

North Dakota's Depression-era exodus

Between 1930 and 1950, North Dakota lost nearly 10 percent of its population. It would take most of a century to recover.

Source: North Dakota State University, U.S. Census Bureau

Chart by Sam Easter