A sailing stronghold builds on past

Sailboat races are a common sight off Marblehead. Here, sailboats make way past Marblehead Light during the 2021 Helly Hansen NOOD Regatta Marblehead. The Corinthian Yacht Club, 1 Nahant St., hosts the Helly Hansen Sailing World Regatta Series – Marblehead on July 27 to 30.

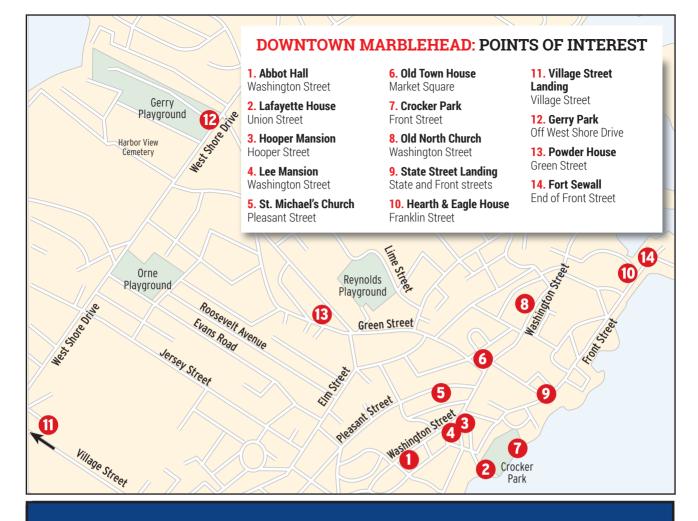

Marblehead's role as a seaport has ebbed and flowed throughout its nearly 400-year history.

The town was famous for its vast fishing fleet through the mid-19th century. Its harbor was a refuge for the USS Constitution against a British vessel in pursuit during the War of 1812. And today, it remains one of the top yachting spots in the world.

Dating to 1889, the annual midsummer Marblehead Race Week competition draws yachtsmen from across the globe to the town's glimmering harbor for the last full week of July. More than 200 boats sail to Marblehead for the event's Junior Race Week and Helly Hansen Sailing World Regatta Series. Information on Race Week and competition schedules can be found at www. mheadrace.org.

It's tradition for sailing crafts to race across Marblehead's share of rugged Atlantic, where international races between Marblehead and Germany's Kiel, Spain's San Sebastian, and Bermuda have started and ended over the years. A yearly competition between Halifax, Nova Scotia, and the town that began in 1905 continues today.

Marblehead Light has watched many of these vessels sail by from its spot at Chandler Hovey Park off Ocean Avenue. Built in 1895

Marblehead Festival of Arts: Champagne, kites and model boats

The Marblehead Arts Festival will liven up the seaside with creative activities for visitors of all ages during its run from July 1 to the Fourth this year.

The festival will open with its annual Champagne Reception fundraiser at Fort Sewall on Sunday, June 25. Running 5 p.m. to 7, the evening kicks off the summer with wine tastings and live music along the waterfront.

Kids' imaginations can take flight during the Kite Festival hosted at Devereux Beach from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sunday, July 2, with build-your-own kite kits available. Kids and adults can also take part in the festival's Sand Sculpture Competition at the beach from 1 to 3:30 p.m. that day.

Families can stop by the

An Artisan Market will take place Sunday, July 2, and Monday, July 3, and a Street Festival will be held from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, July 4.

Art will be on display throughout the festival at Abbot Hall, Old Town House, Grace Community Church, Old North Church, St. Michael's Church and Unitarian Universalist Church.

Artists will capture Marblehead with the strokes of their paint brushes during the yearly Painting-the-Town tradition, and a Festival of Cod fundraising auction and concert series at Crocker Park will also be held during the festival.

to replace an 1830s-era brick and wood lighthouse, the metal-ensconced structure is one of a kind even along New England's lighthouse-spotted coast.

Also on Ocean Avenue is Devereux Beach. While its warm sand offers a reprieve from summer heat along the waterfront, the coastal view from Fort Sewall near the town's historic district serves as a solemn reminder of the ocean's power.

Families of fishermen watched from the fort for any signs of their men coming home in September 1846 as hurricane-force gales tore through the town's cod fleet by surprise. In all, the storm would send 11 vessels and 65 of Marblehead's men and boys down to the ocean's floor.

The fort contains bunkers and underground rooms that once held prisoners. Its guns protected the USS Constitution from the British in 1814 as war once again ravaged the young nation. Forty years earlier, Marblehead's militia fought against the British and even crossed the Delaware River with Gen. George Washington during the Revolutionary War.

Visitors can get a further taste of Devereaux Beach is a popular spot on summer mornings.

Marblehead's history by walking past the 200 Colonial-era homes and buildings along the town's winding streets or visiting the Jeremiah Lee Mansion on Washington Street. The Colonial Georgian home was built in 1768 by the wealthiest merchant and shipowner in Massachusetts at the time, and remains in its nearly original state.

Abbot Hall on Washington Street serves as Marblehead's town hall and historical museum. It contains a "Spirit of '76" painting by Archibald MacNeal Willard, the 1684 deed to Marblehead from the Nanapeshemet tribe of Native Americans and other artifacts. Some nearby shops sell the Joe Frogger, the town's famous molasses cookie that dates to Colonial times. Created by Old Black Joe Brown and Aunt Crese, who maintained a tavern on Gingerbread Hill, the long-lasting cookies were a staple in the galleys of local fishermens' ships for centuries.

The Massachusetts Audubon's Marblehead Neck Wildlife Sanctuary is also worth a visit. It's a haven for warblers and other migratory birds each spring and fall, which can be spotted along trails that start at the end of Risley Road and are open seven days a week from dawn to dusk.

Wharves, warships and witches ... and plenty of shopping and dining

With 400 years of history and a community of artists and museums striving to tell or recreate those stories, Salem has something for everyone visiting the North Shore this summer.

A great place to start a summer visit is Pickering Wharf, a popular harborside attraction designed to embody the authentic feel of a New England village. Positioned off Bridge Street, the wharf has much to do sprinkled in between history and landmarks. Visitors can browse through more than 20 shops and boutiques, and even do some antiquing.

Options for waterfront dining abound, with many top-rated restaurants to choose from. Or grab a coffee and ice cream, and watch the boats pass by.

The marketplace area also is home to the Salem Waterfront Hotel and Pickering Wharf Marina, where visitors can experience a taste of Salem Sound's pirating and privateering past aboard the schooner Fame. The replica of the War of 1812 privateer offers sails throughout the summer; book at www.schoonerfame.com.

At neighboring Derby Wharf, restoration of Salem's iconic tall ship, Friendship, resumes at the sprawling Salem Maritime National Historic Site. The replica late-18th-century East Indiaman merchant ship was built by the National Park Service in the late 1990s using modern materials and construction methods, while retaining the appearance of the original ship, and renovated in Gloucester from 2016 to 2019.

The actual three-masted, square-rigged, 342-ton vessel was crafted in the South River shipyard of Enos Briggs for the Salem mercantile firm Waite and Peirce.

Launched in 1797, Friendship made 15 voyages during its career — to Batavia, India, China, South America, the Caribbean, England, Germany, the Mediterranean and Russia. It ended its activities as an American merchant vessel when it was captured as a prize of war by the British sloop of war HMS Rosamond in September 1812.

The replica ship has been among the most popular attractions at the Salem Maritime National Historic Site on Derby Street since its debut.

Meanwhile, more seaside fun can be found at nearby Salem Willows, named for the white willow trees planted there in 1801 to create shaded walkways for patients convalescing at a local smallpox hospital. The 35-acre park, which opened in 1858, offers beaches, athletic courts, walking trails, arcades, a historic carousel, food stands and more.

The North Shore Concert Band will perform its annual summer series of free outdoor concerts at the park's Robert Hayes Bandshell. A full schedule is expected toward the end of spring and can be found at northshoreconcertband.com.

And, of course, Salem is equally known for its place in the 1692 Witch Trials as for its role in maritime history. The city is home to a number of witch museums and landmarks, including the Salem Witch Museum off Salem Common and the Witch Trials Memorial alongside the Charter Street Cemetery, one of the earliest resting places in the country. Descendants of the Trials are also invited to the Proctor's Ledge Memorial off Pope Street for peaceful contemplation off the beaten path. Proctor's Ledge is the historically supported execution site of those accused of witchcraft.

Or check out the renowned Peabody Essex Museum, home to works of art and culture from around the world, and The House of the Seven Gables, made famous by American author Nathaniel Hawthorne's novel. The circa-1668 Colonial is considered to be the oldest surviving 17th-century wooden mansion in New England.

'Crown jewel' Lynch Park offers views, summer fun

Summer fun at Independence Park , 41 Lothrop St. in Beverly.

Beverly is known as "The Garden City," and a stroll through Lynch Park or Long Hill will tell you why.

Situated on a point with panoramic sea views, David S. Lynch Memorial Park is often called the "crown jewel" of Beverly.

Owned and maintained by the city, it is the former site of the vast summer home of Robert and Marie Antoinette Evans, who transformed it into one of the North Shore's finest estates.

An elaborate Italianate garden, adorned with rare plants and shrubs imported from around the world, now stands where the property's Stetson Cottage — which was cut in half then floated to and reassembled on Peaches Point in Marblehead — once stood.

In the summers of 1909 and 1910, President William Howard Taft leased Stetson Cottage as his seasonal White House, hosting leaders and dignitaries from around the world. Taft is said to have signed the "Treaty of Beverly" here, which laid the foundation for future U.S. tariff policies.

The 16-acre park, part of the Essex National Heritage Area, also boasts a Carriage House,

Beverly Homecoming celebrates 'community spirit'

The 2023 Beverly Homecoming will be held over six days in August at Lynch Park and other sites in Beverly.

Now in its 58th year, the community celebration will take place from Tuesday, Aug. 1, to Sunday, Aug. 6.

Beverly Homecoming started in 1966 and has continued every year since, with the exception of 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. It is put on by the Beverly Homecoming Committee, a volunteerrun nonprofit organization that relies on donations and sponsorships. The event is not funded by the city of Beverly.

The committee describes Homecoming as a "summer celebration of the community spirit of Beverly." Its schedule includes dozens of events, highlighted by its two most popular, the Lobster Festival on the first day and the fireworks on the last day. Both events draw thousands of people to Lynch Park. The fireworks can also be viewed across the water from Dane Street Beach and Independence Park.

Most of the events are held at Lynch Park, the city's oceanside park on Ober Street, including several concerts, Tiny Tots Day, a lip sync contest, and the annual Beverly Homecoming 5K Road Race.

Organizers shortened

"The Falconer" on its white marble base stands guard between the rose garden and the seawall. Inspired by the original "Falconer" in New York's Central Park, it depicts a larger-thanlife-sized youth in Elizabethan dress striding forward while releasing a falcon from his outstretched left hand.

Interestingly, Daniel S. Lynch, for whom the park is named, never experienced the property.

He bequeathed $400,000 upon his death in 1942 to create a public park in his native Beverly to make sure everyone would have a scenic place to go and enjoy the outdoors. He was inspired after encountering a private park in London that denied the public access to its natural splendor.

The Lynch Park Board of Trustees used Lynch's gift to purchase the land from Beverly Hospital in 1943.

The park is open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. Memorial Day to Labor Day. Parking for nonresidents is $15 on weekdays and $25 on weekends, cash only. Parking is free for Beverly residents with a valid parking M30 2023 SUMMER GUIDE

More garden magic can be found at Long Hill on Essex Street. This former family retreat once owned by the editor of The Atlantic Monthly has been renowned for its collection of trees, shrubs and distinctive perennial plants for more than a century.

Long Hill is owned and operated by The Trustees of Reservations and is open for the season from April 1 to Oct. 29. Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children ages 3 to 12. There's much more to explore in Beverly, including public beaches at Dane Street Beach and Independence Park on Lothrop Street. The downtown includes shops and restaurants along Cabot and Rantoul streets and a new restaurant on Water Street with views of Beverly Harbor.

The city also boasts three long-running theaters, The Cabot, Larcom Theatre and North Shore Music Theatre, as well as the Off-Cabot Comedy Club.

Clams, ship building and antiques beckon

Fireworks display during the bicentennial fireworks celebration at Shepard Memorial Park in Essex.

On a bright summer day, the clam flats dazzle as far as the eye can see, and crowds line up along the Route 133 to eat the shellfish at one of Essex's storied restaurants or seafood shacks

Essex is where clammers not only go to clam, but to eat clams. It's famous for its steamers. Famous for its antiques, too. In fact this unique little coastal town says it has more antique shops per square mile than any other town in America. From funky vintage to museum quality pieces, you'll find it here.

Settled by the English beginning in 1614 and incorporated as a town in 1819, Essex was and is a shipbuilding center.

Maybe not as prolific as during the heyday of schooner fishing when it built and sent down the river to Gloucester an estimated 4,000 fishing vessels, but thanks to Master Shipwright Harold Burnham, 18th-century shipbuilding is very much alive in Essex.

Manchester-by-the-Sea:

Flip-flop friendly seaside community

Manchester-by-the-Sea may be known as a pristine and perfectly preserved slice of historical old New England, but it's also the kind of place where one particular restaurant — popular with both locals and tourists greets visitors with a sign that reads "Flip-flop-friendly."

In other words, it's also a beachy town. Home to no fewer than seven beaches, the summer dress code is no dress code. Its town beach, a half-mile crescent of white sand so fine it's said to "sing" beneath your feet, is for that reason called Singing Beach, and it lives up to its name.

Incorporated as a fishing and farming village in 1645 by the English, Manchester's outstanding coastal beauty was discovered in the mid-1800s by Boston's elite, and it became a summer colony for the wealthy who built grand "cottages" on its shores. Artists, too, were drawn to Manchester. These included master portraitists Charles Hopkinson and John Singer Sargent, who declared its sea light, islands and coves, "paradise."

Vestiges of Manchester's "Gilded Age" are still in evidence, and in unexpected ways. On the back lawn of the classically colonial Manchester Historical Museum, for instance, vou'll find an odd little green shack. It is a lone survivor of the 130 bungalow cabanas built by the wealthy that once lined Singing Beach. Most destroyed in the great hurricane of 1939, they once represented a way of summer life for the wealthy, who on hot days would swap their mansions for these little seaside shacks for swimming and socializing.

Inside the Manchester Historical Museum, you'll find the kind of furniture that put Manchester on the map as the leading center of furniture making in the mid 19th century. Also known as Trask House, it was built in 1823 by Abigail Hooper, wife of Capt. Richard Trask, a prosperous merchant sea captain who skippered the St. Petersburg, the largest ship ever built in Massachusetts at the time.

Abigail Hooper would have been at home in 21st century Manchester. A business woman before the words business and

Fourth, festival by the seaside

Manchester-by-the-Sea may be a small town, but it sure knows how to throw a big Fourth of July parade.

The action starts at 10 a.m., and by action we mean nonstop marching to bands that would do John Philip Souza proud.

Drums beat, batons twirl, horns honk, fire engine sirens fill the air. There are motorcades and motorcycles, bagpipes and fifes and drums, jazz, rock and mariachi bands, Uncle Sam on stilts, vintage cars and vintage costumes. Colonial revolutionaries and their ladies. Not to mention, a patriotic blast of a colonial cannon.

It's one Yankee Doodle Dandy of a parade, and this New England seaside town that was founded in the early 1600s absolutely loves it.

This year, 2023, the Fourth of July falls on a Tuesday, so events begin Saturday, July 1,

Ipswich

A pristine beach, trails and a hilltop mansion

A boy scoops water into his bucket as a wave comes in at Crane Beach in Ipswich

Crane Beach in Ipswich offers 4 miles of white sand beach, salt marshes, and a pitch pine forest. The beachfront gets over 350,000 visitors annually, so tickets must be purchased ahead of time to gain access.

Part of the Crane Estate on Argilla Road, the pristine sandy beach features easy entry into the water, ample open space for sunbathing and walking, and all kinds of seaside play.

The beach is managed by the nonprofit The Trustees of Reservations, which oversees more than 100 properties — nearly 25,000 acres — all around Massachusetts. It is M40 2023 SUMMER GUIDE open year-round, from 8 a.m. to sunset daily.

Crane Beach is among the world's most important nesting sites for piping plovers, a threatened bird that was nearly hunted to extinction in the 19th century for its eggs and feathers. The Trustees of Reservations' efforts to protect the shorebirds have been nationally recognized.

There are 5.5 miles of trails, which track the beachfront on the Ipswich Bay and Essex River Estuary sides of the Castle Neck peninsula. These are considered moderate hiking.

During the summer, there are lifeguards and rangers, a bike rack, bathhouses with restrooms and changing area, outside showers, picnic tables, a store with refreshments and merchandise, an information kiosk, and transportation for mobility-challenged visitors.

According to The Trustees website, visitors are still required to reserve a Timed Entry Pass in advance for daily admission from Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day weekend. Crane Beach will no longer be selling parking permits, rather, reduced admission for members. Current permits through April 30, 2024, will still be honored. Through Labor Day, for nonmembers of The Trustees, day passes during the week are $40 per car, $10 for motorcycles and $5 for bikes. On weekends, the car rate is $45, and the other fees are the same.

Trustees members who do not have a year-round parking sticker pay a discounted rate.

Check out this website for more details on access to the beach this summer: https:// thetrustees.org/content/ crane-beach-faq/

Although advance passes are suggested, they are not required for visiting the neighboring Castle Hill on the Crane

Estate, 290 Argilla Road, which is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission to the grounds is $10 for adults, $5 for children ages 6 to 14 and free for children 5 and younger.

Set against the backdrop of a 165-acre scenic countryside, the property offers a glimpse into the past of one of the nation's wealthiest families.

The land, which Richard T. Crane Jr. bought in 1910, encompasses a farm and estate buildings, designed grounds and gardens, and diverse habitats. The Great House — the centerpiece on top of the hill — is a 59-room, Stuart-style mansion. Designed by architect David Adler and built in 1928, it is furnished with period antiques.

The property is home to quite all manner of wildlife, including deer, foxes, nesting great horned owls, red-tailed hawks, turkey vultures and the occasional bald eagle.

Events this summer include a variety of tours and hikes, as well as a series of picnic concerts.

For schedules and reservations, visit www.thetrustees.org/place/ castle-hill-on-the-crane-estate.

The annual summer concert series at the Crane Estate in Ipswich is always popular.

America's oldest seaport never gets old

This summer, the festivities are varied and city-wide. So to see what's on while you're in town, visit www.gloucesterma400.org, and make your first stop the visitors center, a friendly information hub for all things Gloucester400+. It's just off Route 127 in Stage Fort Park on Hough Avenue, where 400 years ago, 14 hearty men from Dorset, England, first stepped foot on these shores, lured by tales of seas swimming with cod.

Gloucester is so packed with history that a few years ago, the 44 2023 SUMMER GUIDE city created its Harbor Walk for visitors. This 2 ¹/₂-mile walking tour takes you — via QR codes on granite posts at stops along the way — on a free audio-visual tour of the city's historical highlights. Find out all about it at gloucester.harborwalk.org. Meanwhile, here's some of what you can expect along the way, and some more that are off the granite post grid, but not to be missed.

A short distance from Stage Fort Park on Stacy Boulevard, 200 American flags grace the seawall railing along the Outer Harbor, and the city's iconic "The Man at the Wheel" statue looks forever out to sea. A must for any visitor, it's dedicated to "the men who go down to the sea in boats," and the names of thousands of them who never returned are inscribed on the cenotaph that surrounds it.

Also recalling the "men who go down to the sea in boats," and also on Stacy Boulevard, is the Fishermen's Wives Memorial, surrounded by nationally renowned formal gardens blooming with tens of thousands of flowers planted by Generous Gardeners, Gloucester's "army of green-aproned volunteers." Take the group's annual garden tour on July 8, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; it features 18 downtown gardens, all an easy walk from Stacy Boulevard. Details at generousgardeners.org.

Downtown is where you'll find the working waterfront hard at work. Maritime Gloucester (maritimegloucester.org), 23 Harbor Loop, is a maritime museum offering a pocket sea aquarium, schooner sailing experiences and pop-up workshops.

By now you will have worked up an appetite. Good. Because you will find some of the freshest seafood in New England in the restaurants that line the waterfront and downtown streets.

A summer art colony since the turn of the last century, artists painted canvases here that today hang on the walls of museums throughout the world.

During this quadricentennial summer, the Cape Ann Museum, 27 Pleasant St., is celebrating that legacy with a major show mounted in collaboration with the Whitney Museum of Art. "Edward Hopper & Cape Ann: Illuminating an American Landscape" is a not-to-be-missed exhibition of 60 works, including the famed collection of Gloucester "Hopper Houses" painted during summers he spent here. For details and tickets, visit capeannmuseum.org

Just a walk away, and jampacked with history, is the Sargent House Museum, an architectural gem built in the late 1700s at 91 Middle St. as home to Judith Sargent Murray, early advocate of women's education and equality, and cofounded as a museum the early 1900s by her direct descendent, master portraitist John Singer Sargent. Open weekends from May 28 for tours. Visit sargenthouse.org for details.

Gloucester was also summer home for over 20 years to a young T.S. Eliot, and its influence is unmistakable in the sea imagery that suffuses his poetry. Eliot's family former home on Eastern Point, acquired by the T. S. Eliot Foundation in 2015, is now a

Far on the other side of the harbor, sitting high on a bluff, Hammond Castle Museum (hammondcastle.org) may look like something out of a fairytale, but it was built imported stone by stone from Europe — early in the 20th century as a very real scientific research center and home for eccentric genius inventor John Hays Hammond Jr., and is today a hugely popular visitor destination for tours and summer events

For some people, Gloucester is first and foremost a beach town, and Good Harbor and Wingershaek are two of the most popular. Although downtown beaches are open to walkin visitors, elsewhere, fees and parking restrictions apply. Your online resource for information on these can be found at https://gloucester-ma.gov/299/ Beach-Information.

Plum Island

Plum Island is one of the many destinations on New England's coastline to hold various natural wonders.

What makes the area so unique is its beautiful combination of public space, refuge land, and a beach that combine to form this 11-milelong barrier island straddling Newburyport and Newbury. It provides the perfect chance to spend days relaxing, whether it be bird-watching, biking through the beautiful scenery, or just enjoying the tranquil surf.

Plum Island lives up to its namesake as the beach plums begin to ripen in the late summer. There are also gorgeous cranberry bogs.

Those looking to enjoy a scenic day at the beach will find it at Northern Plum Island Beach, which can be entered from several points along Northern Boulevard. Paid parking lots provide the best access, the largest being at the northern end of the island, in Newburyport.

Also at the northern tip is the historic Newburyport Harbor Light, also known as Plum Island Light. Constructed in 1788 and made of wood with that traditional look, it's the exact image that pops into mind when we think of a lighthouse.

Anyone seeking to see the best of what nature has to offer can travel along the Atlantic flyway to the 4,700-acre Parker River Wildlife Refuge, a vital stopover point for more than 300 species of waterfowl, shorebirds and songbirds. Administrated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the refuge was established in 1941 to provide feeding, resting and nesting habitat for migratory birds.

Much of the summer sees large sections of the beach closed off to protect the piping plover, a particularly endangered species of bird, which nests, lays eggs and raises its young in the refuge. Closing off parts of the beach provides the small gray and white birds an opportunity to feed and nest undisturbed. All sections of the refuge are typically reopened by mid- to late August.

An entrance fee of $5 per car or $2 per walker or biker is in effect year-round at the refuge. An annual pass can be purchased for $20. Pets are not allowed.

Traveling through the refuge eventually leads to Sandy Point State Reservation, 77 acres at the southern tip of Plum Island. The park is one of the state's most beautiful coastal beaches.

Across from the refuge entrance is Mass Audubon's Joppa Flats Education Center, which overlooks the Merrimack River and offers opportunities to explore wildlife-rich habitats.

Whether you are on your way out or in, it is worth stopping at Plum Island Airport to watch the planes take off. There you can also visit a museum that chronicles the airport's history, including W. Starling Burgess' landmark 1910 flights.

Sea light and granite make town a charmer

Hannah Shepard is engulfed in a wave at Cape Hedge Beach.

Home to the only twin lighthouses in New England, Rockport, settled by the English in the late 1600s, is as much a product of the land as it is of the sea that surrounds it.

The last ice age left this scenic charmer of Cape Ann with a topography rich in granite, and that landscape, combined with sea light, made Rockport one of America's earliest artists' colonies. That heritage is still much in evidence today on the harborfront, home to the Rockport Art Association & Museum, 12 Main St., and a tight-knit warren of streets filled with art galleries and arty boutiques by the dozens.

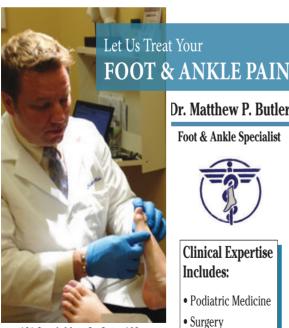

Every kind of shopping and fine and fun dining is within a short walkable distance, and that includes Bearskin Neck, a mini-peninsula jam-packed with even more of everything, including an iconic red fishing shack known as Motif No. 1, a favorite subject of the plein air

At the Shalin Liu Performance Center, 37 Main St., music is what summer is about.

The Rockport Chamber Music Festival runs June 9 to July 9, and July 25 and Aug. 12. Artists include Marc-André Hamelin, Dover Quartet, A Far Cry, new artists, and composer-in-residence Mark Applebaum.

Other acts performing at the venue include Rickie Lee Jones on June 13, Jacob Jolliff Band on July 5, Quiani Lynell on July 14, Rodney Crowell on July 20, Lori McKenna on July 23, Tom Rush on July 30, and Grace Kelly with Strings on Aug. 19, among others.

For a full concert schedule and tickets, visit rockportmusic.org.

Saturdays are for the Rockport Farmers Market, which will be held 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Harvey Park at the corner of Broadway and Mt. Pleasant Street from June 17 to Oct. 14. And from July 9 through August take in a free concert by the Legion Band at the American Legion bandstand near Back Beach on Sunday evenings from 7 to 8:30.

As for the Fourth of July, Rockport's celebrations skip the heat of the day, starting at 6 p.m., with the Firemen's Parade, that steps off from Jerden's Lane and marches through downtown to the American Legion bandstand, where — with the sun going down at 8 p.m. — the Legion Band strikes up a concert of Americana favorites. Then, Rockport's annual towering Fourth of July bonfire lights up the night starting at 9 at Back Beach.

This year's Illumination Weekend fireworks show is slated for Aug. 12 at 9 p.m. over Sandy Bay.

artists drawn by the thousands to paint on these shores.

Fishing vessels still bob in the harbor, but much of the rest of Rockport was shaped again by the ice age, as those huge deposits of granite gave way to quarrying, and quarrying became the town's primary industry.

At Halibut Point State Park, Rockport's quarries are today stunning deep-water caverns surrounded by wooded hiking trails and dazzling ocean scenery. The 49-acre park, just off Route 127, is a natural wonder of serene tidal pools, golden granite cliffs, bird watching and — stargazers take note — it's the darkest spot on the North Shore for viewing bright night skies.

During the 1800s, quarrying brought waves of Scandinavian stone cutters to Rockport, and those immigrants left this little town with a colorful, whimsical Scandinavian flair that differentiates it from classically old New England towns.

You'll sense that if you're lucky enough to be here on Illumination Night, Aug. 12, a spectacular signature summer event during which the entire town glows with lights and lanterns strung everywhere, culminating in fireworks lighting the night skies over the harbor.

Rustic Scandinavian

influence reigns at Windhover Center for the Performing Arts — a small "village" of barnred farm buildings and studios at at 257R Granite St., just a short distance from Halibut Point. Modern dance companies from New York City stage enormously popular summer "Quarry Dances" in the park's natural environs.

Rockport's other stage,

Shalin Liu Performance Center, took critics' breath away when it opened in 2010. According to the New York Times, with Shalin Liu, Rockport "set itself apart from the crowd with (this) striking new" performance center in the heart of town. The Summer Festival is world-class, packed with outstanding music across multiple genres.

Art and nature commingle by the sea

Newburyport is the birthplace of the U.S. Coast Guard but the city is equally famous for its art, music and waterfront dining.

Although the city is wellknown today as an attractive place to live and visit, Newburyport fell on hard times in the mid 20th century.

Originally the northern "Waterside" area of Newbury, Newburyport was settled as an agricultural enterprise by English colonists in 1635, then became a separate town in 1764 and eventually a city in 1851. The city flourished in the 18th and 19th centuries due to the prosperity of its shipping and fishing industries, but as they waned, Newburyport eventually fell on hard times in the post World War II era.

The city would, however, become the first municipality to use federal urban renewal funds for historic preservation in the 1970s and created a downtown that has become a destination for thousands of visitors each vear.

The downtown offers art

Yankee Homecoming to return this summer

The long-beloved week-long Port summer celebration. Yankee Homecoming, will make its return this summer, marking the festival's 65th year.

Yankee Homecoming began in 1958 after local artist Jack Frost launched a project to revive appreciation and pay tribute to the heritage and beauty of New England.

Each year, Aug. 4 is always included in the festival celebration days as it is National Coast Guard Day, and Newburyport is the birthplace of the U.S. Coast Guard. Every year, Yankee Homecoming recognizes the Coast Guard for its contributions to the community.

This year's festival will run July 29 to Aug. 6, welcoming locals and visitors to celebrate the city's historic landmarks and a variety of events.

Events will kick off Saturday, July 29, with a High School Battle of the Bands, Art on the Bartlett Mall, and the Brewfest Fundraiser.

Whether you pack a picnic and bring a lawn chair to Waterfront Park for the concert and entertainment series, shop and eat your way through the Yankee Homecoming Market Place or learn about historic Newburyport on a city heritage tour, there are many options to choose from.

Some events will be held daily while others will continue throughout the week, including the waterfront concerts, downtown entertainment, the waterfront morning workout series and more.

This year's parade will step off at noon Sunday, Aug. 6. and roll down High Street.

The Geno Open Golf Tournament, in support of Yankee Homecoming, will be held at the Ould Newbury Country Club on Monday, July 31.

All tournament proceeds go directly toward funding Yankee Homecoming events.

When Yankee Homecoming kicked off, 29 New England towns hosted celebrations. Now, Newburyport is the only city to continuing the tradition.

Updated information on events, dates and times can be found at yankeehomecoming. com/events/.

Maudslay working on park restoration for summer

Maudslay State Park and Maudslay Arts Center in Newburyport are hard at work preparing for the summer season and planning entertainment and events.

Maudslay State Park, 74 Curzon Mill Road, 442 acres of picturesque scenery, dates to the 1800s when Edward Strong Moseley, a wealthy merchant, acquired the Laurel Grounds and developed the surrounding grounds with wild flowers and shrubbery planted in the woods in 1860. Edward's son, Frederick Strong Moseley, went on to purchase many of the farm buildings at Maudslay in the later 1800s and early 1900s.

The family's estate was further developed by Frederick after Edward's death in 1900, he consulted with and hired some of the best landscape architects in Massachusetts. This included Martha Brooks Hutcheson, who designed the surrounding grounds of the main house, entry drive and formal gardens. At that point and up until it was passed to the state, the estate was named Maudesleigh.

In 1985, the park was acquired by the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Management and renamed Maudslay State Park.

This summer the park's Italian and Rose gardens will open to the public after two years, due to two phases of construction by the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation. Volunteer groups, including the Master Gardeners, are focusing on the Main Drive and continue last year's work on Tower Hill.

Maudslay Arts Center, 95 Curzon Mill Road, was founded by the Costello family in 1992 and opened to the public in 1993, choosing the corner of the park due to its natural amphitheater that provides venue attendees' with superb acoustics.

Earlier this year, Maudslay received a $7,500 instate COVID-19 relief funds from the Massachusetts Cultural Council. The grant will be utilized with getting entertainment programs back on track after the pandemic.

This summer's entertainment schedule will not be announced until June, but concerts are planned for Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons in July and August. Saturday performances are $30 for patio seating and $25 for lawn seating. Sunday performances are $20 for all seating. Children under 12 are admitted free.

More information can be found at maudslayartscenter. org

Anyone interested in volunteering at the park can contact Friends of Maudslay Director Stefanie Shattuck-Hufnagel at sshuf@mit.edu for more information.

galleries, small shops and an abundance of dining and takeout options, while Waterfront Park offers a leisurely stroll alongside the Merrimack River.

Water Street's Custom House Maritime Museum was built in 1835 to facilitate growing overseas trade and tax collection on imported goods and, today, offers visitors a trip back in time.

Designed by Robert Mills, architect of the Washington Monument and the U.S. Treasury Building, the Custom House Maritime Museum features vaulted ceilings and cantilevered staircases, while displays tell of the city's seafaring past.

Chartered cruises, whale watches and fishing trips depart from the local docks regularly and Somersby's Landing Sculpture Park features large sculptures by New England artists at the west end of the waterfront boardwalk. Based in the Cushing House on High Street, the Museum of Old Newbury offers a broader history of the city while maintaining the stories of the three Newburys (Newburyport, Newbury and West Newbury) over 300 years.

Abolitionist William Lloyd Garrison is another of Newburyport's notable natives. He was born and raised in an anti-slavery climate and his statue is located a block from the central waterfront, where abolitionist meetings were held in Brown Square.

The 1.1-mile Clipper City rail trail also brings visitors from the MBTA commuter rail station at Parker Street all the way to the waterfront, where people can venture downtown on foot, or continue over the Gillis Bridge into Salisbury where the old Eastern Marsh Trail connects and continues on.

A 480-acre horticultural and agricultural estate, Maudslay State Park is another place where people can immerse themselves in nature while walking, biking, horseback riding, having a picnic, or just relaxing with a book and some friends.

The state park is open from dusk to dawn and offers breathtaking beauty and views.

From sandcastles to Seashell Stage, rocking on Hampton Beach is a favorite with sun worshippers.

Summertime fun and leisure are back at Hampton Beach with many family-friendly activities to enjoy and miles of beach to spend a relaxing day on the sand.

The days of trolleys delivering tourists to the Hampton Beach Casino, stunt planes flying high above the water and the bathing censor who would keep an eye on the scandalous swimsuits of the 1920s may be long gone, but thousands upon thousands of seekers of fun and sun are still drawn seasonally to the beach.

Up until the formation of the Hampton Beach Village District in 1907, Hampton was essentially a major farming community, originally settled in 1638. At some point, attention was given to preserving the miles of sandy beachfront, as well as making it a recreation destination.

Today, beachgoers stroll the strip on Ocean Boulevard, test their skills at the arcades, and indulge in fried dough, softserve ice cream and saltwater taffy.

This summer boasts fun for all ages, with festivals, daily entertainment and more scheduled.

Fireworks will light up the sky every Wednesday night at 9:30, from the top of B and C streets beside the Atlantic Ocean. There will also be special displays on May 28 for Memorial Day, June 17 for the Sand-Sculpting Competition, the Fourth of July, Sept. 3 in honor of Labor Day. and Sept. 9 for the Seafood Festival.

The 23nd Sand Sculpting Classic takes place June 15 to 17. Watch as world-class, sand-sculpting competitors create works of art with more than 200 tons of sand. The sculptures remain up, and illuminated for all to enjoy, day or night through June 26.

The Seashell Stage will feature free music every night starting at 7, including country sets each Thursday during the summer. Acts this year include Billy D and The Rockits, Leaving Eden, The Continentals, The Reminisants, and Ayla Brown. The pavilion, Starting July 10 and continuing through Aug. 28, free family-friendly movies will be shown Monday nights at dusk on a large screen next to the playground. Guests can bring blankets, beach chairs and snacks. Movies are weather permitting with a rain date on Tuesday.

The Hampton Beach Children's Festival promises a week of fun, free activities from Aug. 14 through 18. Activities include min-golf, movie nights, face painting, ice cream with lifeguards, magic shows, story time, contests and much more. A giant costume parade on the last day will march nearly the length of Hampton Beach.

Prime destination for summertime

Pleasure boats cruise on the Merrimack River near the Salisbury jetty.

The state of Massachusetts purchased the beautiful 3.8-mile sandy stretch that makes up Salisbury Beach and Salisbury Beach State Reservation in 1933 and developed it to ensure public access to the ocean.

The state Department of Conservation and Recreation controls a large portion of the beach bordering private properties of summer homes and rental cottages.

Residents and visitors have fallen in love with the seaside boardwalk, which has even been used by some Hollywood producers since it opened in 2017.

At the southern end of the property is the Salisbury Beach State Reservation. Folks visiting the reservation will have the chance to swim, boat, fish, and take in the local wildlife. The facilities include a 484-site campground, a few large parking lots for daily beach visitors, and boat-launching facilities.

Step off the beach and you will discover a variety of video arcades and food stands to keep busy and entertained. There are paid parking lots throughout the beach center, including a municipal lot on the corner of Beach Road and Route 1A.

Delighting crowds every Saturday at 10:15 p.m. from June 24 through Aug. 5 while be the Salisbury Beach Fireworks show.

Free tunes will be played every Friday starting at 7:15 p.m. as part of the DJ Beach Party, running from June 23 to Sept. 1. There will be fun for the whole family including Hula Hooping, bubble fun, and dancing.

For those looking for bigger names, they can often be found at Blue Ocean Music Hall on Oceanfront North. Acts taking the stage this summer include comedians Lenny Clarke and Juston McKinney, Eagles guitarist Don Felder, and Southside Johnny and the Asbury Dukes, as well as tributes to ABBA and Pink Floyd. For tickets and more information, visit www.blueoceanmusichall. com.

Visitors searching for a more secluded getaway will be in luck with Salisbury's coastal trails, including the Salisbury Point Ghost Trail, Old Eastern Marsh Trail and Beach Road bike route, which offer a nearly 5-mile stretch for bicycling, walking and bird-watching.

New Hampshire beaches

Granite State shoreline beaches beckon

It's considered to be America's smallest coastline at only 18 miles, but what the New Hampshire Seacoast lacks in size is made up in a big way with plentiful opportunities for anyone hoping to enjoy a warm day among rocky shores, tide pools and smooth sandy beaches.

The state boasts five state park beaches, along with a bevy of other seashore gems to explore and enjoy.

Within an hour, North of Boston residents can be stepping off on coastal excursions and adventures, whether it's spreading a blanket on warm sand to spend the day or strolling along the shoreline to enjoy the region's best seafood, music and other attractions.

Check in with the New Hampshire Division of Parks and Recreation, www.nhstateparks.org, for updated rules on pets — which are not allowed in the summer — and parking and camping reservations, and for more details to make a trip just right.

Here are a few beach stops to consider.

Hampton Beach State Park

- 160 Ocean Blvd., Hampton, N.H.
- 603-227-8722 (Seacoast office)

Hampton Beach State Park provides visitors with yearround recreation opportunities, from swimming and fishing to RV camping and picnicking. A bathhouse, lifeguards, convenience store and snack bar are also available. Parking is available at pay stations and meters. North Beach

 920 Ocean Blvd., Hampton, N.H. 603-227-8722 (Seacoast office)

North Beach offers waves that surfers enjoy, a sandy beach and good locations for people to watch the action. It's a great family beach to enjoy swimming or picnicking. There are lifeguards, metered parking and a bathhouse.

Sandy Beach

- Between Great Island Common and Ocean Street, New Castle, N.H.
- 603-436-1992 (Great Island Common gate) Sandy Beach is a small, scenic spot only 10 minutes from Portsmouth, with a U.S. Coast Guard station at one end and a large seaside park, Great Island Common, at the other. The beach is a bit rocky and the water can be a bit chillier than beach locations heading south, but the picturesque location is still a summertime favorite for a getaway. Parking is available with an admission charge for non-residents.

What's causing your heel

Plantar fasciitis is usually caused by stretching of the ligament on the bottom of your foot that attaches to the heel bone. The best approach to heel pain is early diagnosis and treatment. What many people don't realize is that serious foot problems can be improved or resolved in almost every case.

If your foot hurts, we can help.
