Register-Star WEEKEND

Copyright 2020, Columbia-Greene Media Volume 236, No. 182

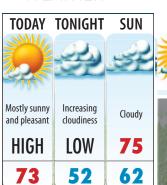

All Rights Reserved

The nation's second-oldest newspaper • Serving Columbia and Dutchess counties since 1785

Saturday - Sunday, September 12-13, 2020

Price $2.50

■ WEATHER

er, A2 Complet

Contributed photo

A still photo taken from a video of an apparent shark taken by local fisherman James Gabriel on Friday morning and was posted to the Hudson Police Department Facebook page.

Possible shark caught on video

By Bill Williams

Columbia-Greene Media

HUDSON — City police have had to deal with their share of wildlife over the years, including several bears this spring, a moose last year, occasional covotes, and bald eagles.

But a reported shark that

River on Friday morning has a lot of people shaking their heads.

A one-minute long video of the shark was taken by local fisherman James Gabriel, Hudson Police Chief L. Edward Moore said.

Gabriel shared the video was spotted in the Hudson with Hudson police in hopes of getting word out that a shark may be in the area, and people who use the Hudson River should be alert to that, Moore said.

> Although conditions are a bit cold for swimming, many

> > See SHARK A2

SPORTS

Additional days of hunting

DEC proposes 'holiday' deer hunt

PAGE B1

LOCAL

Here comes NY's top judge

Stuyvesant's O'Hare named Magistrate of Year

PAGE A3

■ INDEX

Region Opinion A4 A5 State/Nation Obituaries A5 Sports В1 Classified B4-5 Comics/Advice

> On the web www.HudsonValley360.com

Twitter

@HudsonRegisterstar

Kate Lisa/Johnson Newspaper Corp.

Hundreds of empty chairs lined West Capitol Park in Albany on Thursday afternoon representing the hundreds of school staff and faculty positions cut in poorer districts statewide as New York faces a $14 billion revenue gap due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

By Kate Lisa

Johnson Newspaper Corp.

ALBANY — The state's anticipated, broad 20% cuts to education are disgraceful, educators, union representatives, parents and students said outside the Capitol on Thursday, demanding officials stop school funding slashes that devastate the poorest districts.

State education leaders gathered for an event in West Capitol Park on Thursday afternoon to rally lawmakers after many school positions were eliminated in districts statewide as students began or prepare to resume in-person learning after Monday's Labor Day holiday.

"In the face of a global pandemic, our students need us now more than ever," Albany Public School Teachers Association President

See CUTS A2

Kate Lisa/Johnson Newspaper Corp.

Albany City School District parent Ginny Farrell speaks outside the state Capitol on Thursday about devastating position and programming cuts in the Capital Region school district she said will impact the education of children for a generation.

Kate Lisa/Johnson Newspaper Corp.

Assemblyman John McDonald III, D-108, suggested legalizing mobile sports betting and recreational marijuana outside the state Capitol on Thursday to raise revenue and avoid deep cuts to the state's education spending amid the coronavirus

Copake solar law goes under microscope

By Natasha Vaughn Columbia-Greene Media

COPAKE — Officials will continue to take public comment on changes to the town code regarding the proposed Shepherd's Run 500-acre solar farm.

Comments will be accepted through next Thursday, town officials said.

Hecate Energy identified a 900-acre area for the project that extends south of state Route 23 and county Route 7. The company's proposal calls for the installation of 200,000 solar panels that would take up 500 acres and would generate 60 megawatts of electrical

The ongoing discussions about the proposed solar project continued Thursday night with a public hearing

"We will accept written comments until next Thursday at noontime. Go to the website, review the law and take a look at the summary of the law and if you have a comment you would like to suggest you can send us an email."

- COPAKE TOWN SUPERVISOR JEANNE METTLER

law governing construction and siting solar power generating facilities.

"We will accept written comments until next Thursday at noontime," Copake Town Supervisor Jeanne Mettler said. "Go to the website, review the law and take a look at the summary of the law and if you have a comment you to discuss proposed revisions to the would like to suggest you can send us an email."

> The proposed revisions include dividing solar facilities into four distinct classifications based on their size; for example, bigger projects such as Shepherd's Run would be considered a tier-4 solar facility.

The revised town code would also require all solar facilities, regardless of their size, to be evaluated for the impact they would have on local resourc-

In Copake's case, this includes Rheinstrom Hill Audubon Center and Sanctuary, Taghkanic State Park and Copake Lake, as well as an abundance of prime farmland available in the town.

"The idea is to really ensure that whoever is reviewing the project, whether it's the town or the state, is taking a hard look on the impact of the things that matter the most to this town," said Benjamin Wisniewski, a partner in the Loughlin Group law firm.

See SOLAR A2

Enter for your chance to win an office pizza party from Scali's Pizza & Pasta for you and your coworkers. Every Tuesday Bill Williams will be delivering pizza to one lucky business in Columbia/Greene County.

Enter online at www.hudsonvalley360.com/pizzaparty

