

Cedar Valley Bank & Trust Announces Eric Coulter's Graduation from GSBC and Promotion to Executive Vice President

La Porte City, Iowa — Cedar Valley Bank & Trust is proud to announce that Eric Coulter has graduated from the Graduate School of Banking at Colorado (GSBC) during its 74th annual session. The GSBC program is a rigorous 25-month leadership journey focused on strategy, innovation, financial management, and real-world application through intersession projects and a comprehensive bank management simulation.

In recognition of his commitment to professional growth and leadership excellence, Eric Coulter has been promoted to Executive Vice President at Cedar Valley Bank & Trust. In this role, Eric will oversee the day-to-day operations of the bank, including deposit operations, compliance, information and physical security, human resources, facilities, and customer service. His responsibilities span managing account opening and closing, ensuring regulatory compliance, coordinating audits, supervising IT and security, and supporting staff development and training. This role underscores Eric's dedication to advancing the legacy of family ownership that defines Cedar Valley Bank & Trust.
