Fall's biggest party

The Emmys celebrate television's best

By Francis Babin
TV Media

Fall is nearly here, and that means it's time for cozy sweaters, pumpkin spice everything and the new prime-time television season. After a summer of repeats, it's finally time for our returning favorites and a new crop of aspiring series.

With both new and old shows vying for our attention, we set aside an evening to look back at the past year and celebrate television's outstanding achievements. See the stars, relive the best moments and have a good time with the 70th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards, airing Monday, Sept. 17, on NBC.

This marks the first time in four years that the peacock network will broadcast the event, and it looks to showcase its bright, young talent with "Saturday Night Live" Weekend Update anchors Michael Che and Colin Hanks as MCs for the ceremony. Following Stephen Colbert's ("The Late Show with Stephen Colbert") tremendous performance from last year will be no easy feat, but despite the pressure, the pair is ready to tear down the Microsoft Theater in downtown Los Angeles.

In an interview with Vanity Fair, Che and Hanks discussed how the Emmys will be a nice change of pace from the constant political topics they cover. "The exciting part is to do things about television and that particular awards ceremony and make it, in general, less political than normal," Hanks said. "There's a lot to celebrate in television right now. It's a very strong time."

Hanks is spot on — we're currently in a new golden age of television. When the nominations were announced by Ryan Eggold ("The Blacklist") and Samira Wiley ("Orange Is the New Black") back in July, this was made very clear. The usual complaints followed the announcements, but they quickly dissipated. Instead of focusing on the snubs, people turned their attention to the many surprises and first-time nominations. For instance, this year marks the first time in its nine-year run that the ABC hit "Modern Family" wasn't nominated for Outstanding Comedy Series — a nod the single-camera comedy has consistently secured since 2009.

History was made when Sandra Oh became the first Asian actress nominated for Best Actress in a Drama for her excellent performance in "Killing Eve," while Jessica Biel ("The Sinner"), Matt Smith ("The Crown") and Nikolaj Coster-Waldau ("Game of Thrones") all received nominations for the first time.

"Game of Thrones" leads the pack with an impressive 22 nominations, followed closely by its HBO counterpart "Westworld" with 21. The legendary "Saturday Night Live" also raked in 21 nods. Not far behind is Hulu heavyweight "The Handmaid's Tale" and FX's "The Assassination of Gianni Versace: American Crime Story" with 20 and 18 nominations, respectively, with the latter looking to take home the Outstanding Limited Series award.

Without the perennial "Modern Family" and last year's winner, "Veep," in the running, the Outstanding Comedy Series award is up for grabs. With the exception of FX's "Atlanta" and ABC's "Black-ish," broadcast networks and basic cable were virtually shut out in favor of premium and streaming series. Newcomer "Barry" is up against HBO stablemates "Silicon Valley" and "Curb Your Enthusiasm," while Amazon's "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel" and Netflix's "GLOW" and "Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt" round out the nominees.

It's not all bad news for broadcast, however, with NBC garnering a respectable 78 nominations. Streaming services are well represented at this year's ceremony, with Netflix reaping the most noms of any streamer with a whopping 112. Hulu, with 27, and Amazon, with 22, though far behind, nevertheless saw an increase from last year and have nominations in the most important categories.

On the drama side, FX's "The Americans" received some love from the academy for its sixth and final season. The '80s-set Cold War series faces off against a couple of Netflix period pieces in "The Crown" and "Stranger Things." The trio, along with fellow nominees "Game of Thrones," "This Is Us" and "Westworld," will try to prevent "The Handmaid's Tale" from repeating as Outstanding Drama Series.

Who will emerge victorious as Outstanding Lead Actress in a Drama Series is anyone's guess.

The heated race is once again up in the air between Claire Foy ("The Crown"), Tatiana Maslany ("Orphan Black"), Sandra Oh ("Killing Eve"), Keri Russell ("The Americans"), Evan Rachel Wood ("Westworld") and last year's winner, Elisabeth Moss ("The Handmaid's Tale").

Will Sterling K. Brown win back-to-back gold statues for NBC powerhouse "This Is Us"? Will Allison Janney ("Mom") make 2018 a year to remember by adding an Emmy Award for Outstanding Lead Actress in a Comedy Series next to her Academy Award for her memorable performance in "I, Tonya" (2017)?

Andrew Zimmern rewards mobile eateries in new series

Andrew Zimmern hosts "Big Food Truck Tip"

By Andrew Warren
TV Media

Love it or hate it, we live in a culture of tipping. In restaurants especially, leaving some extra moolah at the end of a meal is the norm, and even less-traditional eateries usually have a tip jar or the like.

"Bizarre Foods" host Andrew Zimmern's new show takes tipping to the next level for restaurants, where every penny earned can help make ends meet: food trucks. "Big Food Truck Tip" premieres with back-to-back episodes on Wednesday, Sept. 19, on Food Network, with Zimmern swinging by two far-flung cities where he checks out some of their hottest mobile eateries — and leaves some whopping tips for his favorites.

dishes and getting a feel for what makes them tick.

Running a food truck is no walk in the park, and in each city, Zimmern chooses one of the three businesses he visits to receive a supersized tip — one worth a whopping $10,000. That's enough to transform any small business, and the host is clearly overjoyed that he gets to be the bearer of such an incredible windfall.

"Our modern-day food world is blessed to have the extreme ambition, fun attitude, and glorious culinary output of today's truckers," he said in a statement. "Micro businesses on wheels, serving up love by the sandwichful, makes looking at this community and telling these stories a real privilege."

The premiere sees the host visiting Birmingham, Alabama, where he encounters a food truck serving up classic Southern comfort foods to everyone — even the needy who don't have the means to pay. In the night's second episode, Zimmern heads to Memphis, Tennessee, where the foodie scene has blown up in recent years. There, he hits up a food truck rally for a fill-up before finding a place serving tacos with a Tennessee twist.

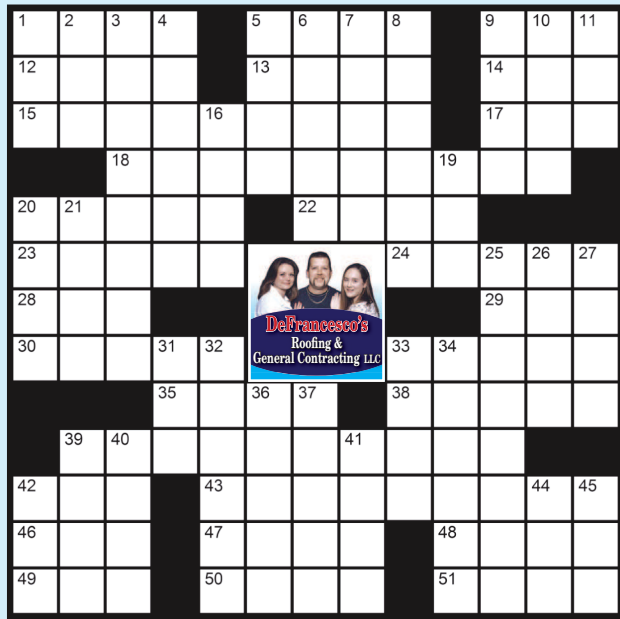

That's three food trucks visited in each city, but only one gets an incredible $10,000 tip.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Will "The Crossing" be returning to ABC? Or will it be picked up by another network? It was one of the best, most innovative shows in years.

A: Unfortunately, "best" and "innovative" don't necessarily translate into successful. And in this case, they don't translate into a second season — "The Crossing" has been canceled.

The sci-fi drama started out looking like a political show about refugees coming to America until we learn that the refugees are in fact from America 180 years in the future.

The cancellation came as a bit of a surprise because the early reviews were quite positive. The majority of critics recommended it, according to the review aggregating site Rotten Tomatoes.

Toronto Star reviewer Johanna Schneller called it "deliciously promising," and the San Francisco Chronicle's David Wiegand said, "'The Crossing' has a European feel and a more deliberate pace to match ... fingers crossed on this one."

And those are just the professional critics. A budding sci-fi expert by the name of Stephen King praised the show on Twitter. "Hard to trust network TV drama over the long haul these days, but this is worth a look. The first five minutes are jaw-dropping — strange and beautiful."

Note, however, that these people were all just reviewing the pilot. Things seemed to get worse from there, according to the ratings at least.

Its premiere drew 5.4 million viewers, which is middling for a network show, but the numbers pretty well plummeted from there. By the sixth episode, it was drawing just 3.7 million, at which point ABC decided to cancel it. The ratings bleed continued from there so that the series finale airing five weeks later drew just 2.1 million.

That steady drop — a loss of nearly two-thirds of its audience from beginning to end — means it was unlikely to draw attention from any other networks (or streaming sites) for a last-minute rescue.

Banks are starting to offer services through virtual assistants like Amazon Echo, which backfires when you ask Alexa for your account balance and she just starts laughing.

I heard about a man here in New York who dresses up like a sorcerer, goes up to people on the subway and grants them wishes. And this is interesting, it turns out people's No. 1 wish is for him to leave them alone.

I heard about a restaurant in New York that's now serving hummus smoothies. They're actually zero calories because you suck so hard on the straw you pass out.

The Late Late Show With James Corden (repeat)

Canada has just announced that they will become the second country in the world to legalize marijuana. So, while it's been wonderful to be back here in London, I can officially announce next year we will be taking the show to Toronto.

As the World Cup continues, a report just came out that football fans in Russia have been drinking so much that bars and restaurants are completely running out of beer. See, this is what happens when England wins one game.
