

INSIGHT

Commentary Editor: Phillip Tutor, ptutor@annistonstar.com • Sunday, December 31, 2017 • Page 1D

AN ANNISTON STAR EDITORIAL

Headlines we'd like to see in '18

There's Trump. (Still.) And Alabama politics. (Still.) And much more.

Luv Guv Bentley named dermatologist of year

Fast start Visitors flock to Anniston's new Freedom Riders National Monument

MONTGOMERY
Sue Bell Cobb
odds-on pick for governor

State unveils bold plan to reform Alabama prisons

In Heflin
Cleburne County's lone Uber driver keeps hectic schedule

In the saddle
For $100 an hour, Moore hires out Sassy for kids' birthday parties

Dabo Swinney stops in T-Town to preview his corner office

Trump blames Sessions for his godawful golf scores

Big get for state
It's Alabama!
Toyota-Mazda mega site planned for north Alabama

Reddick crowned
Anniston councilman named vice mayor in hopes he'll stop whining about it

Sen. Doug Jones proves willing to work with Republicans, Democrats

State legislature, admitting laziness, moves session to Vegas

Big change
Alabama revamps state seal to include this: 'We're not as wacky as we really look'

Lost Vietnam-era soldier found living in woods at McClellan

DEMOCRATS IN ALABAMA
Party unveils its new slogan: 'If you thought Jones' win was big, just wait for our next one — in 2035!'

Our No. 2
Big Al named lieutenant governor 'cause it doesn't really matter

Parkway records no fatal accidents in 2018

Anniston City Hall promises a Burger King for every corner

Councilman Little flexes political muscle, leads Anniston's effort to lower murder rate

Anniston or Oxford?
Oxford PAC books Ed Sheeran. Knox Concert Series schedules Chris Stapleton. Who wins?

REDEVELOPMENT
In its final act, MDA gives remaining McClellan land back to Native Americans

Oxford Commons finally opens — as paintball park

Jacksonville moves Confederate statue off city square

Golden Springs residents to Oxford: 'Please take us!'

No truth to rumor | Lawmakers debunk claim that Alabama's goal is to be 50th in everything

NEW HIRE
Anniston picks city manager, hopes he stays a few weeks

Google Maps learns how to pronounce 'Quintard'

Moore finally concedes, asks Jones for job