A total of 33 more mitten donations have been brought in to address staffing shortages at the Bradford and Olean, N.Y., hospitals, officials with Kaleida Health said Friday.

Kaleida’s Bob Newschaffer, CEO; Don Boyd, president and chief operating officer; Mike Hughes, chief administrative officer; as well as Jeff Belt, chairman of the Upper Allegheny Health System board, and Mary Ross, interim CEO of UAH, met with editors of The Era to discuss the state of the local hospitals.

“We were able to secure 33 additional travel mitten boxes which is a short-term measure to respond to the increasing volume we are seeing, so we can...
