George Shultz: An economist who played myriad roles

When, in his 1961 inaugural address, ...

SHultz was fortunate in birth, the son of a worldly Wall Street businesswoman. ...

While his family was not as rich as the Sherbys or the Burdens, ...

An economist George Shultz: ...

In Washington, he made his name as a skilled adviser in a presidential administration.

Postwar, Shultz got a Ph.D. at MIT and taught there for several decades in public service.

In her room at a Georgia nursing home, ...

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that Bessie Burden, one of Shultz’s daughters, ...

New boost for minority businesses

MONEY

SHultz was fortunate in birth, the son of a worldly Wall Street businesswoman. In 1920, he was nine years younger than Ronald Reagan, seven than Gerald Ford and three than George H.W. Bush.

While his family was not as rich as the Sherbys or the Burdens, Shultz still grew up with an affluence that sent his sons to elite Ivy League schools.

An economist George Shultz: ...

In W ashington, he made his name as a skilled adviser in a presidential administration.

Postwar, Shultz got a Ph.D. at MIT and taught there for several decades in public service.

In her room at a Georgia nursing home, ...

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses

Bessie Burden, center, poses with her daughters Theresa Burrough, left, and Lashieka Mitchell outside the Westbury Conyers nursing home on Conyers, Ga., on November 9, 2019. Burden died last week at age 101, played a critical role in ensuring that

New boost for minority businesses