

Your mill liner partner in North America

FLS ARMOUR™ Mill Liners are engineered for reliability, durability and performance, while being optimised per your milling needs and goals. We have North America based manufacturing capabilities and mill lining experts to support our customers and ensure our technology delivers.

But FLS is more than just a parts supplier, we partner with our customers throughout the lifecycle of the technology. This includes performing 3D scanning, wear reports and much more to maintain positive consistency for your mill's throughput and product output. It is also key to look into downstream processing after mill lining optimisation, which only a full flowsheet OEM like FLS can do.

Partner with FLS today to maximise your milling performance and efficiency.

Read our blog around considerations after optimising your mill liners

