Irene Bailey's work featured in hospital gallery

This month, the Cassie Howe Algeo Gallery will feature the portraits by Emerald Isle resident Irene Bailey.

This exhibit will be in the hallway connecting the new and old lobbies of Carteret Health Care at 3500 Arendell St. in Morehead City.

As always, these shows are free and open to the public at all times. Most of the works are for sale. Purchase can be arranged through the hospital's human resources department.

From Yorktown, Va., Ms. Bailey started her formal art training at The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia. Her earlier training was under Jack Clifton of Hampton, Va., also a graduate of The Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Ms. Bailey received her masters of fine arts degree specializing in painting from East Carolina University.

Her thesis show at East Carolina University was a great elevator of her notoriety and propelled her career as a fine art portrait painter.

Nineteen of her portraits hang on the campus of East Carolina University, to include two 12-by-18 feet murals in Minges Coliseum.

While living in New York and New Jersey, she was able to study with Everett Raymond Kinstler, Nelson Shanks at Incamminati and Daniel Green.

The Minges Pepsi Bottling Group commissioned her to paint portraits of all their CEOs.

Many of her portraits hang in courtrooms across the state. Many businesses and prominent families across the country cherish their heirloom portraits by Ms. Bailey.

Ms. Bailey is an award-winning member of the Portrait Society of America, Portrait Society of Atlanta and Oil Painters of America.

She was also an award-winning member of The Catharine Lorillard Wolfe Art Club in New York City, Allied Artists of America and American Artist League.

Ms. Bailey's most recent award was second place in the Daughters of the American Revolution's American Heritage Competition.

Ms. Bailey received her award at the 125th Continental Congress in Washington, D.C., in June.

Ms. Bailey was also honored by East Carolina University Women's Roundtable when they featured her in "A Legacy of Leadership 100 Incredible ECU Women Centennial Edition" in 2007.

After traveling with her husband, Don Wells, a retired major from the U.S. Marine Corps, Ms. Bailey chose Emerald Isle to build her studio, home and gallery.

Ms. Bailey and her husband enjoy ballroom and other types of dance. Ms. Bailey has three children and six grandchildren. Over the years, Ms. Bailey has supported numerous charities with donations of her artwork and continues to do so.

For more information about the Arts for the Hospital Committee, contact Sally Anger at 252-241-1810.

The painting, "At the River," is one of Irene Bailey's many works of art. Her work will hang in the hospital's Cassie Howe Algeo Gallery this month. (Irene Bailey art)

NCCF schedules fall birding cruises through November

The N.C. Coastal Federation is hosting its fall birding cruises on the White Oak River from 10 a.m. to noon on Sundays, Oct. 23 and Nov. 13.

The cruises will be led by local birding expert and federation board member, JoAnne Powell.

The two-hour cruises, aboard a covered ferry boat, will move through estuaries of the White Oak River and Bogue Sound, and participants will identify resident and migratory shorebirds, warblers, raptors and waterfowl.

Birds are most common in and around coastal estuaries, where they look for food, water and shelter. In addition to birds, the cruise offers views of marshes, Bogue Inlet and Bear Island. Participants may also see other kinds of wildlife, like dolphins, that reside around the estuaries.

"The birding cruises are always a very popular program, and Hammocks Beach State Park offers such spectacular views of the local birds and wildlife," said Rachel Bisesi, education coordinator for the federation.

Participants will meet at the Hammocks Beach State Park

Visitor Center in Swansboro at 9:45 a.m. and are asked to bring their own binoculars, as well as water and a snack.

Please dress appropriately for the weather. The program fee is $20 for federation members and $25 for nonmembers.

All ages are welcome, but the program is geared toward adults and older children.

Review: 'Bridget Jones's Baby' is a charming return to form

BY LINDSEY BAHR

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Renee Zellweger is charming as ever in “Bridget Jones’s Baby,” a lively return to form for the unlikely trilogy about an ordinary woman and her professional and romantic woes. It turns out a little break is just what this series needed to find its footing after the manic missteps of “Bridget Jones: The Edge of Reason,” which fell into some of the all-too-common traps of sequels looking to up the stakes (hello, Thailand prison sequence).

That’s likely due to the fact that Sharon Maguire, who directed the practically perfect “Bridget Jones’s Diary,” is back (Beeban Kidron directed the second), working from a script from author Helen Fielding, Emma Thompson (very funny as an unamused doctor) and Dan Mazer.

Let’s get over the silly fact that this movie essentially had to press reboot on the happy ending of the second, when Bridget said at the end how even at 33 she was able to find love and happiness with one Mark Darcy (Colin Firth). Cut to 12 years later (between movies), Bridget is in her 40s and Mark Darcy has gone off and married someone else.

But this is an evolved Bridget.

Sure, she might be eating dessert alone in that same old London flat on that same old couch listening to the same old Celine Dion song, but it’s not tragic. It just is. Her friends all flaked on her and so she has a night by herself. The sense is “whatever” not “woe is me.”

Indeed, her life looks pretty good. She’s now a high-profile TV news producer who seems happy at work – gone are the fireman’s pole humiliations of on-camera life. She’s also fitter (and quite happy about it) and has gotten a fancier wardrobe befitting of her success.

When her younger friend and co-worker Miranda (a terrific Sarah Solemani) invites her to a weekend getaway, Bridget arrives at the airport looking like a Nancy Meyers leading lady in cream and white. Of course, she doesn’t realize they’re going to an outdoor music festival. So, she falls in some mud, but she also gets the attention of Jack (Patrick Dempsey). He’s a single, not sleazy relationship guru who is immediately smitten with Bridget.

She has a good time with Jack and goes on her way. A few weeks later, she finds herself having an unexpectedly romantic night with a now-separated Darcy. She walks away from that, too, and continues on with life until she gets the news that she’s pregnant. It could be either Darcy’s or Jack’s.

Both men hop to the challenge, trying to out-partner one another at every turn. Is this a fantasy, or is this just men being kind to the woman who is possibly carrying their child? Does it really matter?

Much of the original cast is back and wonderful (Jim Broadbent, Gemma Jones, Sally Phillips and Shirley Henderson), save for a sorely missed Daniel Cleaver (Hugh Grant). You’ll find out what happened to him.

There is still a madcap, slapstick jitteriness to dear Bridget, but calmness has emerged, too – that of a woman who has finally grown into her own skin. She is messy in that way that women in other rom coms “say” they are but never actually are. And she is certainly not the other single gal of her time, Carrie Bradshaw, who seemed to become less and less relatable as the years went by.

Though the premise of “Bridget Jones’s Baby” makes it all seem like it’s all about the guy again, it’s never felt so much like Bridget’s story. The man is just gravy. This movie, for all its comedic ridiculousness and wild circumstance of the paternity crisis, is a jubilant celebration of women.

If we’re lucky, we’ll get to check in with her again in another few years.

HEIRLOOM TOMATO AND MOZZARELLA SALAD

Servings: 4

2½ pounds heirloom tomatoes, mixed varieties
¼ cup good quality extra-virgin olive oil kosher salt, to taste freshly ground black pepper, to taste
¼ cup micro basil (or 1 dozen basil leaves, sliced and torn), divided
2 large balls fresh mozzarella, cut into wedges
flaked sea salt

Slice tomatoes into ¾- to 1-inch thick wedges. In large bowl, add tomatoes, olive oil, kosher salt, pepper and half the basil. Toss and allow to marinate 2 minutes. Arrange tomatoes and mozzarella on serving plate, alternating each. Pour marinating liquid over tomatoes and mozzarella. Garnish with remaining basil and sprinkle with sea salt and pepper.

Serve with Kendall-Jackson Grand Reserve Chardonnay. Chardonnay's flavors of orchard fruit complement the sweetness of late summer tomatoes.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES WITH DELICE DE LA VALLEE

Servings: 4

2 large unripe green tomatoes, sliced 1/2-inch thick
1 cup buttermilk
½ cup all-purpose flour
½ cup cornmeal
1 teaspoon kosher salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2 tablespoons rice oil (or other neutral flavored oil)
¼ teaspoon good quality sea salt
¼ cup Delice de la Vallee

1 ounce trout caviar, for garnish (optional)

1 ounce purslane, picked

In medium bowl, soak tomatoes in buttermilk at least 30 minutes (or overnight).

In large bowl, mix flour, cornmeal, kosher salt and pepper. Using tongs or fork, remove tomato slices from buttermilk and coat with cornmeal-flour mixture.

In 12-inch cast iron skillet, add oil and heat over medium-high heat. Place tomato slices in skillet in batches and fry until golden brown on both sides.

Place fried tomatoes on paper towel-lined plate and sprinkle with sea salt. Place tomatoes on serving plate and garnish with cheese, caviar, if desired, and purslane.

Serve immediately with Kendall-Jackson Vintner's Reserve Sauvignon Blanc. The crisp Sauvignon Blanc matches the acidity in the tomatoes.

Note: Fromage Blanc, cream fresh or sour cream can be substituted for Delice de la Vallee.

Tomatoes and white wine:

Enjoying the bounty of harvest means creating dishes that celebrate the most intense character and flavors a region can deliver. Put a fresh twist on farm-to-table goodness by pairing two vine-ripened garden treasures: heirloom tomatoes and crisp, refreshing white wine.

Northern California's Sonoma County is known for some of the nation's finest vineyards. It's also a culinary destination with a wide range of farms and artisan food purveyors. The Kendall-Jackson Wine Estate and Gardens offers the best of both: sampling wine while exploring the four-acre estate's culinary garden, which offers a wide array of unique crops, including 150 varieties of heritage tomatoes.

Inspired by the annual Kendall-Jackson Heirloom Tomato Festival, which celbrates its 20th anniversary this year, these recipes are a twist on classic favorites, delighting the palate by pairing farm-fresh tomatoes with the perfect wine. A perfect accompaniment to grilled chicken, this simple tomato and mozzarella salad is only better paired with Chardonnay. Or, for an elevated take on an old southern favorite, serve up these fried green tomatoes with a glass of Sauvignon Blanc.

BWF gears up for inaugural event

Prepare to raise a glass Friday-Saturday, Sept. 23-24, to mark Beaufort Wine & Food's inaugural craft beer festival, Beaufort's Brewin.

The two-day festival will feature a variety of events held in Beaufort, Morehead City and Atlantic Beach, and will range in size from intimate beer dinners, luncheons and seminars to the 700-person Beer, Bubbles and BBQ tasting event at Front Street Village.

"Beaufort Wine and Food is excited to tap in to this passionate industry and following and offer our first ever craft beer festival late September," said Lindsay Parker, executive director for Beaufort Wine & Food. "With over 175 breweries and brewpubs across the state, North Carolina boasts the largest number of brewers in the American South. Beaufort Wine and Food is thrilled to have the opportunity to spotlight the Crystal Coast as a beer destination for our state."

Partnering with regional distributors and more than two dozen breweries from across the state and beyond, Beaufort Wine & Food has crafted a stellar line up of events to generate great exposure for the organization and the Crystal Coast.

Beer luncheons will start the two-day event at noon Friday and will be held at Aqua Restaurant featuring Highland Brewing, Beaufort Grocery Co. featuring Tarboro Brewing Co., and Island Grille at Celebration Cottage featuring Natty Greene's.

All beer luncheons will have the host chef and brewer on site to walk guests through the multi-course menu. Tickets to the beer luncheons are $50.

Various seminars will be offered throughout Friday afternoon. Available seminars will be offered at the following pubs and breweries:

- Promise Land Market: 2 p.m. – Just down the street from Tight Lines, the Promise Land Market's beer seminar will feature a panel of breweries including White Street Brewing, Natty Greene's, and Carolina Brewing Co. Tickets are $40.

- Backstreet Pub: 2 p.m. – This beer seminar will be held in Backstreet's new picturesque beer garden. This seminar will feature an all-star lineup that features a panel of breweries not to be missed, including Highland, Duck Rabbit,

Beaufort Wine & Food's inaugural Beaufort's Brewin event will feature N.C. craft beers and other entertainment. The event will be Friday-Saturday, Sept. 23-24, at various locations throughout Atlantic Beach, Morehead City and Beaufort. (Contributed photos)

Unknown & Mother Earth and Gibb's Hundred. Tickets are $40.

- Mill Whistle Brewing: 1 p.m., 2p.m., 3p.m. - This seminar is perfect for craft beer aficionados and beginners alike. Make a micrograin mash and release hop aromas in a fashion similar to the boil kettle. Enjoy craft brews, brewery trivia and a nano-brewery tour. These tickets are in high demand so multiple times are being offered. Tickets are $40.

On Friday evening, Beaufort Wine & Food is bringing back the crowd favorite "Walkabout" but with a beer twist.

The Walkabout will offer guests the opportunity to go from stop to stop in private homes and a bed and breakfast in historic Beaufort, tasting different beer and cuisine pairings before finishing off their tour with sparkling wine and dessert.

Featured breweries on the walkabout include Gibb's Hundred Brewing Co., Highland Brewing Co., The Duck Rabbit Craft Brewery, White Street Brewing and Tarboro Brewing Co.

Dessert and champagne will be enjoyed at the Harvey W. Smith Watercraft Center on Front Street while taking in the views of Taylor's Creek. Tickets are $75.

Rounding out the evening are beer dinners starting at 7 p.m. and will be offered in area restaurants.

Similar to the luncheons, these beer dinners will feature the host chef and brewer on site to walk guests through the multi-course menu. Tickets to the beer dinners are $75 and held at the following restaurants:

- Beaufort Grocery Co. – featuring chef Charles Park, CEC and Mark Heath, owner and brewer of Carolina Brewing Co.
- Clawson's Restaurant & Pub – featuring chefs Jon McGregor and Corrie Robbins paired with Mother Earth Brewing of Kinston.
- Island Grille at Celebration Cottage – featuring cuisine by chefs Jason Scott and Denise Greer paired with The Unknown Brewing Co. with Brad Shell, owner and head brewer.

On Saturday, Beaufort Wine & Food will also be holding its first ever road race, Runnin' On Empty, in conjunction with the festival.

Registration is available online, and racers of all levels are invited to partake in the 1-Mile Walk/Fun Run, 5K, or 10K.

The 5K and 10K races will be timed using RFID technology from IPICO Sports. T-shirts, commemorative glasses, medals for top runners will all be included for registered runners.

After the race, registered runners are invited to the outdoor beer garden area at the Backstreet Pub for celebratory beer. There will also be root beer available for runners under 21.

After the road race, the headline event for the festival – Beer, Bubbles and BBQ will be held at Front Street Village, 2400 Lennoxville Road in Beaufort, from 2-6 p.m. and will feature more than 20 North Carolina craft breweries and brew pubs, with a sampling from across the state and beyond.

In addition to tasting dozens of beers, guests will be treated to a variety of barbecue and sides, as eight local and regional chefs put their best dish forward in a barbecue competition.

Participating chefs in the barbecue competition include: Jeremy Cannon of Fat Fellas BBQ and Grille in Newport; James Doss of RX Restaurant & Bar and Pembroke Restaurant in Wilmington; James Harrington of Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune and Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point; Kyongmin Lee and Jose Quiterio of Beaufort Grocery Co. in Beaufort; Stephen Billiar of the Coral Bay Club in Atlantic Beach; Kenny Collins of The Boathouse at Front Street Village in Beaufort; and Jon McGregor and Corrie Robbins of Clawson's 1905 Restaurant & Pub in Beaufort.

The winner will be announced during the event and will receive $500 to donate to charity.

Live music by The Grand Shell Game will round out the entertainment for the afternoon event. Tickets are $65 and will be available at the door the day of the event.

Featured breweries throughout the weekend include: Aviator Brewing Co., Bold Rock Cider, Boston Beer Co., Carolina Brewery, Carolina Brewing Co., Catawba Brewing, Double Barley, Duck Rabbit, Fullsteam, Gibb's Hundred, Highland Brewing, Mill Whistle Brewing, Mother Earth, Natty Greene's Brewing, Sierra Nevada, Tarboro Brewing Co., Tight Lines, Triple C. Brewing, Unknown Brewing Co., White Street Brewery, Yester Years Brewery and more.

"These events are unique in that they allow festivalgoers a chance to interact with the brewers and brewery owners who live and breathe beer," Ms. Parker said. "These are the folks whose passion, patience and creativity have produced the amazing beer selections we see both locally and on grocery store shelves nationwide. They are the ones to credit for making North Carolina's beer scene what it is today."

Proceeds from ticket sales go toward Beaufort Wine & Food's mission to support local charities and nonprofits that strive to improve life in the county.

Since its first festival in 2004, Beaufort Wine & Food has raised almost $600,000 to donate to area nonprofits – almost $150,000 of that in the last two years.

"Our efforts to give back to organizations that support our community are at the forefront of what we do ... it's why we hold events throughout the year and it's something our members, volunteers and sponsors and guests can be proud of," said Ms. Parker.

Tickets and information are available online at beaufortwineandfood.com, by calling 252-515-0708 or stopping by the Beaufort Wine & Food office at 129 Middle Lane in Beaufort.

Graduates discuss plans for all-class reunion

BY MEGAN SOULT

NEWS-TIMES

It was a night of joking and comradery as members of Morehead City High School gathered one last time to discuss the details of planning this year's all-class reunion.

Each year, members of Morehead City High School hold an all-class reunion for members who attended the high school.

This year, the reunion is at 11 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the Sanitary Fish Market and Restaurant along the Morehead City waterfront.

The first Morehead City Graded School opened in 1921 and housed grades 1 through 11.

The school added a 12th grade in 1947 and operated as grades one through 12 until West Carteret High School opened in 1964.

Each year, a different class hosts the reunion, making plans for the gathering of friends and classmates, and the responsibility has fallen to the class of 1959. The meeting was held in Julie Hosley's home in Beaufort.

Also attending the meeting were Janet Plough, Betsy Weeks, Dennis Munden, Fred Oglesby, David Ebbighausen, Glenda Ebbighausen and Sue Webb Oglesby.

During the meeting, the group discussed last minute preparations that needed to be completed at the restaurant, and assigning classmates to certain tasks. Ms. Plough and Mr. Ebbighausen finalized the ball park number for the reunion's attendance.

Attending this year's reunion is Sam Guthrie, class of 1936.

Mr. Guthrie is the reunion's oldest attending member and has been to 80 class reunions.

To honor Mr. Guthrie, a plaque in his name will be presented during the reunion.

The award will be presented by Rodney Kemp. Mr. Oglesby, the class president of 1959, will introduce Mr. Kemp.

So far, the expected number of attendees is anywhere from 400 to 450 people, but as the years pass, that number is expected to decrease.

"As I hear back from each class from 1936 to 1965, I am not surprised at the number of graduates we have lost," Ms. Hosley said.

She also added that the reunions most likely will only last for another 10 years, but for now, the group is still enjoying the time that they have together.

Carteret Writers announce fall, winter meeting lineup

Carteret Writers is a non-profit organization with three goals in mind: to promote the art of writing, cultivate camaraderie among writers and to collaborate with other organizations to foster an understanding and appreciation of writing and writers.

In order to reach the goals, the organization hosts monthly meetings with a guest speaker.

Lunch and networking begins at 11:15 a.m. at the Golden Corral in Morehead City with a guest speaker to begin at noon. Anyone interested in writing is welcome to attend, and no reservations are needed.

Monthly meetings are on the second Wednesday of the month from September through April.

In May, the organization will have dinner at 6 p.m. and present awards to the winners of their annual writing contest.

For more information about Carteret Writers, visit their website at www.carteretwriters.org or e-mail carteretwriters@gmail.com.

Listed are the dates and guest speakers for the remainder of the season's Carteret Writers meetings.

Oct. 12: Peter Makuck

Award-winning author Peter Makuck will present at this meeting. His latest release is Allegiance and Betrayal, and he has written numerous poems, essays, short stories and reviews.

He has been a lecturer and discussion leader in the "Poets in Person" series sponsored by the National Endowment for the Humanities. He has lived in the United States, Canada and France and now lives in Bogue Banks. At the luncheon meeting, Mr. Makuck will discuss writing short stories, essays and reviews.

Nov. 9: Deborah Doolittle

Deborah Doolittle, of Jacksonville, will present at this meeting. Ms. Doolittle is an English instructor at Coastal Carolina Community College. Although widely published in poetry, she also speaks about the creative writing process, keeping journals and developing routines for successful writing.

Dec. 14: Les Pendleton

New Bern's Les Pendleton will speak at this meeting.

According to his website, "his writing style conveys the influence of his career in motion pictures. Many people share their impression that reading his novels feels as if they are watching the characters come to life on the silver screen."

Several North Carolina locations are featured in many of his books. His writing spans a wide array of genres from action adventure, romance, historical fiction, suspense-filled mysteries and autobiographies.

Jan. 11: To be announced

The meeting on Jan. 11, 2017, will begin a new year for Carteret Writers. Please refer to carteretwriters.org for this month's highlight updates.

Feb. 8: Sarah Shaber

Sarah Shaber will present. She is a native North Carolinian and enjoys writing historical mystery series and has written a novel, Burying Ground.

March 8: Marietta McCarty

Marietta McCarty is the author of The Philosopher's Table, How Philosophy Can Save Your Life and Little Big Minds.

Ms. McCarty is also an educational consultant and teacher.

Virginia Professional Communicators selected Ms. McCarty as its 2014 "Newsmaker," a tribute to her three books and her philosophical travels.

April 12: To be announced

Refer to the website for this month's meeting details.

STEEP CANYON RANGERS: It's that mix of serious chops and good-natured fun that earned the Steep Canyon Rangers the Grammy Award for Best Bluegrass Album Grammy in 2013 (for Nobody Knows You), and that drew celebrated comedian/banjoist Steve Martin to them when he needed a backing band. The Rangers are world-class musicians who are just as at home taking the stage at Carnegie Hall as they are knee-deep in a mountain brook, fly rod in hand. Wednesday, September 21ST AT 8:00 pm.

ENC Fashion Week dates announced

Officials have announced the rebranding and dates for Jacksonville's third annual fashion week.

Previously known as Jacksonville NC Fashion Week, successful event growth has demanded a name change.

The event, now rebranded as the Eastern North Carolina Fashion Week, will take place Friday-Saturday, Sept. 23-24, at the Courtyard by Marriot, at 5046 Henderson Drive.

Jacksonville, largely known for its military bases, is now garnering an elevated national reputation in the fashion industry.

The success and growth of Jacksonville NC Fashion week over its first two years created a buzz from Miami to New York, positioning Eastern North Carolina as a rising fashion market.

"We are going from combat boots to stilettos," said co-founder Mike Claiborne as he describes the event's popularity, as well as the growth and chance of the region.

With this year's theme as "Fashion on FIRE," ENCFW will feature major designers, a high and beauty launch event, exclusive parties and a fashion concert, culminating with two runway shows: Friday's "Ready to Wear" show and Saturday's Couture Fashion Show.

The passion and purpose for this event emanates from the event's founders Mr. Claiborne and Ms. Lisa Claiborne, widely known as Eastern North Carolina's First Family of Fashion.

Both bring vast beauty and fashion experience to the project: Ms. Claiborne as the owner and master stylist at Phase Two Beauty Supply and Salon and Mr. Claiborne as one of the original founders of the renowned Philadelphia Music and Fashion Week.

Mr. Claiborne describes ENCFW as being an event that "celebrates all the skin tones and sizes that make this world beautiful."

For more information on ENC Fashion Week, call 919-867-1846, visit the event website at www.enclf.com or find them on social media.

Fun run, walk to benefit area Scouts

Area Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts will benefit from a fun run.

"Get Sandy 4 Scouts" is a 5K family fun beach run and walk that is not timed. The event starts at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 24, on the beach strand at the DoubleTree by Hilton in Atlantic Beach.

Registration is from 9-9:45 a.m. Online registration can be completed at www.active.com/Sandy4Scouts.

The cost to participate in the event is $30 per individual or $35 for a group or family of four.

The event will start and finish at the DoubleTree's beachfront.

Area Scouts will be on hand to answer questions and give information about scouting. Door prizes donated from local businesses will be given away, and post run/walk refreshment provided by Doubletree and Lowe's Foods will be provided.

T-shirts will be supplied to those who registered. Free parking at the hotel will be available.

The purpose of the fun run is to actively engage families while promoting and raising funds for local Boy and Cub Scouts.

It costs $300 a year per boy to be in the Scout program. The yearly dues paid by parents and guardians only cover a small portion.

The agency receives no federal or state funds or grants.

The rest of the money comes from generous donations and contributions of private individuals and business owners.

Currently, there are approximately 750 Scouts in the county. The skills Scouts learn in the program today can be used throughout their entire life.

Scouts learn to give back to their community through local projects such as Scouting for Food.

In February, area Boy and Cub

Scouts worked on a cold Saturday delivering cards asking for non-perishable donations and retrieving the donations a week later.

Local food pantries, such as Matthew 25 at St. James United Methodist Church in Newport, benefited from the hundreds of pounds of donations collected by the boys.

Camping and outdoor activities are commonly known and popular themes in Scouts. The boys learn how to pack and prepare for camping trips, prepare and cook meals over a campfire, plan and carry out programs such as Scout appropriate skits and songs.

They learn rank structure and develop and nurture leadership skills by taking lead roles during activities.

Other important skills taught are water safety, recycling and being respectful to nature, team building and friendly competition through such events like Pinewood Derby and Rain Gutter Regatta.

Importance of fitness and healthy eating is taught by trying healthy snacks as an alternative Scout event. Physical activity is always implemented during scout meetings.

Arts council to host show, social, sale

Artists from near and far will gather on Emerald Isle to paint the coastal scenery.

From 3-5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25, Seaside Arts Council will present an art show, social and sale at The Trading Post Restaurant in Emerald Isle.

Participants will enjoy complimentary appetizers, a cash bar, the music of Justin Castellano and beautiful artwork.

Attendees will have a chance to mix and mingle with the artists and view and purchase one-of-a-kind paintings. Event goers will also have an opportunity to vote for their favorite piece of art. The artist chosen will receive the "People's Choice Award" and a cash prize.

This event is sponsored by Seaside Arts Council and Seaside Arts Council board member and artist Irene Bailey.

The Seaside Arts Council is a nonprofit organization with a mission to bring visual and performing art events to the greater Swansboro and Western Carteret County area.

The organization supports free outdoor concerts during the summer, like SwanFest and EmeraldFest, and reasonably priced events during the fall and winter like The Performing Arts Series and various art events.

Memberships are $35 per person or $65 per family of up to four members. Members receive $5 off each indoor concert ticket and contributions support Seaside Arts Council events.

For more information, contact Debbie Peel, co-president of Seaside Arts Council at 919-210-6397, email info@seasideartscouncil.com or Ms. Bailey at 252-723-3258 or irene@irenebailey.com.

Quilling demonstration set at historic site

9 • this week 9/22/16 - 9/28/16

As part of the Beaufort Historic Site's Living History series, Gigi Koehler will conduct a quilling demonstration at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 24, at the site's Welcome Center, 130 Turner St. in Beaufort.

Quilled creations have become increasingly popular as decorations for wedding invitations, birth announcements, greeting cards, scrapbook pages and more.

Quilling, or paper filigree, is the art of rolling thin strips of paper, then bending and molding them into shapes to form a design.

This intricate art was done as far back as the fourth and fifth centuries in various parts of Europe and can be found on ancient pillars, vases and tombs in fine gold and silver wire.

Around the 13th century, similar ornamental work became popular in Spain, Italy and France, where artists were using strips of paper and gilding them to resemble precious metals – fooling even experts at first glance.

However, it was nuns and monks who established the current name of "quilling" by wrapping paper around bare bird quills to decorate religious articles.

With the rebirth of interests in art, learning and development of trade in the 17th century, the art of quilling spread throughout Europe and into colonial America.

The public is invited to the Beaufort Historic Site for the quilling demonstration.

For information on this and other Living History Programs, stop by the Beaufort Historic Site, call 252-728-5225 or visit www.beauforthistoricsite.org.

NCCF to hold cycling event at North River Farms Preserve

The N.C. Coastal Federation is hosting its first Ride for North River & Barn Party cycling party on Saturday, Sept. 24, which supports the federation's wetland restoration work in Carteret County.

The event will begin at noon at the federation's 6,000-acre wetland restoration site at North River Farms Preserve.

Over 20 miles of dirt roads surround the centrally located barn, providing views of restored wetlands, forests, farm fields and wildlife.

"We are focusing on a day of fun for the whole family. Whether you like to bike, run, walk, or just hang out, this will be the perfect day for it," said Catherine Snead, director of business engagement for the federation.

Registration is open online at nccoast.org/ride, and prices vary depending on what events participants choose and if they are members of the federation.

The 13.5-mile off-road cycling event begins at noon, and all levels of riders are invited to join.

There will also be a 5K run at 2:30 p.m. and a one-mile fun run at 3:30 p.m.

Prizes will be given to top male and female finishers in the ride, 5K run and the top individual fundraiser for the event.

There will also be a barn party, beginning at 3 p.m., that includes a clambake, live music, hayrides, yard games and bird watching tours. The Ride for North River & Barn Party replaces the federation's previous Cycle for the Coast fundraiser.

Sarah King, development director for the federation, said they're "so excited to transition our annual Cycle for the Coast fundraiser into this off-road format and to be able to offer a full day of events at the North River Farms Preserve."

"It's such a beautiful site, and a barn party is the perfect way to get out and enjoy it," Ms. King said.

This event falls during National Estuaries Week, a nationwide campaign to raise awareness how estuary conservation efforts support our quality of life and economic well-being.

The North River Farms Preserve features restored wetlands that provide important coastal habitat. They also filter runoff from nearby agricultural areas, protecting and improving water quality in downstream waters like the North River and Back Sound.

Anyone interested in attending may visit the event website, nccoast.org/ride, for more details about the event, or call Ms. Snead at 252-675-1800 with questions.

Golden Oldies fundraiser to celebrate 1950s

The Carteret Friends of Aging will celebrate the 50s during a special fundraiser, Golden Oldies.

The fundraiser is from 6-10 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 24, at the Crystal Coast Civic Center in Morehead City.

During the fundraiser, participants will dance to the music of The Pamlico Sound Machine Band or sing along with deejay Morris Willis.

Memories of El's Drive-In, which opened in 1959 and A&W Drive-In, which opened in 1950s, will be shared, and folks can enjoy wine and beer.

The mission of The Friends of Aging is to bring resources to the "at risk" and homebound seniors that will provide a better life journey.

The nonprofit organization has transported seniors to the Beaufort Lions Club Vision Van and had a successful first Dental Day with services provided by local dentists.

In June, the organization provided more than 100 Buddy Lights to at-risk seniors throughout the county in case of power outages.

Tickets are $20 per person, or a table for 8 can be purchased for $150. Tickets are available at the senior center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday-Friday, or by calling 252-241-2201 or 252-728-3988.

Dr. Elliot Engel will give a presentation, "Scarlett Fever: Greatness of 'Gone with the Wind,'" at 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Coral Bay Club in Atlantic Beach. His presentation opens for a series of events hosted by the Carteret Arts Forum. (Contributed photo)

Carteret Arts Forum to host educating programs

Carteret Arts Forum's mission statement is to bring enriching cultural experiences to the county and surrounding areas. The mission is accomplished as the forum hosts various presentations, authors, concerts and more throughout the year.

At 5 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25, Dr. Elliot Engel will entertain with his presentation, "Scarlett Fever: Greatness of 'Gone with the Wind.'"

The presentation will be held at the Coral Bay Club in Atlantic Beach. Doors will open at 4 p.m.

There will be a cash bar. Tickets are $25 each.

On Tuesday, Oct. 18, Robert Timberg will discuss his book, Blue Eyed Boy, which is a memoir of his recovery from grievous wounds sustained in Vietnam and his re-entry into the world as a top journalist covering the White House.

The presentation is at 5:30 p.m. at the Coral Bay Club. Tickets are $25.

The next event is at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 11, at Carteret Community Theatre with a performance by Conrad Miller, a gospel singer.

Mr. Miller performs traditional gospel music. His newest album is "Thankful," which branches out offering praise and worship and urban inspirational songs.

Dr. Al Norwood and the Crystal Coast Choir will open the program with songs of inspiration. Tickets are $35.

At 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 29, 2017, at the History Museum of Carteret County, the highly accomplished violin and piano Lopez-Tabor Duo will perform.

This pair opened the Carteret Arts Forum's season in 2014. They are returning to celebrate Carteret Arts Forum's 18th season with their venerated traditions of Bach and Beethoven, to a Frenchman's piece in the Spanish style, to sparkling, rhythmic Spanish and Latin American compositions.

Tickets for all of the performances can be purchased at the door, by calling Peggy Brown at 252-354-5537, or online at www.carteretartsforum.com.

Teachers get in free at Tryon

Teachers will be admitted to Tryon Palace for free during the palace's Teacher Appreciation Day, which is Saturday, Sept. 24. (Contributed photo)

Teachers will receive free admission to Tryon Palace on Teacher Appreciation Day, Saturday, Sept. 24.

All teachers who present a school ID will receive a complimentary one day pass that includes access to the Governor's Palace, N.C. History Center, 16 acres of gardens and four historic homes situated around the palace.

Accompanying family members will receive discounted admission.

Visitors will experience costumed interpreters, living history demonstrations, the gardens, crafts and more.

Teacher Appreciation Day is sponsored by Carolina Field Trips Magazine.

For more information, call 252-639-3500 or visit www.tryonpalace.org.

Carolina East Singers to sponsor barbecue fundraiser

The Carolina East Singers will be sponsoring their first fundraiser by providing barbecue lunch plates on Saturday, Sept. 24.

All of the lunches are to go and may be picked up between 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. from Westminster Hall, on the east end of First Presbyterian Church in Morehead City.

Each lunch plate will include barbecue, coleslaw, baked beans and homemade cookies for $10 apiece.

An advance ticket for this fundraiser is required. Tickets may be purchased at the following locations: First Citizens Bank on Front Street in Beaufort; The Pool & Patio Store at Atlantic Station Shopping Center in Atlantic Beach; Williams Hardware in Morehead City; and Dunson Pool & Spa in Beaufort. All of the proceeds will benefit Carolina East Singers.

Formed in 2013, Carolina East Singers is an auditioned community choir that performs four concerts each year – two in the spring and two at Christmas – under the musical direction of Sunnie Gail Ballou and the choral direction of Susan Gillis Bailey.

"We are very excited about Carolina East Singers this season, Ms. Bailey said. "We have a great group of singers and the balance between the ladies and the men is fantastic. I look forward to teaching and directing this terrific group of musicians these next three months."

Producing the choral concerts is not an inexpensive endeavor. When professional orchestral musicians are added to a production, not only do they have to be paid for their time with the group, but there are royalty costs involved to purchase some of the musical scores that are to be performed.

"Most people who attend our concerts, particularly those held at Christmas, probably are unaware that it can cost a few thousand dollars to add the cultural experience of orchestral accompaniment," Ms. Bailey said.

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Contestants line up on Tryon Palace's South Lawn for a previous cornhole tournament. This year's tournament is at 11 a.m. Friday, Sept. 23, in the same location. (Contributed photo)

Cornhole tournament returns to Tryon Palace

Amateur cornhole players will compete for cash prizes while benefiting Tryon Palace

during the Governor's Challenge Cornhole Tournament on the Tryon Palace South Lawn Friday, Sept. 23, presented by the Home Builders Association of Craven and Pamlico Counties.

Team registration is $150 per two-person team, plus a $5 online processing fee, which includes lunch, snacks and beverages.

The tournament will also feature a second-chance bracket for teams that do not qualify for the knockout stage of the tournament.

Proceeds from this event will support Tryon Palace.

Guests of those competing in the tournament will enjoy free admission to Tryon Palace Gardens and can purchase food and beverages at the hospitality tent.

No personal coolers are allowed. All cornhole boards and bags will be provided for the tournament. The first toss takes place at 11 a.m.

East Singers came up with the barbeque lunch idea.

"A barbeque fundraiser is fairly easy to organize at minimum expense, which will result in a good profit for Carolina East Singers," Ms. McNeill said. "We can promise a great meal at a good price which, in turn, helps to fund a spectacular musical event that the community will certainly enjoy. It's a win-win for everyone."

Bret McNeill and Stuart May, who are frequent chefs for First Presbyterian Church, will be preparing the pork barbeque.

Members of the choir will provide the side dishes and will also serve the lunches.

The purpose of Carolina East Singers is to provide superior choral musicianship to the community. It is the desire of the group to keep performance ticket prices low so that everyone will be able to experience the concerts.

The creation of holding occasional fundraisers, coupled with continuing to seek both individual and corporate annual sponsorships, should allow the group to maintain a $10 concert ticket cost.

This year's Christmas concert dates will be Saturday-Sunday, Dec. 3-4. More details about the performances will be announced in November.

Family pirate day coming to county library

Western Carteret Public Library will host "Family Pirate Day" for aspiring pirates from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 24.

Pirates large and small will be able to join the fun. This will be the fourth year for this popular event that is co-sponsored by the library, the Friends of Western Carteret Public Library and the N.C. Maritime Museum.

Activities are free and appropriate to all ages. They include games, pirate stories, pirate tattoos, a scavenger hunt, getting a photo taken with a real pirate and maybe finding treasure at the library.

"Each year, more and more people come by to have some end-of-summer fun, with more than 120 coming out last year," said event organizer and Friends program chairman, Karen Naftzger. "We really enjoy having our local school children and their parents realize that even though summer is over, there is still some fun to be had at the local library."

She emphasized that no registration is necessary, and enthusiastic volunteers are on hand to help everyone enjoy the activities.

The Friends of Western Carteret Public Library will also use this opportunity to engage participants in their annual "Find Your Treasure at the Library" bookmark design contest.

Entry forms will be available, and can also be found on the library website and at the front desk.

Four winning entries are chosen each year in different age groups. Winning bookmarks are printed and made available at the library for all library patrons. Winners will receive 10 copies of their bookmark and a gift certificate. The deadline for entry is Saturday, Oct. 1.

Christine Brin, N.C. Maritime Museum Education Director, will be hand to enjoy the fun and answer questions about pirates.

"Treasure is much more than just gold and jewels. It wasn't uncommon for pirates to find items like food, clothing and even sometimes books," she explained. "This means that the library is literally a pirate's treasure. Come explore this pirate's treasure while getting your own pirate tattoo, hat and maybe a cut of some pirate booty."
