Ethan Peck in "Star Trek: Strange New Worlds"

A sequel series in one of sci-fi's most iconic franchises is ready to go, boldly, back to the roots of the saga.

"Star Trek: Strange New Worlds" begins its 10-episode second season Thursday, June 15, on Paramount+, as it continues the exploits of the starship Enterprise when it was under the command of Capt. Christopher Pike (Anson Mount, "Doctor Strange in the Multiverse of Madness," 2022), the predecessor of the vessel's legendary later skipper, James T. Kirk (played by "The Vampire Diaries" Paul Wesley, who reprises the recurring role in Season 2). Spun off from another prequel show, "Star Trek: Discovery," "Strange New Worlds" has even more in store for fans: A third season already has been ordered, ahead of the premiere of Season 2.

"We have tried to harken back to some of the values and styles of the original series that got those of us who are a little older ignited on our 'Star Trek' journeys," explains executive producer Akiva Goldsman. "In doing so, we've tried to look back and interpolate some parts of the original series that might not have made it to the screen, some things that might have happened just before Jim Kirk took over the Enterprise. And, as such, some familiar faces are finding new life."

Mount brought his Pike portrayal over from "Star Trek: Discovery," which also featured Ethan Peck ("In Time," 2011) as Spock and Rebecca Romijn ("X-Men," 2000) as Number One before the journey to "Strange New Worlds." Nurse Chapel (played by Jess Bush, "Playing For Keeps") and Ensign Uhura (Celia Rose Gooding, "Broadway Whodunit: Escape From Camp Eerie," 2020) are among other long-familiar characters who make their "Strange New Worlds" presence known. The second season of "Strange New Worlds" also includes Carol Kane ("Hunters") in a recurring role.

"There was something about 'Star Trek' that was so far off the radar for me," reflects "Hell on Wheels" alum Mount, who also is the character Black Bolt in the Marvel Cinematic Universe. "It wasn't even on my bucket list. I just never thought I would end up captaining the Enterprise. It's insane when you think about it. And every single day I'm on the set — I'm not exaggerating — is both disbelief and a feeling of tremendous gratitude."

A particularly intriguing crossover story is part of Season 2 of "Star Trek: Strange New Worlds," which will merge temporarily with "Star Trek: Lower Decks" ... an animated show. Franchise veteran Jonathan Frakes ("Star Trek: The Next Generation") directed that story, which features the voices of Tawny Newsome ("Space Force") and Jack Quaid ("The Boys") in their "Lower Decks" parts — and challenges traditional "Star Trek" boundaries by combining live action and animation.

The adventure continues when Season 2 of "Star Trek: Strange New Worlds" premieres on Paramount+ Thursday, June 15.

Boldly going: 'Star Trek' prequel explores 'Strange New Worlds' again

movie review

TCM serves an Oscar-winning 'Dinner'

BY JAY BOBBIN

The film "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" was part of a banner movie year that Sidney Poitier had, but its latest television showing is more in tribute to one of his fellow stars.

Katharine Hepburn earned her second of four Oscars for best actress for director Stanley Kramer's 1967 comedy-drama about then-contemporary race relations, being shown Thursday, June 15, by Turner Classic Movies as part of its "Star of the Month" tribute to Hepburn. The film marked her last teaming with Spencer Tracy, who was hugely significant to her both on and off the screen.

They play a supposedly liberal couple whose open-mindedness gets put to the test unexpectedly. Their daughter (Katharine Houghton, Hepburn's real-life niece) makes a surprise trip home with some big news: She intends to marry a brilliant doctor (Poitier) she met while vacationing, and since they intend to tie the knot soon, that doesn't give the parents much time to ingest the situation and weigh in with their true feelings about it.

That doesn't go only for her parents, but his as well. Played beautifully by Beah Richards and Roy E. Glenn Sr., they're traditionalists who love their son, but definitely have reservations about the union he plans to enter into. And that also pertains very strongly to Tracy's character where his daughter is concerned, though his wife tries to maintain a moderate view, not wanting to exacerbate her offspring's rebellious streak.

Other valued cast members in "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" — which has an Academy Award-winning script by William Rose — include Isabel Sanford as Tracy and Hepburn's opinionated housekeeper, and Cecil Kellaway as a clergyman who's a longtime friend of the couple. For most moviegoers, though, it was the Hepburn-Tracy-Poitier triumvirate that held the most interest upon entering the theater.

Especially with all that has transpired in society over the past 50-plus years, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" might seem rather quaint now. Nevertheless, it's a valid recollection of where we were then — and a fabulous look at three of the brightest stars in Hollywood history in one another's high-caliber company.

Although Phinny might be the smallest pup on the crew, he proves that you don't need big paws to have big ideas. Together, the Pupstruction crew uses mud, sweat, drool and plenty of heart to build and create.

“Movie: Medellín”

In order to save his younger brother from a dangerous cartel in Medellín, Reda (Ramzy Bedia) has a plan that is as simple as it is completely insane: assemble a team and plan a raid in Colombia. This crazy adventure soon spirals out of control when he decides to kidnap the cartel leader’s son in order to exchange him for his brother’s life.

“Movie: Chitty Chitty Bang Bang”

Loosely based on the children’s novel “Chitty-Chitty-Bang-Bang: The Magical Car,” by Ian Fleming, this 1968 family film follows a down-on-his-luck inventor (Dick Van Dyke) who turns a broken-down Grand Prix car into a fancy vehicle for his children. They go off on a magical fantasy adventure to save their grandfather in a far-off land. Sally Ann Howes and Lionel Jeffries also star.

“Movie: Shaun of the Dead”

Thirty-something electronic salesman Shaun (Simon Pegg) is living a dull, easy existence with his layabout roommate, Ed (Nick Frost). But, when the town is inexplicably and suddenly overrun by zombies, Shaun and Ed must rise to the occasion to save themselves and the ones they love.

“The Grand Tour: Eurocrash - Season 5B”

Former “Top Gear” hosts James May, Jeremy Clarkson and Richard Hammond return with this newest installment. James, Richard and Jeremy seem to have a problem: every country they want to visit is either a trouble hot spot or has banned them from entering. So instead, they head to central Europe on a road trip nobody has ever thought of, in cars nobody would ever dream of using.
