Do you know why you should start saving for retirement as soon as possible?

Saving for retirement ensures people can navigate their golden years with enough money to comfortably say goodbye to working full-time.

The earlier one begins to set aside savings for retirement, the more money accumulates.

Mass Mutual says a saver at age 22 with a goal to retire at age 65 can achieve total savings of $2,255,844 before taxes and inflation when putting away $500 a month for retirement. Waiting until age 32 to start saving the same amount monthly drops the total savings down to $972,542, while waiting until age 42 shaves it down to $395,866. When a person starts saving at age 22, the rate of savings increases because of compounding interest over time. The earlier a person starts, the easier it is to end up with a nest egg that can ensure a comfortable retirement. While it may be challenging to think about retirement when just starting out in a career, keeping an eye on the future with smart saving strategies can set people up for financial security later in life.
