Your Weekly Guide to TV Entertainment

For the week of November 17 - 23, 2019

On Monday, Nov. 18, Fox takes us to the City of Angels to witness brave first responders in action in "9-1-1." LAFD Station captain Bobby Nash (Peter Krause, "The Catch) leads his firefighters into danger every day, but it's their personal lives that hold a lot of the juciest drama. Aisha Hinds ("Godzilla: King of the Monsters," 2019), Jennifer Love Hewitt ("Criminal Minds") and Angela Bassett ("American Horror Story") also star.

First responders take on the worst in '9-1-1'

By Francis Babin TV Media

his year has been a big one for the television industry. It seems that every month a landscapechanging entertainment story breaks. But without a doubt, the most talked about gamechanger of the year is the acquisition of 21st Century Fox by Disney. There is no question that the mouse house's purchase will be a topic of discussion, debate and analysis for years to come.

It's probably natural that Disney's earliest Fox-related decisions have come under fire. Fox is the youngest of the Big Four television networks and has been a hotbed of controversy since its launch in the mid-'80s. Not long after the network first hit the airwaves, the scrappy upstart launched a revolutionary new series and a pioneer in the reality TV genre: "Cops" premiered in 1989. The series proved to be a ratings juggernaut and quickly became one of Fox's most watched series, cementing its status as the edgy network.

That show's impact on the entertainment industry is undeniable, and its real-world effects are still being felt to this day. Now, three decades after the network's original first-responder series premiered, industry darling Ryan Murphy ("The Politician") has brought another first-responder series to the network, and "9-1-1" has become another major success story.

On Monday, Nov. 18, Fox presents another episode of this hit series, which takes viewers to the City of Angels to witness brave first responders in action. The show follows police officers, paramedics, firefighters and dispatchers on the job and at home. Like many other procedurals, "9-1-1" focuses on the lives of the responders themselves, not just the dramatic disasters they're called to — it sends a clear message that the men and women who save lives every day are not perfect, nor are they immune to the stress or the mental and physical consequences of their profession. These heroes are human.

Over the past two seasons and change, we have seen some of our favorite characters put through the wringer. Firefighter Bobby Nash (Peter Krause, "Parenthood"), captain of LAFD Station 118, has battled his demons and attempted to overcome a tragic and complicated past. As he pushes through grief and guilt, he tries to atone for his past and build a happier future. We know people like Bobby in our own lives, and the show really hammers home the fact that you never really know what another person is dealing with.

We also know people like Hen Wilson (Aisha Hinds, "Godzilla: King of the Monsters," 2019), a paramedic and firefighter who has had to overcome discrimination on the basis of gender, race and sexual orientation. She rises to every challenge and dedicates her life to saving others — but she doesn't always exercise good judgment in her personal life.

Discussing the genesis of the series back in 2017, executive producer and co-creator Brad Falchuk ("Pose") said, "The idea was everybody there is great at their jobs and have problems at home that they struggle with." He continued by discussing how the series looks to explore the differences between characters when they're in control on the job and when they're at home with less power to control their surroundings. We have seen this play out time and time again since the series debuted — "9-1-1" has been filled with edge-ofyour-seat emergencies and thrilling action but also packed with engaging and relatable storylines. Finding harmony between the two has not been an easy task, but it seems like Murphy and his crew have nailed the format and shaken up the first-responder genre.

Athena Carter Nash (Angela Bassett, "American Horror Story"), an accomplished LAPD patrol sergeant, has to come to terms with her daughter's suicide attempt as well as her first husband's coming out. Young firefighter Evan "Buck" Buckley (Oliver Stark, "Into the Badlands") pushes himself too hard to get back to work too fast after being injured during a bombing. The current season promises to keep delving deep into the imperfect lives of Los Angeles' finest.

The first few episodes of Season 3 have been jam-packed with excitement, starting with the epic season-opening tsunami arc, and it doesn't look like it will let up anytime soon. In an effort to strike while the iron is hot, Fox execs have announced that the "9-1-1" universe is about to get bigger: its first spinoff, "9-1-1: Lone Star," debuts in January and stars Rob Lowe ("Parks and Recreation").

In the new year, we can expect crossovers, pulse-pounding drama and more creative storylines. In the meantime, how will Maddie's (Jennifer Love Hewitt, "Criminal Minds") PTSD impact her life on and off the job? Once she crosses the line, will she ever be able to come back? What are we to make of Lena (Ronda Rousey, "Mile 22", 2018) and Eddie's (Ryan Guzman, "Notorious") relationship? Furthermore, after an endless amount of hinting and teasing, will Eddie and Buck finally get together? Or has the chemistry between the two been blown up by overeager fans? Tune in to "9-1-1" on Fox on Monday, Nov. 18, to witness brave first responders risk it all to save the lives of others.

Maureen McCormick hosts 'Macy's Thanksgiving Cake Spectacular'

Buddy Valastro is a judge on "Macy's Thanksgiving Cake Spectacular"

here are parades, and then there's Macv's Thanksgiving Day Pa-

This year marks the 95th anniversary of the Big Apple tradition that officially kicks off the eating, er, holiday season. And there's something magical about seeing all those floats, marching bands and giant balloons making their way down 6th Avenue toward Macy's flagship store on 34th Street in New York City.

(Fun fact: Macy's Herald Square was the first building in the world to be equipped with modern escalators. You can still ride the original wooden ones up to Santaland, or up one more floor to the couches, if you're in town.)

Food Network has invited four top bakers to compete in the second edition of "Macy's Thanksgiving Cake Spectacular," airing Sunday, Nov. 17. And as the title suggests. they'll be tasked with creating their best cake-and-sugar tribute to the annual spectacular.

The one-hour special debuted last year with lifestyle maven Martha Stewart as the host. In addition to the competition, viewers were treated to a sneak peek of the preparations at Macy's Parade Studio in New Jersey, where all the floats, balloons and costumes are readied until the day before the parade.

(Another fact: No matter its final size, each float must be able to fit through the Lincoln Tunnel — the same one Buddy the Elf walked through in 2003's "Elf" — to reach the parade route. The floats are reconstructed overnight near the starting point on the Upper West Side.)

The culinary torch has been passed and this year's host is Maureen McCormick of "The Brady Bunch" fame. With 12 days to go until Turkey Day and the parade, McCormick will help get you into the holiday spirit while competitors try to impress judges Buddy Valastro ("Cake Boss"), Susan Tercero (executive producer of Macy's parade) and last season's winner. Timbo Sulli-

The winning cake artist will be awarded a grand prize of $10,000 and a feature spot at Macy's Herald Square.

They'll also get tickets to the parade, which may seem odd given the opportunities for free public viewing along the route. But these are grandstand tickets, which aren't available to the public. In fact, they're limited to friends and family members of parade participants and Macy's partners, and, of course, the winner of Food Network's "Macy's Thanksgiving Cake Spectacular."

When her dreams of rock stardom don't work out, Laney Lewis (AJ Michalka) takes a job teaching music at her old high school. Despite their foibles, she and her fellow teachers (Bryan Callen, Tim Meadows, Brett Dier) realize they're heroes to students.

Brittany Snow in "Almost Family"

Extinct or Alive

ANPL 9:00 p.m.

This new episode takes a look at the Malagasy dwarf hippo, which is known as a pint-sized version of its African cousin. Experts believe it's been extinct for 1,000 years, but Forrest and a local biologist search Madagascar for proof it's still around.

Almost Family

25 9:00 p.m.

When Julia (Brittany Snow) finds out Isaac (Mustafa Elzein) has been asking for Leon's (Timothy Hutton) advice on patients, she makes a drastic decision in this new episode. Meanwhile, Edie (Megalyn Echikunwoke) misses a family event for "work."

Hollywood Q&A

By Adam Thomlison

TV Media

Q: I enjoy watching the vet shows on Animal Planet. I noticed that when the doctors on "The Vet Life" and "Hanging with the Hendersons" operate on animals they wear masks, but Dr. Jeff on "Rocky Mountain Vet" does not. Why? A: You aren't the only one who'd like to know.

The American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) barked pretty loudly at Dr. Jeff Young in a letter they sent to his bosses at Animal Planet, criticizing him for "performing surgery in an unhygienic manner."

The letter mentions the lack of a mask as well as a surgical gown, but also things like his habit of passing clipboards and other unsterile items across the "surgical site."

In case the gist wasn't clear, the letter then goes on to quote one of the AVMA's members: "Fast food restaurants require stricter sanitary guidelines than Dr. Jeff."

However, getting a tonguelashing from a national industry association isn't exactly offbrand for Dr. Jeff. His bio on AnimalPlanet.com sums it up: "Dr. Jeff lives and dies by his own code, as rules sometimes are meant to be broken." In case the ponytail and tattoos didn't tell you, Dr. Jeff is a bad-boy vet.

But is he the worst boy? It looks like he's not.

For one, he's not the only TV vet to receive this kind of criticism. National Geographic's titular "The Incredible Dr. Pol" has gotten similar pushback from the larger veterinary community

But it seems that even some regular (that is, not TV star) vets take this relaxed approach to suiting up for surgery.

A Little Late With Lilly Singh

The hardest part for me about Halloween is going to buy a costume, especially if the character I want to be is not brown. This year I was thinking of going as Alice in Wonderland, but her skin's

This weekend, Snoop Dogg celebrated his 48th birthday. He received a bouquet of 48 joints, although what he was really hoping for was an edibles arrangement.

A new study found that mashed potatoes are just as good as Gatorade when not brown, I guess I could go as Justin Trudeau.

The Tonight Show Starring Jimmy Fallon

Mitt Romney has been using a secret Twitter account where he supported himself and criticized President Trump. He goes by the name Pierre Delecto — sounds like an evil chef at Au Bon Pain.

Earlier tonight, ABC aired the classic Halloween special "It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown." They actually updated it a bit — at the end of this version, the Great Pumpkin gets impeached.

exercising. So remember, this Thanksgiving you're not "overeating," you're "training for the winter games."

The Late Show With Stephen Colbert

At the president's first cabinet meeting since the impeachment proceedings began, he invited in the ladies and gentlemen of the press and calmly explained that there's nothing for him to be concerned about for 71 minutes. Seventy-one minutes is not a press conference, that's a one-man show!

White House acting chief of staff Mick Mullvaney is in trouble for comments he made about Ukraine. He said, "Look, I'm just here for a couple months so I can go on 'Dancing with the Stars.'"

Vice-President Mike Pence ripped into the NBA for acting like a subsidiary of China. The spokesperson of the league said China is nothing like the NBA. They have a one-child policy.

The Late Late Show with James Corden

House Democrats originally planned an impeachment vote as early as October, but now it might extend into Christmas. Hallmark has already jumped on it with yet another holiday movie: "Impeachment in a Pear Tree."

A new study said that parents only spend 24 more minutes a day with their children than they do with their phones. It's gotten so bad that whenever their children do something good, parents are now trying to "heart" them with a double tap.

We're here for the week. We are here for just slightly less time than Felicity Huffman will be in prison.

Watching the Jets try to run on the Patriots was like

Late Night With Seth Meyers

President Trump will no longer hold the upcoming G7 summit at his golf resort in Florida. Yeah, I guess it is a bad idea to commit an impeachable offense when you're already being impeached. That would be like stabbing the bailiff at your murder trial.

Sen. Bernie Sanders held a 26,000-person rally this weekend in Queens. The crowd was so huge that Bernie almost had to use a microphone.

Mayor Pete Buttigieg toured a legal marijuana dispensary in Las Vegas. Which was exciting for Buttigieg, because that means his fake ID worked.

Weekend Update With Colin Jost and Michael Che

Disney announced that its theme parks will start selling vegan food options. Finally, something at Disney where there won't be a line.

A new study finds that cats bond with people like dogs do but are too aloof to show it. Which is why I named my cat "Dad."
