall of Heroes," she said.

According to Montgomery, the city of Talladega is unique in that it has three national historic districts.

"Most small towns would love to have one national historic district on the National Register of Historic Places. Talladega has three, and I don't think many people are aware of that. We have the Silk Stocking District, the courthouse square and Talladega College. It's a big deal for a town our size to have three historic districts," she said.

More than 15,000 fourth grade students have attended the St. Clair County Water Festival since its inception 16 years ago.

When I arrived in Pell City eight years ago to work for one of its great metropolitan newspapers, one of my first assignments was to cover the St. Clair County Water Festival.

I was less than thrilled about it.

"A water festival?" I thought. "How do you have a festival about water? This is going to be so boring."

Happily, I was wrong.

Instead of finding groups of students being lectured about water quality and how the water cycle works, I walked into a room full of youngsters excitedly turning plastic cups, vanilla ice cream, chocolate sprinkles, lemon-lime soda, gummy fish, paper towels and drinking straws into edible aquifers.

Charity Mitcham and Virginia Bratcher laughed when I recalled it for them a couple of weeks ago, trying to pretend I already knew that an aquifer is an underground layer of water-bearing rock before I covered the festival (although I'm pretty sure they saw through me). The activity has proven to be a tasty way of teaching students about protecting groundwater from contamination.

Sylacauga's past, and its future, lie in Marble

The word 'marble' is derived from the Greek word meaning "crystalline rock" or "shining stone" and has been prized for its use in sculptures since classical times. For sculptors, such as those drawn to Sylacauga's annual Marble Festival, marble's waxy look gives "life" to marble sculptures of the human body. Did Michelangelo not say "I saw the angel in the marble and carved until I set him free."?

Just as the tradition of Ancient Rome was inundated with multicolored marble on floors and other surfaces so is Sylacauga steeped in a history of the same stone, with its home-quarried marble on buildings and local sculptures. The significance of Sylacauga Marble lies in its whiteness and its being one of only two sources of Carrarra marble.

According to Sylacauga Marble Festival Chairman Dr. Ted Spears, the future of Sylacauga's marble industry is inextricably linked with the legacy of the local quarries, the continuation of the marble Festival's annual events, and the future of the 21st-century marble industry. To understand Sylacauga's place in the tradition of marble, one must realize the Sylacauga marble bed is 32 miles long, a mile and a half wide and 400 feet deep. That's a lot of marble! The Sylacauga Marble Festival is growing. This year's event is already at capacity with 30 sculptors registered. Come see The Magic at Work.

High school students volunteer to help youngsters with festival activities, such as making edible aquifers.

"Yes, if you've never been to one, you quickly discover that it really is a lot of fun," Charity said. She and Virginia are organizing the 16th annual event, scheduled for Tuesday, April 10, at First Baptist Church Pell City and Pell City First United Methodist Church.

The festival is attended by fourth-grade students in St. Clair County and Pell City schools. Private school and homeschool students are also invited, said Charity, who serves as district administrative coordinator for the St. Clair County Soil & Water Conservation District. The organization's purpose is to educate people about conserving water.

The Odenville Utilities Board has a similar mission, said Virginia, who has worked for the board for 42 years and serves as its office manager. “When we started, we had 635 customers. Now we’re the largest water system in the county.”

The two organizations work together with more than 30 sponsors to stage the festival, which has been attended by more than 15,000 students since its inception. More than 1,000 youngsters are expected to attend this year's event.

“The whole point is to get them to think about water,” Charity said. “A lot of kids don't realize you

Youngsters learn about the water cycle, filtration and conservation while attending the annual festival.

"When you ask a fourth-grader, 'When you flush the toilet, where does it go?' nine times out of 10, they'll say 'to the ocean.' So that's when we introduce them to the role of the city sewer, the treatment plant and the septic tank. Having septic tanks that are in good order is very important, especially since we're by the lake. The last thing you want is overflow running into our recreational areas and drinking water."

A portion of the water festival is dedicated to teaching the students about filtration, the process of removing pollutants from the water supply. Using coffee filters, mesh strainers and cheesecloth, students attempt to remove confetti, potting soil, vinegar and oil (which represent contaminants) from cups of water.

"The activity helps them to see how hard it is to clean water up once it's dirty," Virginia said. "The moral of the story is, try not to get it dirty to start with."

Festival sponsors include the Logan Martin Lake Protection Association, St. Clair County Commission, Alabama Department of Environmental Management, Hampton Inn and Suites, Mayfield Dairy, Pepsi, Alabama Power, Ragland Screenprinting, Municipal Consultants Inc., New London Water Sewer & Fire Protection Authority, Wattsville Water Authority, Wolf Creek Water, City of Asheville, Metro Bank, Town of

Annual boat show brings fun, food and festivities to Logan Martin

Staff Report
File Photos

The South's largest in-water boat show returns to Logan Martin Lake in May, and organizers are at work to ensure a fun and successful event.

The Logan Martin LakeFest and Boat Show is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 18-19, at Lakeside Park in Pell City. Admission and parking are free.

Festivities will begin at noon and continue until 9 p.m. on May 19. Live music will begin at 2 p.m. on the Tracker Boats Stage, and hourly prize giveaways will be announced on the hour. At 8 p.m., a fireworks show honoring residents at the Col. Robert L. Howard State Veterans Home – always a favorite with LakeFest attendees – will begin.

The event opens at 9 a.m. on May 20, with entertaining and giveaways beginning at 11 a.m. A variety of food and merchandise vendors and activities for families and children will be available both days. The

Lincoln Harbor resident loves its convenience and community on Logan Martin

began planning
for early retirement, she knew she wanted to relocate from Birmingham to "somewhere on the water." A self-described water lover, she looked into buying beach-front property in Florida, only to find it did not fit into her very specific retirement budget.

So she started searching for property on Logan Martin Lake on which to build a small cottage or a tiny home. After looking at some promising parcels, she came to another realization.

"I would still have to pay to have a small dock and a seawall built on the property, and that would put me over budget," she said.

Then one day, her real estate agent called her with a new idea.

"She said, 'Have you ever considered condo living?' I told her I would think about it, and the more I thought about it, the more it made sense," she said.

Sharon had hardwood floors installed after she bought her condo.

Sharon moved into her two-bedroom, two-bath condo at Lincoln Harbor Overlook Condominiums in September and is happy with her decision to become part of the condo community.

"My unit is 1,200 square feet, so it's bigger than a tiny house. There is plenty of room here for me and my dogs, and all their toys and stuff," she said.

She enjoys the quiet beauty of the place and photographing sunsets from her balcony to post on social media. She enjoys taking walks on the boardwalk down by the lake and relaxing on the pebble beach. The community pool is a perfect place to stretch out in a lounge chair, but sometimes she prefers to sun on the dock with its gentle breeze.

Trident Marine Group opens Logan Martin location

Marina offers pontoon sales and service in Cropwell

Written by Buddy Roberts

Jeff Tolbert Jr. remembers when his family bought a South Bay pontoon boat at the old Rabbit Branch Marina on Logan Martin Lake.

"We've been South Bay owners for years, so we can speak to their quality," he said, "and we're glad to be bringing them back to Logan Martin."

Tolbert is the chief financial officer of Trident Marine Group, which he owns with his father and brother, Jeff Tolbert Sr. and Jason Tolbert. The group has opened a sales and service center at Lakeside Landing, providing sales and service of three lines of pontoon boats.

"We are open now at the location formerly known as Lakeside Marine," he said. "We're fortunate enough to be keeping the staff there. Paul Davis, who will be general manager, and his great crew of technicians have done a phenomenal job of building an outstanding, well-respected service center, and we look forward to continuing that."

Trident Marine on Logan Martin will sell South Bay, Berkshire and Trifecta pontoon boats, which are products of Forest River Marine. With its two other locations – Trident Marina on Smith Lake and Shelby Shores on Lay Lake – Trident Marine Group is already one of the top three South Bay and Berkshire dealers in the country, according to Tolbert.

"Forest River Marine produces a premier luxury line of pontoon boats," he said. "South Bay, Berkshire and Trifecta are all high-end pontoons, they come with high-horsepower motors, and they're tritoons, which provide a nice, comfortable ride. In fact, they're the most comfortable ride you'll have. They're spacious enough that you can load up the entire family and friends, 11 to 13 people, get out on the water and stay out all day long."

Trident is a dealer of Murray, Yamaha and Suzuki motors, and the service center will accommodate "any kind of bass boat, pontoon boat, inboard, outboard, really anything," Tolbert said. "We are renovating the entire shop right now, but we are open and have boats in stock. If we don't have what you're looking for on the lot, more than likely we have it at one of our other locations or we have it on order."

He describes pontoons as "the most popular boating platform in the country. That's why we're in the pontoon business. Logan Martin is a pontoon-heavy lake, and we're fortunate to have such great boating water here. I can't tell you how excited we are about coming to Logan Martin."

Meet Me by the

Written and Photographed
by Buddy Roberts

“I can't believe it's already spring,” Abbye Grimes said while sitting on a Logan Martin dock one quiet and sunny afternoon with Chipper, her Boykin spaniel. “Spring is my favorite season. I love the colors. I love the flowers. I love Easter. I love the green grass.”

This spring is likely to always be her favorite, as it is the spring she married Jon Grimes. Just returned from a honeymoon in Mexico, the couple exchanged vows March 24.

“We have lived on the lake our whole lives,” Abbye said. “If we're not at the lake, we're at an Auburn game, at the hunting club or at the beach. But we're usually on the lake at least a little most weekends.”

While watching Chipper wade and splash in the cool water, she recalled her childhood on the lake and explained why she enjoys her work with the current generation of children in her lakeside community.

Logan Martin memories: “I grew up across the street from the lake. My grandparents, Pat and Harold Jones, lived on the lake, and I would be over at their house all summer long. They were big into skiing, so that's how I learned to. I liked skiing and inner tubing when I was little, and I still do occasionally. Jon loves wakeboarding and wakesurfing, but now I'm more of a joyride and hang-out-on-the-boat person. We like to take the boat out and cruise over to the Back Porch Grill for dinner or breakfast occasionally on the weekends.”

During the week: The alumna of Jacksonville State University is a kindergarten teacher at Walter M. Kennedy

Abbye Grimes

Elementary School in Pell City. “Every day is different, so there's a challenge every time you turn around. You just have to multi-task and roll with it. Teaching is very challenging, but I like making a difference in their little lives.”

Did she always want to be a teacher? “I never thought about being anything else. Growing up, on Saturday mornings, I would beg my mom to play school with me, and every Christmas I asked for dry erase boards so I could practice being a teacher. I really like it, and I have really enjoyed my first year of teaching. I look forward to getting up every morning and going to school.”

How she describes herself: “Definitely very organized – I like everything to be in its place. Outgoing. I like creative things. Maybe that's being a kindergarten teacher. And I love color. Pink is my favorite. My classroom is not a theme like Mickey Mouse or the jungle. It's color. Calming but colorful.”

The best advice she ever received: “Keep going. Things are going to get tough, but they're going to get better.”

The food she could eat every day: “Chocolate. And I do eat it every day.”

1. A spectacular Logan Martin sunrise, photographed at Lincoln Harbor by Sharon Wilson.

2. At certain times, the lake is like a mirror, reflecting the beautiful scenery above the water. This impressive moment was photographed by Debra Childress.

3. From her vantage point in Talladega's Country Club Estates, Mandy Stone enjoyed watching members of the Birmingham Sailing Club take a spin on Logan Martin on a recent Saturday afternoon.

Year-round water, guest apartment make this Cropwell property ideal for entertaining

Written by Kelli Tipton
Photographed by Bob Crisp

Families who are eager to spend their summers on Logan Martin Lake will appreciate the move-in-ready home at 446 Coosa Island Road in Cropwell.

An attached apartment for guests makes the 5-bedroom, 3-bath home ideal for entertaining family and friends on the lake. Year-round water offers a gorgeous view at every holiday gathering.

The interior features a great room, sunroom, laundry room, full basement and a spacious kitchen, which includes a built-in dishwasher, some stainless appliances, gas stove and an eating area.

Outside features include a fenced yard, screened porch, large deck, private dock and a floating pier that was built in 2017.

For more information, call ERA King Real Estate's Pell City-Lincoln office at 205-763-1333 or 205-338-7320.

Falkner: 'Logan Martin is the perfect place'

Written by Laci Braswell
Photo Submitted

Britton Falkner

For local real estate agent Britton Falkner, Logan Martin Lake is the perfect place for a weekend vacation or to settle down permanently.

"Logan Martin is the perfect getaway," he said.

"It's a great place to spend time with family and friends on the water."

The Pell City native serves as a residential real estate agent for The Realty Pros.

"My wife, who is also from Pell City agreed to move back only if we could live on the lake," he said.

Falkner describes Lake Logan Martin as appealing to those living in the Birmingham metropolitan area. "Logan Martin is attractive to many Birmingham residents because it is only about 35 miles away and it's a place you can escape from the city lifestyle."

He also serves as a chief commercial property appraiser for Joseph & Company Real Estate Services in Hoover. "I believe having experience in both commercial appraisal and residential real estate has helped me to understand the ins and outs of the business and what a property is truly worth."

Falkner received his real estate license in 2010 and has been with The Realty Pros for the last four years. He began working at Joseph & Company Real Estate Services in 2013.

He said the part of his work he enjoys the most is "getting to meet new people. I'm a people person and I love helping others find exactly what they are looking for. It can be a challenge, but I think that's what I enjoy most."

According to Falkner, spring is when the real estate market begins to really pick up.

"Recently I've found that there is a shortage of homes on the market," he said. "The buying season really hits starting at the end of February and on into the summer months, so it's a great time to put your property on the market."

The agent and appraiser also offered some heartfelt advice to potential clients.

"At the end of the day, you and your family are the ones living there. It's important that the property suits the client's unique and individual needs."

He also encourages potential buyers not to settle. "Many times clients feel they are inconveniencing an agent by asking to view multiple properties. That isn't the case with me. It's important to be patient because the property you are searching for is out there."

Falkner is a 2007 graduate of Pell City High School and a 2011 graduate of the University of Alabama, where he received his bachelor's degree in business administration with a focus in real estate.

"I wanted to work in real estate since I was a kid," he said. "My grandmother was an agent and I have fond memories of going with her to help show homes."
