Marissa, a senior and basketball player for the Lady Bears at Rocky Mountain College, is battling Acute Myeloid Leukemia. Unfortunately, Marissa does not have any full siblings and will need to search for an unrelated donor from the National Bone Marrow Registry.

“Like her late grandfather, Sonny O’Day, a professional boxer, Marissa is a champion. She knows this is the toughest battle she ever will fight. Sonny was called “The Champ,” and I have no doubt that his “Little Champ” will take each Round—whether it be another round of chemotherapy or a bone marrow transplant—and will go the distance for a knock-out of this vicious disease. We feel Sonny’s spirit with us. We have faith. With God in one corner and Sonny in the other, Marissa will be the undisputed winner,” says Marissa’s Mom.

Please come together to support Marissa and patients like her by registering as a potential bone marrow donor. You might be the hero that can save a life.
