To Our Amazing Business Community,

This past year has been both challenging and rewarding for our work to champion businesses in our region. COVID-19 became a health care crisis AND an economic crisis.

The business community, city/county leaders and elected officials, Big Sky Economic Development, Billings Chamber of Commerce, Downtown Billings, Visit Billings, and so many more quickly formed the Yellowstone Economic Response and Recovery Team. We worked hand in hand with our Unified Health Command to make quick and educated responses to the unfolding pandemic. This group worked with our business community to stand up a single point website for reference materials and resources, connected businesses to much needed federal aid; launched two forward facing community campaigns: Open & Safe and Masks Mean Business, and sponsored Healthcare Appreciation Day. This team also communicated regularly with state and federal officials to accurately describe the needs for our business community.

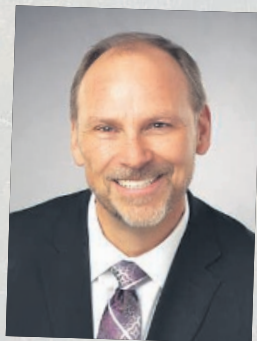

But the real work came for our business owners. They faced the challenge of having their businesses closed, their employees out of work and their livelihood jeopardized, and they prevailed. They supported each other, they innovated, the community rallied, we all learned new ways to engage and ultimately our town found a way to live with this virus and thrive.

Our hearts are with all the families affected by COVID-19 and the over 270 Yellowstone County families that lost a loved one during this time. We also recognize there are businesses that weren't able to endure the pandemic and our hearts are with them as well.

Please join us in thanking our business community for their resilience over the past year and know that we are right here with you as our economic recovery continues. We are fortunate to live in Yellowstone County and encourage now more than ever to SHOP LOCAL.

BETTER HEARING TAKES BRAINPOWER

Although hearing loss is most commonly considered an inner-ear problem, it is actually the brain that performs several functions simultaneously to process sound: It uses the ears to help orient body position, focuses attention on sounds you want to hear, recognizes sounds, and separates relevant information from competing noise.

CLINICAL SERVICES

- Professional hearing services
- Hearing aid fittings in a respectful and compassionate atmosphere
- Tinnitus evaluation and treatment
- Vestibular/balance disorder evaluation and treatment

Our goal is to provide the best possible hearing care based on your individual needs. Everyone's situation is unique, and we work to find the best possible solution for each patient. Not only do we improve quality of hearing, but also the quality of life.

10 GARDENING TIPS

Choose Locations Wisely – Plan where you want to plant. Place containers with flowers where you'll be able to see and enjoy. Put vegetables and herbs in a good spot for receiving the right amount of sun. Make sure you have good water access to all locations. Pay attention if it's in sun or shade.

Choose Healthy Plants – Match up the plant with the location, so that it's in conditions where it will thrive. Is it heat tolerant, or best in shade? Consider color combinations, various heights, and trailing options for flowers. Look at compatibility for planting vegetables that grow well next to each other.

Annuals – Great for containers, hanging pots, and in beds to fill in around other perennials and bushes. Group colors and vary heights of plants to create a pleasing combination.

Perennials – Provide the benefit of coming up each year. Choose plants with staggered blooming seasons for color all summer long.

Vegetables & Herbs – Enjoy the bounty of being able to pick a salad and enhance a meal from your yard. Allow each plant the elbow room it needs to maximize yield.

Bushes & Shrubs – Consider the mature size when choosing location to plant. Following instructions for each variety for pruning, usually in early spring or late fall. When pruning roses, if you want it to grow thicker snip just above a bud that faces in. If you want it to grow wider snip above a bud that faces out.

Evaluate Soil – Is it nutrient rich and well-drained? Consider adding more dirt, or potting mix to containers. Add mulch after planting to reduce weeds and slow moisture loss.

Feed Regularly – Healthy plants from Nana's + good soil + plant food = Super garden success! Boost the nutrition for your plants with our fertilizers.

Know Your Zone and Frost Dates – Billings falls in the USDA hardiness Zone 4b. Farmer's Almanac is showing Billings last frost date as 5/14 and first fall frost date as 9/25, which is a 133 day growing season. Watch weather forecasts for determining a good time to put in your plants.

Tools – Stock up on basic tools to make gardening fun and easy. Gloves, trowel, sharp pruners, watering can and hose nozzles, shovel, knee pad or gardening bench are all helpful.

Look ahead ten years.

Imagine the landscape in Billings. What do you see? Are Amazon drones dropping your packages and food? Are FedEx and UPS delivering 24/7 to keep up with online demand?

Do you leave your home to go places? Where do you go?

Look downtown. Are all of the usual restaurants and retailers there? If they're gone, what has replaced them? Office space? Empty buildings? Blight and graffiti?

In the past year, delivery services have skyrocketed while small businesses were forced to shut down. Amazon and many big box retailers had record years. Meanwhile, Americans were conditioned to shop online and have learned the convenience of such tools.

Ask yourself.

What do you want to see ten years from now?

Small business is the pulse of our community. We provide tools that online shopping can't deliver to your doorstep. Small business has donated buildings, supplied free meals, coordinated large events, contributed to ending blight and provided safer neighborhoods, and donated to charitable organizations, among many other causes.

Small business is a very large tax base to our state and local government.

Small business also gives you a reason to get out of your homes. This past year has been hard. It's been difficult. Heck. It's been downright mean. But we're all still human. We all still need social interaction, even when we don't want to admit it. We need each other. And, Americans need small business. Small business creates social interaction. Whether we're going to the bar to have a glass of wine with our sister, out to dinner on an anniversary date, golfing, or with the gals shopping, this is what small business creates. Small business is social! Convenience shopping and the online world can't hold a candle to that.

We are Liberty & Vine Country Store and we believe all small business is vital to this community and this country.

Choose to be social. Choose local.
