Maggie Gyllenhaal ("The Honourable Woman"), James Franco ("The Disaster Artist," 2017), Olivia Luccardi ("It Follows," 2014) and David Krumholtz ("Hail, Caesar!," 2016) star in the third and final season of "The Deuce," premiering Monday, Sept. 9, on HBO. The series chronicles the lives of people living in a seedy section of Manhattan in the 1970s and early 1980s, and the third season promises to deliver a satisfying ending for fans.

Wrap it up

'The Deuce' returns for its third and final season

TV Media

There's nothing worse than a sudden cancellation. When a show ends abruptly, fans are left wishing and wondering, but a slow, deliberate ending can leave us satisfied in a way that enhances the series, even if we're sad it's over. Starting Monday, Sept. 9, fans of the HBO series "The Deuce" can begin to experience that slow wind down. Season 3 is its last, and knowing that beforehand has given its showrunners a chance to offer their audience a conclusion that feels natural.

"The Deuce," named after slang for a section of Manhattan's 42nd St. that was once considered the city's red-light district, depicts the eclectic community of that section of New York City during the 1970s. It's creators, David Simon and George Pelecanos, are best known for creating the HBO megahit "The Wire," and the stars of the series are no less qualified. The show stars Maggie Gyllenhaal ("The Honourable Woman") and James Franco ("The Disaster Artist," 2017) as two (well, three, actually) people living their lives in and around New York's seedy underbelly from the early 1970s onwards. I say three because Franco plays twins.

Other cast members have been promoted this season, going from smaller recurring roles to regulars as the timeline of "The Deuce" jumps ahead several years and new characters emerge as central figures. Among those receiving meatier roles are Olivia Luccardi ("It Follows," 2014) and David Krumholtz ("Hail, Caesar!," 2016), who play the young escort Melissa and director Harvey Wasserman, respectively.

The supporting cast of "The Deuce" is strong from top to bottom (a trademark of David Simon's television shows), but the leads have received special attention for their performances in the show's first two seasons. Gyllenhaal plays Eileen "Candy"

Olivia Luccardi in "The Deuce"

Merrell, a former street hustler who eventually gets involved in the production of, well, unsavory films. Candy's arc has been one of self-improvement and personal discovery, as she fought her way up from the gutter to a job that has a new sense of legitimacy (but also poses new risks and challenges). It's no surprise that the hard-working, Oscar-nominated actress has received constant, glowing praise for her portrayal of Candy — she was also nominated in the Best Actress category at the 75th Golden Globe Awards last year.

Franco has also been praised for his performance in "The Deuce," but in his case, it has been less for rendering an excellent, original character than for the technical prowess of his work. Franco plays twin brothers Vincent and Frankie Martino in the show. Vincent began the series as a down-on-his-luck bartender working long hours to provide for his family. His brother, Frankie, is more of a loose cannon; he's a gambler and occasional scam artist who has ties to the mob.

In Seasons 1 and 2, the brothers saw their fortunes rise as they took advantage of their mob connections (sometimes reluctantly) and got involved in bar ownership and brothels. The Vincent and Frankie characters have been criticized for being stereotypical "New York guy" caricatures, but Franco has received almost universal acclaim for his dual performances, which regularly require him to act in scenes with only himself. His ability to perform in a convincing manner opposite thin air (that is subsequently filled in by seamless CGI) has captured the attention of fans and critics alike.

Several years ago, after the finale of the first season of "The Deuce," multiple members of the cast and creative team indicated that the show had a roughed-out narrative designed to last for three seasons.

Back then, the future of the series was in doubt, and there was no guarantee it would be renewed enough times to make it to its natural conclusion —

HBO isn't above canceling critically acclaimed shows when the ratings aren't there, and ratings for "The Deuce" have never been particularly strong. Instead of the twists, turns and cliffhangers that propel so many shows to must-watch status, "The Deuce" simply depicts the lives of its characters in a realistic, believable way and allows the narrative to play out naturally. In the end, HBO allowed the show to run its full course, and audiences can expect a solid, thought-out conclusion instead of the abrupt or scattershot ending that can plague shows canceled before their time.

The third season of "The Deuce" will replicate the five-year timeline jump that occurred between Seasons 1 and 2. The show's first season was set in the early 1970s, the second played out five years later, and this one takes us five more years into the future to the start of the 1980s.

The season finale of Season 2 hinted at the goals of the final season when Harvey gave Candy a preview of an emerging form of technology: the VCR. The final season will look at the impact of that technology. It will also take a look at the emergence of HIV and AIDS in New York City in the early 1980s, and the devastating toll the epidemic took on New York's LGBTQ community. You can also expect the show to delve into the early '80s cocaine trade.

More Molly

'Girl Meets Farm' returns with a new season

Molly Yeh hosts "Girl Meets Farm"

By Michelle Rose
TV Media

She's been dubbed the "Pioneer Woman" for millennials, but if you've tuned in to "Girl Meets Farm," you know that Molly Yeh shines in her own kind of light.

Just this year, the rising Food Network star earned both a Daytime Emmy and a James Beard Award nomination. She recently signed an exclusive agreement for new episodes of her Food Network show and more digital content. And she's a new mom: In March, Yeh and husband Nick welcomed their first child, daughter Bernadette (Bernie).

A Juilliard-trained percussionist-turned-food blogger, cookbook author and TV host, Yeh has already made her mark on the food entertainment industry. Now, she's ready to invite us back into her farmhouse kitchen on Sunday, Sept. 8, for an all-new season of "Girl Meets Farm."

If you're looking for movie night-friendly eats and treats, the Season 4 premiere is the episode to watch. Yeh walks you through all the steps for her barbecue pulled pork nachos, radishes with smoked butter, candy bar salads and a grilled orange soda. Other themes this season will cover Yeh's life as a new mom (check out her baby meal prep pot on mynamisyeh.com) and will include Oktoberfest, Halloween, a Midwest potluck, party bites and "Friendsgiving."

If you're new to the show and are wondering where the "Farm" in the title comes from, the series centers on the big-city transplants' new life in the Midwest (specifically North Dakota) where Nick runs a sugar beet farm.

Farm life is what the show is all about, but Yeh's joyful personality is behind its appeal. She also brings a little bit of her background to everything she cooks, whether it's an Instagram-worthy cake, a more adventurous version of a Midwest staple or a new favorite inspired by her Chinese and Jewish heritage. And the result is an entertaining mix of new and familiar flavors that are a feast for the eyes.

So tune in on Sunday, Sept. 8, to find out why "Girl Meets Farm" is the highest-rated daytime show in the Food Network Sunday lineup.

Aladdin

Young thief Aladdin (Massoud) and his pet monkey, Abu, are talked into stealing a magic lamp, capable of granting three wishes, by the Grand Vizier of the palace, Jafar (Kenzari). After taking the boy to the Cave of Wonders, Jafar thinks he has finally secured the magic lamp and betrays Aladdin by throwing him back into the cave as it collapses. Unbeknownst to both of them, Abu has stolen the lamp back. While trapped in the cave, Aladdin unintentionally releases Genie (Smith), and tricks him into freeing them all. Using his three magical wishes, Aladdin launches himself on a magical journey to win over the beautiful Princess Jasmine (Scott) and thwart Jafar's nefarious schemes. Aladdin is a live-action remake of the 1992 animated movie of the same name.

Director: Guy Ritchie. Stars: Will Smith, Mena Massoud, Naomi Scott, Marwan Kenzari, Navid Negahban, Billy Magnussen. 2019. 128 min. Adventure.

The Dead Don't Die

When police Chief Cliff Robertson (Murray) and officer Ronnie Peterson (Driver) are called to investigate a missing chicken by farmer Frank Miller (Buscemi), they notice a number of strange events happening in their town. After night falls in Centerville, recently deceased human corpses begin to reanimate and terrorize residents. Preparing for battle, Cliff and Ronnie join up with fellow police officer Mindy Morrison (Sevigny) and new funeral home undertaker Zeld Winston (Swinton) to save the town from the undead.
 Director: Jim Jarmusch. Stars: Bill Murray, Adam Driver, Tom Waits, Chloë Sevigny, Steve Buscemi, Austin Butler, RZA, Tilda Swinton, Eszter Balint, Danny Glover. 2019. 104 min. Comedy.

Naomi Scott and Mena Massoud star in "Aladdin"

The Day the Towers Fell

HIST 7:00 a.m.

History Channel presents a day of programming about the September 11th terror attacks of 2001, beginning with this documentary featuring eyewitness accounts. Other programs feature video and audio recordings from the historic day.

MasterChef

25 8:00 p.m.

In this new episode, the chefs continue their London adventure when they travel to the historic Hatfield House. Not only do they cook for judges Gordon Ramsay, Joe Bastianich and Aarón Sánchez, but also for British cooking royalty Nigella Lawson.

Ester Dean in "Songland"

Schooled

6 9 8:30 p.m.

CB (Brett Dier) finally works up the courage to tell Lainey (AJ Michalka) how he really feels in this rebroadcast. However, his big reveal goes awry when Dr. Barry Goldberg (Troy Gentile) arrives. Elsewhere, Glascott (Tim Meadows) learns a lesson.

Songland

8 9:00 p.m.

Ryan Tedder switches from mentor to guest artist when his band OneRepublic guest stars in this new episode. Shane McAnally, Ester Dean also star in this popular music show, which gives songwriters the opportunity to pitch original material.

BattleBots

disc 8:00 p.m.

A shocking twist threatens to blow the competition wide open in this new episode. The world's greatest bots must redouble their efforts if they want to win a spot in the knockout round in this reboot of the popular robot-fighting series.

Diners, Drive-Ins and Dives

FOOD 9:00 p.m.

Cameras tag along as Guy Fieri looks for flavor in this new episode. He travels to Santa Fe, where a Southwest-Middle Eastern quick stop slings shawarma and salmon souvlaki. In Kansas City, he visits an eatery serving up Scandinavian specialties.

Mark Proksch in "Room 104"

Murder in the Bayou

SHOW 9:00 p.m.

Director Matthew Galkin and author Ethan Brown present the story of the unsolved murders of eight women in this premiere docu-series. Their bodies were discovered between 2005 and 2009 in drainage canals and on desolate back roads in rural Louisiana.

Room 104

HBO 11:00 p.m.

Characters search for connections and meaning as they pass through a typical American motel room in new season. The eclectic anthology series features a variety of genres, from comedy to drama, to musical romance and horror.

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison
TV Media

Q: Are there any updates on the second season of "The Night Manager"?

A: "The Night Manager," starring Tom Hiddleston ("Avengers: Endgame," 2019), Hugh Laurie ("House") and Olivia Colman ("The Crown"), originally aired as a miniseries on AMC here and the BBC in the U.K., an adaptation of the John le Carré novel of the same name. It was a huge critical and popular hit, so naturally the networks and fans wanted more.

The question was then, and still is, can/will they make another season without source material?

The latest news is that the head writer and director of the first season have both said they won't participate in a second.

Nonetheless, there was great optimism a year ago, when the producers announced that they had hired a team of writers for the second season — it didn't include Farr, but it did feature Charles Cumming, another spy novelist whom many have called the next le Carré.

That was a year ago and there's been no word of progress since, but bear in mind the first season aired three years ago, so no one seems to be in any rush.

Q: I recently saw a TV commercial for Carfax, and the voice of the fox sounded familiar. It made me wonder if it's the voice of Gobo from "Fraggle Rock" on HBO. Is it?

A: There are a few reasons why we can be certain that's not the same voice.

The first is that Jerry Nelson, the legendary Muppeteer and voice of Gobo Fraggle, would have been too busy, and too pricey, to do commercial work by the time the Car Fox character debuted in 2009.

The second is that the Car Fox ads continue to be made today, seven years after Nelson's death.

Brent Halfyard, the actor voicing Car Fox, is, on the other hand, likely much more affordable, and very much alive. His biggest role so far — besides the Fox himself, who has built a weird sort of viral fame — has been narrating a few seasons of the Investigation Discovery series "Very Bad Men" in the early 2010s.

Late laughs

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Trump is in New Jersey on a 10-day vacation. People close to Trump say he's spending most of his vacation tweeting, golfing and watching TV. Unlike when limit it to just that show. Trump has also told his fair share of "Big Little Lies."

Hong Kong is in turmoil. For the second day in a row, pro-democracy protesters have taken over the airport, causing all flights to be canceled. And I would like to note that that mass uprising in Hong Kong looks exactly like the waiting lounge before any Southwest flight.

The majority of children, including infants as young as nine months old, find beards unattractive. Although, it wasn't so much the beards that bothered them, it was the non-stop rambling about this great new IPA.

A woman has sued the cereal company Post for false advertising after learning they don't sweeten their Honey Bunches of Oats cereal with actual honey. If this lawsuit puts Honey Bunches of Oats out of business, you know what that would make this woman? A cereal killer.

Jimmy Kimmel Live

Back in 2017, (Trump) sent handwritten notes to Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau, and he wrote those notes in Sharpie. One of the notes was written on the cover of Bloomberg Businessweek. So just to recap: Trump tore the cover off a magazine, wrote on it in Sharpie and mailed it to the prime minister of Canada like the "Zodiac Killer" or something.

We make a lot of jokes about this president, but it's important to remember just how much he's sacrificed for the good of us. All he cares about is others. He doesn't care about money. By the way, this man who doesn't care about money? His house looks like Liberace's sarcophagus.

The race for 2020 is heating up. John Hickenlooper, however, is out. After almost no speculation, John Hickenlooper ended his campaign today. It's always a bad sign when you learn someone was running from the announcement that they dropped out.

Late Night With Seth Meyers

Authorities in South Carolina have dropped drug charges against a college football player after a test proved that a white substance on the hood of his car was bird poop, not cocaine. Though I can understand their suspicion, because everyone knows the best place to hide cocaine is on the hood of your car.

Former vice-president Joe Biden apologized this weekend after misspeaking at an event and saying, "Poor kids are just as bright and just as talented as white kids." Adding, "Sorry that came out gay."

According to a West Virginia official, evangelicals were upset that President Trump took the Lord's name in vain last month at a rally. Said evangelicals: "We'd prefer if you'd refer to them as the 'gosh darn' Latinos invading our country."

The band Guns N' Roses has dropped a copyright lawsuit against a company that was selling a Guns N' Rosé beer. Which is good news for the makers of Sweet Child o' Wine.

A Thai woman was sent to the hospital yesterday after claiming she slipped and fell on a cucumber, causing it to end up inside of her. Said her husband: "She's had a rough week. Just the other day she slipped and fell on the mailman!"

Fill in the grid so that every row, every column, and every 3x3 box contains the digits 1 through 9.

Solution on page 8.

he's working, where he spends most of his time golfing, tweeting and watching TV.

We're halfway through August, and people don't know how to handle this weird time between summer and fall. Today, I saw someone drinking pumpkin spice rosé.

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

Every day I wake up and I think, "Things can't possibly get any worse." Every day Trump says, "Hold my filet-o-fish, I'm going in."

The stock market has been swinging like a tetherball in a typhoon. Former Treasury secretary Lawrence Summers puts the odds of a recession at around 50-50, so you can just flip a coin. No wait! Save the coin, you're going to need it.

The Late Late Show With James Corden

Anthony Scaramucci compared (Trump) to the HBO series about the Chernobyl nuclear catastrophe — a complete disaster created by Russia. Yeah, that sounds about right. Honestly, I wouldn't
