Senate Will Demand Information State Department Wants Kept Secret

REBELS REFUSE MEDIATION

President Wilson Angry at Jingoes in Congress Because of This Development

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—How far the senate of the United States may go in demanding from the state department information on Mexico which the diplomatic end of the government does not wish to disclose will be determined Monday when, by agreement of Minority and Majority leaders, the Fall resolution

• Shut Ambassador Up
• WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Flood of the house foreign affairs committee today confirmed the report that President Wilson objected to having Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson appear before the committee. The president gave Flood to understand that he considered the American ambassador a "bitter partisan" of President Huerta. That peremptory "silence" orders have been given the ambassador was reported at the capital today. Directions have been issued from the state department, it was said that the ambassador shall give no more interviews on Mexican affairs.

concerning Mexican outrages against Americans will be taken up. A score of amendments will be offered. The original resolution calls for the names and locations of all American citizens in Mexico who have been imprisoned, injured or robbed during the revolutionary period, together with an estimate of the financial loss suffered.

Wilson After Jingoes

The friction between the administration and the Jingos inclined congressional representation is becoming acute. President Wilson believes that the disposition exhibited by certain members to "crown the limelight" in the face of the present crisis is embarrassing the efforts to restore order in Mexico. And it was reported today that if there is not a change in methods soon the president may be forced to make a public statement saying so and placing the responsibility.

The recurrence of the suggestion by certain senators and representatives that the embargo on arms be removed, and the rival factions furnished all of the appliances necessary to engage in a war of suppression and extermination, is complicating matters. It is known that certain of the revolutionary leaders who leaned toward mediation have now changed their minds. The reason is the belief that they may be permitted to secure arms and ammunition which are badly needed.

Carranza Refuses Mediation

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 2.—Governor Venustiano Carranza, head of the northern constitutionalists, issued a brief statement today denouncing that under no circumstances would the rebels accept any proposal for mediation, or a truce between the warring factions in Mexico made by the United States.

Carranza expressed the most friendly feeling for Americans and declared he would do everything in his power to afford them protection from guerrilla bands, but said he could accept no mediation offer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Though he admitted that his pocket had been picked, Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson today denied that the men who escaped with his purse containing personal funds, obtained any state papers or other documents of value. The ambassador was robbed last night in the Pennsylvania station, where he had gone with two women friends who took a train for the homes in Long Island.

VISITOR HERE SEES HIS ELOPING WIFE

James Wilson of Indianapolis Sees Spouse Whirl by Court House in Red Auto

HE PURSUES HER WITHOUT RESULT

Calls in Cops to Get Back
$15,000 She Took When
She Went with Friend

After searching three years for his wife, whom he claims left his home in Indianapolis for another man, incidentally $15,000 he had saved, James Wilson, in La Crosse by chance today, caught a glimpse of his erring spouse whirling through the streets in an auto, accompanied by the man he says stole her.

Wilson, according to the story told Police Chief John Webber, was sitting in the court house park when a big red touring car passed. His wife, he says, was in the front seat and by her side was the man who entered his home in the guise of a friend and won his wife.

Wilson was so positive of the identification that he made an effort to catch the machine. His wife, he says, saw him and the auto dashed at full speed to Main street, then towards the river. He lost sight of it at Third and Main streets.

He immediately rushed to the North American Telegraph company and telephoned the police. Later he went to the police station and told his tale to Chief Webber.

Wilson claims that he now works as a switchman, his resources being exhausted when his wife drew the $15,000 from an Indianapolis bank.

NEGRO WITHDRAWS

In taking this action, the president said it was at Patterson's own request. In his place the president today nominated Gabe E. Parker an Oklahoma Indian. Patterson's nomination raised a grave question in the senate. He was nominated at the request of Senator Gore, Vardaman, Hoke Smith, Tillman and other southern senators personally protested to the president against his confirmation.

FAMILIES MOVE OUT OF CENTER

School Census Shows that Movement of Population Is Away from City's Heart

EIGHT WARD HOLDS THE PALM

Has Just 900 Children of School Age More Than the Twelfth; Twice as Many as Most

The movement of population away from the center of the city is attested by the school census figures, which were made public today by Superintendent L. P. Benezet of the city schools. The wards which showed the largest increase of children between the ages of four and twenty were the seventh, fourteenth and sixteenth, all of which are out toward the bluffs. A corresponding increase was found in the wards on the extreme north end of the north side. Mr. Benezet explains this by the statement that families are rapidly moving their homes away from the city's center.

Number 9,603

The actual number of children of school age in the city is 9,603, according to the figures gathered by Professor H. G. Hayden, principal of the Franklin school. Professor Hayden took the census. This figure is a loss of 141 since the 1912 census.

Mr. Benezet explains the loss by declaring there was an unusual number of 19 year old persons last year, 936, to be exact. These could not be included this year, and there are 529 four year olds this year to take their places. There is a loss of 400, and so Mr. Benezet considers that the census has in reality grown.

Each school child will bring the city a little over $2.60 in state school aid. The total amount this year received by the city will be a little more than last year, as the pro rata has been increased.

Ten Show Increases

One ward, the second, has exactly the same number of school children as in 1912. Ten showed increases. These are the third, fourth, sixth, seventh, tenth, eleventh, fourteenth, sixteenth, twentieth and twenty-first. The others showed losses. The south end of the north side, in the fifth, sixteenth and nineteenth wards, lost heavily owing to the fact that a number of families moved west from that section.

The ward with the fewest school children is the twelfth, which has just 700 less than the largest, the eighth. The figures are 186 and 1,066. The eighth ward has more than twice as many school children as any ward except the eighteenth, eleventh and ninth. The ninth ward has just a few over half as many children as the eighth.

KILL MEXICAN OUTLAW

EL PASO, Texas, Aug. 2.—An El Paso paper today printed the copy of a telegram from General Francisco Villa, who reports the execution of "El Mocho" Moreno, the Mexican outlaw, whose men terrorized American lumber camps in Chihuahua in July, killed Ben Griffin, an American farmer, and seriously wounded Alfred Parks, a butcher. Villa wired that Moreno was placed in front of a firing squad of 12 men and shot to death at the command of Col. Juan M. Medina, former mayor of Juarez.

Wilson claims that he now works as a switchman, his resources being exhausted when his wife drew the $15,000 from an Indianapolis bank.

MILLIONS IN GEMS AT FAIRIES' BALL

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish Gives $70,000 Entertainment for Newport Crowd

500 GUESTS ARE IN COSTUMES

Some of Best Known of Social Leaders Attend in Daring Gowns

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 2.—If Hans Anderson could have peeked into the enclosed grounds about Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's magnificent Newport residence here about dawn today, he might have been converted to absolute belief in the existence of the fairies he conjured up in his writings to delight little folk.

When the sun broke over the Fish grounds, he fell upon the most spectacular and lavish affair Newport has witnessed. The event was the much talked of fairy tale of Mother Goose ball given at Crossways, to the Newport and Narragansett society colonies. Jewels worth $12,000,000 sparkled and scintillated on the necks and arms of the "fairies" and the costumes and decorations represented an outlay of $65,000 additional. It is estimated that $5,000 was spent for the supper, served at midnight and just preceding the "Pick and Puck" dance that lasted until daybreak.

500 in Costume

There were 500 guests all arrayed to represent the characters in fairy tales. There was Little Red Riding Hood, Little Miss Muffett, Blue Beard, Snow White, Queen of Hearts, Beauty and the Beast—in fact they were all among those present.

Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt was Snow White. Mrs. Herman Oelrichs was Mother Goose. Miss Edythe Deacon and Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden went dressed as "The Brothers" in very short and very tight knish trousers. Miss Margaret Caperton appeared as Fatima in a Turkish harem costume. Because of the recent robberies at Narragansett Pier in which a quarter of million dollars in gems have been stolen, the Crossways was surrounded by a cordon of private detectives and special guards.

Mrs. Fish, the hostess, was arrayed as Queen of the Fairies. She wore a gown of silver brocade trimmed with rhinestones and spangles. In her hair she wore a silver star fitted with an electrical device, and carried a wand in which twinkling electric lights emphasized the brilliance of the jewels which studded her costume. Lavings of diamonds and rhinestones and buckles of sapphires and diamonds were on her slippers.

More than 10,000 electric lights and lines of goblin heads and dragon shapes, were draped about the grounds and among the flower beds.

CONTEST WINNER

Miss Barbara Noyes, 234 South Sixth street, was the winner of last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest, the subject of which was Thurston Owen.

Week Financial

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Financial London kept holiday. Continental stock exchanges merely drifted, and our own market was purely nominal. Changes in prices were fractional, only and no important movement occurred. At home the most noteworthy fact in the various week end statistics was the continued increase over 1912 in western bank clearings. This is a partial reflection of the huge wheat movement. Chicago estimates on the actual winter wheat yield have been so far increased with progress of the harvest as to suggest the possibility of a record breaking total wheat crop.

Two incidents of this week, affecting the relation of the government and the financial situation have shown with unusual clearness, first, how not to do, and second, how to do it. Government bonds declined sharply on the market. The finance minister of the United States publicly declared that the fall was due to a conspiracy of New York banks. Waiving the question either of accuracy or of propriety in this action, the conclusion of all experienced people was that the market for government securities has been injured by it. This was so for two reasons—that so unprecedented an action would be taken by many holders of such securities as evidence of a desperate situation, and that, even where this was not inferred, a desire to get free from connection with a market, where such accusations were flying, would have been instilled.

Weekly Bank Statement

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The weekly actual bank statement, issued today showed the following changes: Surplus, decrease $1,949,600. Loans, increase $2,890,000. Specie, decrease $146,000. Legals, decrease $3,885,000. Deposits, decrease $7,058,000. Circulation, increase $166,000. Surplus reserve $26,208,100.

ALLEGED BLACKMAIL PLOT IN ORLEANS SEND GUNBOAT TO VENEZUELA

U. S. Special Agent and Mexican Rebel Representative Held for Extortion

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 2.—G. Raymond Mathews, special agent of the United States department of justice, J. L. Mott, his assistant, and Ernesto Fernandez Y. Areaga, representative here of the constitutionalist junta, were arrested here early today, charged with blackmail.

The men were taken into custody on complaint of Emmanuel Castillo Brito, former governor of the state of Campeche, Mexico. Brito charged that one of the trio extorted $500 from him by displaying a telegram purporting to come from Washington, signed "McReynolds," and ordering his arrest.

Brito said that he employed private detectives who marked $500 in bills and arranged for a meeting last night. Assistant Chief of Detectives Daniel Monney led a squad of officers who made the arrests.

STRIKE HALTS ORE MOVING

SUPERIOR, Aug. 2.—It was estimated that 500 men, workers on the Allouez ore docks, were on strike today following the accident Thursday night that cost the lives of three workmen and injured thirty. The strikers claim that conditions which caused collision of the ore trains must be corrected before they will return to work. During yesterday 11 trains of ore reached the docks. As many more arrived today and they are still uncleared, while the big ore boats, bound for lake ports to the south, are held up.

Weekly Bank Statement

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Dispatches from Bucharest today said that the Balkan peace delegates there were disposed to renew the five days armistice, as all of the belligerents are almost exhausted, and the peace conference bids fair to be long drawn out.

The allies in their demands presented to the conference would leave Bulgaria with a coast line on the Aegean of only thirty miles. They also demand an indemnity. Roumania also demands territory from Bulgaria. Should the terms be accepted, Bulgaria will emerge from two wars, lasting ten months, poorer in purse but little larger in area than when she went into them.
