SUFFRAGISTS DECIDE TO HAVE STATE HEADQUARTERS IN BUTTE

AT THE SUFFRAGE CONVENTION

The suffragists will open their state headquarters in Butte. That was decided upon at the meeting yesterday. Mrs. Rabbitt advocated opening headquarters at once, but the question of funds led the majority to take a different view, and Feb. 1 was considered as early a date as the financial outlook warranted. Then, if all goes well, rooms will be secured in a central location and this city will become the point from which the suffragists will wage their earnest battle for the ballot.

As a part of the centralized system, the state committee will open up press headquarters at once. It is planned to secure a professional news writer who will head the committee and furnish suffrage news to all the papers of the state. More particularly, the women will devote their energies to the weekly papers and the country publications. Winter is coming on and the ranchers, who are the readers of the weekly papers, will have plenty of time to read the suffragists' arguments. Miss Rankin said that it will be with the vote of the labor unions and the men in the small towns and the country that the women will win the campaign.

Great Falls will entertain the central committee at its next meeting, which will be held some time in February. Mrs. M. K. Nelson of that city extended the invitation.

At the morning session, which was late in beginning, Mrs. Margaret Rozsa presented the report on Silver Bow county. She gave an account of the dance, dinners and pencil-day meetings, raising money, and suggested that a state-wide pencil day be established. The discussion on this question brought out varied opinions, but the consensus was that, as everybody needs pencils, that ought to be a practical mode of work for the organization.

Miss Rankin appointed Mrs. A. J. Baker of Butte, Mrs. Elmer Cull of Big Timber and Mrs. Butzer of Missoula as a committee to look after the state-wide pencil day. The noon hour broke in on the discussion of finances, which was at this time the all-absorbing business of the session.

Question of Finances.

"How shall the state central committee be financed?" asked Miss Rankin. "Nothing should be done or left undone for the sake of money. The cause is sufficient in itself."

Tears, card parties, the selling of pencils, playing cards and innumerable activities were suggested for raising funds. Mrs. Rozsa advocated the publishing of a suffragist issue by one of the daily papers. Miss Mary O'Neill said that there are women just waiting to be waked up and she favored teas, such as the registration teas that were given in Butte and which had proved to be unusually successful.

"What are you going to do when you get home?" This was Miss Rankin's next question. Mrs. W. L. Smith, Great Falls, assured the women that when she returns home, she is "going to get busy."

"I am going to ask them for money and I am going to get it," said Mrs. Nelson. "I'm going to start a subscription list among the unions and lodges and ask them to help us in the work."

Mrs. Rabbitt told the visitors about the visits of the Butte suffragists to the labor union meetings. She said the women were always given the floor for the 15 minutes usually requested and that the men were generous with their contributions and generous in assistance. She advised the women from other sections to seek the co-operation of the laboring classes.

Mrs. Butzer of Missoula said that she had received so much from the meetings held in Butte that she was going home to urge her associates to attend the state session, for it is here that inspiration is found.

Mrs. Bookor of Bozeman will carry home word of the general sympathy extended by the Butte association and she will devote her time to raising money.

Mrs. Darroch of Livingston has many plans. First, she will help promote a banquet in her home town, which shall be just as nice as can be, and every body, even the visitors from Butte, will have to pay for their plates. Mrs. Darroch is going to start on an organization tour. She will attempt to organize her own town into precincts, according to the wards, and she will advocate social gatherings which shall be paying affairs. Several prominent persons in the state will address meetings.

To Start Active Campaign.

Great activity throughout the state is to be the result of the meeting in this city. From now on suffrage literature will be distributed broadcast and suffrage teas and lectures, banquets and mass meetings will sweep like a whirlwind over the state. The suffragists will have their representatives in Washington when the National American Women's Suffrage association meets, the last week in November.

Mrs. A. P. Anderson of Butte, who expects to be in Washington at that time, was elected a delegate. Mrs. Thomas Stout of Lewistown, wife of Representative Stout, who introduced the suffrage bill at Helena, was elected a delegate, as was also Mrs. John M. Evans, wife of United States Representative Evans. If Montana is entitled to any more representatives, Miss Rankin and those elected as delegates were empowered by the convention to appoint those whom they please to fill vacancies.

Mrs. George Curry moved that a special campaign committee be appointed, with representatives from each county, whose sole duty shall be to raise funds for campaign work. This was carried.

A splendid program interspersed the business and the discussions. Mrs. Frances Harte-Parks sang "I Breathe the Name" and "My Country." Miss Giduz played the accompaniment.

Mrs. Katherine Gittman Bowen played the Rigoletto fantasia by Liszt. She was called back for another number. She gave "Japanese Rude," by Poldini.

Walter G. Holliday, a progressive, made an address. He admitted that it was the first time that he had appeared before an audience composed exclusively of women and he wished them to know that if he made any mistakes they would be from the heart and not from the head. He told the women that often a battle is lost because of overconfidence. He cautioned them to avoid overconfidence. He spoke of the old-time attitude in regard to woman's sphere, and said through the blind brutality of man woman had been held in bondage and not permitted to use her best faculties for the betterment of humanity. Woman herself had helped to tighten the bondage around her eyes that had aided in excluding the light. Eternal persistence, he said, is to be the price of woman's emancipation. "A man who argues," he added, "that a woman can't fight for her rights is woefully ignorant of current events."

Uses of the Voice.

Miss Edythe Geraldine O'Leary gave a splendid talk on the art of public speaking. She spoke of the use of the voice, position of the body and gestures. She told the audience that a speaker holds the attention of those before him only when he appears to be consumed by his emotions. The moment that he lets his emotions control himself he then is drawn away from his subject to himself and his hold on his listeners is lost. Her instructions were given to aid those who may be thinking of fitting themselves for the platform.

Miss O'Neill moved a vote of thanks to the press of the city. The election resulted in the return of the present officers, those to serve until the next meeting. They are as follows:

State chairman, Miss Jeanette Rankin; assistant state chairman, Mrs. T. M. Gilmore, Glendive; Miss Mary E. O'Neill, Butte; recording secretary, Mrs. John Willis, Glasgow; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harvey Colt, Big Timber; treasurer, Mrs. W. L. Smith, Helena; financial chairman, Mrs. W. T. Perham, Glendive; literature chairman, Miss Mary Cantwell, Hunter's Hot Springs.

The evening meeting of the suffragists, instead of being an out-of-door session, resolved itself into an in-door conference. The meeting was held in the parlor of the Butte hotel, and took the form of a discussion on the status of women and the adjustment of industries to women. Miss Rankin, who has had many opportunities of studying conditions among women and children in many cities, gave the women present the benefit of her wide experience. The discussion was one of the most interesting of the two-day meeting and will probably lead to some action among the several organizations of the state.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN MOORE SHOOTING CASE

The Moore shooting case brought out no new developments yesterday. Moore still stuck to the story as printed in yesterday's Standard, that the shooting was purely accidental and the police refused to make any arrests.

At St. James' hospital it was said last night that Moore was feeling better. It will not be known for a day or two whether blood poisoning will set in.

The wound is a dangerous one and the physicians still fear it is infected.

OSKROVICH PAYS FINE.

John Oskrovich pleaded guilty to assault in the third degree and paid a fine of $100 in Justice Shea's court yesterday morning. The complaining witness was Joe Radich, who alleged that he was beaten by Oskrovich in a row that took place in Meaderville Aug. 11.

ANOTHER DELAY ON WASHINGTON SCHOOL

SELECTION OF ARCHITECT POSTPONED UNTIL THIS AFTERNOON.

TRUSTEE MAURY IS ABSENT

Other members want attendance of all the members of the board.

Wrecking of old building delayed until architect is chosen.

The new Washington school building that is to be, maybe, had another delay in its progress last night. The absence of Trustee Maury, who was engaged as counsel in the Sanger case before the city council, was the cause for putting over until today the selection of an architect.

Trustee Elderkin expressed his impatience at the many delays. He declared that an architect should have been selected a long time ago so that the work of tearing down the old structure could have been finished and work on the new one begun.

The school board decided to postpone action, however, until all the members are present. Architects Ling and Kenna were both present and had their sketches and plans ready to submit.

The question of going ahead with the wrecking of the old building was discussed but it was stated that the architect who is to have charge of erecting the new structure ought to supervise the tearing down of the old so that he will know just what material is available and where it is placed.

There will not be any too much time now for the wrecking of the old school and the erection and completion of the new one so that it can be utilized at the opening of school next September.

Bills were allowed to the amount of $2,833. Superintendent Downer and Clerk Richards were given leave of absence to go to the state fair, where the Butte schools have exhibits in the school section.

The proposed new playground for the children of the Washington school on the lots belonging to Dr. Murray, across from the county jail property, will be put into shape under the direction of the building committee.

Mr. Maury sent a communication to the board stating that the cost by day labor would probably not exceed $125.

INDIAN STENOGRAPHERS.

From the Indianapolis News.

Wonderful things are happening in the remote corners of the world, and not the least of these is the mastery of a system of shorthand by more than two thousand Indians in British Columbia, 300 miles northeast of Victoria. Some years ago a priest named Le Jeune, from Brittany, France, went to that region. He worked out an Indian vocabulary in shorthand signs containing all the words in everyday use among them, and explained the system to one of the bright Indian boys, who at once enthusiastically took to the new "talk language."

All this is told in the number of the Churchman. In a little while about 600 of the Indians had mastered the system, and Le Jeune was kept busy providing literature printed in the characters of his system. He translated portions of the Bible as well as other religious books, and had various parts of the Bible published in the different languages spoken by the tribes in that region, using the shorthand method, and is now at work on other publications.

A shorthand newspaper, called the Kamloops Wanda, is published with news pertaining to the tribes. Before Le Jeune appeared the Indians of the locality along the Thompson and Fraser rivers had no written or printed language.
